

Dear SEC Commissioners:

As an investor and consumer, I appreciate the SEC's Request for Information on climate change disclosures since current corporate disclosures are not adequate to inform investors about known material risks, uncertainties, impacts, and opportunities, and there is a lack of consistency between corporations in the disclosures they currently provide.

Climate change poses an increasing risk to the economy, including risks from climate-related disasters, increasing heatwaves, and rising seas, as well as risks from failing to adopt technologies to mitigate climate risks and adapt to them.

Climate change poses a very real risk to corporate bottom lines and investor returns. The cost of companies complying with SEC regulations regarding climate disclosures would be far less than the cost to companies and their stakeholders of failing to address the risks posed by climate change in a timely manner, and with full disclosure.

The current gaps in corporate disclosure put investors and other stakeholders at a disadvantage, with each corporation largely determining what climate risks and scenarios to report and different companies using different methodologies to provide these disclosures. Rulemaking from the SEC requiring standardized corporate disclosure is needed to fill this gap.

I believe that climate change disclosure rules from the SEC should, at a minimum, include the following elements:

- Based on the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD) which has been endorsed by hundreds of companies and investors globally.
- Industry specific metrics: SEC rulemaking should include industry specific metrics, because material climate risks manifest in different ways by industry. Identifying such industry specific metrics would also allow for comparable disclosures.
- Governance and strategy disclosure: Disclosure rules should provide insights into companies' climate risk exposure, strategies, and scenario planning.
- Emissions disclosure: Disclosure rules should include Scope 1, 2 and 3 greenhouse gas emissions, which are needed to assess the full range of climate change risks facing companies.
- Impacts on frontline communities: Disclosures should incorporate the impacts on frontline communities of companies' climate emissions, including air and water pollution, health, property damage, financial, and other harms, and steps companies are taking to address these impacts.

- Inclusion in financial filings: Material climate disclosures, including discussion on risk exposure and business opportunities, impacts on strategy and emissions reporting and management, should be included in all appropriate SEC filings.
- Enforcement: The SEC should create penalties for material errors and emissions in corporate climate disclosures and engage in enforcement actions to ensure company compliance.
- Regular updates: Climate change impacts, scientific consensus around climate impacts and capital market responses to climate risks are rapidly evolving. SEC rules should be updated regularly in response to these developments, and they should include the development or adoption of new metrics.

I appreciate the Commission's consideration of my views and urge the SEC to act urgently in response to the growing threats of the climate crisis to markets and the economy.

Sincerely,

The organization Green America and 14,600 individual Americans
