2.	WGI intends to offer its investment management services to institutional clients including Endowments, Foundations, Charitable Organizations, Pension and Profit Sharing Plans and high net worth individuals.
4.(A)	WGI's security analysis approach focuses on identifying companies that are undervalued on an absolute basis through extensive bottom-up analysis. WGI strictly adheres to price target parameters. We emphasize disciplined research focused on a small group of stocks.
4.(B)	WGI performs periodic on-site visits with companies to identify investment opportunities and to meet with management and to inspect and review company operations.
4.(C)	WGI believes that there is an opportunity to obtain absolute return in emerging markets through highly-concentrated, non-indexed portfolios. As fundamental investors WGI plans to emphasize a disciplined, bottom-up approach research, therefore turnover will be quite low. WGI will generally invest in securities that trade at least $5 million per day. Investments in the small cap universe will be opportunistic in nature, driven by both valuations and short-term catalysts for performances.

12. (B)	WGI aims to structure its broker relationships to include negotiated fees as well as best execution for its clients. WGI also has the authority to enter into soft dollar arrangements with brokers. WGI keeps records of all trades with details of commission, hard or soft, paid to each broker. Annually WGI will evaluate broker-dealers it uses or contemplates using to execute client trades, and will rank them, taking into account trade execution performance as well as the research services available from each broker, in order to update WGI's list of approved brokers. WGI will only enter into soft dollar arrangements that, in its best judgement as fiduciary, will provide a benefit to the client by providing lawful and appropriate assistance to WGI in the performance of its investment-decision making responsibilities. WGI has adopted a Soft Dollar Policy which includes controls and procedures such that its soft dollar arrangements are structured so as to provide a benefit to the clients and not to WGI or its Principals or employees.
13. (B)	WGI has retained Fair Haven Partners for 3rd party marketing services as of March 31, 2008.

We may disclose personal information about a client to the following types of nonaffiliated third parties:

- Brokerage companies for the purpose of executing trades or administering your fund account.
- Service companies such as administrators or custodians of the funds, the funds' accountants or lawyers.
- Regulatory authorities or law enforcement as may be requested or required by law.

WGI shares only that personal information necessary to effect or administer a transaction in connection with your trading account, or in connection with maintaining or servicing your trading account.

In addition to the foregoing, WGI reserves the right to disclose your name (without disclosure of any other personal information) as a client of WGI for marketing purposes and in marketing presentations. If you prefer that we not disclose your name in connection with such marketing activities, you may opt out of such disclosure by informing us in writing that you do not wish your name to be used for such purposes.

While WGI does not foresee any need to make additional disclosures at the present time, we reserve the right to make subject to applicable law and your further approval.

SOFT DOLLAR POLICY

It is Westwood Global Investments intention to enter into soft dollar arrangements as expressly permitted under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, provided that such arrangements comply with applicable securities law and regulatory interpretations of such laws and are agreeable to the client.

The Principals of Westwood Global Investments (WGI), may enter into appropriate soft dollar arrangements, either jointly or singly, and, together or alone, are responsible for ensuring that the Firm's soft dollar arrangements comply with applicable securities laws.

Typically, a WGI soft dollar arrangement will work as follows:

1. Client pays the broker-dealer selected by WGI hard dollars for executing a trade.
2. The broker-dealer provides WGI with research or research-related services to be provided by a third-party.
3. Third-party vendor provides research or research-related services to WGI.
4. WGI forwards third-party bill for research or other services rendered to the broker-dealer.
5. Broker-dealer pays third-party vendor's bill in hard dollars.

WGI will review services available from a broker-dealer in a soft dollar arrangement to determine whether such product or service would provide lawful and appropriate assistance to WGI in the performance of its investment-decision making responsibilities. WGI will use its best judgment as a fiduciary to justify the use of client brokerage to pay for the particular product or service.

In some cases, a product or service acquired in a soft dollar arrangement may have both research and non-research qualities. In such a case, WGI shall make a reasonable allocation of the cost of the product or service according to its anticipated uses. The component of the service that assists WGI in making its investment decisions will be satisfied with soft dollars. The component of the product or services that is non-research will be paid for by WGI. Since this situation represents a possible conflict between WGI and its clients, the allocation process will be disclosed in WGI's ADV.

