Dear Mark:

Pursuant to our conversation the other day, please find enclosed a memorandum sent to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, dated January 23, 2012, regarding Section 13 of the Bank Holding Company Act ("Volcker Rule"). We believe this memorandum, authored by three leading law firms, accurately describes the correct reading of the statute concerning the scope of the so-called "insurance company exemption" from the Volcker Rule's general prohibition on proprietary trading and covered fund investing. More fundamentally, it provides effect to what we believe was the true Congressional intent when it authored the insurance company exemption; namely, that insurance companies should be permitted to continue to invest in accordance with state insurance investment laws, including in private equity and hedge funds (termed 'covered funds' in the proposed Volcker Rule rulemaking issued last fall).

We believe Congress provided this exemption for insurance companies because it recognized insurance companies need to be able to continue to invest in a prudent manner that aligns with the long-term obligations of insurance companies. The fundamental business model of an insurance company does not involve engaging in short-term profit seeking; in other words, the sorts of investment activities which fall into the scope of "proprietary trading." Rather, the primary mission of an insurance company is to invest policyholder contributions with a long-term horizon in mind. Diversification of an insurer's investments in multiple asset classes that include covered funds is a key method to accomplish this mission. In fact, state insurance investment laws recognize the need for diversification and impose limits on an insurer's exposure to various asset classes, such as real estate, foreign securities and equity securities.

In this regard, we also wanted to forward to your attention a letter signed by 17 Members of Congress, dated January 27, 2012, and addressed to the four agencies that issued proposed rulemaking concerning the Volcker Rule. We believe this letter succinctly highlights that Congress, in passing the Volcker Rule, did not intend to prohibit insurance companies from investing in covered funds for their general account.

For your convenience, in addition to the memorandum and Congressional letter, we have attached the relevant portions of the Section 13 of the Bank Holding Company Act, including Section 13(a)(1), Section 13(d) and Section 13(h)(4), each of which are referenced and discussed in more detail in the memorandum. After you have had a chance to review these materials, I would be more than happy to discuss with you at your convenience.

Sincerely,

RE: Permitted Activities Exemptions under Section 13 of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956

As a follow-up to our meeting with you on January 13, 2012, we write to set forth our analysis of Section 13¹ of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (the “BHC Act”), commonly referred to as the “Volcker Rule,” and why certain “permitted activities” in Section 13(d) apply to both proprietary trading and hedge fund and private equity fund activities.

We understand that many comment letters you will receive will cover the importance from a policy perspective of applying certain permitted activities exemptions to both covered funds and proprietary trading, as well as the anomalous results that would follow from a contrary reading. In this memorandum, we address only the legal question of the statute’s meaning in light of its plain language and structure. In our view, the statute is unambiguous on this point, and nothing in the legislative history is inconsistent with our reading.

Section 13(a) is entitled “In General” and is followed by Section 13(a)(1), entitled “Prohibition,” which contains the basic prohibition of the Volcker Rule. It reads:

“Unless otherwise provided in this section, a banking entity shall not—
(A) engage in proprietary trading; or
(B) acquire or retain any equity, partnership, or other ownership interest in or sponsor a hedge fund or a private equity fund.”²

The prohibition on proprietary trading and the restrictions related to covered funds are thus both contained in Section 13(a).

² For purposes of this letter, we refer to hedge funds and private equity funds collectively as “covered funds,” as in the notice of proposed rulemaking implementing Section 13 of the BHC Act. See Prohibitions and Restrictions on Proprietary Trading and Certain Interests in, and Relationships with, Hedge Funds and Private Equity Funds, 76 Fed. Reg. 68,846 (proposed Nov. 7, 2011).

