Advisory Business

Diveley Lind & Associates, LLC (DLA), is an independent investment management and financial planning firm established in May 1997. The firm is owned and operated by Lynn M. Diveley, CFP, and Carl G. Lind, CFP.

DISCRETIONARY INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT SERVICES

We offer investment management services primarily to individuals, but also to trusts, estates, non-profit organizations, and business entities. We evaluate the financial circumstances of each prospective client and assist them in identifying their investment objectives. We determine the risk tolerance for each client, including factors such as age, income, cash flow needs, investment goals, and volatility tolerance. Managed portfolios typically include a combination of mutual funds, exchange traded funds, individual stocks and bonds, and a money market fund component. The client always maintains asset control. Clients may impose restrictions on investing, or not investing, in certain securities or types of securities.

As of June 30, 2012, we managed $65,205,651.89 in assets, and had an additional $4,853,688.00 in non-discretionary assets. Discretionary accounts totaled 232, and there were 2 non-discretionary accounts.

FINANCIAL PLANNING SERVICES

We offer financial planning services, assisting clients with setting goals, gathering information, analyzing that information, reviewing findings, making recommendations, and in some cases implementing the approved plan. Typically limited duration consultations are a part of these services.

PROFESSIONAL STAFF

Professionals employed by DLA will have a professional certification in the field of financial planning or investment management (typically Certified Financial Planner – CFP – or Chartered Financial Analyst – CFA), or be actively working on such certification. Professionals will have a minimum of 10 years industry experience, or a combination of 10 years industry experience and college education in a related discipline.

Lynn Meyer Diveley is a Principal of DLA. She was born in 1958, and attended Illinois Central College in Peoria, IL. She received her Certified Financial Planner (CFP) designation in 1988 through the College for Financial Planning in Denver, CO. Her business background for the past fourteen years has been as a founding principal of DLA. She is a NAPFA (National Association of Personal Financial Advisors) Registered Financial Advisor. Mrs. Diveley currently has over 34 years work experience in financial services.

Carl Garrett Lind is a Principal of DLA. He was born in 1952, and graduated from Virginia Tech in 1974 with a B.A. in History. He received his Certified Financial Planner (CFP) designation in 1990 through the College for Financial Planning in Denver, CO. His business background for the past fourteen years has been as a founding principal of DLA. He is an Affiliate Member of NAPFA (National Association of Personal Financial Advisors). Mr. Lind serves as Compliance Officer for DLA. He currently has over 34 years of work experience in financial services.

Holly Marie Ruff is a Portfolio Manager at DLA. She was born in 1977, and is a graduate of the University of Virginia with a B.A. in Mathematics (concentration in Financial Math) and a B.A. in Economics. She holds the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) designation. Mrs. Ruff began working at DLA in 2005, and prior to that was employed by Saxon Capital, Inc. and E*Trade Global Asset Management.

Fees and Compensation

DLA is a fee-only financial planning and investment management firm. We are compensated solely from fees paid by our clients and we do not accept commissions or compensation from other sources. Clients should be aware that DLA may recommend and utilize certain investments in clients' portfolios such as mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETFs) which have embedded management fees and transaction fees at the fund level. These fees are further described in the prospectuses for the mutual funds and ETFs. DLA does not receive any portion of or any benefit from these fees.

DISCRETIONARY INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Annual Management Fees:

1% on the first $500,000 of market value

.75% on the next $500,000 of market value

.50% on the balance

Minimum Annual Fee $2,500 per year

All management fees will be deducted from clients' accounts on a monthly basis in arrears (that is, at the end of the period in which the management services were provided), based on the market value of assets under management at the end of each month. Either the client or DLA may terminate investment management agreements with written notice; prorated fees will be charged through termination date.

Financial Planning/Implementation Services:

Financial Planning Fees: $1,000 minimum due upon completion of the plan.

(The fee will be determined at the onset and put in writing for acceptance by the client prior to providing services. Fees are estimated based on the complexity of issues to be addressed and estimates of the time needed to complete the desired plan. A time-consuming, complex plan could cost as much as $2,000)

Implementation Fees:

For clients who would like to receive the planning service and help implementing the plan but not receive ongoing Investment Management, the advisory fee is waived and a cost of 1% of the market value is charged, ½ due at the onset of the plan and the balance once the plan is completed (subject to an $1,000 minimum).

Other Fees Paid By Clients:

Charges by the brokerage firm (typically Charles Schwab & Co.) will be paid by the clients, and deducted from their brokerage accounts. These fees include transaction charges for buying and selling securities and some mutual funds. Clients also pay management fees at the mutual fund and collective fund level which are not billed separately but deducted from the mutual funds and collective funds in which the client is invested.

Negotiability of Fees:

All fees may be negotiated if circumstances exist, in the opinion of the principals, which warrant reduced fees.

