(If yes, describe these standards on Schedule F.)

6. Education and Business Background

For:

- each member of the investment committee or group that determines general investment advice to be given to clients, or
- if the applicant has no investment committee or group, each individual who determines general investment advice given to clients (if more than five, respond only for their supervisors)
- each principal executive officer of applicant or each person with similar status or performing similar functions.

On Schedule F, give the

- | | |
|-----------------|----------------------------------------------------|
| • name | • formal education after high school |
| • year of birth | • business background for the preceding five years |

7. Other Business Activities. (check those that apply)

- ☐ A. Applicant is actively engaged in a business other than giving investment advice
- ☐ B. Applicant sells products or services other than investment advice to clients
- ☐ C. The principal business of applicant or its principal executive officers involves something other than providing investment advice.

(For each checked box describe the other activities, including the time spent on them, on Schedule F.)

8. Other Financial Industry Activities or Affiliations. (check those that apply)

- ☐ A. Applicant is registered (or has an application pending) as a securities broker-dealer.
- ☒ B. Applicant is registered (or has an application pending) as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator or commodity trading adviser.

- 10. Conditions for Managing Accounts. Does the applicant provide investment supervisory services, manage investment advisory accounts or hold itself out as providing financial planning or some similarly termed services and impose a minimum dollar value of assets or other conditions for starting or maintaining an account?

Yes No

(If yes, describe on Schedule F)

- 11. Review of Accounts. If applicant provides investment supervisory services, manages investment advisory accounts, or holds itself out as providing financial planning or some similarly termed services:

- A. Describe below the reviews and reviewers of the accounts. For reviews, include their frequency, different levels, and triggering factors. For reviewers, include the number of reviewers, their titles and functions, instructions they receive from applicant on performing reviews, and number of accounts assigned each

Accounts, grouped by investment strategies, are reviewed by the Registrant's investment strategy team, overseen by a Chief Investment Officer. The teams review all accounts within their designated investment strategies frequently as warranted by changing market conditions and by those needs of clients as to which the Registrant has been notified. Such review generally takes place no less frequently than monthly, and more frequent reviews are conducted in turbulent markets.

- B. Describe below the nature and frequency of regular reports to clients on their accounts

Registrant submits to its clients on a monthly or quarterly basis (at the client's discretion) an investment summary containing a market value list of assets, funds and other properties subject to the investment advisory agreement and a summary of account activity for the relevant monthly or quarterly period.

Answer all items. Complete amended pages in full, circle amended items and file with execution page (page 1).

12. Investment or Brokerage Discretion.

| (4) commission rates paid? | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |

B. Does applicant or a related person suggest brokers to clients?

Yes No

For each yes answer to A describe on Schedule F any limitations on the authority. For each yes to A(3), A(4) or B, describe on Schedule F the factors considered in selecting brokers and determining the reasonableness of their commissions. If the value of product, research and services given to the applicant or a related person is a factor, describe:

- The products, research and services
- whether clients may pay commissions higher than those obtainable from other brokers in return for those products and services
- whether research is used to service all of applicant's accounts or just those accounts paying for it; and
- any procedures the applicant used during the last fiscal year to direct client transactions to a particular broker in return for product and research services received.

13. Additional Compensation

Does the applicant or a related person have any arrangements, oral or in writing, where it:

- | | | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| A. is paid cash by or receives some economic benefit (including commissions, equipment or non-research services) from a non-client in connection with giving advice to clients? | Yes
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | No
<input type="checkbox"/> |
| B. Directly or indirectly compensates any person for client referrals? | Yes
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | No

