Item 4: Advisory Business

A. Description of Your Advisory Firm

Blue Prairie Group, LLC ("Blue Prairie Group" and/or "the firm"), is an Illinois limited liability company principally owned by Matthew Gnabasik and Gary Silverman. Blue Prairie Group has been providing investment advisory and consulting services since July of 2005.

B. Description of Advisory Services Offered

Blue Prairie Group is an independent investment advisory and consulting firm that provides objective discretionary and non-discretionary private investment management and financial planning services to individuals and high-net-worth individuals, families, trusts, estates, foundations, pension and profit sharing plans, institutional retirement (both ERISA and non-ERISA) plans and corporations, and other business entities.

For its discretionary asset management services, Blue Prairie Group receives a limited power of attorney to effect securities transactions on behalf of its clients that include securities and strategies as described in Item 8 of this Brochure.

B.1. Asset Management Services

B.1.a. Individual Investment Consulting

Blue Prairie Group first works with the client to develop an overall investment strategy and financial plan. The discovery phase of the process includes an analysis of financial goals, which may include advice regarding capital sufficiency and cash flow, retirement planning, income tax planning, education funding, corporate benefit decisions, and consideration of estate planning issues. The result of this overall analysis serves as the foundation for the client's strategic investment plan, which includes investment education, portfolio design, and ongoing portfolio monitoring and management.

Blue Prairie Group's asset management services are predicated on the client's investment objectives, goals, tolerance for risk, and other personal and financial circumstances. Blue Prairie Group will analyze each client's current investments, investment objectives, goals, age, time horizon, financial circumstances, investment experience, investment restrictions and limitations, and risk tolerance and implement a portfolio consistent with such investment objectives, goals, risk tolerance, and related financial circumstances. Blue Prairie Group's objective is to review the client's tax, financial, and estate planning objectives and goals in connection with the client's investment objectives, goals, tolerance for risk, and other personal and financial circumstances and make appropriate recommendations. Blue Prairie Group may work with third-party service providers to assist with the tax and estate planning portion of the services provided to clients.

Blue Prairie Group's engagement with a client will include, as appropriate, the following:

- Providing assistance in reviewing the client's current investment portfolio against the client's personal and financial circumstances as disclosed to Blue Prairie Group in response to a questionnaire and/or in discussions with the client and reviewed in meetings with Blue Prairie Group.

- Analyzing the client's financial circumstances, investment holdings and strategy, and goals.
- Providing assistance in identifying a targeted asset allocation and portfolio design.
- Implementing and/or recommending individual equity and fixed income securities, mutual funds, and exchange-traded funds.
- Reporting to the client on a quarterly basis or at some other interval agreed upon with the client, information on contributions and withdrawals in the client's investment portfolio and the performance of the client's portfolio measured against appropriate benchmarks.
- Implementing changes in the client's investment portfolio in consideration of changes in the client's personal circumstances, investment objectives, and tolerance for risk, the performance record of any of the client's investments, and/or the performance of any fund retained by the client, as well as based on changing economic and market outlooks.

In addition to providing Blue Prairie Group with information regarding their personal financial circumstances, investment objectives, and tolerance for risk, clients are required to provide Blue Prairie Group with any reasonable investment restrictions that should be imposed on the management of their portfolio, and to promptly notify Blue Prairie Group of any changes in such restrictions or in the client's personal financial circumstances, investment objectives, goals, and tolerance for risk. On a quarterly basis, or other frequency level mutually agreed upon by the client and Blue Prairie Group, Blue Prairie Group's reports to clients will remind clients of their obligation to inform Blue Prairie Group of any such changes or any restrictions that should be imposed on the management of their accounts. Blue Prairie Group will also contact clients at least annually to determine whether there have been any changes in a client's personal financial circumstances, investment objectives, and tolerance for risk.

Blue Prairie Group may utilize third-party software to analyze individual security holdings and separate account managers held in the client's portfolio. On a quarterly basis, Blue Prairie Group, in connection with a third-party service provider, will provide such clients with reports regarding the performance of their portfolios. In addition, Blue Prairie Group will monitor those portfolios and make additional recommendations and implementation decisions from time to time to rebalance and/or reallocate each client's investments in accordance with such client's investment circumstances, as applicable.

