Item 4 – Advisory Business

Convergence Investment Partners, LLC (“Convergence,” “we” or “us”) is an investment adviser registered with the SEC since November 2008. We are a limited liability company organized under the laws of Kansas since August 2008. Our principal owners are David J. Abitz, David W. Schulz, and Montage Investments, LLC (“Montage Investments”). Montage Investments is wholly-owned by Mariner Holdings, LLC, an independent financial services firm. The Bicknell Family Holding Company, LLC holds a controlling interest in Mariner Holdings and the Bicknell Family Management Company Trust holds a controlling interest in the Bicknell Family Holding Company.

We provide investment management services and the investment products and services listed below to individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations and business entities. We invest primarily in exchange-traded and over the counter U.S. equity securities that comprise the benchmark indices for long positions. We may also use ETFs. Depending on the strategy, we may use options, futures and other techniques including establishing short positions. Pending investment of cash, we may invest in money market funds, commercial paper, Treasury bills and other short-term debt securities.

Prior to our engagement, the client will be required to enter into one or more written agreements setting forth the terms, conditions, and objectives under which we will render our services (the “Agreement”). Additionally, we may only implement our investment recommendations after the client has arranged for and furnished all information and authorization regarding accounts with appropriate financial institutions. Our clients are advised to promptly notify us if there are ever any changes in their financial situation or investment objectives or if they wish to impose any reasonable restrictions upon our advisory services.

Our assets under management as of December 31, 2011 are $158,828,541.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

All fees are subject to negotiation and all fee arrangements will comply with Section 205 of the Advisers Act.

The specific manner in which we charge fees is established in the Agreement. In exchange for our investment management services, we charge an annual fee determined based on a number of factors, including the market value of the assets under management and the services provided. We may negotiate our advisory fees and reserve the right to waive fees in whole or in part in our sole discretion for marketing or promotional reasons for varying periods of time. Such waivers may be extended to our employees and our family members.

Fees are calculated by applying the agreed upon fee schedule to the value of a Client's portfolio on the last day of the previous calendar quarter. Periods of less than one quarter will be prorated. Fees are paid quarterly in advance or in arrears, as negotiated with the Client, based on the value of the account(s) at the close of the applicable billing period, and such fees are generally debited by the Client's custodian from the account. IRA and retirement plan Clients may be offered the option of receiving a direct bill rather than having fees deducted from their portfolio.

A client may make additions to and withdrawals from the account at any time, subject to our right to terminate an account. If assets are deposited into an account after the inception of a quarter that exceed $100,000, the fee payable with respect to such assets will be prorated based on the number of days remaining in the quarter. A client may withdraw account assets on notice to us, subject to the usual and customary securities settlement procedures. For partial withdrawals in excess of $100,000 within a billing period, we shall credit our unearned fee towards the next quarter's fee. However, we design our portfolios as long-term investments and asset withdrawals may impair the achievement of a client's investment objectives.

The advisory agreement between Convergence and a given Client may be terminated by either party upon written notification in accordance with the applicable contractual notice of termination. Our annual fees will be prorated through the date of termination, and any remaining balance shall be charged or refunded to the Client, as appropriate, in a timely manner. Upon termination of the contract, securities positions in client portfolios will generally, at the client's request, be liquidated; however, if in some instances where, for example, liquidation is impossible or impracticable, client portfolio securities may be delivered in kind to client upon termination at our discretion.

Where the advisory fees are payable before the advisory services are provided, we will refund that percentage of such prepaid fees attributable to services not yet performed during the payment period if the advisory contract is terminated. However, we will not refund that portion of any prepaid advisory fees that are directly attributable to services provided by us during the payment period, even if assessed at the termination of the relationship.

Our fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. Clients may incur certain charges imposed by custodians, brokers, third party investment managers and other third parties such as fees charged by managers, custodial fees, deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. Mutual funds and exchange traded funds also charge internal management fees, which are disclosed in a fund's prospectus. Such charges, fees and commissions are exclusive of and in addition to our fee, and we shall not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, and costs. Advisory clients should note that fees for comparable services may vary and lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources.

Item 12 further describes the factors that we consider in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation (e.g., commissions).

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Item 7 – Types of Clients

We generally provide investment advice to the following types of clients:

- Individuals (including high net worth individuals)
- Investment companies
- Pension and profit sharing plans
- Trusts, estates, or charitable organizations
- Corporations or business entities other than those listed above
- Insurance companies

We do not impose a minimum portfolio size or minimum annual fee.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We use quantitative investment strategies. We construct broadly diversified portfolios using a proprietary scoring and ranking system which evaluates a range of fundamental and technical factors with respect to securities comprising a benchmark index. We offer a Dividend Growth Strategy, an Indexing Strategy, a Strategic Active Tax Management Strategy and a Core Equity Strategy that utilizes both long and short portfolio management techniques.

