Item 4. Advisory Business

Providence (or “PIM,” “we” or “us”) is a Delaware limited liability company that was organized in November 2003. Russell Jeffrey, the Managing Member, controls 100% of the voting and economic interests of Providence.

We provide discretionary investment advice to private investment funds. Providence provides discretionary investment advisory services to Providence MBS Fund, LP, a Delaware limited partnership (“MBS Fund”), Providence MBS Offshore Fund, Ltd., a Cayman Islands exempted company (the “Offshore Fund”), Providence MBS Master Fund, Ltd., a Cayman Islands exempted company (the “Master Fund”) and Providence Insurance Fund, a series of the SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the “Insurance Fund”). Collectively, the MBS Fund, the Offshore Fund, the Master Fund and the Insurance Fund are hereinafter referred to as the “Funds.”

We generally invest and trade on behalf of our clients in a portfolio of fixed-income securities, with an emphasis on mortgage-backed securities and related fixed-income securities. Such related securities may include, but are not limited to, U.S. Treasuries, agencies, options, futures, interest rate swaps, and forward agreements. Providence may use commodities, commodity futures, financial futures or options thereon primarily for hedging purposes. While the Funds are currently invested primarily in mortgage-backed securities, Providence has broad and flexible investment authority.

We do not permit investors in the private investment Funds we manage to impose limitations on the investment activities described in the offering documents for those funds.

We do not participate in wrap fee programs.

As of February 1 2012, we managed approximately $1.5 billion on a discretionary basis. We do not manage any assets on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

Our fees and compensation are described in detail in each Fund’s respective offering documents. PIM charges the Funds a management fee based on a percentage of the net asset value of each Fund. The management fee for the MBS Fund and the Offshore Fund is equal to 0.375% (approximately 1.5% annually) of the net asset value of the Funds, charged quarterly in advance, and prorated for an investment in the Fund at times other than the start of a quarter and generally deducted from the Funds’ accounts. The management fee of the Insurance Fund is equal to 0.15% (approximately 1.75% annually) of the net asset value of the Fund, charged monthly. With the exception of the Insurance Fund, PIM, in its sole and absolute discretion, may waive or reduce the Management Fees charged by the Funds.

We receive annual performance-based fees or allocations from the private investment Funds we manage (in arrears), which are based on a percentage of the capital appreciation of client assets. PIM charges the Funds (excluding the Master Fund) a performance fee or performance allocation at the close of each calendar year equal to 20% of the increase, if any, in the value of the Fund's assets (including realized and unrealized gains and net of the management fee and adjusted for subscriptions and withdrawals) attributable to each Limited Partner or shareholder as of the close of such year (or, in the case of a withdrawing Limited Partner or shareholder, the net income attributable to such Limited Partner or shareholder as of his or her withdrawal date). The performance fee/allocation shall be subject to a "high water mark" or loss carryforward provision so that net investment losses must be recouped prior to PIM receiving additional performance fees/allocations. PIM, in its sole and absolute discretion, may waive all or any portion of its performance fees/allocations charged by the Funds.

As the management fees and performance-based fees and allocations are based directly on the net asset value of the client accounts, we have a conflict of interest in valuing the assets held in the accounts. Our fund administrator, who is responsible for striking the monthly official NAV, will follow our documented valuation policies in order to mitigate this conflict.

Clients that are Funds generally bear (i) all expenses associated with the organization and ongoing administration of such Funds, including legal and accounting fees, (ii) all expenses incurred in connection with communications with investors and the ongoing offer and sale of interests in the Funds, (iii) all third party administration, accounting, tax preparation, audit, bookkeeping, governmental fees and taxes and legal and compliance fees and expenses of, or relating to, the Funds, (iv) all expenses incurred for the benefit of the Funds related to the maintenance and procurement of information technology and data related services, systems and equipment, valuation services, proxy voting services and insurance, (v) all direct and incidental expenses relating to research and due diligence of existing and potential investments (including, without limitation, the use of consultants and attorneys) and research materials, and (vi) all trading and investment related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees and clearing and settlement charges). See "Brokerage Practices" below.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

See the discussion of performance-based fees and allocations in Item 5 above.