1(D) continued	speculative than would be the case in the absence of a performance based fee. To the extent performance targets are realized, compensation may be higher than it otherwise would be. Compensation may be based on unrealized appreciation as well as realized gains in the client's portfolio. Registrant provides sub-advisory services to clients of affiliated registered investment advisers and is paid a portion of the advisory fees received by the affiliates for these clients (see response to Item 8C(3) for further information). The agreement between Registrant and client may not be amended, transferred, sold or in any manner assigned or encumbered without consent of client, and it may be terminated by either client or Registrant at any time upon written notice to the other party. Upon such termination, Registrant shall issue a final report and shall refund to client a pro rata share of any prepaid but unearned management fees. Registrant may serve from time to time as discretionary investment adviser to various wrap programs sponsored by third parties. In a wrap program, the client typically pays a flat fee to the sponsor for a variety of services, with the sponsor then compensating Registrant. The specific client fees are set by the sponsor and are disclosed in the applicable agreement between the sponsor and the client. The fees of Registrant in such arrangements are negotiated with the plan sponsors and are typically based on a percentage of the net assets under management. Clients in such programs have directed brokerage to a particular broker-dealer (typically the sponsor firm). A client's account is then invested in accordance with the investment guidelines selected by the client. For further information, wrap clients are referred to the relevant program's disclosure materials and their investment management agreement, as well as to the other relevant portions of Registrant's ADV (including the brokerage information provided in Part II, Schedule F, Item 12). Specific fees associated with each product offered by Registrant are typically set forth in the applicable client advisory agreement or in the program materials, as applicable. Such fees may be negotiated and may vary according to particular arrangements with certain clients. Specific details surrounding how fees are charged, when compensation is payable, and how clients may terminate a contract are also set forth in the applicable client advisory agreement or program materials.
2	In addition to listed client types, Registrant generally provides investment advice to institutional investors, including state or municipal government entities and commingled investment vehicles.
3(K)(3)	Registrant may offer investment advice on interests in limited partnerships or similar investment vehicles, including those sponsored by Registrant.
3(L)	In addition to types of investments indicated, Registrant may also offer advice on currency forwards and swaps, as well as enter into repurchase agreements.
4(A)(5)	Registrant's methods of security analysis vary across products and asset classes. Registrant has a variety of quantitative models that combine both a top-down portfolio construction approach with a bottom-up security valuation approach. Valuation models are built using elements of modern portfolio theory, derivatives theory, equity factor modeling and yield curve analysis, as needed for each product.

