Subject: Up-tick Rule

I am a investor - I buy stock - I do not short stocks. I would like for the uptick rule to be re-instated. I have written before because some of the stocks I have are being ravaged by short sellers because of no uptick rule they just run a stock to the bottom. I had Lehman when that happended and also Bank of America. If the uptick rule was reinstated at least investors that put real money in the market would have a chance. I have lost so much money - I am retired and I cannot afford to sell what I have now at a low price. I think the SEC is there to help the market - the previous Chairman worked with the shorts - now that there is a new Chairman I am very hopeful that you will level the field. Thank you. Pat Watson