After developing an overall strategy, Blue Prairie Group will aid the client in implementing the plan.

B.1.b. Institutional Investment Consulting

Blue Prairie Group also provides investment consulting and investment advisory services to institutional ERISA (see detailed explanatory note below) and non-ERISA retirement plans, trusts, foundations, estates, charitable organizations, corporations, or other business entities.

Institutional investment management services typically include portfolio design, asset allocation modeling, preparation of investment policy statements, screening and selection of investment managers, and performance monitoring. Typical services provided to these clients are consistent with the process described above. Depending on the client's unique circumstances, Blue Prairie Group may provide discretionary or non-discretionary investment consulting services for institutions.

B.2. Institutional Retirement Investment Advisory Services

Employees in qualified retirement plans are protected by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), which requires employers, investment advisors, and plan administrators to put employees' interests first when managing retirement savings plans. Public retirement systems are governed by similar state laws and often incorporate the protections of ERISA.

In order to demonstrate that a plan fiduciary has operated in a prudent manner, there are certain steps that the fiduciary must take. Blue Prairie Group is committed to helping fiduciaries understand their roles and to assist them in implementing a process that allows them to fulfill their duties and responsibilities.

Blue Prairie Group offers government retirement systems, sponsors of employee benefit plans (defined contribution and defined benefit) qualified under the Internal Revenue Code ("IRC"), and other retirement plans not qualified under the IRC (including Taft-Hartley organizations and "church" plans) a range of discretionary and non-discretionary services, including the selection of registered investment companies or other pooled investment funds to be offered under the plan.

Blue Prairie Group will assist plan fiduciaries in the following:

Investment Selection and Monitoring

- Creating an investment policy statement
- Modeling asset allocations
- Selecting investment managers
- Monitoring the investment options against well-defined risk and return criteria

Plan Evaluation/Benchmarking

Blue Prairie Group also "benchmarks" retirement plans against those of organizations in the same industry and against national normative data. Factors that Blue Prairie Group evaluates include the following:

- Participation, deferral percentage, and asset allocation
- Investment performance
- Plan design
- Total plan costs
- Compliance
- Participant education and communication

- Recordkeeping and administration
- Technology
- Service provider capabilities and profiles

Blue Prairie Group's investment professionals work in partnership with clients to create sound solutions to investment challenges, including:

- Maximizing long-term return while not assuming unnecessary risk
- Creating an optimal portfolio that includes a diverse array of investment options that span the risk/return spectrum
- Keeping plan sponsors current on manager performance and the events that may effect performance

Vendor Search and Selection and Plan Implementation

Blue Prairie Group also assists its retirement plan clients in selecting trustees, custodians, accountants, actuaries, and other service providers. This process involves:

- Generating criteria to identify appropriate service provides
- Developing requests for proposals
- Objectively rating service providers
- Evaluating highly rated service provider candidates

Once a service provider is selected, Blue Prairie Group will assist a client in implementing the client's retirement plan program. In implementing the program, Blue Prairie Group will, among other things, review the plan design, develop performance standards, and review the service provider's contract.

Blue Prairie Group also provides assistance with strategic employee education and communications in connection with client retirement plan programs.

B.3. Financial Planning Services

Blue Prairie Group provides objective financial planning services in addition to investment advisory services. Financial planning services include an analysis of financial goals, which may include advice regarding capital sufficiency and cash flow, retirement planning, income tax planning, education funding, corporate benefit decisions, and consideration of estate plan.

C. Client-Tailored Services and Client-Imposed Restrictions

Each client's account will be managed on the basis of the client's financial situation and investment objectives and in accordance with any reasonable restrictions imposed by the client on the management of the account—for example, restricting the type or amount of security to be purchased in the portfolio.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

Blue Prairie Group does not participate in wrap fee programs. (Wrap fee programs offer services for one all-inclusive fee.)

E. Client Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2013, Blue Prairie Group has $172,988,129 of discretionary assets under management and $5,009,837,693 of non-discretionary assets under management.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

A. Methods of Compensation and Fee Schedule

A.1. Individual Investment Advisory Fee Schedule

Fees for asset management, including portfolio design, implementation, and ongoing review, are generally calculated based on a percentage of client assets under advisement and are recalculated quarterly. Assets under advisement include those mutually agreed upon by the client and Blue Prairie Group.

