

RE: File Number S7-23-19

Dear Mr. Clayton and members of the SEC,

I'm writing to you as a grandmother, deeply concerned about the rapidly accelerating impact of climate change on my grandchildren and all children. I am a member of Mothers Out Front, and I urge you to withdraw changes to SEC Rule 14a-8.

The proposed rule limits the ability that ordinary people like me have to make our voices heard by the corporations in which we invest. My investments are largely in funds that are marketed as sustainable. The urgency of climate change has led me to invest this way, and as a shareholder I want to be able to have my views known by the companies in which I invest. The proposed rule would make that much harder, stifling the shareholder resolution process. For this reason, I ask that you reject the proposed change.

For the sake of my grandchildren and all children who will inherit the mess that we've made, please reject this proposed change.

Thank you,

Sue Stafford
