Re: Petition for Rulemaking re: Use of Electronic Signatures Under Regulation S-T

Dear Ms. Countryman,

Each of the undersigned (individually and on behalf of their respective associated company) strongly supports the petition submitted by the major Silicon Valley-based law firms (the “Silicon Valley Law Firms”) pursuant to Rule 192 of the Rules of Practice of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”) with respect to rulemaking regarding electronic signatures under Regulation S-T (File No. 4-760) (the “E-Signatures Rulemaking Petition”).

As noted in the E-Signatures Rulemaking Petition, use of electronic signatures has become a widespread and normal part of the business practices of public companies and other market participants. While we appreciate the proactive effort reflected in the Staff Statement: Regarding Rule 302(b) of Regulation S-T in Light of COVID-19 Concerns (March 24, 2020) (the “Staff Statement”) as well as the added flexibility regarding manual signatures in the current extraordinary environment provided by the Staff Statement, we confirm that obtaining and retaining manual signatures in compliance with the Staff Statement and Rule 302(b) of Regulation S-T remains at times a significant logistical challenge. We also note that the current COVID-19 environment simply exacerbates pre-existing difficulties. There are a wide variety of situations in which signatories do not have ready access to a printer or scanner (e.g., business or vacation travel, caring for loved ones in hospitals, etc.).

As noted by the Silicon Valley Law Firms, permitting electronic signatures (in addition to manual signatures) under Rule 302 would permit those of us who routinely obtain electronic signatures from executive officers and board members in many other contexts to use those same processes to obtain and retain their signatures for documents filed with the Commission.

For the above reasons, each of the undersigned joins the E-Signatures Rulemaking Petition, and encourages the Commission to act quickly in its consideration of the matter.