Section 13(d) is entitled “Permitted Activities,” and its first subsection, 13(d)(1), is also entitled “In General.” In this “In General” subsection, Congress sets out the language that will govern all permitted activities in the list that follows. Section 13(d)(1) reads:

*“Notwithstanding the restrictions under subsection (a), to the extent permitted by any other provision of Federal or State law, and subject to the limitations under paragraph (2) and any restrictions or limitations that the appropriate Federal banking agencies, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, may determine, the following activities (in this section referred to as ‘permitted activities’) are permitted...”*³

Because the “In General” subsection of (d)(1) does not distinguish between the proprietary trading prohibition in subsection (a)(1)(A) and the restrictions related to covered funds in subsection (a)(1)(B) and instead says “[n]otwithstanding the restrictions under subsection (a),” the general principle established by the language and structure of the statutory text is that each of the enumerated exceptions for permitted activities in subsection (d)(1) applies equally to both the proprietary trading and the restrictions related to covered funds within subsection (a). Structurally, each one of the permitted activities is listed in a subsection of, and hence governed by, the introductory language of the “In General” section of 13(d)(1). The language and structure of the general section make clear, therefore, that to the extent Section 13(d)(1) contains no further textual direction, a permitted activity will apply to both the proprietary trading prohibition in 13(a)(1)(A) and the restrictions related to covered funds in 13(a)(1)(B).⁴

Sections 13(d)(1)(B), (D) and (F) set forth, respectively, the permitted activities of underwriting and market-making-related activities, activities on behalf of customers, and activities by a regulated insurance company directly engaged in the business of insurance for the general account of the company and by any affiliate. Each of these sections refers to “the purchase, sale, acquisition, or disposition of securities and other instruments described in subsection (h)(4).”⁵ The cross reference to subsection (h)(4), which in its totality is the definition of the core defined term “proprietary trading,” is used to incorporate only the list of “securities and other instruments” in that subsection into the permitted activities exemptions,⁶ as neither Section 13 nor any other section of the BHC Act defines “securities and other instruments.”⁷

In contrast, when Congress wanted to use its core defined term “proprietary trading,” it did so without hesitation. For example, Section 13(d)(1)(H) applies only to the proprietary trading restrictions and specifically exempts “[p]roprietary trading conducted by a banking entity pursuant to paragraph (9) or (13) of section 4(c), provided that the trading occurs solely outside of the United States.” Section 13(d)(1)(G) and (I) apply only to the covered funds prohibitions and exempt “[o]rganizing and offering a private equity or hedge fund” and “[t]he acquisition or retention of any equity, partnership, or other ownership interest in, or the sponsorship of, a hedge fund or a private equity fund by a banking entity pursuant to paragraph (9) or (13) of section 4(c) solely outside of the United States.” Thus, it is inescapable that Congress drafted language differently when it intended for a specific exemption to apply only to the proprietary trading prohibitions or only to the covered fund restrictions, and Congress quite plainly did not use such language in subsections (d)(1)(B), (D) and (F).⁸

In conclusion, we think it is clear in the plain language and structure of Section 13, and the absence of any legislative history to the contrary, that the scope of the permitted activities of underwriting and market-making, transactions on behalf of customers, and transactions by insurance companies and their affiliates for the general account of the insurance company includes all activities otherwise prohibited under ⁵ Section 13(h)(4) describes “...any security, any derivative, any contract of sale of a commodity for future delivery, any option on any such security, derivative, or contract, or any other security or financial instrument that the appropriate Federal banking agencies, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission may, by rule as provided in subsection (b)(2), determine.” An “equity, partnership or other ownership interest” in a covered fund that is a security would clearly be included in this description, as evidenced by the proposed definition of the term “Ownership interest” in §___.10(b)(3) of the proposed rules. 76 Fed. Reg. 68846, 68950 (Nov. 7, 2011).

subsection (a), whether those activities would involve proprietary trading or covered funds.

We hope that this analysis will prove helpful as the final rule is drafted.