The Dividend Growth Strategy, Unbiased Indexing Strategy, Strategic Active Tax Management Strategy, and Core Equity Strategy are available for traditional managed accounts. The Core Equity Strategy is also available through a mutual fund. The investment objective of the Dividend Growth Strategy is to seek competitive long-term returns, reduced volatility, and attractive levels of income (as measured by the Russell 1000[®] Index). The investment objective of the Indexing Strategy is to capture a better market return by using factors other than market capitalization. The investment objective of the Strategic Active Tax Management Strategy is to earn superior returns in targeted, index-based portfolios by employing active tax management strategies. The investment objective of the Core Equity Strategy is long term growth.

We attempt to achieve these objectives through quantitative techniques that are applied to securities that comprise the Russell 3000 Index traded on the U.S. stock exchanges or over the counter, where appropriate. Industry sector allocation and security selection is determined by a multi-factor statistical model that analyzes and evaluates hundreds of fundamental factors. The Core Equity Strategy seeks to generate a positive return over the Russell 3000 over a market cycle, by applying a proprietary dynamic model to both the long portfolio and the short portfolio.

We use multiple sources and methods to carry out our investment advisory responsibilities for Clients. In addition to the methods and sources already listed above, other sources will include, without limitation, industry trade publications, publicly available economic and market research, and electronic data and quotation services.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear, including loss of your original principal. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results, therefore, you should not assume that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable. We do not provide any representation or guarantee that your goals will be achieved. Depending on the different types of investments, there may be varying degrees of risk:

- Market Risk – Either the market as a whole, or the value of an individual company, goes down, resulting in a decrease in the value of client investments.
- Equity Risk – Stocks are susceptible to fluctuations and to the volatile increases and decreases in value as their issuer's confidence in or perceptions of the market change. Investors holding common stock of any issuer are generally exposed to greater risk than if they hold preferred stock or debt obligations of the issuer.

- Company Risk – There is always a level of company or industry risk when investing in stock positions. This is referred to as unsystematic risk and can be reduced through appropriate diversification. There is the risk that a company may perform poorly or that its value may be reduced based on factors specific to it or its industry.
- Options Risk – Options on securities may be subject to greater fluctuations in value than investing in the underlying securities. Purchasing and writing put or call options are highly specialized activities and involve greater investment risk. Puts and calls are the right to sell or buy a specified amount of an underlying asset at a set price within a set time.
- Fixed Income Risk – Investing in bonds involves the risk that the issuer will default on the bond and be unable to make payments. In addition, individuals depending on a set amount of periodically paid income face the risk that inflation will erode their spending power. Fixed-income investors receive set, regular payments that face the same inflation risk.
- ETF and Mutual Fund Risk – ETF and mutual fund investments bear additional expenses based on a pro-rata share of operating expenses, including potential duplication of management fees. The risk of owning an ETF or mutual fund generally reflects the risks of owning the underlying securities held by the ETF or mutual fund. Clients also incur brokerage costs when purchasing ETFs.
- Management Risk – Investments also vary with the success and failure of the investment strategies, research, analysis and determination of portfolio securities. If our strategies do not produce the expected returns, the value of your investments will decrease.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

We have adopted a Code of Ethics that sets forth the standards of conduct expected of our associated persons and requires compliance with applicable securities laws (“Code of Ethics”). In accordance with Section 204A of the Advisers Act, the Code of Ethics contains written policies reasonably designed to prevent the unlawful use of material non-public information by us or any of our associated persons. The Code of Ethics also requires that certain of our personnel (“access persons”) report their personal securities holdings and transactions and obtain pre-approval of certain investments such as initial public offerings and limited offerings. Unless specifically permitted in our Code of Ethics, none of our access persons may effect for themselves or for their immediate family (i.e., spouse, minor children, and adults living in the same household as the access person) or beneficiaries any transactions in a security which is being actively purchased or sold, or is being considered for purchase or sale, on behalf of any of our clients.

When we are purchasing or considering for purchase any security on behalf of a client, no access person may effect a transaction in that security prior to the completion of the purchase or until a decision has been made not to purchase such security. Similarly, when we are selling or considering the sale of any security on behalf of a client, no access person may effect a transaction in that security prior to the completion of the sale or until a decision has been made not to sell such security. These requirements are not applicable to: (i) direct obligations of the Government of the United States; (ii) money market instruments, bankers’ acceptances, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper, repurchase agreements and other high quality short-term debt instruments, including repurchase agreements; (iii) shares issued by mutual funds or money market funds; and (iv) shares issued by unit investment trusts that are invested exclusively in one or more mutual funds.

