Inspector General’s Report on the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission’s Fiscal Year 2015 Compliance with the Improper Payments Information Act

OMB Memorandum M-15-02 lists six requirements an agency must meet to comply with IPIA. The requirements include but are not limited to the agency publishing an Agency Financial Report (AFR) for the most recent fiscal year and conducting a program specific risk assessment if required. For FY 2015, the SEC met each of the requirements that were applicable to the agency. Therefore, we determined that the SEC is in compliance with IPIA for FY 2015.

We reviewed the SEC’s Improper Payments Elimination and Recovery Improvement Act of 2012 Risk Assessment Summary Report, dated June 10, 2015, and supporting documentation, as well as relevant disclosures in the SEC’s FY 2015 AFR, dated November 16, 2015. The risk assessment was performed by the SEC’s Office of Financial Management. The programs included in the risk assessment were vendor payments, purchase card payments, disgorgement and penalty distributions, returned deposits of registration filing fees, payroll payments, travel payments, and whistleblower payments.

For FY 2015, “significant improper payments” are defined as gross annual improper payments in the program(s) under review exceeding (1) both 1.5 percent of program outlays and $10 million of all program or activity payments made during the fiscal year, or (2) $100 million. The SEC’s FY 2015 risk assessment included consideration of certain risk factors likely to contribute to a susceptibility to significant improper payments. The risk assessment determined that none of the SEC’s programs and activities are susceptible to significant improper payments. In addition, the SEC’s FY 2015 AFR states the agency determined that implementing a payment recapture audit program is not cost effective, and the agency notified OMB of this decision in September 2015. Nonetheless, the SEC will continue to monitor for improper payments across all programs and activities the SEC administers, and assess whether implementing payment recapture audits are cost-effective in the future. Based on our review of this information, we have determined that the SEC is in compliance with IPIA for FY 2015.