WGI will observe the following conditions with regard to soft dollar arrangements:

- Soft dollar commissions will be used to obtain only brokerage or research services;
- WGI will enter into soft dollar arrangements only if the primary use of research or services obtained through a soft dollar arrangement directly assists WGI in making investment decisions and is not primarily for the benefit of the management of WGI.
- If there is any doubt with regard to whom the primary benefit of these services accrues, WGI will pay for the research and services directly, not with soft dollars.

- Brokerage and research must be provided by the particular broker-dealer to which the commission was directed
- WGI will determine that any commissions paid to a broker-dealer are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received by WGI on behalf of its clients.
- WGI will enter into soft dollar arrangements only in connection with agency trades and not principal transactions.
- Soft dollar brokerage transactions may only involve securities and not other types of investments.

The Principals of WGI will periodically evaluate the products and services received under soft dollar arrangements and determine which products and services continue to provide a benefit to WGI's clients.

Each service or product received under a soft dollar arrangement will be analyzed to determine whether it is a mixed-use service and determine which part is non-research so that the non-research part of the service can be paid for directly by WGI.

WGI will request that each broker-dealer provide at least annually to WGI a statement of all its research products and services and any pertinent information about all step-arrangements that the broker participated in on WGI's behalf.

WGI will reconcile statements received from broker-dealers with WGI's records on soft dollars.

At least annually, WGI will evaluate brokers-dealers it uses or contemplates using to execute client trades, and will rank them taking into account trade execution performance as well as the research products and services available from each broker, in order to update WGI's list of approved brokers.

WGI will, at least quarterly, prepare a report containing the following information with regard to each of WGI's soft dollar arrangement:

- The name of the broker-dealer
- The budgeted amount of commissions to that broker-dealer
- The actual amount of commissions paid to date to that broker-dealer
- The variation between the budgeted and actual numbers
- Any soft dollar debit or credit carried over from a previous period.
- The remaining commission commitment to that broker-dealer
- A description of products and services received from that broker-dealer

The Soft Dollar practices of WGI will be disclosed in its ADV. In addition, WGI will disclose to the client that WGI intends to enter into soft dollar arrangements involving the client's account before it does so. Periodically the Compliance Officer will review WGI's ADV to ensure consistency with actual practice. WGI will disclose the products, research and services received from broker-dealers who execute client trades, and will inform clients that certain information is available to them on their request. The information available to clients is as follows:

- The total amount of commissions generated for the client making the request in connection with soft dollar arrangements
- An itemized list of what products and services were received by WGI through all of its soft dollar arrangements
- The names of all broker-dealers providing soft dollar services

WGI will keep the following books and records:

- A schedule of all brokerage commissions generated for each client in connection with WGI's soft dollar arrangements
- An written description of what products and services WGI obtained through soft dollar arrangements
- The names and addresses of all broker-dealers providing soft dollar services
- A written description of all oral or written agreements committing WGI to generate a specific amount of commission for a specific broker-dealer
- A written description of the method used to allocate the cost of any mixed-use product or service
- A written description of how the soft dollar arrangements assisted WGI in its investment management functions.

ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING POLICY

In order to comply with The United and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act of 2001(the "USA PATRIOT Act"), the Principals of Westwood Global Investments hereby adopt the Westwood Global Investments Anti-Money Laundering Policy. This policy is designed to detect and guard against money laundering activities by focusing on investor identifications procedures and to establish controls and procedures designed to detect and guard against money laundering activities.

"Know Your Client"

Included in WGI's New Client Checklist will be a requirement that a WGI Principal confirm the identity of each client, both individual clients and institutional clients, their representatives, and/or principal beneficial owners, if applicable.

All client contracts may include one or more of the following representations:

- All information provided is genuine and all related information is accurate.
- The client agrees to provide any information deemed necessary by WGI in its sole discretion to comply with its anti-money laundering responsibilities and policies; and
- The client represents and warrants that no party which either (i) has had any of its assets blocked under U.S. sanctions laws, or (ii) has been identified by the U.S. Government as a person whose assets are blocked under such laws, has any beneficial interest in the interest being acquired.

