Re: Wells Fargo & Company
Stockholder Proposal of Harrington Investments, Inc.
Securities Exchange Act of 1934—Rule 14a-8

Ladies and Gentlemen:

This letter is to inform you that Wells Fargo & Company (the “Company”) intends to omit from its proxy statement and form of proxy for its 2017 Annual Meeting of Stockholders (collectively, the “2017 Proxy Materials”) a stockholder proposal (the “Proposal”) and statements in support thereof received from Harrington Investments, Inc. (the “Proponent”).

Pursuant to Rule 14a-8(j), we have:

- filed this letter with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”) no later than eighty (80) calendar days before the Company intends to file its definitive 2017 Proxy Materials with the Commission; and
- concurrently sent copies of this correspondence to the Proponent.

Rule 14a-8(k) and Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14D (Nov. 7, 2008) (“SLB 14D”) provide that stockholder proponents are required to send companies a copy of any correspondence that the proponents elect to submit to the Commission or the staff of the Division of Corporation Finance (the “Staff”). Accordingly, we are taking this opportunity to inform the Proponent that if the Proponent elects to submit additional correspondence to the Commission or the Staff with respect to this Proposal, a copy of that correspondence should be sent at the same time to the undersigned on behalf of the Company pursuant to Rule 14a-8(k) and SLB 14D.

THE PROPOSAL

The Proposal states:

RESOLVED, Shareholders request the Board prepare a public report to investors, at reasonable cost, analyzing, to the extent permitted under applicable law and the Company's contractual obligations:

- Whether compensation and incentives policies relating to low level employees may create pressures exposing the Company to an aggregate of material losses, and
- Categories of incentives or activities posing greatest risk.

A copy of the Proposal, and its supporting statement, as well as related correspondence with the Proponent, are attached to this letter as Exhibit A.

BASIS FOR EXCLUSION

We hereby respectfully request that the Staff concur in our view that the Proposal may be excluded from the 2017 Proxy Materials pursuant to Rule 14a-8(i)(11) because the Proposal substantially duplicates another stockholder proposal previously submitted to the Company that the Company intends to include in its 2017 Proxy Materials.

BACKGROUND

In September 2016, the Company reached settlements with the City Attorney of Los Angeles, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency over allegations that some of the Company's retail banking customers received products they did not request (the "Settlement"). The Company has taken and is taking a number of actions to address those issues and mitigate sales practices risk following the Settlement, including addressing incentive compensation practices by eliminating product sales goals in the retail banking business effective October 1, 2016, and conducting an independent, enterprise-wide review of sales practices across the Company.

In addition, on September 27, 2016, the independent directors of the Company's Board of Directors announced that they had launched an independent investigation into the Company's retail banking sales practices and related matters (the "Independent Director Review"). The independent directors indicated that the investigation would be thorough, conducted with the due diligence it deserves, and will follow the facts wherever they lead. The independent directors also took a number of initial steps they believe were appropriate to promote accountability at the Company, including causing certain executive officers to forfeit incentive compensation. The Independent Director Review is ongoing, and the independent directors have publicly stated that they expect to make the findings public upon the completion of the investigation. In addition, the independent directors have stated that they may take other actions as they collectively deem appropriate, which may include further compensation actions before any additional equity awards vest or bonus decisions are made in early 2017, clawbacks of compensation already paid out, and other employment-related actions. In addition, the independent directors have indicated they will then take all appropriate actions to reinforce the right culture and ensure that lessons are learned, misconduct is addressed, and systems and processes are improved so there can be no repetition of similar conduct. See https://www.wellsfargo.com/about/press/2016/independent-directors-investigation_0927/.

ANALYSIS

The Proposal May Be Excluded Under Rule 14a-8(i)(11) Because It Substantially Duplicates Another Proposal That The Company Intends To Include In Its Proxy Materials.

