Advisory Business

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 4

AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc.'s registration was granted by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on April 10, 1997. John Harvie Roe (CRD Number 1224388) is President and Chief Compliance Officer of the firm. The AmeriTrust Holding Company (EIN 73-1547017) owns one hundred (100%) percent of the equity of the firm. The firm is not publicly owned or traded. As of December 31, 2011, the firm managed, on a discretionary basis, $64,346,707 which represented 430 accounts. Client assets are managed on an individualized basis.

Approximately 75% of the services rendered are investment supervisory services and 25% are financial planning services. Fees for these services may be based on: 1) a percentage of assets under management; 2) hourly charges; or 3) fixed fees. See "Fees and Compensation" for details of the fees.

Financial Planning Services

Firm is a Fee-Only financial planner, defined by the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA) as one who, in all circumstances, is compensated solely by the client, with neither the advisor nor any related party receiving compensation that is contingent on the purchase or sale of a financial product. As a NAPFA member, Firm may not receive commissions, rebates, awards, finder's fees, bonuses or any form of compensation from others as a result of a client's implementation of the Firm's planning recommendations.

A written financial plan is a special report or analysis, including recommendations on cash flow, insurance, and estate planning. Firm may recommend to client that particular securities be purchased or sold depending upon the needs of each client.

Depending on the engagement selected by a client, investment advice may be furnished in a manner we have not described above, although we cannot determine what form it might take at this time.

Investment Advisory Services

Firm also provides asset management services on a discretionary basis.

Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities by including these restrictions in the Investment Guidelines which are signed by the client, or by submitting to the Firm a written instruction regarding the restrictions.

Firm will serve as investment consultant to plan sponsors for fees based upon time required. Fees for such services are negotiable and payable after service is performed.

This Firm does not participate in wrap fee programs.

The Equity and Fixed Income investment philosophy of AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc., as well as a description of the Asset Allocation Process, is incorporated into a handout which is provided to all investment management prospects.

Fees and Compensation

Fee Schedule

Special definitions shall apply to the following terms wherever they appear in this fee schedule. On occasion, there are circumstances that will cause modification of the fee schedule.

Minimum Initial Plan Fee	$4,000

Initial Plan fees include ten (10) hours of implementation time following the report presentation to the client within the first year. 25% of the fees are due when worksheets are sent to client after the initial engagement; 50% is to be paid following the report presentation; and the balance is due within sixty (60) days after the report presentation.

ANNUAL UPDATE AND REVIEW FEES

.25% of Total Net Worth

Minimum Annual Update Fee $3,000

Annual update and review fees are to be paid quarterly in March, June, September, and December. Prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client and six or more months in advance is not required; however, some clients choose to prepay fees based on the above calculations, which is unsolicited.

Investment Advisory Services Utilizing Management with Mutual Funds

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 8

METHODS OF ANALYSIS

Asset Management Services: Several contracted services and information sources are used to implement our disciplines in selecting securities for purchase. Our primary emphasis is focused on the individual company or entity using a fundamental analysis. This involves determining a company's ability to profitably compete in its industry. Analyzing historical performance and revenue growth, expense controls, and the leverage of the company provides insight as to the company's ability to repeat a positive performance in the future. Although it is impossible to anticipate every scenario that could affect future performance, decisions of management and consistent results provide some level of comfort for the shareholder. The fundamental analysis looks at the size, continuity of management, historical and pro-forma financial information, and advantages that might exist to maintain or grow market share. Technical analysis of the industry and market outlook is used to determine if the market is overpriced. An overpriced market could result in a correction to the market.

When analyzing mutual funds, the type of fund, management continuity, historical performance, consistency, and the ability of the manager to remain committed to the investment style are all considered. A database of over 11,000 funds is used to screen funds for purchase.

