Disciplinary Information

In March 2012 a customer alleged that William Eaton sold him a private placement in the preferred stock of RB Acquisition Corp (“RBAC”) that was not suitable to his portfolio. The customer also stated that he was unaware of the liquidity constraints that accompanied the position and did not understand the investment.

Mr. Eaton maintains that the customer was fully aware of the risks involved with the investment, including lack of liquidity and possible loss of principal; qualified as an accredited investor; was informed about the nature of the investment several times via email and phone conversations; was provided with all offering documents; and that the investment was within his stated tolerance for risk.

Both Detwiler Fenton & Co. and Mr. Eaton deny all of the customer's claims and intend to fully defend our position. To date, the client has made no further inquiries into this matter.
