Client assets must have a value of $200,000 or more in order to open a Fixed Income Ladders account.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

CPAI Co.. uses the following methods of analysis in formulating investment strategies and advice.

Fundamental Analysis - A method of evaluating financial assets by attempting to measure their intrinsic value by examining related economic, financial and other qualitative and quantitative factors.

Fundamental analysis attempts to study everything that can affect the value of financial assets, including macroeconomic factors (like the overall economy and industry conditions) and individually specific factors (like the financial condition and management of companies). The end goal of performing fundamental analysis is to produce a value that an investor can compare with the asset's current price in hopes of providing valuable information about the attractiveness of the asset as an investment (for example, underpriced = buy, overpriced = sell or short). Fundamental analysis relies on economic data (for example, cash flow, growth prospects, and profitability) to evaluate a security's intrinsic economic value. Although most analysts use fundamental analysis to value stocks, this method of analysis can be used for a wide variety of financial assets.

One risk associated with fundamental analysis is that it is somewhat subjective. While a quantitative approach is possible, fundamental analysis usually entails a qualitative assessment of how market forces interact with one another in their impact on the investment in question. In addition, even when fundamental analysis is correct about the pricing of an asset, financial markets often ignore fundamentals for long periods. For example, fundamental analysis may correctly conclude that a financial asset is priced far above its intrinsic economic value, and a decision is made to avoid investing in the asset. Even though the fundamental analysis may ultimately be proven correct, the market price of the investment asset may continue to increase in spite of the conclusion by fundamental analysis that the asset is mispriced, and such mispricing can persist for long periods of time. As long as the asset remains mispriced by the market, the decision to refrain from investing will appear incorrect, since investment gains could have been realized. Similarly, fundamental analysis may indicate that an asset is underpriced and is therefore an attractive investment. If the market does not behave in a manner which validates the fundamental analysis (i.e. price declines rather than increasing as indicated by the fundamental analysis), investments losses are likely to occur. In summary, it is not possible to know with any certainty how financial markets will evaluate and price the fundamentals of any financial asset.

Technical Analysis - A method of evaluating securities and financial markets by reviewing statistics and trends generated from market activity, such as past prices, trading volume and volatility. Our Firm uses technical analysis to provide additional information useful in understanding market conditions and risk. Technical analysis does not attempt to measure a security's intrinsic value, but instead uses charts, statistical analysis and other tools to identify patterns and trends that can suggest future activity. Technical analysis is based on the belief that trends in financial assets and markets can provide useful information about future movements and market risk.

Technical analysis is also subjective in that it relies on proper interpretation of price, trading volume and volatility data. While we believe our methods provide information useful in understanding financial market activity, the risk always exists that the conclusions we may draw from these methods will prove to be incorrect since the future is an unknown.

Investment Strategies

Our Investment Objective

1. Provide institutional quality fixed income and dollar currency management to individuals, as well as to institutional capital.
2. Manage in such a manner as to achieve well above average returns for our clients.

Our Investment Style

1. Interest Rate Anticipation. Based upon the economic fundamentals, we forecast future interest rates and make the appropriate investment moves based on that forecast. We also employ technical tools in order to enhance shorter-term returns. These fundamentals are designed to achieve higher returns.
2. In doing so, we adhere to the following principals:
 1. Never take excess credit risks (A-quality bonds or better when purchased)
 2. Accept market risk (volatility)
 3. Always manage for total return

Statement of Conviction

We believe interest rates can be reasonably projected by the proper interpretation of the correct economic model. Historical empirical evidence reveals that the highest-ranking model is Austrian. We have used this dynamic model for years, and it has worked exceedingly well. Of course, past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Risk of Loss

Clients must understand that past performance is not indicative of future results. Therefore, current and prospective clients (including you) should never assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable. Investing in securities (including stocks, public mutual funds, bonds, and private investment funds) involves risk of loss. Further, depending on the different types of investments there may be varying degrees of risk. Clients and prospective clients should be prepared to bear investment loss including loss of original principal.

