Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

Our country has turned into the England we rebelled against in the 1700s. We've allowed the super rich to get richer while the gap between them and all other citizens has grown to insane levels. The first step to bringing back the fair America, the America where everyone has a real chance to make it, is to expose the levels of disproportionate pay in business. Let's get this country back on track.

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

Sincerely,

Kate H
