

ES143710

From: Robert Hoskins [REDACTED]
Sent: Saturday, March 02, 2013 7:28 PM
To: CHAIRMANOFFICE
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: SEC Crowdfunding Guidelines

Dear SEC Commissioners:

We are very concerned at the SEC's lack of speed in issuing title II and title III Crowdfunding guidelines as mandated by the 2012 JOBS Act.

The SEC was charged on April 5, 2012, by the JOBS Act to implement Crowdfunding Guidelines by January 1, 2013 in order to provide startup capital to all small businesses that want to create millions of new jobs that would allow America to get out of its current economic turmoil.

We are in the process of aggregating input from 27 million small businesses that are suffering from the lack of small business venture capital necessary to start or expand their current business operations. At five to ten employees each, imagine how many people will soon be emailing your offices demanding that the SEC issue the Crowdfunding guidelines.

The simplest way out of Sequestration is to generate new tax revenue.

Issuing

Equity Crowdfunding rules right now is the fastest way out of our country's current economic turmoil. If tighter restrictions become necessary, it is very easy for the SEC to issue new guidelines.

What will the SEC Commissioners say when the White House Press Corp TV News Crews begin investigating your failure to comply with Pres. Obama and the U.S.

Congress'

mandate to issue Crowdfunding guidelines?

America needs your help. Please don't let us down. On March 11th here is where we plan to direct 27+ million pieces of correspondence via a press release.

New SEC Chairman

Luis A. Aguilar
Commissioner

Daniel M. Gallagher
Commissioner

Troy A. Paredes
Commissioner

David Marsh

[REDACTED]
100 F Street NE
Washington, 20549
Tel: [REDACTED]

Online Question Form:
<https://tts.sec.gov/oiea/QuestionsAndComments.html>

Web Site: <http://www.sec.gov>
Number of Staff: 4000

The SEC could avoid this deluge of correspondence by issuing an apology for not meeting the legal deadlines and by issuing a firm deadline for Title II and Title III Crowdfunding Guidelines.

Best Regards,
Robert Hoskins
Vice President, Media Relations
Cell: [REDACTED]
Front Page Public Relations
www.frontpagepr.com