Assets Under Advisement	Annual Fee Rate*
0 to $500,000	Up to 1.50%
$500,000 to $1,500,000	Up to 1.00%
$1,500,000 to $3,000,000	Up to 0.80%
$3,000,000 to $7,500,000	Up to 0.60%
$7,500,000 to $15,000,000	Up to 0.50%
Over $15,000,000	Negotiable

* Fees are negotiable.

Blue Prairie Group generally requires a minimum annual fee of $5,000. This equates to a minimum account size of $350,000. As such, clients with portfolio values of less than $350,000 may be able to find comparable services at economically more favorable pricing elsewhere. Blue Prairie Group may waive the required minimum account values in special circumstances and reserves the right to make exceptions to such minimum account values in its sole discretion.

Advisory fees are always subject to the investment advisory and/or financial planning agreement between the client and Blue Prairie Group. Generally, fees will be charged quarterly in advance; subject to approval by Blue Prairie Group, clients may also pay quarterly or monthly in advance or arrears. For clients who pay either monthly or quarterly in advance, the client will be invoiced at the beginning of each calendar month or quarter, based upon the market value (market value plus any credit balance or minus any debit balance) of the client's account at the end of the previous month or quarter. For clients who pay either monthly or quarterly in arrears, the client will be invoiced at the end of each calendar month or quarter based upon the market value (market value plus any credit balance or minus any debit balance) of the client's account at the end of such month or quarter, as mutually agreed upon by the client and Blue Prairie Group.

The client authorizes the qualified custodian to automatically deduct the fee and all other charges payable hereunder from the assets in the account when due, with such payments to be reflected on the next account statement sent to the client. If insufficient cash is available to pay such fees, securities in an amount equal to the balance of unpaid fees will be liquidated to pay for the unpaid balance. Blue Prairie Group may modify the fee at any time upon 30 days' written notice to the client.

A client investment advisory agreement may be canceled for any reason at any time by the client upon receipt of written notice, or by Blue Prairie Group with 30 days' prior written notice.

to the client. Upon termination of any account, any unearned, prepaid fees will be promptly refunded and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable. If the client has not received the firm's disclosure documents (Brochure and Brochure Supplements) at least 48 hours prior to signing the investment advisory agreement, the client has the right to terminate an agreement without penalty within five business days after entering into the agreement.

A.2. Institutional Investment Advisory Fees

Blue Prairie Group's fees for its institutional investment consulting services to retirement plan sponsors, corporate trusts, endowments, etc., may be paid by the plan or trust or by the plan sponsor, and may be a flat fee or a fee that is a percentage of the assets in the plan.

A.2.a. Non-Discretionary Asset-Based Fee Alternative

Fees for institutional asset management are generally calculated based on a percentage of client assets under advisement and are calculated quarterly. The asset-based fee ranges from 0.10% to 1.00% of assets under advisement.

Assets Under Advisement	Annual Fee Rate*
Under $1,000,000	Up to 1.00%
$1,000,000 to $5,000,000	Up to 0.80%
$5,000,000 to $10,000,000	Up to 0.60%
$10,000,000 to $50,000,000	Up to 0.40%
$50,000,000 to $150,000,000	Up to 0.20%
$150,000,000 to $500,000,000	Up to 0.15%
Over $500,000,000	Up to 0.10%

* Fees are negotiable.

Blue Prairie Group generally requires a minimum annual fee of $20,000. This equates to a minimum account size of $2,000,000. As such, clients with portfolio values of less than $2,000,000 may be able to find comparable services at economically more favorable pricing elsewhere. Blue Prairie Group may waive the required minimum account values in special circumstances and reserves the right to make exceptions to such minimum account values at its sole discretion. Fees are negotiable.

Fees may be paid monthly, quarterly, semiannually, or annually (but typically quarterly or monthly) in advance or arrears, as negotiated by Blue Prairie Group and the client. Fees that are a percentage of the plan's assets are based on the value of the aggregate assets as of the end of the preceding period for which the fee is being calculated.

