Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

As someone who is an employee for an international corporation, I see every year what my CEO makes in the corporate annual report and it is staggering, especially when you learn that our corporation is laying people off every couple of months.

Please keep this provision requiring CEO's to reveal their pay.

Sincerely,

Rory Martell