Item 7. Types of Clients

We primarily provide investment advice to clients who are private investment Funds. Investors in such Funds are generally high net worth individuals and institutional investors that qualify as "accredited investors" (as defined in Rule 501 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended) and "qualified purchasers" (as defined under the 1940 Act). The minimum original investment in the Funds is generally $1,000,000, which can be lowered by the General Partner and/or the Board of Directors of a Fund.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The objective of the Funds is to achieve superior long-term returns while attempting to minimize volatility under most interest rate scenarios by exploiting pricing inefficiencies in mortgage-backed and related fixed-income securities. It is anticipated that the Funds will have very low correlation to the movements in most market indices. PIM intends to accomplish its objective by trading and investing the Fund's assets in a portfolio of fixed-income securities, with an emphasis on mortgage-backed securities. PIM will seek to purchase for the Funds undervalued securities that it expects to appreciate in price and to generate positive cash flow yield after hedging a number of the risks embedded in the securities. No assurance can be given, however, that the Funds will achieve their objectives, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that investors should be prepared to bear (including the risk of a total loss of investment).

PIM's goal is to achieve attractive per annum returns by exploiting pricing anomalies in mortgage-backed securities. After hedging a number of the risks embedded in the securities, the Advisor intends to construct portfolios offering potentially attractive returns under most interest rate scenarios. The Funds may then employ leverage to magnify the return potential while attempting to keep return volatility within acceptable limits.

PIM's investment process for identifying and appropriately managing the risks associated with these undervalued mortgage-backed securities and other assets relies on PIM's diligence, vigilance, humility and investment experience. The managing member of PIM has over 20 years of investing and trading experience in the agency mortgage-backed securities market. The Funds expect to couple this trading experience with sophisticated computer models and a top rate investment staff that will, in its entirety, be highly qualified to successfully manage the assets of the Funds.

PIM's risk management policies address risks that can be quantitatively measured and managed (hedged), including interest rate risk (duration and convexity), prepayment risk, spread risk and volatility risk (these risks are described below). These policies also address other risks not readily defined in the quantitative models, but that are equally important in their management, including basis risk, portfolio diversification risk, financing risk, liquidity risk, leverage risk and event risk.

There are various risks applicable to each Fund, the investment and trading strategy of each Fund, and the kinds of securities and other instruments traded by each such Fund. These risks include:

- General Market Risks, including economic, political or market conditions, events such as wars and terrorist attacks, interest rate changes, inflation and market volatility.
- Competition from within the securities industry, including from firms with greater resources.

- Interest Rate Risk, including duration risk (the security's sensitivity to interest rate changes), convexity risk (drift of duration as interest rates move) and sensitivity to changes in the shape of the yield curve.
- Callability Risk
- Spread Risk (sensitivity to changes in a benchmark or prevailing mortgage rates).
- Liquidity Risks
- Financing and Leverage Risk
- Possible Lack of Diversification
- Risks of Default or Bankruptcy of Third Parties, such as counterparties or service providers
- Options, Derivatives, Commodities and Futures Risks, including high volatility, "daily limits," loss of option premium and uncovered options.
- Non-U.S. Securities Risks, including differing standards of regulation, currency risks, limitations on practical enforcement and political instability.
- Mortgage-Backed Security Specific Risks, including mortgage defaults and adjustable rate instrument risks.
- Possibly High Trading Costs and Other Expenses.