An agreement for institutional investment consulting services may be terminated upon 30 days' notice to Blue Prairie Group. If the client has not received the firm's disclosure documents (Brochure and Brochure Supplements) at least 48 hours prior to signing the investment advisory agreement, the client has the right to terminate an agreement without penalty within five business days after entering into the agreement. Any unearned, prepaid fees for the quarter will be promptly refunded, and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable.

A.2.b. Discretionary Fee Alternative

Fees for institutional asset management are generally calculated based on a percentage of client assets under advisement and are calculated quarterly. The asset-based fee ranges from 0.10% to 1.00% of assets under advisement.

Assets Under Advisement	Annual Fee Rate*
Under $1,000,000	Up to 1.00%
$1,000,000 to $5,000,000	Up to 0.80%
$5,000,000 to $10,000,000	Up to 0.60%
$10,000,000 to $50,000,000	Up to 0.40%
$50,000,000 to $150,000,000	Up to 0.20%
$150,000,000 to $500,000,000	Up to 0.15%
Over $500,000,000	Up to 0.10%

* Fees are negotiable.

Blue Prairie Group generally requires a minimum annual fee of $20,000. This equates to a minimum account size of $1,500,000. As such, clients with portfolio values of less than $1,500,000 may be able to find comparable services at economically more favorable pricing elsewhere. Blue Prairie Group may waive the required minimum account values in special circumstances and reserves the right to make exceptions to such minimum account values at its sole discretion. Fees are negotiable.

Fees may be paid monthly, quarterly, semiannually, or annually (but typically quarterly or monthly) in advance or arrears, as negotiated by Blue Prairie Group and the client. Fees that are a percentage of the plan's assets are based on the value of the aggregate assets during the preceding period for which the fee is being calculated.

An agreement for institutional investment consulting services may be terminated at any time by the client and terminated by Blue Prairie upon 30 days' notice to the client. If the client has not received the firm's disclosure documents (Brochure and Brochure Supplement(s)) at least 48 hours prior to signing the investment advisory agreement, the client has the right to terminate an agreement without penalty within five business days after entering into the agreement. Any unearned, prepaid fees for the quarter will be promptly refunded, and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable.

A.2.c. Fixed-Fee Alternative

The amount of the fee is negotiable and is generally determined by the size of the account, the diversification desired in the portfolio, the scope of services agreed to by the client, pre-existing relationships with Blue Prairie Group, and the number of meetings and consultations Blue Prairie Group expects with the client. A flat fee is generally between $50,000 and $250,000, with a minimum fee of $20,000.

Typical services include:

- Creating an investment policy statement
- Modeling asset allocations
- Selecting investment managers

- Monitoring the investment options against well-defined risk and return criteria

A.3. Financial Planning Fees

Financial planning services and fees are generally project driven and based upon the complexity of the project and the number of hours required to complete the services requested by the client. Blue Prairie Group will provide the client with a good faith estimate of the fees required to complete services prior to formalizing the financial planning agreement. Blue Prairie Group requires the prepayment of 50% of the estimated financial planning fee up front and the balance paid upon completion of the project. Hourly fees are billed at a maximum rate of $300 per hour and may be negotiable.

Financial planning fees are always subject to the financial planning agreement between the client and Blue Prairie Group. Upon termination of any account, any unearned, prepaid fees will be promptly refunded, and any earned, unpaid fees will be due and payable.

B. Client Payment of Fees

B.1. Payment of Asset-Based Fees for Individual Clients

Unless an alternative fee payment method is agreed upon by the client and the firm, Blue Prairie Group will deduct advisory directly from the client's account provided that (i) the client provides written authorization to the qualified custodian, and (ii) the qualified custodian sends the client a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from the account.

The client is responsible for verifying the accuracy of the fee calculation, as the client's custodian will not verify the calculation.

B.2. Payment of Institutional Advisory Fees

Unless an alternative fee payment method is agreed upon by the client and the firm, Blue Prairie Group will deduct advisory directly from the client's account provided that (i) the client provides written authorization to the qualified custodian, and (ii) the qualified custodian sends the client a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from the account.

The client is responsible for verifying the accuracy of the fee calculation, as the client's custodian will not verify the calculation.

