VOYAGER CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, LLC INFORMATION ABOUT SERVICES AND FEES

Voyager Capital Management, LLC (the "Firm") is an investment advisory firm located at 875 Townline Rd., Suite 100, Lake Geneva, Wisconsin 53147. Its phone number is (262) 348-9981. It specializes in providing investment management, financial planning and consulting services to clients. A description of the Firm's services and fees follow.

Investment Management Services

The investment management services provided by the Firm begin with a review and analysis of all relevant information to enable the Firm to prepare a determination of the client's investment objectives and, as explained below, other aspects of the clients' financial circumstances. The Firm seeks to minimize investment risk through asset class diversification and selection of the appropriate investment vehicles within each asset class. The Firm will normally utilize long-term investments within each asset class. Short-term investments may also be utilized. The Firm provides services using the following process:

Stage One. Gathering data and determining goals and objectives. The Firm collects quantitative and qualitative information from each new client; determines client's personal and financial goals, needs and priorities; assesses client's values, attitudes, expectations and risk tolerance level; determines client's time horizons; and obtains appropriate client records and documents. The Firm normally utilizes interview(s) and/or client questionnaire(s) to gather the initial background information to determine the client's financial status.

Stage Two. Determining the client's financial status by analyzing and evaluating. This step includes evaluating the client's financial status, special needs (e.g., divorce/remarriage, charitable planning, education), risk management (e.g., life insurance), investments (current investments, strategies and policies), taxation (current returns, strategies, compliance), retirement (current plan, tax exposure, social security), employee benefits, estate planning (documents, strategies, tax exposures).

Stage Three. Developing and presenting the investment plan. The plan addresses financial position (current and projected), projections and recommendations for all of the following: cash flow, estate tax, capital needs at retirement, capital needs projection at death, capital needs-disability, capital needs for special needs, income tax, and employee benefits, asset allocation, investments, risk, priority list.

The Firm will assist the client to determine his or her investment objectives based on the information collected in stage one. These objectives are documented using Data Gathering, Investment Questionnaire and an Asset Allocation Summary. These documents describe the client's risk tolerance, long-term rate of return objective, investment time horizons, income and liquidity needs, tax considerations and recommended asset allocation/asset class guidelines.

Stage Four. Implementing the plan. At this stage, the Firm assists the client with the implementation of the plan by coordinating the necessary custodial and/or brokerage relationships. For custodial services, the Firm typically recommends TD Ameritrade Institutional, a division of TD Ameritrade, Inc., Member FINRA/SIPC (“TD Ameritrade”) or Charles Schwab & Co., Inc., also a Member FINRA/SIPC (“Schwab”). The Firm does not maintain custody of client funds or securities. Currently, the Firm does not provide health insurance products. If a health insurance need is recognized the Firm will recommend a health insurance agent. This arrangement will not provide this Firm with commissions or finder fees.

Stage Five. Monitoring the financial plan and investments. At this stage, the Firm monitors each client's financial plan by reviewing the progress of the plan with client, discussing and evaluating changes in client's circumstances, reviewing and discussing any tax law changes, and making required recommendations.

The client's portfolios are reviewed at frequencies deemed appropriate by the Firm to determine if risk and return objectives need revision. During the monitoring process, the Firm will, while supervising the account, exercise discretion and re-balance the client's investment portfolio to conform to the asset allocation/asset class guidelines and exercise discretion to add or delete securities from the portfolio as it deems necessary.

Fee Schedule for Management Services

Fees for management services are negotiable and after being calculated, are due after services are provided. They are based on a percentage of the amount of assets under management with the custodian. This fee is calculated and payable at the end of each calendar quarter and varies from a minimum of 0.50% to a maximum of 1.25% annually. However, fees are generally lower for accounts of substantial size and for accounts containing a significant amount of fixed income assets. In addition, the firm manages assets for the clients of independent representatives of broker/dealers. Those fees are established by the broker/dealer and may differ from the fees indicated above.