We do not execute any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts, nor do we execute cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated hedge fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is generally defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.

No supervised person may trade, either personally or on behalf of others, while in the possession of material, nonpublic information, nor may any personnel of Convergence communicate material, nonpublic information to others in violation of the law. Furthermore, all access persons are required to submit information to the Chief Compliance Officer detailing all outside business activities. The Chief Compliance Officer will review and approve these activities on a case by case basis.

Our clients or prospective clients may request a copy of our Code of Ethics by contacting us at (913) 647-9700 or compliance@mariner-holdings.com.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

In executing trades for Client accounts, there are two primary distinctions, Client Directed and Convergence Discretion. In the case of Client Directed, we must trade with the broker that the Client has selected. When not Client Directed, Clients give us discretion to make investment decisions, place orders to purchase or sell securities in Client accounts, and select brokers without the prior approval of the Client. We aim to achieve the most beneficial net result for Clients considering price, execution quality, services and commissions.

In executing trades for Client accounts, we may at times pay commissions which may be higher than those available from other brokers, for the purpose of obtaining superior services and/or execution. We may execute such transactions so long as we determine in good faith that the commission paid was reasonable with respect to the quality and value of the research or other services provided by the broker. The determination of “reasonableness” in this context may incorporate the value of the research received from the broker-dealer pertaining to the particular transaction involved, or it may incorporate the total responsibilities of us with respect to the accounts over which we exercise investment discretion. Such research services may be used to benefit any and all of our Clients, including those that may not pay commissions to the broker-dealers providing the research.

We generally rebalance all accounts at regular intervals, normally monthly. Because of our process for rebalancing, we do not expect to encounter conflicting orders (i.e., long and short) in the same security. We normally will not trade for individual accounts outside of scheduled rebalancing dates except under unusual circumstances for a specific Client, such as large deposits of cash or a large withdrawal. We do not invest in IPOs or other securities of limited supply.

We may aggregate orders for transactions in securities (if logistically possible with a broker and its settlement account rules) on behalf of Clients when we determine that such aggregation is in the best interest of our Clients. In any aggregate transaction, each Client participates at the average share price for the aggregated transaction. All transaction costs in each aggregated transaction are shared pro rata by all Clients participating in the transaction. We receive no compensation or remuneration as a result of aggregation or non-aggregation of trades. We may include access person transactions within an aggregated order. In the event of a partially filled order, Client orders have priority. We will ensure that all Clients are treated fairly in the aggregation or allocation of portfolio transactions.

In the event an error occurs in the handling of any Client transaction, due to our actions, inaction or actions of others, our policy is to seek to indemnify and correct any errors as promptly as possible without disadvantaging the Client or benefiting the firm in any way. If there is an error, we will make the client whole, and we will reimburse a Client for any loss.

We may recommend specific brokerage firms to Clients. These firms often provide order entry software, securities research, account access capabilities and other services at little or no cost to us. Receipt of such services creates a conflict of interest for us since using another firm for custodial services may cause our overhead and vendor support service costs to be higher.

If a Client directs us to effect transactions through a particular broker-dealer, we will do so. However, such an instruction will have implications to the Client. The instruction may cause the Client's account to incur transaction costs and commissions which may be higher than if the instruction had not been given. These costs and commissions may be higher even after the brokerage firm's rates have been discounted. The instruction may limit our ability to receive research from other broker-dealers and to consider the other judgmental factors described above when selecting a broker-dealer. The instruction could also limit our ability to batch the Client's order with similar orders of other clients for the purpose of sending the batched order to a single broker-dealer to obtain an average price upon execution. Thus, Clients directing us to use a particular broker-dealer may not obtain best price or execution of their orders.

An instruction to use a specific brokerage firm also creates a potential conflict of interest for us in those instances where the Client was referred by a brokerage firm representative. In such circumstances, the representative stands to benefit from providing custody and execution services while we gain fees from the accounts being referred and thus, we have an incentive to maintain accounts with that representative at the brokerage firm. Clients should carefully consider the factors described above. Other brokerage service options are available. Clients may decline to use their existing broker-dealer and, instead, select a broker-dealer (or allow us to do so) having services that may result in better price and execution.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Our portfolio management team regularly reviews and periodically adjusts the quantitative models we employ. Our portfolio management team regularly reviews each account's portfolio based on, among other factors, the account's investment objective, client guidelines, market conditions, and changes in the client's financial status, as communicated by the client. Portfolio managers, research analysts and traders may contribute to this review process, as appropriate. Portfolio transactions are reconciled with the client's custodian daily. There are no fixed limits on the number of accounts assigned to any one person or team.