Performance Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

We are not compensated by, and do not receive, any performance based fees. We do not engage in side-by-side management. Both these structures can create potential conflicts of interest.

Types of Clients

As of June 30, 2012, clients of DLA included individuals, trusts, retirement plans, and non-profit organizations. We have a minimum relationship size of $250,000 in order to manage an account, although exceptions may be negotiated.

DLA recommends clients establish accounts with Schwab Institutional, a division of Charles Schwab & Co, Inc., that serves investment managers.

DLA will accept only a limited number of clients on a management basis (currently a maximum of 100 relationships) to assure our clients of the highest level of service.

Clients may also be authorized to have on-line access to their accounts and information as provided by the custodian of the assets.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The management of investments involves the risk of loss. We believe that investment risk is modified and reduced by long term participation in the market as opposed to market timing. We only undertake long-term investment management, with long-term defined as five years or more. While DLA uses best efforts to manage risk within client portfolios, you should be aware that your investments may increase or decrease in value. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

DLA investment management begins with a thorough understanding of client expectations and their financial and lifestyle objectives. The investments used in a particular investment portfolio will be tailored to individual needs, with emphasis on providing the financial security and returns necessary to meet stated objectives. Of particular importance in determining this strategy will be tolerance of risk, time horizon, income needs, other assets, and any tax factors that may apply.

Most clients are best served by a balanced investment portfolio including equities (stocks), fixed income assets (bonds), and cash equivalents (money market funds). The percentage of the portfolio in each type of asset is adjusted periodically to keep the overall allocation in tune with your objectives. We do not believe in, nor practice, excessive portfolio turnover relative to the costs of executing the trades (frequent trading can affect investment performance negatively through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes). We are conscious of the tax implications of trades and focus on achieving after-tax returns that meet the clients' investment objectives.

DLA manages risk at the portfolio level; individual investments held in a portfolio may exhibit greater risk characteristics than the portfolio as a whole. DLA manages portfolio risk by periodically rebalancing individual investments and asset classes within client portfolios.

The main sources of information used by DLA are proprietary and non-proprietary research reports, financial newspapers, magazines, and newsletters, corporate and government press releases, annual reports, prospectuses and SEC filings, and corporate rating services. We subscribe to various Morningstar databases that allow us to sort individual securities by various characteristics we believe to indicate future growth prospects.

Methods of analysis used by DLA and fund managers includes fundamental analysis, technical analysis, and cyclical analysis. Fundamental analysis involves evaluating a stock using real data such as company revenues, earnings, return on equity, and profit margin to determine underlying value and potential growth. Technical analysis involves evaluating securities based on past prices and volume. Cyclical analysis involved analyzing the cycles of the market.

Fundamental analysis may involve interest rate risk, market risk, business risk, and financial risk. Technical analysis may involve inflation risk, reinvestment risk, and market risk. Cyclical analysis may involve inflation risk, market risk, and currency risk. In general, investing in securities, and funds of securities, has inherent risks, which are borne by the investor.

Clients may change their investment objectives at any time by notifying the financial advisor. This, in turn, may result in a change in investment strategy after consultation with the client.

Disciplinary Information

The Advisor and its employees have not had any legal or disciplinary events for the past ten years, or longer for events considered more serious, that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of its advisory business or the integrity of its management personnel.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither the Advisor nor its employees are registered, or have an application pending to register, as a broker-dealer or a registered representative of a broker-dealer.

Neither the Advisor nor its employees are registered, or have an application pending to register, as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, a commodity trading advisor, or an associated person of the foregoing entities.

Neither the Advisor nor its employees have any relationship or arrangement that is material to our business or our clients that would present a possible conflict of interest.

The Advisor does not recommend or select other investment advisors for our clients.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

The Advisor (DLA) and its employees have committed to a Code of Ethics that is available for review by clients and prospective clients upon request. DLA will provide a copy of the Code of Ethics to any client or prospective clients upon request.

DLA and its employees may from time to time follow for their own accounts the advice given to clients about specific securities. Potential investments of this nature would be expected since we should be willing to personally practice our own investment advice, after taking into account investment goals, tolerance for risk, existing positions, cash needs, and income tax consequences of such transactions. Client accounts will be given preference in the timing of order entry; trading ahead of clients for advantage is not permitted. There may be occasions, however when orders are not executed by the broker/s in the order received, or when standing limit orders to buy and sell, based on cash needs, existing capital gain and loss circumstances, and existing positions in a security, cause earlier transactions in an employee account.

Brokerage Practices

The Advisor (DLA) desires to only manage and trade in accounts established at Schwab Institutional, a division of Charles Schwab & Co. Schwab Institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions at reduced rates, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which we might otherwise not have access to or that would require higher minimum investments by our clients.