Fees are calculated on the basis of the market value of the assets in the account, including any cash balances held in a money market fund. The initial fee commences with the signing of the Firm's Discretionary Investment Management Services Agreement through the end of the first calendar quarter. Thereafter, fees are payable quarterly based upon the market value of assets as of the end of the immediately preceding calendar quarter.

The Firm may, in its discretion, aggregate accounts related to the account for fee calculation purposes. No adjustment will be made to the quarterly fees for changes in the market value of securities held in the account during such calendar quarter. No refund of fees paid or due for a particular calendar quarter will be made if assets are withdrawn. Upon contract termination, which can occur upon 10 days written notice, the client is obligated to pay an asset-based fee calculated on the account's value on the date of termination, prorated to the date of termination. If the client chose to terminate their relationship with the Firm, it is important that the client provides written notice of contract termination to the Firm rather than cancelling the Limited Power of Attorney (LPOA) with the Custodian. Terminating the LPOA may result in the Firm's:

Inability to provide an orderly transition to another advisor/custodian
Inability to review and monitor trades in progress
Inability to provide final account statements
Inability to provide tax data such as capital gain and loss information
Inability to provide a summary of management fees for tax deduction purposes
Inability to assist client with Designated Funds as described in the Discretion section of this Form ADV.

If the client decides to terminate the contract by cancelling the Limited Power of Attorney, an additional fee representing a one-month billing period will be billed for providing the services to terminate the account. This amount is in addition to the fees owed to the Firm from the beginning of the last calendar quarter.

The Firm typically utilizes registered open-end mutual funds and exchange traded funds for most client investment portfolios. These registered investment companies have internal operating and management expenses that are detailed in each of their respective prospectus, however, these expenses are generally less than 0.5% annually. Thus, in addition to the Firm's advisory fees, clients will also have the fund expenses deducted from each mutual fund's reported performance.

A client may incur a delay of up to seven (7) days from the time a cash deposit is made to the custodian to the date funds are actually invested. The Firm requests ten (10) business days to process a client withdrawal or liquidation. The Firm retains the right to charge a client account for time spent processing trades that do not provide ten (10) business days notice of a withdrawal.

The Firm does not custody assets. Therefore, fees that may be charged by the custodian including transaction fees, wire fees, overnight mailing fees are charged directly to the client account from the custodian.

Financial Planning Services

The Firm also provides financial planning services. Financial planning services follow the same financial planning process as the Investment Management Service except that no portfolio management services are provided. Financial planning clients may receive a written financial plan in the scope determined in advance by the Firm and client.

Project Consulting Services

The Firm provides Consulting Services to clients on the following types of projects:

Analysis and evaluation of current employee benefit plan design sponsored by Client (the "Plan")
Analysis and evaluation of current Plan's investment alternatives.
Review of performance of the investments in current plan.
Design and investment recommendations for Plan.

Communication, education and enrollment of Plan.

Monitor the performance of the Plan's investment alternatives, provide quarterly reports to the Client or the Plan's trustees or named fiduciaries, as requested.

Individual Retirement Analysis.

Fee for Financial Planning and Consulting Services

Financial planning services are provided without cost to the Client when the assets under management with the Firm exceed $1,000,000. In these circumstances there is no planning contract. Otherwise, financial planning services are billed at a negotiated rate of between $100 - $200 per hour. An estimate of the total cost of the project will be provided in advance and the client is expected to pay 50% of the fees in advance. At project completion the client will pay the actual cost for the services performed. In the event of termination, the Firm retains fees for actual services performed. Typical fees range from $500 - $15,000 but there is no minimum fee.

Consulting services fees are determined based on each individual project and all fees are negotiated prior to beginning the project. The Firm retains the right modify the basic fee schedule. Fees depend on special circumstances of the client and the size and scope of the financial plan. Clients may terminate the consulting services agreement at any time in writing and fees are then prorated at an hourly rate of $200.