Similar information is reviewed for bonds to determine the ability of the company or government entity to repay the debt obligation. This is done by using independent services which grade bonds, allowing for specific disciplines to be applied. In analyzing municipal securities, the ability of the issuing entity along with the respective state's financial status is considered before buying a bond. General interest rate trends are followed to determine the average maturity to be applied to the portfolio.

Financial Planning Services: The Firm is not generally involved in the selection, recommendation or analysis of individual securities for financial planning clients. The Firm as a financial planner advises as to securities on a broad basis for asset allocation purposes. For example, the Firm's investment advice generally takes the form of recommendations into a prudent diversification of investment assets, especially when there is a heavy concentration in specific securities.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

Asset Management Services: Various types of risk exist in all investments. Risk in the market, interest rates, company performance, and unexpected events, such as wars or natural disasters, can affect the performance of an individual security. The ability of a company or government to overcome risks depends on factors such as size, leverage, income generation, and competition determines both the short-term and long-term performance of a security. Below is a summary of the risks associated with the specific types of securities used in the portfolios we manage:

Common stocks: Since common stocks represent an ownership position in a company, risks associated with the decisions of the company management will affect the price of the shares. Decisions that result in net losses will determine both the short-term and long-term performance. Product liability, competition, illegal activities, and risks associated with suppliers and stability of markets where a company generates income can determine the overall performance.

Bonds: Bonds represent the lending of money to a government or a company for a fixed period of time at a predetermined interest rate. This could take the form of a short-term debt such as a certificate of deposit or a long-term debt such as a 30-year loan to governments or companies. The ability of the entity to repay the debt is a significant risk – the longer the maturity, the more uncertainty of the ability for repayment. As the ability of the issuing entity to repay debt improves, the cost of borrowing usually declines because it is perceived the repayment is stable. General interest rates can increase or decline as decisions are made by government entities. When this occurs, the value of the bonds before maturity can fluctuate due to the demand by lenders.

Mutual Funds: Depending on the underlying investments owned in the mutual fund, the same risks identified for stocks and bonds apply. Other risks may take the form of industry or country concentrations and the demands associated with the additions and distributions from the investors.

Other types of investments, including oil and gas production and real estate, have risks associated with location and supply and demand. Our investment management does not include purchasing these types of investments for clients, but many clients may already own such assets. We may advise regarding the concentration and identified risks that this type of asset represents in a client's overall allocation.

Our focus is on identifying the risks associated with each type of security and managing that risk using the size and quality of the entity and historical performance. A larger company usually has the ability to manage and survive negative events better than a small company. If the company has lower debt, increasing revenues, and good expense management, then its ability to generate net income and compete is more reliable. Diversification among companies in various sectors also assists in spreading risk and minimizing the exposure to an industry event that may cause problems for all companies in that industry. Regardless of the commitment to managing perceived or known risks, it is still possible to have risks occur that can affect the performance of a security. It is important to monitor the companies and react when necessary to minimize the effects of unexpected risks when identified.

Financial Planning Services: Investment strategies will be developed on a custom basis for individuals by preparing and analyzing a client's financial plan composed of tax planning, investment analysis, estate planning, risk management, retirement, and cash flow requirements. From this information, a plan will be developed which may include both short-term and long-term investments in order to obtain a diversified portfolio. The basic goal will be for long-term capital accumulation. This would include diversification of investments, both fixed and variable, and possibly the analysis of insurance products.

Disciplinary Information

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 9

There have been no legal or disciplinary events for this Firm.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 10

Firm is an affiliate of AmeriTrust Corporation, an Oklahoma trust company, which is owned by the same holding company (The AmeriTrust Holding Company). Traditional trust administration and estate settlement services are provided to mutual clients by this separately incorporated company.

Bancshares of Jackson Hole, a bank holding company based in Jackson, Wyoming, owns 70% of The AmeriTrust Holding Company and also owns the Bank of Jackson Hole; however, there is no relationship or arrangement between that bank and Firm. Robert Biolchini, a director of The AmeriTrust Holding Company and its subsidiaries, is the controlling stockholder of Bancshares of Jackson Hole.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 11

AIA requires all employees to sign a Code of Ethics which includes commitment to placing the interest of clients above all else, acting in good faith with prudence and diligence, taking all reasonable measures to protect confidentiality, and compliance with applicable governmental laws and regulations. A copy of the Code of Ethics is available to clients and prospective clients, upon request.

