Re: Pay Ratio Disclosure, File No. S7-07-13

Dear Ms. Murphy,

I strongly support regulations that would require publicly-traded companies to disclose CEO-to-median worker pay ratios. As income inequality reaches unprecedented heights, the public has the right to know which corporations are fueling the yawning gap between rich and poor.

The CEO's need to be called out for their greed and for the damage they do to people's lives. They kill the hopes and dreams of those struggling to get ahead but never will be able to. When hope dies, people languish. Do the rich have no heart and soul? Come on CEO'S, give folks a fighting chance and do what is right.

Disclosure of CEO-to-worker pay ratios are also crucial for investors. This information is important for determining whether corporations are diverting resources to executives at the expense of long-term investments and workforce development. Additionally, investors need to be able to gauge whether executives' compensation is falling in line with their performance.

Sincerely,

Diane Margosian