For a detailed discussion of these risks, investors should review the "Risk Factors" section of each applicable Fund's offering memorandum.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

There are no legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of Providence's advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

As discussed previously, we manage four private investment vehicles (which are deemed to be our related persons). They are as follows:

Providence MBS Fund, LP	General Partner
Providence MBS Offshore Fund, Ltd.	Investment Manager
Providence MBS Master Fund, Ltd.	Investment Manager
Providence Insurance Fund, a series of the SALI Multi-Series Fund	Sub Advisor

The Providence MBS Fund LP and the Providence MBS Offshore Fund, Ltd are feeder funds that invest almost all of their assets in the Providence MBS Master Fund, Ltd. The Providence Insurance Fund invests a significant portion of its assets in the Providence MBS Fund, LP.

Because of the master feeder structure and the investment diversification requirements of the Insurance Fund, there are few conflicts arising out of the allocation of trades. A conflict of interest does arise when we allocate time and resources between the Insurance Fund and the other Funds, and we endeavor to devote sufficient time and resources to the affairs of each Fund. There is no cross-trading between these vehicles.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

We have adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code of Ethics”) which provides that we are committed to conducting our business in accordance with all applicable laws and regulations and in an ethical and professional manner. In addition, we recognize that we have a fiduciary duty to the investors in the Funds we manage, and that all of our employees must conduct their business on our behalf in a manner that enables us to fulfill this fiduciary duty. In this regard, we have developed policies and procedures in our Code of Ethics that are premised on fundamental principles of openness, integrity, honesty and trust. In addition, among other things, our Code of Ethics governs all personal investment transactions by our employees, our policies with respect to gifts and entertainment, compliance with applicable federal securities laws, the manner in which violations of our Code of Ethics are to be reported, and certain other outside activities of our employees. We will provide a copy of our Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

Under Providence’s Personal Securities Trading Policy in its Code of Ethics, employees may not transact in securities that the Funds may invest in, with the exception of US Treasury securities. As discussed in the Code of Ethics, all of our employees must provide copies of all brokerage statements to the Chief Compliance Officer for review. All PIM employees must also attest on an annual basis that they are in compliance with PIM’s Personal Securities Trading Policy.

At certain times Providence may have long or short securities position for one client while at the same time hold the opposite position in the same security for one or more other clients. We recommend that prospective clients invest in the Funds we manage. Our management and certain other personnel have significant personal investments in the Funds.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

In placing portfolio transactions for our clients, we seek to obtain the best execution for clients’ accounts, taking into account the following factors: the ability to effect prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices (including the applicable dealer spread or commission, if any); the operational efficiency with which transactions are effected, taking into account the size of order and difficulty of execution; the financial strength, integrity and stability of the broker; the Fund’s risk in positioning a block of securities; the quality, comprehensiveness and frequency of available research services considered to be of value; and the competitiveness of commission rates in comparison with other brokers satisfying our selection criteria.

Brokers sometimes suggest a level of business they would like to receive in return for the various services they provide. We will not commit to provide any level of brokerage business to any broker, and actual brokerage business received by any broker may be more or less than any of the suggested allocations, as total brokerage is allocated on the basis of all the considerations described above.

We seek to resolve any conflicts of interest that we may have in selecting brokers to execute client transactions.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

We may enter into soft dollar arrangements with brokers. Soft dollar arrangements arise when an investment adviser obtains products and services, other than securities execution, from a broker in return for directing client securities transactions to the broker. Soft dollar arrangements pose a conflict of interest for us in that such arrangements allow us to pay with client commissions expenses that may otherwise be borne by us. When we use client brokerage commissions (or markups or markdowns) to obtain research or other products or services, we receive a benefit because we do not have to produce or pay for the research, products or services. We believe that this conflict is mitigated because our clients will generally pay for research as a “hard dollar” expense pursuant to their respective investment management agreements. We may have an incentive to select a broker based on our interest in receiving the research or other products or services offered by such broker, rather than on our clients’ interests in receiving most favorable execution.