C. Additional Client Fees Charged

The fees charged by Blue Prairie Group do not include fees charged by any exchange-traded fund, mutual fund, separate account manager, pooled investment vehicle, or any broker-dealer or custodian selected by the client. The management fees for pooled investment vehicles are disclosed in their confidential offering memoranda and applicable subscription documents or, in the case of an exchange-traded fund or mutual fund, in the respective fund's prospectus. Fees charged by separate account managers are described in the respective manager's disclosure documents (Brochure and Brochure Supplements). Clients are advised to read these materials carefully before investing. If a mutual fund also imposes sales charges, the client may pay an initial or deferred sales charge as further described in the mutual fund's prospectus. A client using Blue Prairie Group may be precluded from using certain mutual funds or separate account managers because they may not be offered by the client's custodian. Please refer to the Brokerage Practices section (Item 12) for additional information regarding the firm's brokerage practices.

D. Prepayment of Client Fees

For Blue Prairie Group clients that prepay their advisory fees, Blue Prairie Group's fees will either be paid directly by the client or disbursed to Blue Prairie Group by the qualified custodian of the client's investment accounts, subject to prior written consent of the client. The custodian will deliver directly to the client an account statement, at least quarterly, showing all investment and transaction activity for the period, including fee disbursements from the account.

A client investment advisory agreement may be canceled at any time by the client, or by Blue Prairie Group with 30 days' prior written notice to the client. If the agreement terminates other than at the end of a calendar month or quarter, Blue Prairie Group will promptly refund all unearned, prepaid fees to the client. The client has the right to terminate an agreement without penalty within five business days after entering into the agreement.

Financial planning services and fees are generally project based and negotiated in advance of finalizing the financial planning agreement. Blue Prairie Group requires the prepayment of 50% of the estimated financial planning fee upfront and the balance paid upon completion of the project.

E. External Compensation for the Sale of Securities to Clients

Blue Prairie Group's financial advisors are generally compensated solely through a salary and bonus structure. Blue Prairie Group compensates its financial advisors on a percentage of Blue Prairie Group's fee for the procurement and maintenance of specific client relationships. Blue Prairie Group is not paid any sales, service, or administrative fees for the sale of mutual funds or any other investment products.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Blue Prairie Group does not charge performance-based fees and therefore has no economic incentive to manage clients' portfolios in any way other than what is in their best interests.

Item 7: Types of Clients

Blue Prairie Group provides objective discretionary and non-discretionary private investment management and consulting services to individuals including high-net-worth individuals, families, trusts, estates, foundations, pension and profit sharing plans, institutional retirement (both ERISA and non-ERISA) plans and corporations, and other business entities. Although Blue Prairie Group provides investment services to the various types of clients mentioned, the services are conditioned upon meeting certain minimum criteria established by Blue Prairie Group for each of the investment programs it offers.

For individual clients, Blue Prairie Group generally requires a minimum account fee of $5,000. As such, Blue Prairie Group's services are designed for the investor with a minimum of $350,000 of portfolio assets at the highest fee tier. Clients with less than $350,000 in portfolio assets may be able to find similar services at prices more favorable than those charged by Blue Prairie Group. Blue Prairie Group, in its sole discretion, may waive the required minimum fee.

For institutional clients, Blue Prairie Group generally requires a minimum annual fee of $20,000. This equates to a minimum account size of $2,000,000. As such, clients with portfolio values of less than $2,000,000 may be able to find comparable services at economically more favorable pricing elsewhere. Blue Prairie Group may waive the required minimum account values in special circumstances and reserves the right to make exceptions to such minimum account values at its sole discretion. Fees are negotiable.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Blue Prairie Group uses a variety of sources of data to conduct its economic, investment and market analysis, such as financial newspapers and magazines, economic and market research materials prepared by others, conference calls hosted by mutual funds, corporate rating services, annual reports, prospectuses, and company press releases. It is important to keep in mind that there is no specific approach to investing that guarantees success or positive returns; investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Blue Prairie Group and its investment adviser representatives are responsible for identifying and implementing the methods of analysis used in formulating investment recommendations to clients. The methods of analysis may include quantitative methods for optimizing client portfolios, computer-based risk/return analysis, technical analysis, and statistical and/or computer models utilizing long-term economic criteria.