Additional capital contributions from existing clients will only be accepted after WGI has confirmed that the additional money is coming from a known client and WGI has confirmed that the original information obtained at account setup is still accurate.

High Risk Investors

WGI may require additional proof of identity from those clients or entities who, in WGI's opinion, present high risk factors. These factors may include the following characteristics:

- Senior foreign political figures, members of his/her family, or close associates
- A person or entity resident in or organized under the laws of a "non-cooperative jurisdiction" (I)
- A person or entity resident in or organized under any other jurisdiction designated by the U.S. Treasury as warranting special measures (I)
- Any person or entity whose capital contributions originates from or is routed through certain banking entities organized or chartered in a non-cooperative jurisdiction. (I)

Prohibited Investors

No investments from or on behalf of the following will be accepted:

- Persons on the List of Specially Designated Nationals and Blocked Persons maintained by the U.S. Office of Foreign Asset Control ("OFAC") (2)
- Persons listed on the Annex to Executive Order 13224. (3)
- Persons appearing on any other lists as may be promulgated by law or regulation,
- Foreign banks unregulated in the jurisdiction in which they are domiciled but do not have a physical presence.

(1) OFAC's list may be found at www.treas.gov/ofac

(2) Executive Order 13224 and Annex A thereto may be found at www.treas.gov/ofac/t11ter.pdf.

Ant-Money Laundering Diligence Performed by Third-Parties

Under some circumstances WGI may rely on the confirmation of investor identity by a third-party when the third-party is better situated to identify the client. An example would be a pension consultant. However, a third-party confirmation of the identity of a prospective client will only be acceptable under the following circumstances:

- The third-party must be subject to U.S. anti-money laundering laws or regulations.
- WGI may review the third-party's anti-money laundering compliance measures and be reasonably satisfied that appropriate measures have been taken to ensure that the client has been properly identified.
- WGI may in its discretion require certifications from the third-party as to the accuracy of its assertions re the identity of the prospective client.

Compliance Review/Staff Awareness

The Compliance Officer will be responsible for insuring that all aspects of WGI's Anti-Money Laundering Policy are properly implemented. She will sign off on the New Client Checklist after her due diligence is completed and she is reasonably comfortable with that the investor has been properly identified and does not pose a money-laundering risk.

In addition, the Compliance Officer will ensure that all staff is aware of the provisions of the Patriot Act and, to the extent possible in WGI's role as investment advisor, they will monitor and promptly report any suspicious client activity to the Compliance Officer.

CLASS ACTION POLICY CONTINUED

- WGI shall engage generally or on a case-by-case basis a third party shareholder advisory service, special legal counsel and/or other advisors WGI deems necessary or appropriate (as the case may be, a "Class Action Consultant"), to provide WGI with necessary, available information concerning class actions generally and to assist and advise WGI in determining whether the Covered Client is eligible to participate in a particular Class Action, and acting or abstaining from action with respect to a particular Class Action and a particular Covered Client. Information and services obtained from a Class Action Consultant may include, among other things, administrative, regulatory and legal guidance, access to databases of current class action notices and filings, portfolio-specific notices and information regarding class action suits that may affect a Covered Client, and claims filing services.
- WGI, together with its Class Action Consultant, shall take prudent steps to monitor reports and notices concerning Class Actions and identify situations in which Covered Clients may be eligible to participate in a Class Action;
- With respect to each Class Action claim involving securities held by a Covered Client, WGI, together with its Class Action Consultant, shall evaluate such claim and file proofs of claim or opt out of the class, as it deems appropriate for such Covered Client. Generally, unless there is a clear reason not to do so, WGI will not opt out of the class and will file proofs of claim with the applicable claims administrator if the Covered Client is eligible to participate in such Class Action. With respect to a Covered Client that is an entity, in determining whether or not to opt out of a particular Class Action, WGI may, but is not obligated to, consider and take into account the interests of the beneficial owners of such entity.
- In the event that a material conflict arises between the interests of WGI and the interests of a Covered Client, or between beneficial owners of a Covered Client, or otherwise as determined by WGI in its discretion, WGI will follow the recommendations of a Class Action Consultant in such instance with respect to such Class Action and such Covered Client.

