The SEC might lose in litigation with @Telegram
The application for restraining order might be denied in advance of that litigation.
There is a strong case to be made, especially after IRS crypto guidance, that $GRAM is a taxable dividend paid in the form of a corporate currency.

As long as investors pay tax on the dividend, SEC would have no reason to interfere with distribution of $GRAM currency by @Telegram Every investor who holds the securities issued, which are NOT crypto, would continue to hold their securities also. This might be the outcome here.