Rule 14a-8(i)(11) provides that a stockholder proposal may be excluded if it “substantially duplicates another proposal previously submitted to the company by another proponent that will be included in the company’s proxy materials for the same meeting.” When a company receives two substantially duplicative proposals, the Staff has concurred that the company may exclude the later proposal if the company includes the earlier proposal in its proxy materials. See Great Lakes Chemical Corp. (avail. Mar. 2, 1998); see also Pacific Gas and Electric Co. (avail. Jan. 6, 1994).

On October 7, 2016, before the Company received the Proposal on November 7, 2016, the Company received a proposal (the “Sisters’ Proposal” and together with the Proposal, the “Proposals”) from the Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia and various co-filers. See Exhibit B. The Company intends to include the Sisters’ Proposal in its 2017 Proxy Materials.

The Sisters’ Proposal states:

RESOLVED, Shareholders request that the Board commission a comprehensive report, available to shareholders by October 2017, on the root causes of the fraudulent activity and steps taken to improve risk management and control processes. The report should omit proprietary information and be prepared at reasonable cost. . . .

The review and report should address the following:

1. An analysis of the impacts on the bank, its reputation, customers, and investors;
2. Changes implemented or planned to strengthen corporate culture and instill a commitment to high ethical standards at all employee levels;
3. Improvements in risk management and controls, including new or revised policies and investment in people or technological solutions;
4. Evidence that incentive systems are aligned with customers’ best interests.
5. Changes in Board oversight of risk management processes;

6. Assessment plans to evaluate the adequacy of changes instituted over time;
7. Other steps to rebuild trust with key stakeholders—regulators, customers, and shareholders.

The standard that the Staff applies for determining whether proposals are substantially duplicative under Rule 14a-8(i)(11) is whether the proposals share the same focus. See Pacific Gas & Electric Co. (avail. Feb. 1, 1993). A proposal may be excluded as substantially duplicative of another proposal despite differences in terms or breadth and despite the proposals requesting different actions. See, e.g., Union Pacific Corp. (avail. Feb. 1, 2012, recon. denied Mar. 30, 2012) (concurring that a proposal requesting a report on political contributions and expenditures could be excluded as substantially duplicative of a proposal requesting a report on lobbying and grassroots lobbying); Wells Fargo & Co. (avail. Feb. 8, 2011) (concurring that a proposal seeking a review and report on the company’s loan modifications, foreclosures and securitizations was substantially duplicative of a proposal seeking a report that would include “home preservation rates” and “loss mitigation outcomes,” which would not necessarily be covered by the other proposal); Chevron Corp. (avail. Mar. 23, 2009, recon. denied Apr. 6, 2009) (concurring that a proposal requesting that an independent committee prepare a report on the environmental damage that would result from the company’s expanding oil sands operations in the Canadian boreal forest was substantially duplicative of a proposal to adopt goals for reducing total greenhouse gas emissions from the company’s products and operations); Bank of America Corp. (avail. Feb. 24, 2009) (concurring with the exclusion of a proposal requesting the adoption of a 75% hold-to-retirement policy as subsumed by another proposal that included such a policy as one of many requests); Ford Motor Co. (Leeds) (avail. Mar. 3, 2008) (concurring that a proposal to establish an independent committee to prevent Ford family stockholder conflicts of interest with non-family stockholders substantially duplicated a proposal requesting that the board take steps to adopt a recapitalization plan for all of the company’s outstanding stock to have one vote per share).

Both the Proposal and the Sisters’ Proposal focus on, and request a Board report regarding, the Company’s efforts to manage risk related to actual and potential losses arising from specific Company business practices (including employee incentive compensation practices) relating to the Settlement and that, as discussed above, will be covered by the Independent Director Review. For example, the Proposal’s request for an analysis of whether the Company’s “compensation and incentive policies” expose it to “an aggregate of material losses,” overlaps with the request in the Sisters’ Proposal for an examination of the extent to which the Company’s “incentive systems are aligned with customers’ best interests.” In this regard, in order to produce a report addressing the request in the Sisters’ Proposal, such report would inevitably have to address the extent to which “compensation and incentives policies relating to low level employees . . . expos[e] the Company to an aggregate of material losses.” Both Proposals also address risk management efforts related to incentive compensation. For example, the Proposal cites “poor compensation” as one factor leading to “excess risk taking” by “low level employees,” while the Sisters’ Proposal references the need to assess whether “compensation clawbacks” implemented by the Board “are sufficient to prevent future lapses.”

