¹ Note: Our firm may, under certain circumstances, rebut the presumption that a disciplinary event is material. If an event is immaterial, we are not required to disclose it. When we review a legal or disciplinary event involving Mr. Brewer to determine whether it is appropriate to rebut the presumption of materiality, we consider all of the following factors: (1) the proximity of Mr. Brewer to the advisory function; (2) the nature of the infraction that led to the disciplinary event; (3) the severity of the disciplinary sanction; and (4) the time elapsed since the date of the disciplinary event. If we conclude that the materiality presumption has been overcome, we prepare and maintain a file memorandum of our determination in our records. We follow SEC rule 204-2(a)(14)(iii) and similar state rules.

1. If a relationship between the advisory business and Mr. Brewer's other financial industry activities creates a material conflict of interest with you, the SEC requires us to describe the nature of the conflict and generally how we address it.

Please see Item 4B.

We must explain that this practice gives him an incentive to recommend investment products based on the compensation received, rather than on your needs.

We have nothing to disclose in this regard.

- B. If the other business activities represent less than 10 percent of his time and income, we may presume that they are not substantial.

The entities are, SPO Medical Systems, Amarantus Biosciences, Inc., Oxygen Plus, Seconds Out, LLC., and Inergetics, Inc. Advisory clients may be solicited to invest in one or more of these firms. It is important to understand this represents a conflict of interest. The conflict of interest this presents is Mr. Brewer does own shares of this stock, and he may benefit from clients investing in these firms. Clients are under no obligation to invest in any of Mr. Brewer's other affiliate activities. Brewer Capital Management will always put the interest of its client before those of itself or associated persons. These activities take up 5% of Mr. Brewer's time.