Because of the inherent risk of loss associated with investing, our Firm is unable to represent, guarantee, or even imply that our services and methods of analysis can or will predict future results, successfully identify market tops or bottoms, or insulate you from losses due to market corrections or declines. There are certain additional risks associated when investing in securities through our investment management program.

- Equity (stock) market risk – Common stocks are susceptible to general stock market fluctuations and to volatile increases and decreases in value as market confidence in and perceptions of their issuers change. If you held common stock, or common stock equivalents, of any given issuer, you would generally be exposed to greater risk than if you held preferred stocks and debt obligations of the issuer.
- Company Risk. When investing in stock positions, there is always a certain level of company or industry specific risk that is inherent in each investment. This can be reduced through appropriate diversification. There is the risk that the company will perform poorly or have its value reduced based on factors specific to the company or its industry. For example, if a company's employees go on strike or the company receives unfavorable media attention for its actions, the value of the company may be reduced.
- Fixed Income Risk. When investing in bonds, there is the risk that issuers will default on the bond and be unable to make payments. Further, individuals who depend on set amounts of periodically paid income face the risk that inflation will erode their spending power. Fixed-income investors receive set, regular payments that face the same inflation risk. There is also interest rate risk associated with fixed income investments. The value of a fixed-income investment moves in the opposite direction of interest rates. Therefore, if interest rates rise, the value of fixed-income investments will decline and losses would be realized if the investment were sold.
- Options Risk. Options on securities may be subject to greater fluctuations in value than an investment in the underlying securities. Purchasing and writing put and call options are highly specialized activities and entail greater than ordinary investment risks.

- ETF and Mutual Fund Risk – When our firm invests in a an ETF or mutual fund, it will bear additional expenses based on its pro rata share of the ETFs or mutual fund’s operating expenses, including the potential duplication of management fees. The risk of owning an ETF or mutual fund generally reflects the risks of owning the underlying securities the ETF or mutual fund holds. Clients will also incur brokerage costs when purchasing ETFs.
- Management Risk – Your investment with our Firm varies with the success and failure of our investment strategies, research, analysis and determination of portfolio securities. If our investment strategies do not produce the expected returns, the value of the investment will decrease.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

This item is not applicable to our brochure because there are no legal or disciplinary events listed at Item 9 of the Form ADV Part 2 instructions that are material to a client’s or prospective client’s evaluation of our business or integrity.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

CPAI Co.. is an independent investment advisory firm and only provides investment advisory services. The Firm is not engaged in any other business activities and offers no services other than those described in this Disclosure Brochure. We do not have any arrangements whereby we recommend (or refer) clients to a third-party investment advisor.

CPAI Co.. is not and does not have a related company that is a (1) broker/dealer, municipal securities dealer, government securities dealer or broker, (2) investment company or other pooled investment vehicle (including a mutual fund, closed-end investment company, unit investment trust, private investment company or “hedge fund,” and offshore fund), (3) futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or commodity trading advisor, (4) banking or thrift institution, (5) accountant or accounting firm, (6) lawyer or law firm, (7) insurance company or agency, (8) pension consultant, (9) real estate broker or dealer, or (10) sponsor or syndicator of limited partnerships.

It is the express policy of CPAI Co.. that all persons associated in any manner with the firm must place the interests of our clients ahead of their own when implementing personal investments. CPAI Co.. and its associated persons shall not buy or sell securities for their personal account(s) where their decision is derived, in whole or in part, from information obtained as a result of his/her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public upon reasonable inquiry. In order to minimize this conflict of interest, securities recommended by CPAI Co.. are widely held and publicly traded. As stated in our Code of Ethics section above, we have implemented policies and procedures reasonably designed to monitor the personal trading activities of our personnel.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

Clients are under no obligation to act on the financial advisory recommendations of CPAI Co.. Clients wishing to implement the advice of the Firm are free to select any broker/dealer or investment advisor they wish and are so informed.

