We strongly believe the proposed regulations are:

- 1. Bad for Investors. If the proposal is adopted enhanced return and portfolio protection pots prevented from buying them by an overly burdensome firms could even stop offering these funds altogether the regulations.
- 2. Unnecessary. The SEC has not shown there respect to leveraged and inverse funds. They treated differently than tens of thousands of other characteristics and risks.
- 3. A Dangerous Precedent. Requiring you to go markets would be an unjustified break with how securities in the public markets has worked for odds with our long-standing system that give make their own investment decisions.
