Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

I am an investor.

In an age where every public employee has their incomes, benefits, earnings, retirement packages, etc accessible to everyone, why do those that brought the economy to its knees (ie bankers) get to keep secrets about their paychecks? When something, like this, does not make sense, it is usually because it is WRONG!

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

Sincerely,

Felicia Bruce