Schwab makes available to DLA products and services that benefit DLA but may not directly benefit its clients' accounts. Some of these products and services assist us in managing and administering client accounts. These include software and other technology that provides access to client account data, facilitates trade execution, provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of fees due DLA from client accounts, and assist with back-office support, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

The Advisor (DLA) reviews the execution of trades each month, and the trading fees charged. DLA does not receive any portion of any trading fees.

The Advisor (DLA) receives access to research and commentaries from Schwab Institutional and Charles Schwab & Co., as well as from numerous mutual fund companies. Investment decisions are made based upon the perceived best interests of the particular client.

Not all advisors require their management clients to trade through a directed broker. It is possible, and even likely, that less expensive alternatives exist, so using Schwab may cost clients more money in certain situations. It is our opinion that Schwab provides the best overall brokerage experience for our clients

We do not typically aggregate purchase or sale orders of securities for various clients accounts. The transaction costs charged by Schwab are not impacted by this practice; they are the same with individual orders as they are for aggregate orders.

Review of Accounts

Client accounts are reviewed on both an ongoing and periodic basis by the principals of the firm, Carl G. Lind and Lynn M. Diveley, who are jointly responsible for both the overall investment policy and the management of all client accounts. The investments are monitored to ensure positioning and appropriateness for the investment objectives and risk tolerance as agreed upon with the client. Investments will be personally reviewed with each management client at a mutually agreed upon schedule, usually quarterly but at least annually.

Clients will receive monthly statements directly from the custodian brokerage firm (Charles Schwab & Co.). In addition, Advisor (DLA) will provide written statements to management clients on at least a quarterly basis which show the current asset allocation, current value of all securities, cost basis for all securities (if known), securities transactions for the period, and total portfolio value. Clients are urged to compare DLA account statements with those received directly from the custodian.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

DLA does not receive from, nor pay to, any third parties any cash referral fees or other economic benefits. However, during the course of providing financial services, DLA may refer clients to outside professional advisors. Under appropriate circumstances, the outside professional advisors to whom DLA may refer clients may refer clients to DLA for services. Under no circumstances will referrals be given or received by DLA on a quid pro quo basis.

Custody

DLA recommends clients establish accounts with the Schwab Institutional division of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab), a registered broker-dealer. Schwab provides DLA with access to its institutional trading and operations services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. These services are generally available to independent investment advisors at no charge to them as long as at least $10 million of advisor's clients' accounts are maintained at Schwab. Schwab's services include research, brokerage, custody, access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. DLA or its employees will not hold funds or securities for any account.

The Commonwealth of Virginia deems that when an advisor is authorized to deduct investment management fees directly from a client's account it has access to, it therefore has custody of client funds and securities in that account. Consistent with this definition, DLA has this type of custody with any client whose fees are automatically deducted from their account and paid to DLA.

Clients will receive monthly statements directly from the custodian brokerage firm (Charles Schwab & Co.). Clients should carefully review these statements for accuracy. In addition, Advisor (DLA) will provide written statements to management clients on at least a quarterly basis which show the current asset allocation, current value of all securities, cost basis for all securities (if known), securities transactions for the period, and total portfolio value. Clients are urged to compare the DLA account statements they receive from us with those received directly from the custodian.

Investment Discretion

Discretionary investment management clients will execute an Investment Management Agreement with DLA. As part of the terms of this agreement, DLA will have full discretion to supervise, manage, and direct a client's investments, including the power and authority to purchase and sell assets and to place orders for the purchase and sale of securities without prior consultation with the client and at times DLA deems appropriate.

Transactions for each client generally will be entered individually, unless DLA desires to purchase or sell securities in a number of client accounts simultaneously. No client is favored over any other client.

DLA does not participate in "hot" issues, including Initial Public Offerings (IPO's).

Voting Securities

DLA will not typically exercise proxy voting authority over client securities. However, at client request, DLA will provide recommendations on voting proxies to clients, will exercise proxy voting authority, and maintains a proxy log detailing such votes as made. Company proxy statements will be provided to clients by Schwab, and are available at <http://www.sec.gov/>, then go to Edgar for company filings. Clients may contact us with questions about particular solicitations. While clients can vote their own proxies, they cannot direct Advisor (DLA) on how to vote proxies. Clients may obtain a copy of our proxy voting policies and procedures upon request.

Financial Information

An advisor having discretionary authority or custody of client funds or securities must disclose any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. DLA meets this threshold, maintains timely prepared financial records, and knows of no financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. In addition, since its inception, DLA has not been the subject of any bankruptcy petitions.

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, CFP® and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the “CFP® marks”) are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. (“CFP Board”).

The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP® certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients. Currently, more than 62,000 individuals have obtained CFP® certification in the United States.

To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board's financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination. - Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP® professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks:

- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification.