Other expenses incurred by the Firm while providing financial planning and consulting services are the responsibility of the client. These expenses may include, but are not limited to sponsor management fees, trustee fees, pension administration expenses, wire fees, and express mailing fees.

Advisory Program Support Services

The Firm also offers advisory program support services to investment advisors, broker-dealers and other financial institutions that wish to receive such services in connection with the investment management services they provide to their clients. The Firm's support services include consulting with the institution to assist it in structuring various mutual fund investment models with each model varying in market risk.

The Firm then provides various "back office" services for the institution, including coordinating the opening of new accounts, initially allocating account investments, rebalancing account investments, altering investment models to conform with client requests, account reporting and billing. While providing these services, the Firm has no contractual or other responsibility to make or supervise any investment for clients of the institution. That responsibility is left solely to the entity servicing the client's account.

The fees for such services are negotiable and are typically calculated as a percentage of the assets placed under management by the institution's clients. The fee ranges from 20% to 40% of the gross annual fee percentage charged by the entity to its clients. Fees will vary based upon the type of client account and specific level of services requested by the institution. Consistent with the institution's contract with its clients, fees to the Firm are only payable after the institution receives its fees from its clients. In the event that the program support services agreement with the Firm is terminated, which can occur upon 30 days prior written notice by one party to the other, the fees due the Firm are pro-rated to the date of termination.

Prospective institutional clients should be aware that when providing this service, the Firm will usually recommend TD Ameritrade or Schwab as custodian for an institution's client assets. TD Ameritrade or Schwab, as broker of record, will carry client accounts on their records, process transactions ordered by the Firm or the institution, and provide computer access for review of customer positions. In addition, TD Ameritrade and Schwab provide quotes and data needed for client reports. These services are provided to the institution at no or minimal cost.

Although an institutional client of the Firm is not obligated to utilize the services of these entities, the Firm believes that use of either of them is a convenient means of obtaining efficient custodial and other services. However, receipt of such services by the institution creates a conflict of interest for the institution since using any other brokerage Firm may result in higher reporting and overhead costs to it.

Strategies

The Firm will utilize a computer-based class analysis to produce strategic forecasts of selected asset classes for use in the Modern Portfolio Theory (MPT) models. The goal of the models is to help an individual investor attempt to build an investment portfolio that provides the investor with a range of protection and opportunity. To determine the composition of a portfolio, historical returns of each asset class, along with the relationship between the difference asset's returns are computed in the computer model.

The Firm will utilize these models to provide individual advice and manage each client's account based on the client's financial situation and investment objectives.

The underlying concepts of MPT include:

Investors are risk averse. The only acceptable risk is that which is adequately compensated by potential return.

Markets are efficient. It is virtually impossible to know ahead of time the next direction of the market as a whole or of any individual security. It is, therefore, unlikely that any portfolio will succeed in consistently "beating the market."

The portfolio as a whole is more important than an individual security. The appropriate allocation of capital among asset classes (stocks, bonds, cash, etc.) will have far more influence on long-term portfolio results than the selection of individual securities. Investing for the long term (preferable longer than ten years) becomes critical to investment success because it allows the long-term characteristics of the asset classes to surface.

For every risk level, there exists an optional combination of asset classes that will maximize returns. A diverse set of asset classes will be selected to help minimize risk. The proportionality of the mix of asset classes will determine the long-term risk and return characteristics of the portfolio as a whole. Portfolio risk can be decreased by increasing diversification of the portfolio and by lowering the correlation of market behavior among the asset classes selected. (Correlation is the statistical term for the extent to which two asset classes move in tandem or opposition to one another.)

The use of MPT does not guarantee results and losses can occur.

Interest In Transactions

The Firm's related persons, (officers, representatives and employees) may purchase the same securities recommended to clients. Where transactions similar to those recommended to clients will occur in either the firm's or a related person's account, client transactions are given priority. The Firm has adopted an Insider Trading Policy which restricts trading in those securities of issuers of which the Firm employees may have non-public information. The Policy requires all of the Firm's employees to report all personal transactions promptly to the Firm.

