FEES AND COMPENSATION

Financial Planning

The Firm generally charges financial planning fees on a flat or hourly fee, based upon the estimated time to complete the desired scope of work identified by the client. Financial planning fees are paid in advance. Hourly charges are assessed against the prepaid fee as work is conducted (with rates ranging from $150 to $300 per hour). Prepaid fees may exceed $1,200 but not for a six month period or longer. Planning clients sign a Financial Planning Agreement that shows the total fixed fee or the estimated total hourly fee for the plan. These fees are charged in addition to the investment management fee shown below if clients choose to have the Firm manage their investments.

Clients are free to purchase recommended investment products elsewhere.

Investment Management

The Firm's investment management fee is based on the assets under management, as described below, and which may be adjusted up or down based on the complexity of the client's situation.

Assets Under Management	Annual Fee
$0 - $1,000,000	1.25%
Next $1,000,001 - $3,000,000	1.00%
Next $3,000,001 - $7,000,000	0.85%
Next $7,000,001 - $10,000,000	0.75%
Above $10,000,000	Negotiable

For billing purposes, client portfolios are “aggregated” – as long as those clients are part of the same family, even if there are different households. Clients are billed quarterly in advance at the rate of one fourth of the annual fee shown above; typically, the fee is deducted from clients’ accounts. Fees are calculated on the portfolio valuation, as determined by the account custodian at the close of market on the last business day of each previous quarter. The investment management fee is charged on cash in the account and is typically deducted before the tenth day of the first month in the quarter. The Firm’s fee schedule may change in the future and any such changes will be applicable to Clients after 30 days’ advance written notice.

Fees for relationships below $10 million are not negotiable. Affiliates of Firm personnel may have fees waived or discounted at the Firm’s discretion. Clients with prior investment management relationships with MBR personnel who have been charged at different rates than those shown above will be “grandfathered” at MBR’s discretion, so clients receiving the same service may be paying different fees. The Firm’s investment management fee is separate from transaction, exchange, wire transfer, margin interest, account, or other fees charged by the custodian.

Implementation with Mutual Funds: When the Firm recommends a security for a client’s account, three separate fees may be charged to the client, either directly or indirectly:

The first fee is the Firm’s investment management fee, in which the fund is included in the asset base for the quarterly fee calculation.

The second is the set of internal fees charged by the investment company for the fund’s investment management, marketing, administration, and marketing assistance. These internal expenses are disclosed in each fund’s prospectus, provided to each client by the custodian. (This set of fees also applies to any ETF or money market fund purchased in the client’s account.)

The third fee may be a transaction fee assessed by the custodian for providing access to a universe of mutual fund families through one account. To avoid such fees, a client would be required to open a separate account with each individual mutual fund company instead of using the custodian recommended by the Firm, although this could negatively affect the Firm’s ability to deliver services efficiently to the client. Not all mutual fund trades incur this transaction fee. When recommending mutual funds for client portfolios, the Firm is able to purchase “no-load” funds or “load-waived” funds.

Some supervised persons of MBR may, in their capacity as registered representatives of Purshe Kaplan Sterling Investments (“PKS”), recommend the sale of securities or other investment products, placed through PKS, resulting commissions or other compensation received by MBR. Such compensation may include asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sales of mutual funds. To the extent that MBR recommends investment products which generate a commission, MBR may have a conflict of interest with its clients, as it may be incented to recommend these products rather than others not generating a commission. This conflict is mitigated through MBR’s policies and procedures and Code of Ethics. MBR does not charge investment management fees on assets which generated commission or other compensation to MBR or its personnel.

Termination

Both the Financial Planning and Investment Management Agreements (“Agreements”) allow for either party to terminate the Agreement immediately upon receipt of written notice. The client may terminate either Agreement without penalty within five (5) business days after entering into the Agreement. Otherwise, any prepaid and unearned fees will be refunded to the client on a pro-rata basis or, in the case of financial planning, based on the amount of work conducted to date.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

The Firm does not charge performance-based fees to any accounts, so this section does not apply.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

MBR provides investment advisory services to:

- Individuals and families
- High net worth individuals
- Pension and profit sharing plans
- Trusts, estates, or charitable organizations
- Corporations and other businesses

The minimum account size for investment management services is $1,000,000, although this is negotiable.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

Methods of Analysis

The Firm’s analysis uses Morningstar, Bloomberg, internally developed metrics, and other reports on managers in order to review past performance, sector focus, capitalization, risk, and expected future performance.

Investment Strategies

Each portfolio “mandate” has specific return objectives, risk, and target return outcomes. For each mandate, the Firm actively manages the underlying investments based on a disciplined analysis and due diligence process, with input from of an Investment Advisory Committee comprised of outside professionals. The management process focuses on three areas:

- Asset Allocation

The typical allocation to cash, bonds and stocks in that strategy is referred to as the central tendency. The actual holdings of cash, bonds and stocks are managed within “strategic ranges” that allow the Firm to adjust the risk level of client portfolios, based on the Firm’s outlook of market conditions over the coming twelve to eighteen months. The process uses a proprietary top-down methodology for determining asset allocation based on twelve different parameters that are rated and ranked as to their order of importance.

