Item of Form (identify)	Answer
Item 1	Advisory Services Downriver Capital Management, LLC ("Downriver") is an independent money-management firm founded on January 1, 2010 in Spokane, Washington. The firm was founded by William Lang, who also serves as managing member. Downriver offers investment advice and management to individually managed accounts in both direct and sub-advisory agreements. Registrant holds a limited power of attorney to act on a discretionary basis with client funds. Client funds are deposited in either a brokerage firm or a bank custodian account. Each client completes a written document selecting the investment product with guidelines to managing their account including any reasonable restrictions. Investment Strategy Overview Downriver Capital Management, LLC offers two separate strategies, a Micro-cap Value strategy and a Tactical ETF strategy. Micro-cap Value The Micro-cap Value strategy normally strives to invests in 25 to 40 of the smallest publicly traded domestic equities that it considers to be both fundamentally undervalued and financially robust. Tactical ETF Strategy The Tactical ETF Strategy uses Exchange Traded Funds ("ETF") shares to take long positions and short positions. These ETF's often seek a return that is either 300%, 200%, -100%, -200% or -300% of the return of an index or other benchmark (target) for a single day. Due to the compounding of daily returns, the ETF returns over periods other than one day will likely differ in amount and possibly direction from the target return for the same period. Downriver Capital Management may at its discretion invest a portion of its clients' portfolios using the Tactical ETF Strategy in negatively correlated ETFs or mutual funds. Negatively correlated ETFs or mutual funds may rise in value while the general stock market declines. Downriver Capital Management may add these negatively correlated ETFs or mutual funds in an attempt to reduce the volatility of a client's portfolio or profit from a market decline. The addition of negatively correlated investments does not in any way guarantee that the volatility, draw down or loss of portfolio principal will be lower and it may actually reduce long-term portfolio performance. Portfolio Turnover Downriver Capital Management projects that portfolio turnover in its strategies will range between 65% - 100% per year, depending on market conditions. The micro-cap space is inherently more inefficient and volatile, which will result in higher portfolio turnover. Higher turnover (more transactions) results in a higher amount of securities transaction commission that the client must pay and in taxable accounts the potential of increased capital gains or losses which effect the tax paid by the client.

Item 1C(1)	Fees for investment advisory services The fee schedule is based on a percentage of assets under management, payable in arrears at the beginning of each calendar quarter based on the net market value of the account on the last day of the calendar quarter. Fees are negotiable and vary based on the size and type of the investment. Registrant may grant "Most Favored Nation status" to certain clients at its discretion. This Most Favored Nation status is a contractual agreement where Downriver agrees that it will charge a fee equal to the lowest fee charged for a similar relationship. This allows Downriver to lower fees charged to certain clients having Most Favored Nation status in the future. Downriver may at its sole discretion negotiate fees. Comparable services may be available from other sources for lower fees than those charged by Downriver. Downriver's fees are separate from and in addition to any fees charged by a mutual fund held in a client's account. Accounts managed through Broker's Managed Accounts programs are subject to additional fees charged by the broker. Except as may be otherwise negotiated in particular cases, a client may terminate an account by giving thirty days' written notice. In all cases, expenses and the pro rata portion of the quarterly fee through the date of termination are charged to the client. All prepaid but unearned advisory fees are refunded to the client on termination of an account. Investment Company Fees Investment company funds that are held by advisory clients will bear their own internal transaction and execution costs, as well as directly compensate their investment managers along with internal administrative services. Some funds pay 12b-1 fees, Distribution Fees, and or Shareholder Service Fees to broker-dealers that offer such funds to their clients. These charges affect the Net Asset Value of these fund shares and are thus indirectly borne by fund shareholders such as an Advisor client. Some fund companies have imposed a redemption fee. A redemption fee is another type of fee that some funds charge their shareholders when shares are sold or redeemed within a short period of time from the purchase of the fund shares. 	redemption proceeds just like a deferred sales load, it is not considered to be a sales load. Unlike a sales load, which is generally used to compensate brokers, a redemption fee is typically used to defray fund costs associated with a shareholder's redemption and is paid directly to the fund, not to a broker. The SEC generally limits redemption fees to 2%. In most cases, the funds will use the "first-in, first-out" (FIFO) method to determine the holding period. Under this method, the date of the redemption will be compared with the earliest purchase date of shares held in the account. While it is not the general practice of Advisor to sell client's securities in a period that would generate a redemption fee, it should be anticipated that Advisor might do so if in its opinion the sale is in the client's best interests. Or fund shares must be redeemed to pay fees from the account. A complete explanation of these charges is contained in the prospectus and "Statement of Additional Information" for each investment company fund. You can get a prospectus from the investment company (through its website or by telephone or mail). Your financial professional or broker can also provide you with a copy.

In directing the use of a particular broker or dealer, it should be understood that the advisor will not have authority to negotiate commissions or obtain volume discounts, and best execution may not be achieved. The client may incur higher commissions, other transactions costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transaction for his or her account than would otherwise be the case had the client determined to effect transactions through alternative brokerage relationships generally available through the advisor.
Item 13 A	Additional Compensation Advisor may recommend that clients establish brokerage accounts with a specific custodian ("Custodian"), normally a registered broker-dealer, Member SIPC/FINRA, to maintain custody of clients' assets and to effect trades for their accounts. The Custodian provides Advisor with access to its institutional trading and operations services, which are typically not available to retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisors at no charge to them so long as the advisor maintains a minimum amount of account assets at the Custodian. The Custodian's services include research, brokerage, custody, access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. The Custodian also makes available to Advisor other products and services that benefit Advisor but may not benefit its clients' accounts. Some of these other products and services assist Advisor in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of Advisor' fees from its clients' accounts, and assist with back-office support, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or a substantial number of Advisor' accounts, including accounts not maintained at the Custodian.