Records and Information

All notices relating to Class Actions, proofs of claim, research analysis, client requests and other information shall be maintained in accordance with the applicable books and records rules and regulations under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and other applicable law.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY PLAN

WGI uses two different back up systems to protect data and to enable a rapid recovery from any disaster. First, we use a server replication software, XO Soft, to replicate any changes to the office servers to an offsite DR server. This software remains live on the office servers, creating a key-stroke replication to the DR servers, so that any changes made during the day are immediately replicated on the DR server. The DR servers are located offsite, supported by a UPS and generator backup. We also use a Veritas tape back up system to protect and store all files related to the portfolios, research, marketing, and company accounts. Portfolio accounting files are all run and stored on the Z drive of the server.

All trading is done through Moxly, the data and files are stored on the SQL server.
All other spreadsheets, word documents and presentations are stored in relevant folders on the same Z drive. WGI employees are required to keep all documents on the server not on individual computers.

The Main Server runs dual mirrored hard drives to insure that there are two HDD versions of all data. In addition, a tape back-up is run every night that copies all data onto a removable storage medium. The main and SQL servers are backed up nightly. WGI has 4 weeks of tapes labeled by day. In the first week of the month, the Monday1 to Friday1 tapes are used, in the 2nd week, the Monday2 to Friday2 tapes are used and so through week four. Each day's tape is taken home at night by one of the principals or by the chief compliance officer. This insures a redundant backup in case the live replication software fails to run.

In the event of a server crash, the first alternative is to activate the DR servers, which will have captured any changes made to the main servers up to the point of the disaster. In the event that the replication software had failed to backup all data, we would use the tape from the previous day to restore all data and the operating system. This would mean that all data would be current as of 11pm of the night before the crash. In an event that destroyed the tapes and the server in the office or that made them unusable, the back up servers that are kept at BLW's home will be converted to the main servers based first on the live replication and as a backup to that, the most recent day's tape. The back up servers are supported by a UPS for short term power needs and by a whole house generator that can provide all power to the house for at least 10 days based on 450 gallons of propane and indefinitely as the propane tanks are refilled. The backup servers will be accessible locally or over a VPN on a fiber optic line.

In the event of a disaster, it would be a matter of hours before the back-up servers were restored and ready to host our IT needs. We would be back up and running within 1 day.

The current business continuity system was put in place in December 2008 and was tested when implemented.

Any outlier trades are highlighted for the portfolio managers to review. If a broker continues to provide trade prices which do not appear to be realistic given the information available to us, we will decide how to proceed with the relationship - terminate, terminate trading in a particular country or by warning the broker and trying to improve the relationship going forward. While the relationships with broker-dealers are dynamic in nature, they are reviewed on an as-needed basis and at a minimum, on a quarterly basis. Broker commissions are included as part of this review by comparing the commission schedule in the various countries we trade. If a brokers' commission is not equal to or within an expected variance to other brokers, we will request that they change their commission or discontinue trading with them in that country. TRADE ALLOCATION: WGI uses Advent's platform Moxy to allocate trades amongst portfolios. TRADING PRACTICES CONTINUED

When Westwood has a fund that has restrictions that differ from the existing portfolios, the restrictions are entered into Moxy so that the allocations are made while allowing for restrictions.

Westwood's trading platform, Moxy, has the functionality to restrict trading activity for many of the various client restrictions including but not limited to: securities, security types, countries and maximum and minimums at the security level. Westwood has hard coded these restrictions and they are reviewed by portfolio managers and trader for each trade, whenever notified of a change by a client and as part of our annual compliance review. Guidelines that cannot be coded into Moxy are tested pre-trade by creating a spreadsheet to ensure proposed trades fall within guidelines. The portfolio managers review on a quarterly basis and CCO reviews during testing phase of annual compliance review. If we find that we have breached guidelines, we will contact the client to discuss ramifications and write up the error in our compliance exception report.

SECURITY/CONFIDENTIALITY: Only the principals, Bryan Ward and Meg Reynolds are authorized to sign trades, initiate wires or open accounts.

To ensure confidentiality and protect client assets, all employees must sign a code of ethics annually and must also sign a confidentiality agreement. Westwood has a comprehensive compliance program and a culture of compliance and respect for clients identity and assets.

To prevent forgeries and fraud, the custodians have signatures of the principals on file.