Related persons may buy or sell for themselves securities that are purchased in discretionary portfolios. The code requires that employees trading a security in personal accounts do so only after trading of that same security has been completed in client accounts, subject to certain exceptions. The exceptions include, without limitation, trading in U.S. government obligations, short-term debt securities, and exchange-traded and other open end funds. All AIA employees are required to disclose their personal securities holdings on an annual basis, and securities transactions on a quarterly basis to the President of AIA.

AIA may periodically supplement or revise its Code in its discretion.

Brokerage Practices

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 12

Financial Planning Services. No arrangements to recommend brokers exist.

Investment Advisory Services. AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc. assists the client in determining investment goals and structures investment portfolios designed to achieve those goals. The amount and types of securities to be purchased or sold and the selection of brokers and determinations of transaction costs paid are often decisions made without specific client consent. AIA seeks to allocate investment opportunities and securities to clients as fairly and equitably as possible in the particular circumstances of each trade.

Consistent with fiduciary obligations, AIA seeks best execution in all transactions. AIA defines best execution as the best price for a specific trade in light of all relevant circumstances. AIA employees are expected to be mindful of their responsibility to seek best execution for our clients as part of their daily business activities, and are encouraged to suggest any recommendations to firm management which may improve upon the best execution process. The Investment Committee will formally review trading and brokerage practices no less frequently than annually. A primary reason for this review is to improve upon AIA's best execution process.

AIA may select various entities for their ability to deliver quality execution and recordkeeping services, among other items. Firm may direct trades of a specific client through a particular broker when the broker has referred the client to Firm.

When possible, discounts on transaction costs are pursued. The negotiated transaction cost per trade remains the same, regardless of the size of the trade. It is not affected by whether or not the securities' purchases and trades are aggregated.

Brokerage-house research is occasionally used to supplement our own basic research. Slightly higher transaction costs could be paid on occasion for research support. The majority of these services are databases of financial information that are used by the portfolio managers in the investment decision-making process which AIA believes will add value to the client portfolios. Clients directing their brokerage may pay higher transaction costs than otherwise attainable by non-directed brokerage.

When soft-dollar arrangements are established with brokers, the following support services would normally be included:

Investment research materials:

Hopkins Investment Services (a set of interest rate, stock market and economic indicator information); Econoclast (information on stock market sectors, industry groups and economic trends)

Database information:

Ford Investors Services (fundamental and technical information for about 4,400 stocks); Morningstar Principia (fundamental and technical information for about 10,000 stocks and 26,000 mutual funds); Market Dynamics (tracks relative strength of price trends for 4,500 stocks and 238 industry groups compared to the S&P 500 Index)

Resolution of Trade Errors

It is AIA's policy to ensure clients are made whole following a trade error. Specifically, should it be determined that AIA caused a trade error to occur in a client account that results in a loss, the client's account will be reimbursed. If an investment gain results from the correcting trade, the gain will remain in your account, unless the same error involved other client account(s) that should have received the gain, or it is not permissible for you to retain the gain, or we confer with you and you decide to forego the gain (e.g., due to tax reasons). If the gain does not remain in your account and Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") is the custodian, Schwab will donate the amount of any gain $100 and over to charity. Generally, if related trade errors result in both gains and losses in your account, they may be netted.

Review of Accounts

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 13

Financial Planning Services. This Firm also provides broad-based financial planning services for its clients. The relationship with a client typically begins with an engagement for a written financial plan. After delivery of the plan, the client at his option may engage the subsequent services of the Firm to implement, review, and update the written financial plan at any interval the client selects. A particular case may be done as frequently as quarterly or monthly if the client desires, but not less frequently than annually. The review will be done by John Harvie Roe, President or Laurie Saint, Assistant Vice President. It will encompass a review of all factors included in the original plan and factors identified during implementation, including changes in the client's circumstances and goals, and factors added by changes in laws related to financial services provided.

