Re: File No. SR-NYSE-2016-87: Self-Regulatory Organizations; New York Stock Exchange LLC; Notice of Filing of Proposed Rule Change to Conform to Proposed Amendments to Securities Exchange Act Rule 15c6-1(a) to Shorten the Standard Settlement Cycle from Three Business Days after the Trade Date (“T+3”) to Two Business Days after the Trade Date (“T+2”)

Dear Mr. Fields:

The Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (“SIFMA”)<sup>1</sup> submits this letter to the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC” or the “Commission”) to comment on the above-referenced proposed rule change filed by the New York Stock Exchange (“NYSE”) in support of efforts by the financial services industry and its regulators to shorten the settlement cycle for equities, corporate and municipal bonds, unit investment trusts, and financial instruments comprised of these products. SIFMA greatly appreciates the efforts of the Commission and the self-regulatory organizations (“SROs”) to facilitate the industry-led move to shorten the securities settlement cycle, and is pleased to support the above-referenced proposed rule changes.

Background

SIFMA has been one of the leaders of the industry initiative to shorten the settlement cycle from trade date plus three business days (commonly known as T+3) to trade date plus two business days, or T+2. In 2015, SIFMA and the Investment Company Institute (“ICI”) submitted a joint comment letter to the Commission declaring our support for a T+2 settlement cycle.<sup>2</sup> SIFMA, ICI and other

We represent the broker-dealers, banks and asset managers whose nearly 1 million employees provide access to the capital markets, raising over $2.5 trillion for businesses and municipalities in the U.S., serving clients with over $20 trillion in assets and managing more than $67 trillion in assets for individual and institutional clients including mutual funds and retirement plans. See also Letter from Mary Jo White, Chair, SEC, to Kenneth E. industry participants also drafted a white paper and a more detailed “playbook,” which discusses a T+2 implementation schedule, including interim milestones and dependencies.<sup>3</sup> In October 2016, the SEC proposed changes to the keystone rule regarding securities settlement, Rule 15c6-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.<sup>4</sup> In response to this rulemaking, numerous trade associations and firms commented in support of this change, including SIFMA.<sup>5</sup>

SIFMA believes a shorter settlement cycle will result in process and procedural improvements that will decrease the operational risks present between trade date and settlement date and will increase the overall efficiency of the securities markets. In particular, a shorter settlement cycle will reduce the market and counterparty risks each market participant faces during the settlement period. Shortening the settlement cycle is also consistent with the Commission’s focus on enhancing the resilience and efficiency of the national clearance and settlement system and the role that certain systemically important financial market utilities, particularly central counterparties, play in managing risk. Greater certainty about trade settlement should lead to enhanced liquidity in the market as participants see their risks reduced and markets function more efficiently. It will also align U.S. settlement cycles with major international markets, as most European Union member states and major markets in the Asia-Pacific region have adopted a two-day securities settlement cycle.

Target Transition Date – September 5, 2017

The Industry Steering Committee (“ISC”)<sup>6</sup> for the move to T+2 has identified September 5, 2017 (the Tuesday following the Labor Day holiday) as the least disruptive migration date for a move to a shorter settlement cycle. Assuming timely completion of SEC and SRO proposed rule changes and other dependencies, September 5, 2017 will be the first trade date from which affected securities transactions will settle T+2 regular way. Thus, Thursday, September 7 will be a “double-settlement day,” on which settlement will occur for both the last trades that settle T+3 (from the previous Friday), as well as the trades from September 5 settling T+2.

The ISC serves as the governing body overseeing the shortened settlement cycle initiative on behalf of the industry. For more information, see <http://www.ust2.com/steering-committee/>.

Support for Proposed Rule Changes

We support NYSE's proposed rule changes. In SIFMA's comments to FINRA's and NASDAQ's proposed rule changes relating to the settlement cycle, SIFMA requested a change to SRO rules as they relate to the delivery of a liability notice where a purchaser of a security subject to a voluntary corporate action seeks to ensure that the party with the obligation to deliver the security is held liable for any inability by the purchaser to participate in the voluntary corporate action due to a failure by the delivering party. SIFMA believes that the proposed change to Rule 282.65 in NYSE's filing with the SEC addresses industry concerns, and appreciates the coordination among NYSE and other SROs in ensuring that the liability notice delivery rules are consistent across all rule sets (i.e., FINRA Rule 11810(j), NASDAQ IM-11810(i)).

Conclusion

As noted above, SIFMA supports the rule changes that NYSE has proposed to facilitate a timely move to a shorter settlement cycle. SIFMA is encouraged by the progress regulators have made in proposing rule changes necessary for the industry's move to a shorter settlement cycle, as well as the high degree of coordination among the SROs and between the SROs and the industry. With timely action by the SEC regarding its proposed change to Rule 15c6-1,<sup>7</sup> we are confident the industry will accomplish a low-risk and organized move to a shorter settlement cycle on the target date of September 5, 2017.

<sup>7</sup> As noted in SIFMA's comments to the SEC's proposed rule change, see supra n.5, we encourage the SEC to finalize its T+2 proposal by March 2017. Timely regulatory action by the SEC and SROs is critical to ensuring industry participants have sufficient lead time to complete the required systems and operational changes to achieve T+2 implementation on September 5, 2017.