The primary factor in suggesting a broker/dealer is that the services of the broker/dealer are provided in a cost-effective manner. Best execution of client transactions is an obligation CPAI Co.. takes seriously and is a catalyst in the decision of suggesting a broker/dealer. While quality of execution at the best price is an important determinant, best execution does not necessarily mean lowest price and it is not the sole consideration. The trading process of any broker/dealer suggested by CPAI Co.. must be efficient, seamless, and straight-forward. Overall custodial support services, trade correction services, and statement preparation are some of the other factors considered when suggesting a broker/dealer. In order to avoid conflicts of interest in providing investment advice to clients, the Firm does not have any "soft dollar" arrangements with any third party. Soft dollar arrangements are those in which economic benefits are provided to an advisory firm (example computers, software, research, travel, seminars, etc.) in return for directing client securities transactions to the third party.

Please note that costs associated with using brokerage platforms we recommend may be higher than other brokerage platforms and therefore more expensive to you. We cannot guarantee you will receive the best execution possible through a broker/dealer we select.

Client Directed Brokerage Arrangements

While CPAI Co.. recommends broker/dealers, clients are free to select any broker/dealer of their own choosing. When a client directs the use of a particular broker/dealer or other custodian, CPAI Co.. may not be able to obtain the best prices and execution for the transaction. Clients who direct the use of a particular broker/dealer or custodian may receive less favorable prices than would otherwise be the case if clients had not designated a particular broker/dealer or custodian. Further, clients with directed brokerage arrangements will not be able to participate in aggregate trades (i.e. block trades) and directed trades may be placed by CPAI Co.. after effecting non-directed trades.

CPAI, Co.'s Programs

For clients that wish to have the associated persons of CPAI Co.. implement its advice through the Firm's programs, the Firm will recommend that clients establish brokerage accounts through the Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services platform ("FIWS"). Accounts will be held at National Financial Services, LLC (NFS) or Fidelity Brokerage Services, LLC (FBS). Both NFS and FBS are registered broker/dealers and serve as the client's qualified custodian.

While there is no direct linkage (except in certain circumstances) between the investment advice given to clients and CPAI Co..'s participation in the FIWS program, economic benefits are received by the Firm which would not be received if the Firm did not give investment advice to clients.

These benefits include: A dedicated trade desk that services FIWS participants exclusively, a dedicated service group and an account services manager dedicated to CPAI Co..'s accounts, access to a real-time order matching system, electronic download of trades, balances and position information, access, for a fee, to an electronic interface with FIWS's software, duplicate and batched client statements, confirmations and year-end summaries, the ability to have advisory fees directly debited from client accounts (in accordance with federal and state requirements) availability of third-party research and technology through "soft dollar" arrangements, a quarterly newsletter, access to Fidelity mutual funds, access to WealthCentral.AdvisorChannel.com (internet access to statements, confirmation and transfer of asset status), access to over 350 mutual fund families and 4500 mutual funds not affiliated with Fidelity, of which over 2,000 have no transaction fees.

The benefits received through participation in the FIWS program do not depend upon the amount of transactions directed to or amount of assets managed through Fidelity.

Handling of Trade Errors

CPAI Co.. has implemented procedures designed to prevent trade errors; however, trade errors in client accounts cannot always be avoided. Consistent with its fiduciary duty, it is the policy of CPAI Co.. to correct trade errors in a manner that is in the best interest of the client. In cases where the client causes the trade error, the client will be responsible for any loss resulting from the correction. Depending on the specific circumstances of the trade error, the client may not be able to receive any gains generated as a result of the error correction. In all situations where the client does not cause the trade error, the client will be made whole and any loss resulting from the trade error will be absorbed by CPAI Co.. if the error was caused by the firm. If the error is caused by the broker-dealer, the broker-dealer will be responsible for covering all trade error costs. If an investment gain results from the correcting trade, the gain will remain in the client's account unless the same error involved other client account(s) that should also receive the gains and it is not permissible for all clients to retain the gain. CPAI Co.. may also confer with clients to determine if the client should forego the gain (e.g., due to tax reasons). CPAI Co.. will never benefit or profit from trade errors.

