Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

I'd go one step further and suggest regulations limiting the ratio of CEO-to-worker to some reasonable number. The appropriate number could be subject to negotiation. It would be interesting hearing proponents of a high value attempt to justify astronomical multiples.

Sincerely,

David Meyers
