RE SEC "New Rules"

Dear Ms. Countryman,

As a 92 year old long time investor, this letter is to express my concerns regarding your proposed changes to the Shareholder Process Rule 14a-8. Therefore, I am writing to you and the SEC to urge you to:

- 1- KEEP and PRESERVE THE 1934 SHAREHOLDER PROPOSAL PROCESS (Rule 14a-8)
- 2- WITHDRAW the "NEW RULES" / CURRENT PROPOSED CHANGES-to the Shareholder Process 14a-8.

Furthermore, I consider these proposed changes a threat to my First Amendment Rights to express my concerns to such an entity in which I have invested and entrusted my money. Additionally, it abridges and truncates the financial agreement(s) I may have with my financial professional(s). I question the legality of these changes.

You know, as do I and others, that this proposal change is another serious and corrupt maneuver to increase the domination and control that corporations have- inside and outside-of government. The effect is to put an end to the ability of investors and their representatives to express important and vital concerns to corporate management. This proposal flies in the face of the SEC's claim to support the "main street individual investor".

Thank you for your consideration; I trust that you will see the wisdom to reconsider the proposed "New Rules" and changes to the 1934 Shareholder Proposal Process Rule 14a-8.

Sincerely yours,