Block Trading Policy

Clients of CPAI Co. choose certain programs to invest in. Within these investment programs, whenever trades are executed, the whole program trades. The amounts of assets traded will vary; however, trades are executed for the clients within the programs as a whole.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Account Reviews and Reviewers

Account reviews are provided in connection with Portfolio Management Services upon request of the client. CPAI Co. is responsible for day to day reallocation and ongoing trading services for accounts in which the Firm is considered the manager and has been granted trading authorization.

CPAI Co. shall periodically contact the client to determine if updates or additional financial planning services are needed. However, clients are expected to inform the Firm of any changes in the client's situation or when additional services and updates are needed.

Don Peters and Polly Peters provide investment management, client service, and administration services for CPAI Co.'s programs. Bobby Joe Cox, Tom Halvorson and Brett Conley assist as necessary with CPAI Co.'s programs, but Don and Polly have primary responsibility for managing accounts through that program.

Statements and Reports

Clients will receive statements, at least quarterly, from the qualified custodian at which their accounts are maintained. In addition, clients may elect to receive quarterly or on-demand position and performance reports from CPAI Co... Such reports are written and there is no additional fee for this service.

From time to time, we will provide newsletters or other general communication which are always free of charge to all clients. In addition, any newsletters are available to the general public through CPAI Co.'s website. Newsletters, if published, cover general financial topics. Newsletters may discuss specific investments or market trends, but are impersonal in nature.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Client Referrals

CPAI, Co. does not make or receive client referrals.

Other Compensation

CPAI, Co. does not receive any other compensation.

Item 15 – Custody

Custody, as it applies to investment advisors, has been defined by regulators as having access or control over client funds and/or securities. In other words, custody is not limited to physically holding client funds and securities. If an investment advisor has the ability to access or control client funds or securities, the investment advisor is deemed to have custody and must ensure proper procedures are implemented. CPAI Co. is deemed to have custody of client funds and securities whenever CPAI Co.. is given the authority to have fees deducted directly from client accounts. However, this is the only form of custody CPAI Co. will ever maintain. It should be noted that authorization to trade in client accounts is not deemed by regulators to be custody.

For accounts in which CPAI Co. is deemed to have custody, the firm has established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian in a separate account for each client under that client's name. Clients or an independent representative of the client will direct, in writing, the establishment of all accounts and therefore are aware of the qualified custodian's name, address and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained. Finally, account statements are delivered directly from the qualified custodian to each client, or the client's independent representative, at least quarterly. Clients should carefully review those statements and are urged to compare the statements against reports received from CPAI Co. When clients have questions about their account statements, they should contact CPAI Co. or the qualified custodian preparing the statement.

When fees are deducted from an account, CPAI Co.. is responsible for calculating the fee and delivering instructions to the custodian. At the same time CPAI Co.. instructs the custodian to deduct fees from the client's account, CPAI Co.. will send the client an invoice itemizing the fee. Itemization shall include the formula used to calculate the fee, the amount of assets under management the fee is based on, and the time period covered by the fee.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

Through its asset management services and upon receiving written authorization from a client, CPAI Co.. will maintain trading authorization over client accounts. Upon receiving written authorization from the client in our agreement for services, CPAI Co.. may implement trades on a discretionary basis. When discretionary authority is granted, CPAI Co.. will have the authority to determine the type of securities and the amount of securities that can be bought or sold for the client's portfolio without obtaining the client's consent for each transaction.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

CPAI Co.. will not vote proxies on behalf of your account. While there are some investment advisors that will vote proxies and other corporate decisions on behalf of their clients, we have determined that taking on the responsibility for voting client securities does not add enough value to the services provided to clients to justify the additional compliance and regulatory costs associated with voting client securities. Therefore, it is your responsibility to vote all proxies for securities held in accounts managed by our firm. Clients will receive proxies directly from their custodian or transfer agent and such documents will not be delivered by our firm. Although we do not vote client proxies, if you have a question about a particular proxy feel free to contact us.

Item 18 – Financial Information

This item is not applicable to this brochure. CPAI Co.. does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client, six months or more in advance. Therefore, we are not required to include a balance sheet for our most recent fiscal year. We are not subject to a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. Finally, CPAI Co.. has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time.