Moreover, other language in the Proposals demonstrates that they share the same focus:

- Both Proposals express concern for losses that in the aggregate could expose the Company to material loss. The Proposal expresses concern about “incentives to low level employees who may not individually expose the institution to material losses, but can do so in the aggregate.” Similarly, the Sisters’ Proposal asserts that the accumulation of “multiple charges of discrimination and fraud have resulted in significant financial penalties and reputational repercussions that will undermine the confidence of customers, investors, and the public.”
- Both Proposals express concern about the relationship between the Company’s incentive compensation policies and fraud-related risks at the Company. The Sisters’ Proposal seeks information on “the root causes of . . . fraudulent activity,” including “[e]vidence that incentive systems are aligned with customers’ best interests,” while the Proposal expresses concern about “inducements for fraud” at the Company.
- Both Proposals express concern over consumer fraud carried out by low level employees. The Proposal expresses its concern that the actions of low level employees “have accumulated into an institutional disaster: the epidemic of cross-selling at Wells Fargo.” Similarly, the Sisters’ Proposal states that “Wells Fargo dismissed 5,300 employees for illegal acts [related to long-term and widespread consumer fraud] over 5 years, mostly sales employees.”
- Both Proposals express concern over the Company’s labor practices and their impact on the Company. The Proposal cites a specific example of a former Company branch manager in order to show that the Company’s labor practices contributed to consumer fraud. Similarly, the Sisters’ Proposal notes more generally that “the bank faced a firestorm of criticism,” and as a result “the U.S. Department of Labor is conducting a ‘top-to-bottom’ review for possible violations of federal labor laws.”

The Staff previously has concurred in the exclusion of stockholder proposals because they are substantially duplicative even when the second proposal is more specific and targeted than the first proposal. For example, in JPMorgan Chase & Co. (avail. Mar. 14, 2011), the Staff concluded that a proposal that specifically requested a report on internal controls over its mortgage servicing operations could be omitted in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(11) as substantially duplicative of other previous proposals that asked for general oversight on the development and enforcement on already-existing internal controls related to loan modification methods. Irrespective of the differences in scope and detail, the principal focus and the core issue of general mortgage modification practices remained the same. See also Exxon Mobil Corp. (avail. Mar. 19, 2010) (concurring in the exclusion of a proposal seeking consideration of a decrease in the demand for fossil fuels as substantially duplicative of a proposal asking for a report to assess the financial risks associated with climate change); Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. (avail. Jan. 12, 2007) (concurring in the exclusion of a proposal requesting semi-annual reports on independent expenditures, political contributions, and related policies and procedures as substantially duplicative of a proposal that sought an annual disclosure of independent expenditures and political contributions); American Power Conversion Corp. (avail. Mar. 29, 2002) (concurring in the exclusion of a proposal asking that the company's board of directors create a goal to establish a two-thirds independent board as substantially duplicative of a proposal that sought a policy requiring nomination of a majority of independent directors). Just as in these Staff precedents as well as in Bank of America Corp., the overlap between the Proposal and the Sisters' Proposal still makes the Proposal excludable even though the Sisters' Proposal also asks for information about other, similar risk management efforts. Thus, the principal thrust of both the Proposal and the Sisters' Proposal is the same, namely, to produce a Board report regarding the Company's efforts to manage risk related to actual and potential losses arising from specific Company business practices (including employee incentive compensation practices) relating to the Settlement and that will be covered by the Independent Director Review. Therefore, the Proposal substantially duplicates and is subsumed by the earlier-received Sisters' Proposal.

