Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

Our 'non-profit' health systems CEO and most senior get millions per year-yet are decreasing benefits they have given for decades, and maintained a profit. Since they Bought an insurance company and this is where the increased premiums, increased Out of Pocket expenses for their employees will go, and have to go to their hospital - they are making even MORE of a profit off their workers, tax-free!!! Sort of like a forced tithe to the church. But CEO paid millions. !$126million$!profit for a non-profit organization !!!! No wonder those head- honchos don't want this rule! Or are non-profits exempt? If so, they shouldn't be.

Sincerely,

Camille Daly
