In the stock or equity portion of the accounts Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. utilizes exchange-listed securities, securities traded over the counter and foreign securities. Additionally Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. will utilize warrants, exchange traded funds, master limited partnerships, real estate investment trusts and mutual funds as part of the equity approach. Stock options are also utilized in some accounts with the primary strategies utilized being selling covered call options to generate income and hedge portfolio risk and selling put options to generate income. As with all securities investing, Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s approach to equity investing involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

The fixed income portion of investment portfolios varies by the type of account and particular circumstances of the client. Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. utilizes a variety of fixed income instruments including United States government securities, corporate debt securities including convertible debt, municipal securities certificates of deposits and mutual funds including a variety of money market mutual funds. The factors that determine which instruments will be utilized include the type of account, taxable versus non-taxable, the effective tax rate of the client and the investment time frame. As with all investments, investing in fixed income securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. utilizes a fundamental approach in the management of investment portfolios. Securities valuation is an important factor in securities selection. For equities this includes reviewing price earnings ratios, book value and cash flow analysis to determine the potential for either capital gains, income or both when selecting specific securities. Fixed income analysis includes a review of the balance sheet, coverage ratios, and prospects for payment of interest and principal. Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. anticipates that, in appropriate circumstances, it will cause accounts over which Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. has management authority to effect, the purchase or sale of securities in which Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. its personnel or related parties, directly or indirectly, have a position of interest. Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s employees and persons associated with Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. are required to follow Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. Code of Ethics. Subject to satisfying this policy and applicable laws, officers and employees of Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. may trade for their own accounts in securities which are purchased for Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s clients. The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees of Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Because the Code of Ethics would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics, in order to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and clients accounts will receive securities at the same total average price.

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting John Lauroesch.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. does not maintain custody of your assets we manage, although we may be deemed to have custody of your assets if you give us authority to withdraw assets from your account. (see Item 15 –Custody) Your assets must be maintained in an account at a “qualified custodian,” generally a broker-dealer or bank. If clients have not chosen a broker-dealer or bank, we recommend that they use Charles Schwab & Co. Inc. (Schwab), a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, as the qualified custodian. We are independently owned and operated and are not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold the assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when we instruct them to. While we may recommend that you use Schwab as custodian broker, you will decide whether to do so and will open your account with Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with them. We do not open the account for you, although we may assist you in doing so. Even though your account is maintained at Schwab, we can still use other brokers to execute trades for your account. When consistent with best execution, Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. may place securities orders through other broker-dealers in recognition of valuable ideas, which may include research reports provided to us.

If you choose to use a custodian other than Schwab we will generally attempt to negotiate a more favorable commission rate for you than you would otherwise receive from the custodian.

We seek to recommend a custodian/broker who will hold your assets and execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including, among others items: whether there is a separate fee for custody, capability to execute and settle trades, breadth of available investment products, availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions, competitiveness of the price of services, financial strength and reputation and availability of products and services that benefit us.

For our clients’ accounts that Schwab maintains, Schwab does not charge you separately for custody services but is compensated by charging commissions or other fees on trades that it executes or that settle into your Schwab account.

Schwab Advisor Services is Schwab’s business serving independent advisory firms like us. They provide us and our clients with access to its institutional brokerage, trading, custody, reporting and related services, many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of these services help us manage or administer our clients’ accounts, while others help us manage our business. Schwab support services are generally available on an unsolicited basis and at no charge as long as our clients collectively maintain a total of at least $ 10 million in assets at Schwab

The availability of these services from Schwab benefits us because we do not have to produce or purchase them so long as our clients keep a total of at least $ 10 million of their assets in accounts at Schwab. The $ 10 million minimum may give us an incentive to recommend that you maintain your account with Schwab, based on our interest in receiving Schwab’s services that benefit our business rather than based on your interest in receiving the best value in custody services and the most favorable execution of your transactions. This is a potential conflict of interest. We believe, however, that our selection of Schwab as custodian and broker is in the best interests of our clients. Our selection is primarily supported by the scope, quality, and price of Schwab’s services and not Schwab’s services that benefit only us.

The primary objective in placing orders for the purchase and sale of securities for Client accounts is to obtain the most favorable net results taking into account such factors as 1) price, 2) size of order, 3) difficulty of execution. Sumner will execute its transactions through an unaffiliated broker-dealer selected by the client. Sumner will typically aggregate orders in a block trade or trades when securities are purchased or sold through the same broker-dealer for multiple accounts. If a block trade cannot be executed in full at the same price or time, the securities actually purchased or sold by the close of each business day will be allocated in a manner that is consistent with the initial pre-allocation. This must be done in a way that does not consistently advantage or disadvantage particular Client accounts.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Portfolio management accounts are reviewed by John G. Lauroesch, President. All accounts are reviewed at least monthly. More frequent reviews may occur as the result of certain business, financial, economic or political events.

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. provides written investment portfolio reports on a quarterly basis. Portfolio management clients also receive monthly or quarterly statements from the brokerage firm or trust company that custodies the client's account. Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc.'s quarterly reports include a statement of securities positions and market values.

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We receive an economic benefit from Schwab in the form of the support products and services it makes available to us and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab. These products and services, how they benefit us, and the related conflicts of interest are described in Item 12 – Brokerage Practices. The availability to us of Schwab’s products and services is not based on us giving particular investment advice, such as buying particular securities for our clients.

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. does not participate in any formal referral programs nor does it compensate any firms or individuals for providing client referrals.

Item 15 Custody

Under government regulations, we are deemed to have custody of your assets if you authorize us to instruct your brokerage firm or trust company to deduct our advisory fees directly from your account. Your brokerage firm or trust company maintains actual custody of your assets. You will receive account statements directly from your brokerage firm or trust company at least quarterly. They will be sent to the email or postal mailing address you provided. You should carefully review those statements promptly when you receive them. We also urge you to compare these statements to the portfolio reports you will receive from us.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. usually receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. As part of our investment management agreement, we include a limited power of attorney section which authorizes us to buy and sell securities on your behalf. Clients may list any restrictions they wish to place on their account such as securities or industries they do not want to invest in. In addition clients typically complete an account application with the brokerage firm or trust company which includes a section that gives Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. a limited power of attorney authorizing us to buy and sell securities on your behalf.

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. does not have authority to and does not vote proxies on behalf of advisory clients. Clients retain the responsibility for receiving and voting proxies for any and all securities maintained in client portfolios. Sumner Financial Advisors, Inc. may provide advice to clients regarding the clients' voting of proxies.