As noted above, the purpose of Rule 14a-8(i)(11) "is to eliminate the possibility of shareholders having to consider two or more substantially identical proposals submitted to an issuer by proponents acting independently of each other." Exchange Act Release No. 12999 (Nov. 22, 1976). Therefore, because the Proposal has the same focus as, and overlaps with, the earlier received Sisters' Proposal, which the Company intends to include in the 2017 Proxy Materials, the Proposal may be excluded under Rule 14a-8(i)(11) as substantially duplicative of the Sisters' Proposal.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing analysis, we respectfully request that the Staff concur that it will take no action if the Company excludes the Proposal from its 2017 Proxy Materials.

We would be happy to provide you with any additional information and answer any questions that you may have regarding this subject. Correspondence regarding this letter should be sent to shareholderproposals@gibsondunn.com. If we can be of any further assistance in this matter,

Report on Risks of Incentive-Based Compensation of Low Level Employees

A clear lesson from the financial crisis is actions of low level employees as well as top executives of large banks can affect the stability of the economy and confidence in the banking system. Section 956 of the Dodd-Frank Act directed federal regulators to set rules examining bank employees' "incentive-based compensation arrangements ... [that] could lead to material financial loss." The focus is on employees "that individually have the ability to expose the institution to possible losses that are substantial in relation to the institution's size, capital, or overall risk tolerance." (emphasis added)

As such, the law largely neglected to focus on incentives to low level employees who may not individually expose the institution to material losses, but can do so in the aggregate. Low level employees are driven to excess risk taking when poor compensation combines with aggressive sales goals and incentives. Their actions have accumulated into an institutional disaster: the epidemic of cross-selling fraud at Wells Fargo.

In a study conducted December 2013 regarding changes to the banking sector since 2008, 35 percent of surveyed workers reported increased sales pressure.

- An employee of HSBC stated workers failing to meet sales goals had the difference taken out of paychecks
- Twenty-nine percent of surveyed workers reported issues with layoffs or turnover.
- Eighteen percent mentioned jobs shifted from full-time to part-time, or job freezes.

Another study found approximately 31 percent of families of bank tellers rely on public assistance.

In the LA Times, Rita Murillo, a former Wells Fargo branch manager, said "We were constantly told we would end up working for McDonald's...If we did not make the sales quotas... we had to stay for what felt like after-school detention, or report to a call session on Saturdays."

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's consent order with Wells Fargo requires review of sales goals and employee training and supervision, yet it largely fails to address low level employees' compensation and incentives as potential inducements for fraud.

RESOLVED Shareholders request the Board prepare a public report to investors, at reasonable cost, analyzing, to the extent permitted under applicable law and the Company's contractual obligations:

- Whether compensation and incentives policies relating to low level employees may create pressures exposing the Company to an aggregate of material losses, and
- Categories of incentives or activities posing greatest risk.

Good morning, Anthony,

I'm adding to the pains of the last few months, but hopefully, God's good intervention and the company's commitment to deep reflection, due diligence and ethical standards will get things back on track. Our goal is to empower Wells Fargo to strengthen every aspect of its reason for existence.

I am attaching the letter, resolution and verification letter. The hard copy will go in the mail today. There will be other ICCR co-filers over the next few weeks.

Peace and blessings!

Dear Anthony,

Peace and all good!

As Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia and members of the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility, we seek to reflect our values, principles and mission in our investment decisions. As long-term shareholders of Wells Fargo, since 2005 a group of ICCR members have been regularly meeting with management on numerous issues related to the original social purpose of financial institutions – that of providing equitable and affordable access to credit.

Following 2008, we called on the top U.S. banks to conduct in-depth reviews of their codes of conduct and business operations to learn from past mistakes and correct the ethical and cultural lapses that were at the root of the crisis. Several banks complied with our request yet Wells Fargo maintained that its Vision and Values statement was sufficient proof of the company's commitment to ethical standards and an employee code of conduct that would safeguard the interests of all its customers, as well as society and the common good.