The Firm has established a Code of Ethics applicable to all persons at the Firm who have access to confidential client records or to recommendations being made for client accounts. Designed to prevent conflicts of interest between the financial interests of clients and the interests of the Firm's staff, the Code requires such "access persons" to obtain preapproval of certain securities transactions, to report transactions quarterly and to report all securities positions in which they have a beneficial interest at least annually.

These reporting requirements allow supervisors at the Firm to determine whether to allow or prohibit certain employee securities purchases and sales based on transactions made, or anticipated to be made, in the same securities for client accounts. The Code also establishes certain bookkeeping requirements relating to the new federal reporting rules. The Code is required to be reviewed annually and updated as necessary. A complete copy of the Firm's Code is available upon request.

Discretion

On occasion, CPA firms may refer potential advisory clients to Voyager Capital Management and Voyager Capital Management may refer potential accounting clients to the CPA firms and occasionally, Voyager Capital Management may pay representatives of the CPA firms a fee for making advisory client referrals to it. Voyager Capital Management will not accept a fee from the CPA firm, however, these professional service client cross-referral arrangements create conflicts of interest.

The Firm's representatives providing advisory services to clients may be licensed as insurance agents. When the representative recommends an insurance product that will result in a commission being paid, a conflict of interest exists.

The Firm exercises discretion in the selection and amount of securities to buy and sell and when to buy and sell them. The actual securities bought or sold for a client is dependent on the client's portfolio objective as outlined in the Asset Allocation Summary. The firm does not exercise discretion to select brokerage firms or the amount of commission paid.

The Firm will usually not consider execution capability, market making ability, and fee schedule when selecting or suggesting the use of particular brokers for client accounts. The Firm will usually place no load mutual funds and other securities orders with TD Ameritrade or Schwab. TD Ameritrade or Schwab, as broker of record, carry client accounts on their records and process transactions ordered by the Firm.

Clients should be aware that using one broker-dealer for execution of transactions may result in the Firm not being able to obtain best price or execution of securities transactions and in commissions that are higher than those obtainable from other brokers. The Firm may also not be able to obtain research and other services from those other brokers which could benefit the client. Selecting one broker-dealer may also not allow the Firm to obtain the benefits resulting from aggregating a client's order with those of other clients to obtain a better price for the aggregated order by placing it with a different broker-dealer.

Voyager Capital Management is qualified to purchase and sell, on behalf of clients, certain families of mutual funds which may not be available through other advisers ("Designated Funds"). The distributors of Designated Funds allow such Funds to be held in accounts serviced only by an adviser meeting their established standards. As a result, should the Agreement with Voyager Capital Management terminate, clients are required by the terms of the Agreement to transfer all securities positions, including Designated Funds, to another qualified adviser and custodian within 30 days of the termination date.

If a client does not locate another qualified adviser and complete all transfers within 30 days, Voyager Capital Management has discretion to sell the securities, including the Designated Funds, and send the proceeds to the client. Clients should be aware that such sales by Voyager Capital Management may have adverse tax consequences.

Payments to Others

The Firm receives client referrals from TD Ameritrade through its participation in TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect (the "referral program"). The referral program is designed to help investors find an investment management firm. In addition to meeting the minimum eligibility criteria for participation in AdvisorDirect, Voyager Capital Management may have been selected to participate in AdvisorDirect based on the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade.

TD Ameritrade is a discount broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with Voyager Capital Management and there is no employee or agency relationship between them.

TD Ameritrade has established the referral program as a means of referring its brokerage customers and other investors seeking fee-based personal investment management services or financial planning services to independent investment advisors.

TD Ameritrade does not supervise the Firm and has no responsibility for the firm's management of client portfolios or the firm's other advice or services. Voyager Capital Management pays TD Ameritrade an on-going fee for each successful client referral. This fee is usually a percentage (not to exceed 15%) of the advisory fee that the client pays to Voyager Capital Management ("Solicitation Fee").