When engaging in soft dollar transactions, we comply with the safe harbor requirements of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Under this provision, in exercising our discretionary authority to select or arrange for the selection of brokers for execution of transactions for our clients, and, subject to our duty to obtain best execution, we may consider the value of research and brokerage products and services (collectively, “Research”) provided by such brokers. Research may include, among other things, proprietary research from brokers, which may be written or oral. Research products may include, among other things, databases and quotation services. Research services may include, among other things, research concerning market, economic and financial data, a particular aspect of economics or on the economy in general, statistical information, pricing data and availability of securities, financial publications, electronic market quotations, performance measurement services, analyses concerning specific securities, companies, industries or sectors, market, economic and financial studies and forecasts, appraisal services, and invitations to attend conferences or meetings with management or industry consultants. Accordingly, if we determine in good faith that the amount of commissions charged by a broker is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and products or services provided by such broker, a client may pay commissions to such broker in an amount greater than the amount another broker might charge.

Research provided by such brokers may be used to service all client accounts and not exclusively in connection with the management of the client account that generated the particular soft dollar credits.

Our prime broker provides us with front and back office services, including trading, securities lending, clearing, and reporting, among others. We execute securities transactions on behalf of client accounts with broker-dealers that provide us with access to proprietary research reports (such as standard investment research and credit reports). To our knowledge, broker-dealers generally make these services available to all institutional investors doing business with such broker-dealers. Broker-dealers make these bundled services available to us on an unsolicited basis and without regard to the rates of commissions charged or paid by client accounts or the volume of business that we direct to such broker-dealers.

During our last fiscal year, we acquired with client brokerage commissions (or markups or markdowns) (i) research, such as proprietary research from brokers, which may have been written and/or oral; (ii) research products, including databases and quotation services; and (iii) research services, such as this described above.

During our last fiscal year, we have taken into account the quality, comprehensiveness and frequency of available research services and products considered to be of value provided by brokers when directing client transactions to a particular broker. We directed transactions to such brokers only consistent with best execution. Brokers sometimes suggest a level of business they would like to receive in return for the research services and products they provide, however we have not committed to provide any level of brokerage business to any broker.

Trade Error Policy

Subject to applicable law, we will reimburse the applicable client account(s) for net losses that occur as a result of any trade errors resulting from our gross negligence or willful misconduct.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

The Chief Investment Officer and the entire portfolio management team reviews client portfolios on an on-going basis. Client portfolios are reviewed for performance, positions, market conditions and other such considerations as we deem appropriate. Client portfolios are also reviewed by members of our accounting team to ensure that all positions, trades and cash tie out to our Prime Broker and Administrator records. The Chief Compliance Officer is also involved in the review of trading activity and the portfolio in general.

We may, in our discretion, furnish investors in the private investment funds we manage with periodic written unaudited performance reports. On an annual basis, investors receive a copy of the relevant fund's annual audited financial statements and, where applicable, a statement of taxable income (Schedule K-1).

We may provide certain investors access to more frequent and/or more detailed information regarding the private investment Funds' securities positions, performance, finances, and management and/or other information about the Funds or us (including, notification of the commencement of certain disciplinary actions, legal proceedings, investigations or similar matters affecting a Fund, us and/or our personnel, or of redemptions from a Fund by us and/or our personnel), possibly enabling such investors to better assess the prospects and performance of the Funds.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Not applicable.

Item 15. Custody

Not applicable.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

We have discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of our clients. The investors in the Funds managed by us may not place any limits on our authority beyond the limitations set forth in the offering and governing documents of such Funds.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

PIM generally has voting discretion over securities held in its clients' accounts, but holders of mortgage-backed securities are rarely able to vote. If any matters are submitted to a vote, PIM will exercise its discretion in the best interests of its clients. The Funds themselves, but not individual investors, may direct how PIM votes particular securities. In fulfilling its obligations to clients, PIM will act in a prudent and diligent manner intended to enhance the economic value of the securities.

Item 18. Financial Information

Fund's assets, including unrealized gains. However, if the Fund incurs a loss for a fiscal year, the loss must be recouped prior to any additional performance-based fees or allocations may accrue.