At our meeting last December, we pressed for disclosure and we were denied the truth. And now we are confronted with painful accounts of Wells Fargo's fraud in the Philadelphia Enquirer which likens the company to "a vault of deception" and its branches to "sweatshops, pushing products customers don't need." Our thoughts are for these customers - some 80,000 in Pennsylvania alone. In light of the scandal, we are embarrassed to say that Wells Fargo is our local bank as well as the bank for our congregation all across the United States.

The Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia are, therefore, submitting the enclosed shareholder proposal, "Review and Report on Business Standards." I submit it for inclusion in the proxy statement for consideration and action by the shareholders at the 2017 annual meeting in accordance with Rule 14-a-8 of the General Rules and Regulations of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934. A representative of the shareholders will attend the annual meeting to move the resolution as required by the SEC. Please note that the contact person for this resolution/proposal will be: Nora M. Nash, OSF, Director Corporate Social Responsibility. Contact information: nnash@osfphila.org or 610-558-7661.

As verification that we are beneficial owners of common stock in Wells Fargo, I enclose a letter from Northern Trust Company, our portfolio custodian/record holder attesting to the fact. It is our intention to keep these shares in our portfolio at least until after the annual meeting.

We hope management sees this latest crisis as a time that is ripe for reflection, reconciliation, strong leadership, full disclosure and a rebuilding of trust.

Respectfully yours,

Nora M. Nash, OSF

REVIEW AND REPORT ON BUSINESS STANDARDS

In September 2016, Wells Fargo reported a $185 million settlement with the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau due to long-term and widespread consumer fraud, including setting up two million deposit and credit-card accounts for clients without their permission.

Wells Fargo dismissed 5,300 employees for these illegal acts over 5 years, mostly sales employees with approximately 10% at the branch manager level.

The bank faced a firestorm of public criticism and CEO John Stumpf was required to testify before the Senate Banking Committee and House Financial Services Committee where he faced sharp bipartisan criticism. The U.S. Department of Justice is currently investigating the company which could lead to civil or even criminal charges. Additionally, the U.S. Department of Labor is conducting a “top-to-bottom review” for possible violations of federal labor laws. Separately, the Comptroller of California and Treasurer of Illinois have suspended their business relationships with the bank as a result of the scandal.

This is not the first time that lack of oversight of policies and practices led to systematic, ethical lapses and alleged illegal activities at Wells Fargo. In 2012 the bank entered into a $175 million settlement with the Department of Justice over allegations of widespread “discriminatory steering” of African-American and Hispanic borrowers into high-cost loans.

Multiple charges of discrimination and fraud have resulted in significant financial penalties and reputational repercussions that will undermine the confidence of customers, investors, and the public. Further, these impacts are expected to result in a loss of shareholder value.

While the Board initiated compensation clawbacks, for CEO Stumpf and Carrie Tolstedt totaling $60 million, investors and customers still do not have a clear understanding of the scope of the fraud or the strategies in place to address it in order to determine whether they are sufficient to prevent future lapses.

Resolved:

Shareholders request that the Board commission a comprehensive report, available to shareholders by October 2017, on the root causes of the fraudulent activity and steps taken to improve risk management and control processes. The report should omit proprietary information and be prepared at reasonable cost.

Supporting Statement:

Shareholders believe a full accounting of the systemic failures allowing these unethical practices to flourish are critical to rebuilding credibility with all stakeholders and will strengthen risk management systems going forward.

The review and report should address the following:

1. An analysis of the impacts on the bank, its reputation, customers, and investors;
2. Changes implemented or planned to strengthen corporate culture and instill a commitment to high ethical standards at all employee levels;
3. Improvements in risk management and controls, including new or revised policies and investment in people or technological solutions;
4. Evidence that incentive systems are aligned with customers’ best interests.
5. Changes in Board oversight of risk management processes;
6. Assessment plans to evaluate the adequacy of changes instituted over time;
7. Other steps to rebuild trust with key stakeholders—regulators, customers, and shareholders.