Investment Advisory Services. Accounts will be reviewed with the frequency required by the account or market considerations. All accounts are reviewed at least annually by the Investment Committee. The Investment Committee is comprised of John Harvie Roe, President; Gary Pierce, Vice President; Lincoln J. Anderson, Asst. Vice President. Mr. Pierce and Mr. Anderson are responsible for preparing data on existing securities being managed and new securities being considered in the portfolios. The number of accounts assigned to each officer primarily depends upon the size and nature of the investments.

The account review process generally consists of the following steps and considerations:

- 1) Through discussions between the client and an officer, the investment objective is established for each client relationship. The typical investment objective is to produce investment performance that exceeds that of a specified market benchmark.
- 2) The investment team monitors each client investment to ensure that the investment is appropriate for the client's account.
- 3) If an investment is no longer appropriate, the portfolio manager assigned to the client relationship initiates the trading procedure which replaces that asset with a more suitable investment.
- 4) Continued monitoring of the client's portfolio is performed to ascertain whether the client's objectives are being met.
- 5) An officer assigned to the client relationship will meet with the client to evaluate whether the stated investment objective is being met and to discuss any factors which impact the achievement of the investment objective.
- 6) All accounts are subject to periodic reviews under provisions of the firm's compliance program developed in accordance with the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

Financial Planning Services. The client may engage the Firm for review and updating of the original plan. This review and update will be supplied at intervals chosen by the client and will constitute the report regularly provided to clients. This report may or may not contain investment advice depending upon the assets of the particular client and the investment needs of the client.

Investment Advisory Services. Reports are sent to account holders at least annually. Most reports, however, are sent monthly with some sent quarterly. The report reviews, market value, cash position, transactions for the time period and asset allocation.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 14

Investment Advisory Services.

AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc. ("AIA") receives client referrals from Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") through AIA's participation in Schwab Advisors Network ("the Service"). The Service is designed to help investors find an independent investment advisor. Schwab is a broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with AIA. Schwab does not supervise AIA and has no responsibility for AIA's management of clients' portfolios or AIA's other advice or services. AIA pays Schwab fees to receive client referrals through the Service. AIA's participation in the Service may raise potential conflicts of interest described below.

AIA pays Schwab a Participation Fee on all referred clients' accounts that are maintained in custody at Schwab and a Non-Schwab Custody Fee on all accounts that are maintained at, or transferred to, another custodian. The Participation Fee paid by AIA is a percentage of the value of the assets in the client's account. AIA pays Schwab the Participation Fee for so long as the referred client's account remains in custody at Schwab. The Participation Fee is billed to AIA quarterly and may be increased, decreased or waived by Schwab from time to time. The Participation Fee is paid by AIA and not by the client. AIA has agreed not to charge clients referred through the Service fees or costs greater than the fees or costs AIA charges clients with similar portfolios who were not referred through the Service.

AIA generally pays Schwab a Non-Schwab Custody Fee if custody of a referred client's account is not maintained by, or assets in the account are transferred from, Schwab. This fee does not apply if the client was solely responsible for the decision not to maintain custody at Schwab. The Non-Schwab Custody Fee is a one-time payment equal to a percentage of the assets placed with a custodian other than Schwab. The Non-Schwab Custody Fee is higher than the Participation Fees AIA generally would pay in a single year. Thus, AIA will have an incentive to recommend that client accounts be held in custody at Schwab.

The Participation and Non-Schwab Fees will be based on assets in accounts of AIA's clients who were referred by Schwab and those referred clients' family members living in the same household. Thus, AIA will have incentives to encourage household members of clients referred through the Service to maintain custody of their accounts and execute transactions at Schwab and to instruct Schwab to debit AIA's fees directly from the accounts.

