purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The Exchange proposes to amend Interpretation and Policy .01 to Exchange Rule 1801 to update the table of reporting authorities³ for indexes on which the Exchange may list and trade options. In particular, the Exchange proposes to amend the name of the “Bloomberg US Large Cap Price Return Index” (the “B500 Index”) to “Bloomberg 500 Index,” due to Bloomberg Index Services Limited (“BISL”) rebranding the B500 Index under the new name “Bloomberg 500 Index”.⁴

On March 10, 2025, the Exchange filed its proposal with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”) to amend certain of the Exchange’s rules in connection with the Exchange’s plan to list and trade options on the B500 Index.⁵ The B500 Index is a broad-based, float⁶ market-capitalization-weighted benchmark of the 500 most highly capitalized U.S.-listed companies.⁷ All constituents of the B500 Index⁸ are securities consisting of common stocks, real estate investment trusts (“REITs”), and tracking stocks, which are primarily listed on a U.S. securities exchange, as provided for in the Methodology Guide.⁹ The components of the B500 Index are determined from the U.S.-listed companies that have the largest cumulative free-float market capitalization. Each component security of the B500 Index must also meet certain minimum eligibility and liquidity screening requirements, as detailed in the Methodology Guide.¹⁰ Since the Commission issued the B500 Approval Order and to date, the Exchange has not listed options for trading on the B500 Index for business reasons.¹¹

⁷ See Bloomberg US Large Cap Index Fact Sheet, dated March 31, 2025, available at <https://assets.bbhub.io/professional/sites/27/Bloomberg-US-Large-Cap-Index-Fact-Sheet.pdf> (the “Fact Sheet”).

¹⁰ See Methodology Guide, supra note 6, at pages 4-7.

¹¹ As previously represented to the Commission, the Exchange will not list for trading B500 Index options until (i) the self-certification filing by MIAX Futures is past the CFTC’s statutory review period; and (ii) MIAX Futures has commenced the listing and trading of B500 Index futures. See Letter from Joseph W. Ferraro III, SVP and Deputy General Counsel, the Exchange, to Vanessa Countryman, Commission, dated April 2, 2025, available at <https://www.sec.gov/comments/sr-miax-2025-08/srmiax202508-586555-1695102.pdf>. At the time of this filing, MIAX Futures has not yet listed B500 Index futures.

As announced, BISL plans to rebrand the Bloomberg US Large Cap Price Return Index as the Bloomberg 500 Index.¹² For the avoidance of doubt and to keep the name succinct for references across various sites and collateral, BISL removed “Price Return” from the name of the B500 Index. However, references to the “Total Return” and “Net Return” derivations of the B500 Index, will be to the “Bloomberg 500 Total Return Index” or the “Bloomberg 500 Net Return Index,” as the case may be. Accordingly, the Exchange proposes to amend the table of indexes in Exchange Rule 1801, Interpretation and Policy .01, to amend the name of the B500 Index from the “Bloomberg US Large Cap Price Return Index” to “Bloomberg 500 Index” under the heading “Underlying Index”. The purpose of the proposed rule change is to reflect the rebranded name of the B500 Index on which the Exchange is authorized to list and trade options. This is to promote transparency in its rules and eliminate any potential confusion among market participants.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to the Exchange and, in particular, the requirements of Section 6(b) of the Act.¹³ Specifically, the Exchange believes the proposed rule change is consistent with the Section 6(b)(5)¹⁴ requirements that the rules of an exchange be designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in regulating, clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transactions in securities, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest.

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change removes impediments to and perfects the mechanism of a free and open market a national market system, and protects investors and the public interest by updating the Exchange's rules listing reporting authorities for certain indexes to reflect the rebranded name of the B500 Index on which the Exchange is authorized to list and trade options. The Exchange believes this promotes transparency in its rules and may eliminate any potential confusion among market participants. The proposed rule change will have no impact on the dissemination of index values of the B500 Index once listed on the Exchange, but merely reflects the rebranded name of the B500 Index on which the Exchange is authorized to list options. The Exchange believes this proposal perfects the mechanism of a free and open market a national market system, and protects investors and the public interest because, with the proposed rebrand from the "Bloomberg US Large Cap Price Return Index" to "Bloomberg 500 Index," there will be no change to the initial or maintenance listing criteria, expiration months, settlement or exercise style of options on the B500 Index. The Exchange notes that this proposal is simply to clarify the rebranded name of the B500 Index. Values for the B500 Index will continue to be disseminated and available to market participants in the same manner and in the same intervals.¹⁵ The Exchange notes that it has not listed options on the B500 Index at this time for business reasons.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Intramarket Competition

The Exchange believes the proposed rule change does not impose any burden on intramarket competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. The proposed rule change is not intended to address competitive issues but rather is concerned solely with updating the name of the B500 Index. The proposed rule change has no impact on the dissemination of index values for the B500 Index. Further, the Exchange has not yet listed options for trading on the B500 Index.

Intermarket Competition

The Exchange believes the proposed rule change does not impose any burden on intermarket competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. The proposed rule change is not intended to address competitive issues but rather is concerned solely with updating the name of the B500 Index. The proposed rule change has no impact on the dissemination of index values for the B500 Index. Further, the Exchange has not yet listed options for trading on the B500 Index.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others

Written comments were neither solicited nor received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Because the foregoing proposed rule change does not: (i) significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) become operative for 30 days from the date on which it was filed, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate, it has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act¹⁶ and Rule 19b-4(f)(6)¹⁷ thereunder.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.