The Firm will also pay TD Ameritrade the Solicitation Fee on any advisory fees received by Voyager Capital Management from any of a referred client's family members, including spouse, child or any other family member who resides with referred client and engages Voyager Capital Management on the recommendation of such referred client. Voyager Capital Management must pay TD Ameritrade a minimum of $10,000 per year to remain in the program.

The Firm will not charge clients referred through AdvisorDirect any fees or costs higher than its standard fee schedule offered to its clients or otherwise pass Solicitation Fees paid to TD Ameritrade to its clients. For information regarding the Solicitation Fee or other fees paid directly or indirectly to TD Ameritrade, please refer to the TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect Disclosure and Acknowledgement Form.

The Firm's participation in AdvisorDirect raises conflicts of interest. TD Ameritrade will most likely refer clients through AdvisorDirect to investment advisors that encourage their clients to custody their assets at TD Ameritrade and whose client accounts are profitable to TD Ameritrade. Consequently, in order to obtain client referrals from TD Ameritrade, the Firm may have an incentive to recommend to clients that the assets under management by the Firm be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade.

In addition, the Firm has agreed not to solicit clients referred to it through AdvisorDirect to transfer their accounts from TD Ameritrade or to establish brokerage or custody accounts at other custodians, except when its fiduciary duties require doing so. The Firm's participation in AdvisorDirect does not diminish its duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

Clients should carefully consider the information provided in the AdvisorDirect Disclosure and in this Form ADV. The brokerage and advisors services offered by TD Ameritrade and the Firm may be available elsewhere at lower or higher costs. The Firm may at times compensate outside solicitors and/or associated persons. Client's retained through solicitors or associated persons will receive a written solicitor's disclosure statement that details the terms.

The Firm also may provide non-cash payments to solicitors. The Firm has the following policy in regards to non-cash payments to solicitors:

Neither the Firm nor any of its Representatives may pay a non-cash fee, directly or indirectly, to any person seeking clients for the Firm unless the prior consent of the Chief Compliance Officer has been obtained and the payments are made in compliance with all applicable laws and rules. In all cases, the applicable provisions of FINRA Rule 3220 should be followed as a guideline. The Firm will follow the following rules:

- (a) that the Firm nor any of its Representatives give gifts or gratuities to an agent or employee of a FINRA member in excess of $100 per year;
- (b) The Firm will maintain a separate record of all gifts or gratuities.
- (c) It is prohibited by the Firm or any Representative to give any employee, principal, officer or member of FINRA any gift or gratuity in excess of $100.
- (d) Prior to offering any investment consultant, employee, officer or principal of TD Ameritrade Institutional, Schwab Institutional or any other member Firm a gift or gratuity, it is a requirement to receive written approval from corresponding employer prior to giving gift or gratuity.
- (e) Gifts or gratuities that are of de minimis value, or that are promotional items of nominal value displaying the firm's logo do not apply.

Additional Compensation

From TD Ameritrade

The Firm participates in the institutional customer program offered by TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade offers to independent investment advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. Registrant receives some benefits from TD Ameritrade through its participation in the program.

The Firm participates in TD Ameritrade's customer program and, as indicated above, may recommend TD Ameritrade to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between the Firm's participation in the program and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although the Firm receives economic benefits through its participation in the program that are typically not available to TD Ameritrade retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): duplicate client statements and confirmations; research related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving advisor participants; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain TD Ameritrade money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to the Firm by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may also have paid for business consulting and professional services received by the Firm's related persons and may also pay or reimburse expenses (including travel, lodging, meals and entertainment expenses) for the Firm's personnel to attend conferences or meetings relating to the program or to TD Ameritrade's advisor custody and brokerage services generally. Some of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the program may benefit the Firm, but may not benefit its client accounts. These products or services may assist the Firm in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. Other services made available by TD Ameritrade are intended to help the Firm manage and further develop its business enterprise. The benefits received by the Firm or its personnel through participation in the program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by the Firm or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence the Firm's choice or recommendation of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services.

