Chair Gary Gensler,

So we all know of the terrible destructive force a warming climate has. We have already seen the huge mega firestorms in the West, the powerfully destructive hurricanes in the South and Southeast. We have seen tornadoes in the middle of the country and flooding along our rivers.

What else do you need to know about the fiscal risks of climate change? Well, we need to know what companies are doing to exacerbate the threat, and we need to know what exposure public companies have to climate risks.

we want regulations that force them to divulge these facts.