- Optimization involves the use of mathematical algorithms to determine the appropriate mix of assets given the firm's current capital market rate assessment and a particular client's risk tolerance.
- Quantitative methods include analysis of historical data such as price and volume statistics, performance data, standard deviation and related risk metrics, how the security performs relative to the overall stock market, earnings data, price to earnings ratios, and related data.
- Technical analysis involves charting price and volume data as reported by the exchange where the security is traded to look for price trends.
- Computer models may be used to attempt the future value of a security based on assumptions of various data categories such as earnings, cash flow, profit margins, sales, and a variety of other company specific metrics.

In addition, Blue Prairie Group reviews research material prepared by others, as well as corporate filings, corporate rating services, and a variety of financial publications. Blue Prairie Group may employ outside vendors or utilize third-party software to assist in formulating investment recommendations to clients.

A.1. Mutual Funds, Exchange-Traded Funds, Separate Account Managers and Pooled Investment Vehicles, Individual Equity and Fixed Income Securities

Blue Prairie Group may recommend (i) separate account managers to manage client assets, (ii) no-load and load-waived mutual funds and individual securities (including fixed income instruments), and (iii) pooled investment vehicles. Such management styles may include, among others, large-, mid-, and small-cap value, growth, and core; international and emerging markets; and alternative investments. Blue Prairie Group may also assist the client in selecting one or more appropriate manager(s) for all or a portion of the client's portfolio. Such managers typically manage assets for clients who commit to the manager a minimum amount of assets established by that manager—a factor that Blue Prairie Group will take into account when recommending managers to clients.

Strategic investment plans developed for each client emphasize long-term investments in a diversified portfolio intended to provide the highest expected return consistent with the client's risk tolerance. Blue Prairie Group attempts to achieve diversification for its clients by diversifying over time, across asset classes, within asset classes, across investment management styles, and internationally. However, specific holdings and/or recommendations may be non-diversified and carry a relatively high-risk level.

A description of the criteria to be used in formulating an investment recommendation for mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, individual securities (including fixed income securities), managers, and pooled investment vehicles is set forth below.

Blue Prairie Group has formed relationships with third-party vendors that

- provide a technological platform for separate account management
- prepare performance reports
- perform due diligence monitoring of mutual funds, managers, and pooled investment vehicles
- perform billing and certain other administrative tasks

Blue Prairie Group may utilize additional independent third parties to assist it in recommending and monitoring individual securities, mutual funds, managers, and pooled investment vehicles to clients as appropriate under the circumstances.

Blue Prairie Group reviews certain quantitative and qualitative criteria related to mutual funds and managers and to formulate investment recommendations to its clients. Quantitative criteria may include:

- the performance history of a mutual fund or manager evaluated against that of its peers and other benchmarks
- an analysis of risk-adjusted returns
- an analysis of the manager's contribution to the investment return (e.g., manager's alpha), standard deviation of returns over specific time periods, sector and style analysis
- the fund, sub-advisor, or manager's fee structure
- the relevant portfolio manager's tenure
- consistency of performance
- volatility, fees, and expenses
- consistency of investment style
- assets under advisement
- tax efficiency

Qualitative criteria used in recommending mutual funds or managers include the investment objectives and/or management style and philosophy of a mutual fund or manager, a mutual fund or manager's consistency of investment style, and employee turnover and efficiency and capacity. Blue Prairie Group will discuss relevant quantitative and qualitative factors pertaining to its recommendations with clients prior to a client's determination to retain a mutual fund or manager, or Blue Prairie Group will decide to implement such recommendations directly for accounts over which it has discretion.

Quantitative and qualitative criteria related to mutual funds and managers are reviewed by Blue Prairie Group on a quarterly basis or such other interval as mutually agreed upon by the client and Blue Prairie Group. In addition, mutual funds or managers are reviewed to determine the extent to which their investments reflect efforts to time the market, or evidence style drift such that their portfolios no longer accurately reflect the particular asset category attributed to the mutual fund or manager by Blue Prairie Group (both of which are negative factors in implementing an asset allocation structure). Based on its review, Blue Prairie Group will make recommendations to clients regarding the retention or discharge of a mutual fund or manager.