- Style/Theme Distribution

The holdings are opportunistically varied within stocks, based on capitalization (large, mid, small), style (growth, blend, value), geography (domestic, international, developed, emerging and frontier), sector (primarily GICS sectors), and other alternatives. Similarly, bond sub-sectors are varied, based on safety, rate sensitive, inflation protected, credit (both high grade and high yield), geography (domestic, international, developed and emerging) as whether they are taxable and non-taxable.

- Manager Selection

The portfolio is implemented through mutual funds, ETFs, or separate account managers, based on a disciplined selection process. Sophisticated quantitative screening is used to identify a smaller set of managers, based on a number of criteria (Sharpe ratio, performance, expense ratio, top ten holdings, information ratio, risk, consistency, etc.) from the universe of active managers. Once this is completed, a qualitative process is used to further assess managers' level of discipline, longevity and stability, as well as their ability to out-perform specific "narrow" and "broad" benchmarks. This qualitative process typically occurs either through a personal visit or conference call with the manager or management team by one or more of the Firm's Principals.

The Managers' actual outcomes (along with those of the entire portfolio) are evaluated on an on-going basis using quantitative tools with respect to risk as well as return; adjustments are made to client portfolios when deemed necessary.

Risk of Loss

MBR does not guarantee the future performance of the account or any specific level of performance, the success of any investment decision or strategy that the Firm may use, or the success of the overall management of the account. The client understands that investment decisions made for the client's account are subject to various market, economic, political and business risks, and that those investment decisions will not always be profitable. Investing in mutual funds entails greater fees than if investments were made directly in the underlying issues. Clients are reminded that investing in any security entails risk of loss they should be willing to bear.

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

There have been no disciplinary actions against the Firm or any of its principals.

OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

The Firm may recommend insurance products to our clients. This could create a conflict of interest with clients, as the Firm receives a commission from insurance product sales; therefore, clients are free to purchase recommended insurance products elsewhere.

Employees are registered representatives of PKS, a registered non-affiliated broker-dealer. MBR personnel may in their capacity as registered representatives, cause MBR to receive a commission or other compensation for brokerage transactions placed through PKS. This could create a conflict of interest. The conflict arises because MBR's receipt of a commission upon a brokerage transaction gives the supervised person a potential incentive to recommend investment products based on the compensation received, rather than the client's needs. Clients are free to implement MBR recommendations elsewhere. MBR's policies and procedures and Code of Ethics address means of mitigating this conflict.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Code of Ethics

The Firm has adopted a Code of Ethics which describes the general standards of conduct expected of all personnel (collectively referred to as "employees") and focuses on three specific areas where employee conduct has the potential to adversely affect clients:

- Misuse of nonpublic information
- Personal securities trading
- Outside business activities

Failure to uphold the Code of Ethics may result in disciplinary sanctions, including termination from MBR. Any client or prospective client may request a copy of our Code of Ethics, which will be provided at no cost.

The following basic principles guide all aspects of our business, and represent the minimum requirements to which all employees are expected to adhere:

- Clients' interests come before employees' personal interests, and before the interests of the Firm.
- The Firm and its Principals must fully disclose all material facts about conflicts of interest of which we are aware, whether between the Firm and clients or between employees and clients.
- Employees must disclose on the Firm's behalf and on their own behalf possible conflicts of interest, and must work to manage the impact of such conflicts.
- The Firm and its employees must not take inappropriate advantage of their positions of trust with, or responsibility to, clients.
- The Firm and its employees must always seek to comply with all applicable securities laws.

Misuse of Nonpublic Information

The Code of Ethics contains a policy against the use of nonpublic information in conducting business for the Firm. Employees should neither convey nonpublic information nor depend upon it to place or recommend securities trades, whether personal or on behalf of a client.

Personal Securities Trading

MBR or individuals associated with the Firm may buy, sell or hold in their personal accounts the same securities recommended to clients or held in client accounts. The Firm does not allow front running. Pre-approval authorization from the Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO") is required for employees seeking to invest in initial public offerings and private placement investments.

Employees are required to submit reports of personal securities trades on a quarterly basis, and securities holdings at least annually. These are reviewed by the CCO to ensure compliance with the Firm's policies.

Outside Business Activities

Employees are required to report any outside business activities generating revenue. If any are deemed to be in conflict with clients, such conflicts will be fully disclosed or the employee will be directed to cease such activity.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Selection of Brokers

The Firm recommends using "qualified custodians" for client accounts, with each client signing a separate agreement with the custodian. In recommending a custodian, consideration is given to the range and quality of products the custodian offers, the technical support provided, execution quality, commission rates, and the financial responsibility and responsiveness of the custodian to both the Firm and its clients. The Firm recognizes its responsibility to attain best execution, and recognizes that limiting its custodial relationships may affect its ability to provide best execution on a trade-by-trade basis. However, the Firm evaluates its entire custodial relationship in assessing best execution on a client-by-client basis.