Clients receive detailed portfolio and transaction reports from their designated custodian or broker at least quarterly. Portfolio reports disclose the nature and types of securities held in the account, cost, and current market value. Transaction reports disclose all purchases, sales, income, capital changes and disbursements. The level of services and reporting provided to clients by Convergence varies depending on the type of account, account size and other factors.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

If a client is introduced to us, we may pay that introducer a referral fee in accordance with the requirements of Rule 206(4)-3 of the Advisers Act and any corresponding state securities law requirements. Any such referral fee shall be paid solely from our investment management fee, and will not result in any additional charge to the client. If the client is introduced to us by an unaffiliated solicitor, the client will be given, prior to or at the time of entering into any advisory contract with the client, (1) a copy of our written disclosure statement which meets the requirements of Rule 204-3 of the Advisers Act and (2) a copy of the solicitor's disclosure statement containing the terms and conditions of the solicitation arrangement including compensation. Any affiliated solicitor of ours shall disclose the nature of his/her relationship to prospective clients at the time of the solicitation and will provide all prospective clients with a copy of our written disclosure statement at the time of the solicitation.

Under a written solicitation agreement with our affiliate, Montage Investments, we compensate Montage Investments with a percentage of the fees we receive from separately managed account clients solicited by Montage Investments. There is no increase in the investment management fees payable to us by the solicited persons as a result of the compensation paid to the solicitor under this solicitation agreement.

We may have clients that are also clients of MWA or other related persons. These clients, as clients of our related person(s), may be solicited by our related persons (but not by us) to invest in investment-related limited partnerships or limited liability companies for which one of our related persons serves as the general partner or manager. Clients are advised that a conflict of interest exists to the extent a related person recommends our services.

We currently also have a written revenue sharing agreement with Pennant Management, Inc. which allows us to refer investors to USFS STIF Fund and the USFS Funds Ltd. Duration Govt. Fund and allows Pennant to refer investors to the Convergence Core Plus fund in exchange for a certain percentage of management fees.

Item 15 – Custody

Under Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act, also known as the Custody Rule, an investment adviser is prohibited from having custody of client funds or securities for its investment advisory clients unless certain conditions are satisfied. These conditions include such things as using a qualified custodian, sending notices to clients at account opening, and confirming statements are being provided to clients. Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker-dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains client's investment assets. Convergence urges clients to carefully review such statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that we may provide to you. Convergence's statements may vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

We usually receive discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought and sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

When selecting securities and determining amounts, we observe the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which we advise. For registered investment companies, our authority to trade securities may also be limited by certain federal securities and tax laws that require diversification of investments and favor the holding of investments once made.

Investment guidelines and restrictions must be provided to us in writing. We reserve the right to deny acceptance of a client account based upon the client limiting our discretion. Not all client investment guidelines and restrictions can be met.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

We may vote proxies on behalf of our clients. When we do so, we will only cast proxy votes in a manner consistent with the best interests of our clients. Absent special circumstances, which are fully-described in our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures, all proxies will be voted consistent with guidelines established and described in our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures, as they may be amended from time-to-time. At any time, clients may contact us to request information about how we voted proxies for that client's securities or to obtain a copy of our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures.

A brief summary of our Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures is as follows:

- Convergence has formed a Proxy Voting Committee that will be responsible for monitoring corporate actions, making voting decisions in the best interests of clients, and ensuring that proxies are submitted in a timely manner.
- The Proxy Voting Committee will generally vote proxies according to Convergence's then current Proxy Voting Guidelines. The Proxy Voting Guidelines include many specific examples of voting decisions for the types of proposals that are most frequently presented, including, but not limited to: composition of the board of directors; approval of independent auditors; management and director compensation; anti-takeover mechanisms and related issues; changes to capital structure; corporate and social policy issues; and issues involving mutual funds.
- Although the Proxy Voting Guidelines are to be followed as a general policy, certain issues will be considered on a case-by-case basis based on the relevant facts and circumstances. Since corporate governance issues are diverse and continually evolving, Convergence shall devote an appropriate amount of time and resources to monitor these changes.
- In situations where there may be a conflict of interest in the voting of proxies due to business or personal relationships that Convergence maintains with persons having an interest in the outcome of certain votes, Convergence will take appropriate steps to ensure that its proxy voting decisions are made in the best interests of its clients and are not the product of such conflict.

Item 18 – Financial Information

Registered investment advisers are required in this Item to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about our financial condition. We have no financial commitments that impair our ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and have not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
