In order to qualify for licensure as a Certified Public Accountant (CPA), an individual must pass the Uniform Certified Public Accountant (CPA) Examination. CPAs are the only licensed accounting professionals. CPA licenses are issued by state boards of accountancy – there is no national CPA licensure process in the U.S. The purpose of the Uniform CPA Examination is to provide reasonable assurance to Boards of Accountancy (the state entities that have statutory authority to issue licenses) that those who pass the CPA Examination possess the level of technical knowledge and the skills necessary for initial licensure in protection of the public interest. In addition to the uniform examination, education and experience requirements may vary from state to state. Candidates for CPA licensure must meet all three requirements. As a result, passing the CPA Examination is not sufficient – in itself – to qualify for licensure. Most states/jurisdictions require at least a bachelor's degree and at least two years public accounting experience to be eligible to become a CPA.

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ (CFP®) designation is issued by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc after candidates pass the CFP Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances. Certified individuals are required to complete 30 hours of continuing education every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standard of Professional Conduct. Currently, as a prerequisite to sitting for the CFP Certification Examination, candidates must hold a bachelor's degree (or higher) from an accredited college or university and have at least 3 years of full time personal financial planning experience. In addition, candidates must complete a CFP-board registered program or hold one of the following: CPA, ChFC, CLU, CFA, Ph.D. in business or economics, Doctor of Business Administration, Attorney's License.