The Firm has an arrangement with National Financial Services LLC and Fidelity Brokerage Services LLC (collectively, and together with all affiliates, "Fidelity") through which Fidelity provides the Firm with "institutional platform services." The institutional platform services include, among others, brokerage, custody, and other related services. Fidelity's institutional platform services that assist the Firm in managing and administering clients' accounts include software and other technology that (i) provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); (ii) facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts; (iii) provide research, pricing and other market data; (iv) facilitate payment of fees from its clients' accounts; and (v) assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

The Firm currently has no formal "soft-dollar" arrangements, in which specific products or services are paid for with commission dollars generated by individual trades placed on behalf of client accounts.

Fidelity (the recommended custodian) also offers other services intended to help the Firm manage and further develop its advisory practice. Such services include, but are not limited to, performance reporting, financial planning, contact management systems, third party research, publications, access to educational conferences, roundtables and webinars, practice management resources, access to consultants and other third party service providers who provide a wide array of business related services and technology with whom the Firm may contract directly.

The Firm is independently operated and owned and is not affiliated with Fidelity.

Fidelity generally does not charge its advisor clients separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Fidelity or that settle into Fidelity accounts (i.e., transactions fees are charged for certain no-load mutual funds, commissions are charged for individual equity and debt securities transactions). Fidelity provides access to many no-load mutual funds without transaction charges and other no-load funds at nominal transaction charges.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

The Firm does not receive referrals from a broker/dealer or from any third party providing services to the Firm. However, the Firm intends to use other third parties to solicit and refer clients to the Firm, please see the section entitled, "Client Referrals and Other Compensation" for additional disclosures.

Directed Brokerage

Clients may not request that trades be enacted through a specific broker of their own choosing. The Firm requires clients to use our recommended broker-dealer(s) as the account custodian. Not all financial services firms require their clients to use a particular custodian or broker.

Order Aggregation

The Firm may aggregate brokerage orders for client accounts and may allocate the securities purchased or sold among participating accounts, with each account receiving the same terms. Qualified custodians charge transaction fees at the account level, whether or not a trade is placed as a block trade; therefore, aggregating trades does not affect client transaction fees. The overarching principle for that allocation is that no client be intentionally favored over another client similarly situated. Firm employees may not participate in block trades with clients.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Trades are reviewed daily, with each account being reviewed at least weekly. Such reviews entail looking at holdings of each portfolio in light of each client's investment objectives and risk tolerance, and in keeping with an Investment Policy Statement. Additional reviews may be triggered by events such as a client meeting; a change in a client's risk tolerance, financial position or investment objective; a change in a company or fund's management; unusual market or economic circumstances; or other unforeseen event(s). The Firm encourages clients to meet with Principals of the Firm at least annually.

Fidelity provides each client a monthly or quarterly statement showing the account holdings and all transactions occurring during the period. The Firm may provide performance and other reports to clients on a case by case basis during meetings with clients.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

The Firm intends to utilize third-party solicitors for referring clients. In the case when a client is referred to the firm by such a third-party solicitor, the Firm may pay an upfront or an ongoing fee to such third-party solicitor. Where a referral fee is paid, such fact shall be disclosed to the client affected by the referral.

CUSTODY

Custody is defined as having any form of access to client funds or securities. Because the Firm generally has the authority to instruct the custodian to deduct the investment management fee directly from the client's account, the Firm is considered to have "custody" of client assets. This limited access may be monitored by the client through the review of account statements provided by the custodian either by surface mail or email, or by logging on to a client portal / website maintained by the custodian. These statements all show the deduction of management fees from the account. Otherwise, the Firm may only direct the movement of funds from one account in the client's name to another account identically titled, but the Firm has no other access to client funds.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

For discretionary accounts, the Firm has full trading authority under a limited power of attorney. As a result, the Firm will determine which investments, and how much of each, should be purchased or sold on a client's behalf, in accordance with the investment strategy set forth in each client's Investment Policy Statement. Clients may, in writing, place restrictions on the Firm's discretion.

Non-discretionary accounts are managed for clients not willing or unable to provide limited power of attorney to MBR. Such non-discretionary accounts are also called "self-directed" assets, which the Firm helps maintain as a convenience for clients. Depending on the Firm's involvement, the Firm may charge a management fee for these "non-discretionary" or "self-directed" assets.

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

The Firm does not vote proxies for securities held in clients' accounts. Clients receive proxy material directly from their custodian by either email or regular mail. Clients may address questions concerning a proxy matter to the Firm's personnel via email or phone.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

There is no financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair the Firm's ability to meet contractual commitments to its clients.