10	Registrant's present minimum for separately managed discretionary accounts is $20 million for single strategy (long-only equity) accounts, $25 million for overlay accounts and $50 million for multi strategy and complex account types. Minimums for wrap programs may vary depending on the program and are included in the relevant wrap program materials. Registrant reserves the right to accept or maintain accounts below any stated minimum dollar values.
12	With respect to its services as adviser to institutional clients such as pension/profit sharing plans and endowment funds, Registrant provides these services on a fully discretionary basis, subject to overall review by the fiduciaries of the client accounts. This authority is subject to specific investment restrictions and requirements of the various accounts, including a client's ability to limit the investment universe of its portfolio. There can be no assurance that Registrant will achieve its investment objective in managing client portfolios. General fluctuations in the market prices of securities may affect the value of the investments held by a client. Instability in the securities markets also may increase the risks and volatility inherent in the investments. Assets may increase or decrease in value due to factors affecting securities markets generally, such as actual or anticipated changes in interest rates, inflationary expectations and other factors. ERISA establishes fiduciary responsibility and prohibited transaction rules for employee benefit plans. In providing investment management services, the Registrant manages client assets which include long-only mandates, as well as short-enabled (long-short) mandates. Client accounts are quantitatively managed independent of one another in accordance with specific client mandates, restrictions and instructions. Given specific constraints of an individual client account and the trade cycle and rotation of trading client accounts, instances may arise when one or more client account holds a long position in a specific security, while one or more client accounts hold a short position in the same security. These instances may also arise considering benchmark relative investment mandates and the level at which individual client accounts hold a significant overweight or underweight position in an individual security. With respect to proxy voting, Registrant has adopted a proxy voting policy reasonably designed to ensure that it votes proxies in the best interest of clients. 12 continued	All services received from broker-dealers to whom commissions are paid are used collectively, to the extent practicable, to benefit all clients of Registrant. There is no direct relationship between commissions received by a broker-dealer from a particular client's transactions and the use of any or all of that broker-dealer's services for the benefit of that client's account. As provided by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Registrant is permitted to cause higher commissions to be paid to broker-dealers who provide brokerage and research services than to broker-dealers who do not provide such services, if such higher commissions are deemed reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services provided. In addition, Registrant concludes in each such case that the brokerage and research services received provide lawful and appropriate assistance to Registrant in performance of its investment decision making responsibilities. The Registrant's procedure in directing brokerage for research services is to (1) determine that the broker providing the service can also provide best execution; then (2) enter into an informal arrangement with the broker for the service which does not obligate the Registrant to any specified level of commissions. The Registrant may group together accounts with similar investment and trading strategies when determining trade cycle and rotation. When making this decision, the Registrant may consider timing of cash flows, time since the last rebalance, projected liquidity, availability of staff and market holidays/closures. Client portfolios will be optimized individually and independently from other accounts according to client directed restrictions and strategy constraints, and a trade list for each account will be generated. Unless directed otherwise by a client (including instructions for directed brokerage), the trade lists from grouped accounts may be aggregated for order execution. Registrant may aggregate orders of some or all of its accounts, including accounts in which Registrant or its personnel or affiliates may have a beneficial interest. Because of market activity, it may not be possible to obtain the same price or execution on all such trades. When this occurs trades are allocated in a manner Registrant believes is fair and reasonable, taking into consideration its fiduciary duties to all of its clients, and typically involves taking an average of the price and commission. Whenever an average is used, some clients will benefit while others may be disadvantaged. Although in such instance clients will be charged the average price, the Registrant will make the information regarding the actual transactions available to clients, upon the client's request. With respect to Registrant's institutional accounts, in some instances, services are received directly by an account which directs Registrant to place some commission business generated by that account with specified brokers as compensation. Where Registrant commingles orders for several accounts engaged in the same transactions, only that portion of the commission generated by the account responsible for the direction is credited in satisfaction of that account's direction request. In some cases, the executing broker may allocate billing and clearing functions for the portion of the order relating to a client account to the broker specified by that client. The billing and clearing portion of the commission allocated to the client is then credited in satisfaction of that client's direction request. Registrant cannot guarantee that client direction requests will be fully satisfied. In instances where Registrant has investment discretion, and the client has directed brokerage to a particular broker-dealer (such as in a wrap program), Registrant will direct brokerage to the broker-dealer. As such, the client may pay higher commission costs, higher prices and transaction costs, since Registrant may not be able to obtain volume discounts that it otherwise would have had had it not directed Registrant to trade through a specific broker-dealer. In addition, the client may be unable to obtain the most favorable price as a result of Registrant's inability to aggregate/bunch the trades from this account with other client trades. In general, the Registrant's portfolio managers will not coordinate with each other with respect to the execution of trades. Also, each of the Registrant's portfolio managers, when executing client securities transactions with multiple broker-dealers, including non-directed brokerage orders as well as transactions for those which have been directed by clients, will attempt to deliver such orders simultaneously to such brokers. Because the Registrant has been directed to use a particular broker, clients directing commissions may not generate returns equal to clients which do not direct commissions. Due to these circumstances, there may be a disparity in commission rates charged to a client who directs Registrant to use a particular broker-dealer. Clients who direct brokerage should understand that similar brokerage services may be obtained from other broker-dealers at lower costs. Under a "wrap fee" program, clients are not charged separate commissions on each trade so long as the introducing broker executed the trade, and a portion of the "wrap fee" is generally considered as in lieu of commissions. In light of this feature, Registrant considers a client's choice to participate in a wrap fee agreement as being a direction to Registrant to use that broker-dealer. In such cases, trades will typically be executed only with the introducing "wrap fee" broker-dealer. Clients would be responsible for any trades executed with broker-dealers other than the firm that sponsors the wrap program. In certain cases, commissioned accounts may pay a higher rate than "wrap fee" accounts. If Registrant is required to effect transactions with other brokers, the client would bear the cost of commissions in such transactions in addition to the fees paid by the client under the "wrap fee" agreement. Accordingly, a client may wish to satisfy him/herself that the brokerage firm he/she has chosen can provide the best execution. The client should also consider that, depending on the level of the fee listed in the "wrap fee" agreement, the amount of portfolio activity in the client's account, the value of custodial services and the other aggregate costs of such services if they were to be provided separately, and if Registrant were free to seek best execution of transactions for the client's account whether the client's determination to direct brokerage is in its best interests.
13	See the disclosure under Item 8(C)(3) above. Registrant entered into a written agreement with Integra Capital Limited whereby Integra Capital Limited assisted in the marketing effort for certain Canadian-based institutional clients of the Registrant. Under this agreement Registrant may pay Integra Capital Limited up to 33% of any advisory fee and up to 15% of any performance-based fee paid by these clients.