For accounts of AIA's clients maintained in custody at Schwab, Schwab will not charge the client separately for custody but will receive compensation from AIA's clients in the form of commissions or other transaction-related compensation on securities trades executed through Schwab. Schwab also will receive a fee (generally lower than the applicable commission on trades it executes) for clearance and settlement of trades executed through broker-dealers other than Schwab. Schwab's fees for trades executed at other broker-dealers are in addition to the other broker-dealers' fees. Thus, AIA may have an incentive to cause trades to be executed through Schwab rather than another broker-dealer. AIA, nevertheless, acknowledges its duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts. Trades for client accounts held in custody at Schwab may be executed through a different broker-dealer than trades for AIA's other clients. Thus, trades for accounts custodied at Schwab may be executed at different times and different prices than trades for other accounts that are executed at other broker-dealers.

Firm may direct trades of a specific client through a particular broker when the broker has referred the client to Firm.

Firm has an arrangement with selected banks to compensate employees of those banks for referrals to AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc. In addition, associates of AmeriTrust Investment Advisors, Inc. and AmeriTrust Corporation, an affiliate company, may receive incentive compensation for new accounts opened by new or existing clients. No additional charges accrue to the client as a result of these incentive arrangements.

Arrangements with non-affiliated entities may be entered into to pay a solicitor fee for referrals of new clients. These payments do not result in additional charges to the client.

Custody

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 15

None.

Investment Discretion

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 16

Financial Planning Services. As a financial planner, Firm does not make any determination regarding securities on behalf of client.

Investment Advisory Services. AIA typically has the authority to determine the securities and the amount of securities to be bought or sold for its clients without obtaining specific client consent. AIA's discretionary authority regarding investments may be subject to certain limitations (e.g., restrictions or prohibitions placed by the client on transactions in certain types of securities or industries). Any such limitations are to be agreed upon in advance, in writing, with each client.

The process for accepting discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients includes meeting with the client to determine the level of service desired and then entering into an Agency Agreement that allows the Firm limited discretionary authority. Any exceptions to the authority requested by the client will be outlined either in the Agency Agreement or in the Investment Guidelines signed by the client and the Firm.

Voting Client Securities

Form ADV Part 2A, Item 17

Proxy Voting and Corporate Actions

Unless otherwise agreed by AIA and a client, AIA will typically vote proxies for voting securities held in client accounts. Proxies will be voted in the best interest of AIA's clients in accordance with AIA's then-current Proxy Voting Policy ("the Policy"). The decision of how to vote follows the same criteria AIA uses in managing client accounts - to vote for proposals in such a manner that, in AIA's opinion, will increase shareholder value. AIA will generally support management's recommendation on proxy issues, since management's ability is a key factor AIA considers in selecting equity securities for client portfolios. However, when AIA believes the company's management is acting in a manner inconsistent with our clients' best interest, AIA will vote against management's recommendations.

AIA may encounter a material conflict in voting client proxies. AIA has a duty to recognize a material conflict and to resolve the conflict before voting the proxy.

Should client want to direct proxy voting other than outlined above, Firm would request written direction from the client.

AIA will have no power, authority, responsibility, or obligation to take action with regard to any claim or potential claim in any bankruptcy proceeding class actions securities litigation or other litigation or proceeding relating to securities held at any time in a client account, including, without limitation, to file proofs of claim or other documents related to such proceeding, or to investigate, initiate, supervise or monitor class action or other litigation involving client assets.

AIA's policy is available, upon written request in hard copy form.

*The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER and CFP® marks are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. ("CFP Board").

The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CRP® certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients. Currently, more than 62,000 individuals have obtained CRP certification in the United States.

To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP® Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board's financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances;
- Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP® Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks:

- Continuing Education – Complete 30 hours of continuing education every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning fields; and
- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP® Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification.