The Firm also receives from TD Ameritrade certain additional economic benefits ("Additional Services") that may or may not be offered to any other independent investment advisors participating in the program. Specifically, the Additional Services include monetary contributions for the Portfolio Center and ByAllAccounts software. TD Ameritrade provides the Additional Services in its sole discretion and at its own expense, and the Firm does not pay any fees to TD Ameritrade for the Additional Services. The Firm and TD Ameritrade have entered into a separate agreement ("Additional Services Addendum") to govern the terms of the provision of the Additional Services.

The Firm's receipt of Additional Services raises potential conflicts of interest. In providing additional Services to the Firm, TD Ameritrade most likely considers the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, the Firm's client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade has the right to terminate the Additional Services Addendum with the Firm, in its sole discretion, provided certain conditions are met. Consequently, in order to continue to obtain the Additional Services from TD Ameritrade, the Firm may have an incentive to recommend to its clients that the assets under management by the Firm be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. The Firm's receipt of Additional Services does not diminish its duty to act in the best interests of its clients, including to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

The non-taxable assets excluded from the maintenance and commitment levels described above are those that constitute "plan assets" of plans subject to Title 1 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, amended, or of plans as defined in Section 4975 of the Internal Revenue Code (which include IRAs).

If the Firm does not maintain the relevant level of taxable assets on the TD Ameritrade platform, the Firm may be required to make a penalty fee payment to TD Ameritrade calculated on the basis of the shortfall.

Although the Firm believes that the products and services offered by TDA Ameritrade are competitive in the market place for similar services offered by other broker-dealers or custodians, the arrangement with TDA Ameritrade as to the iRebal service may affect the Firm's independent judgment in selecting or maintaining TDA Ameritrade as the broker or custodian for client accounts.

From Schwab

The Firm may require that clients establish brokerage accounts with Schwab to maintain custody of clients' assets and to effect trades for their accounts. Although the Firm may recommend/require that Clients establish accounts at Schwab, it is the client's decision to custody assets with Schwab. The Firm is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab.

Schwab provides the Firm with access to its institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisors on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as a total of at least $10 million of the advisor's client's assets are maintained in accounts at Schwab. These services are contingent upon the Firm committing to Schwab any specific amount of business (assets in custody or trading commissions). Schwab's brokerage services include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

For Firm client accounts maintained in its custody, Schwab generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Schwab or that settle into Schwab accounts.

Schwab also makes available to the Firm other products and services that benefit Firm but may not directly benefit its clients' accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of Firm's accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab.

Schwab's products and services that assist the Firm in managing and administering clients' accounts include software and other technology that (i) provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); (ii) facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts; (iii) provide research, pricing and other market data; (iv) facilitate payment of Firm's fees from its clients' accounts; and (v) assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Schwab also offers other services intended to help the Firm manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include: (i) compliance, legal and business consulting; (ii) publications and conferences on practice management and business succession; and (iii) access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants and insurance providers. Schwab may make available, arrange and/or pay third-party vendors for the types of services rendered to Firm. Schwab may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to Firm. Schwab may also provide other benefits such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of Firm personnel. In evaluating whether to recommend or require that clients custody their assets at Schwab, Firm may take into account the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors it considers and not solely the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

Trade Error Policy

Voyager Capital Management, LLC (VCM) retains a Trade Error Account at TD Ameritrade Institutional and at Schwab Institutional for the resolution of erroneous transactions having occurred at the direction of VCM in any Client account. It is VCM's policy VCM to make clients whole for losses resulting from trading errors utilizing the trade error account. VCM is responsible for reimbursing Clients for all losses due to trade errors made by VCM in Client accounts, and TD Ameritrade or Schwab have no financial responsibility, other responsibility or liability to Clients for VCM's trade errors. Trade errors in client accounts that result in a gain are retained by the trade error account to offset future trade error losses.