Dear Chairman Bernanke, Chairman Schapiro, Acting Chairman Gruenberg, and Acting Comptroller Walsh:

We are writing to express our concerns about provisions included in the recently proposed regulations issued jointly by your respective Agencies, which would implement the “Volcker Rule” provisions outlined in Section 619 of the Dodd-Frank Act. In light of recent statements made at the House Financial Services Committee’s joint hearing entitled “Examining the Impact of the Volcker Rule on Markets, Businesses, Investors and Job Creation,” we are concerned about how the proposed regulations will affect certain investments made by insurers. Specifically, we want to emphasize that Congress did not intend to prohibit insurance companies from investing in covered funds for their general accounts and we encourage the regulators to make this intent clear in the final rule.

Section 619(d)(1)(F) of the Dodd-Frank Act includes trading in an insurance company’s general account as a “permitted activity and, by its terms, exempts permitted activities from both the “proprietary trading” and “covered fund” restrictions of the Volcker Rule. While the proposed regulation provides an exemption from the proprietary trading restrictions for insurer general accounts, this exemption does not expressly extend to allowing the general account to hold an ownership interest in a covered fund. In addition, the proposed rule defines covered funds in a way that appears to essentially designate all private equity funds as covered funds.

It is important to note that state investment laws applicable to insurance companies domiciled in that state already impose rigorous limitations on the categories of investments insurance companies may hold, including investments in covered funds. State insurance regulators establish conservative limits on the percentage of assets that an insurer may invest in equities and generally stipulate further limitations on investments in non-exchange traded equity investments. Regulators also have comprehensive regulatory and reporting regimes for examining an insurer's investment activities and guarding against excessive risk taking in their investment portfolios. State insurance laws recognize that private equity fund investments are widely utilized by insurers to diversify their investment portfolios, both for the benefit of their general accounts and on behalf of customers (including in separate accounts). Private equity fund investments generally offer a long-term investment horizon and, therefore, are an integral tool for ensuring adequate returns for policyholders over extended periods.

It appears from the recent hearing that the Agencies may exclude covered funds from the insurer exemption. We believe it is imperative that, as the Agencies move forward, they follow Congressional intent and permit insurance companies to continue investing in covered funds for their general accounts. We also request the Agencies confirm, prior to releasing the final rule scheduled in the spring 2012, they will follow this intent. There would be little benefit to restricting these types of investments for insurers (particularly as state insurance laws already serve to impose diversification requirements on insurers). Including investments in covered funds within the exemption for insurers would follow the directive included in Section 619 of the Dodd-Frank Act to "appropriately accommodate the business of insurance." It is our hope the final regulations do not result in any disruption for insurers.

Thank you for your consideration of this request. Please feel free to contact us to discuss this issue further.

“(C) limit the inappropriate transfer of Federal subsidies from institutions that benefit from deposit insurance and liquidity facilities of the Federal Government to unregulated entities;

“(B) 2 years after the date of enactment of this section.

“(2) CONFORMANCE PERIOD FOR DIVESTITURE.—A banking entity or nonbank financial company supervised by the Board shall bring its activities and investments into compliance with the requirements of this section not later than 2 years after the date on which the requirements become effective pursuant to this section or 2 years after the date on which the entity or company becomes a nonbank financial company supervised by the Board. The Board may, by rule or order, extend this two-year period for not more than one year at a time, if, in the judgment of the Board, such an extension is consistent with the purposes of this section and would not be detrimental to the public interest. The extensions made by the Board under the preceding sentence may not exceed an aggregate of 3 years.

“(3) EXTENDED TRANSITION FOR ILLIQUID FUNDS.—

“(A) APPLICATION.—The Board may, upon the application of a banking entity, extend the period during which the banking entity, to the extent necessary to fulfill a contractual obligation that was in effect on May 1, 2010, may take or retain its equity, partnership, or other ownership interest in, or otherwise provide additional capital to, an illiquid fund.

“(4) DIVESTITURE REQUIRED.—Except as otherwise provided in subsection (d)(1)(G), a banking entity may not engage in any activity prohibited under subsection (a)(1)(B) after the earlier of—

“(A) the date on which the contractual obligation to invest in the illiquid fund terminates; and

“(B) the date on which any extensions granted by the Board under paragraph (3) expire.