Blue Prairie Group may negotiate reduced account minimum balances and reduced fees with managers under various circumstances (for example, for clients with minimum level of assets committed to the manager for specific periods of time, etc.). There can be no assurance that clients will receive any reduced account minimum balances or fees, or that all clients, even if apparently similarly situated, will receive any reduced account minimum balances or fees available to some other clients. Also, account minimum balances and fees may significantly differ between clients. Each client's individual needs and circumstances will determine portfolio weighting, which can have an impact on fees given the mutual funds or managers utilized. Blue Prairie Group will endeavor to obtain equal treatment for its clients with mutual funds or managers, but cannot assure equal treatment.

Blue Prairie Group will regularly review the activities of mutual funds and managers selected by the client. Clients that engage managers or invest in mutual funds should first review and understand the disclosure documents of those managers or mutual funds, which contain information relevant to such retention or investment, including information on the methodology used to analyze securities, investment strategies, fees, and conflicts of interest. Similarly, clients qualified to invest in pooled investment vehicles should review the private placement memoranda or other disclosure materials relating to such vehicles before making a decision to invest.

In identifying investment managers, Blue Prairie Group may utilize an independent service or a proprietary database that maintains a comprehensive list of qualified investment managers. Through the use of this list or otherwise, Blue Prairie Group recommends qualified investment manager candidates. Information regarding investment managers is obtained from various third-party sources, which may include Nelson's Directory of Investment Managers and Morningstar Direct Reports. Blue Prairie Group also bases its assessment of investment managers on qualitative criteria, including the general reputation of the investment manager, stability of the organization and management team, and information obtained through interviews with the managers that Blue Prairie Group recommends. In addition, the criteria for the evaluation of private investments may include a review of factors, such as the investment structure of the investment and funding and withdrawal provisions. In such cases, Blue Prairie Group may rely on consultants, appraisers, accountants, lawyers, and industry sources as needed.

A.2. Material Risks of Investment Instruments

Blue Prairie Group typically invests in equity securities, mutual funds, unit investment trusts or alternative investments (e.g., hedge funds), corporate debt instruments, municipal fixed income instruments, government securities including asset-backed securities, and options on securities as detailed below:

- Equity securities
- Warrants and rights
- Mutual fund securities
- Exchange-traded funds
- Corporate debt securities, commercial paper, and certificates of deposit
- Municipal securities
- U.S. government securities
- Private placements
- Pooled investment vehicles
- Closed-end funds
- Structured products
- Government and agency mortgage-backed securities
- Corporate debt obligations
- Mortgage-backed securities
- Collateralized obligations
- Option contracts on securities

A.2.a. Equity Securities

Investing in individual companies involves inherent risk. The major risks relate to the company's capitalization, quality of the company's management, quality and cost of the company's services, the company's ability to manage costs, efficiencies in the manufacturing or service delivery process, management of litigation risk, and the company's ability to create shareholder value (i.e., increase the value of the company's stock price). Foreign securities, in addition to the general risks of equity securities, have geopolitical risk, financial transparency risk, currency risk, regulatory risk, and liquidity risk.

A.2.b. Warrants and Rights

Warrants are securities, typically issued with preferred stock or bonds, that give the holder the right to purchase a given number of shares of common stock at a specified price and time. The price of the warrant usually represents a premium over the applicable market value of the common stock at the time of the warrant's issuance. Warrants have no voting rights with respect to the common stock, receive no dividends, and have no rights with respect to the assets of the issuer.

Investments in warrants and rights involve certain risks, including the possible lack of a liquid market for the resale of the warrants and rights, potential price fluctuations due to adverse market conditions or other factors, and failure of the price of the common stock to rise. If the warrant is not exercised within the specified time period, it becomes worthless.

A.2.c. Mutual Fund Securities

Investing in mutual funds carries inherent risk. The major risks of investing in a mutual fund include the quality and experience of the portfolio management team and its ability to create fund value by investing in securities that have positive growth, the amount of individual company diversification, the type and amount of industry diversification, and the type and amount of sector diversification within specific industries. In addition, mutual funds tend to be tax inefficient and therefore investors may pay capital gains taxes on fund investments while not having yet sold the fund.

A.2.d. Exchange-Traded Funds ("ETFs")

ETFs are investment companies whose shares are bought and sold on a securities exchange. An ETF holds a portfolio of securities designed to track a particular market segment or index. Some examples of ETFs are SPDRs[®], streetTRACKS[®], DIAMONDSSM, NASDAQ 100 Index Tracking StockSM ("QQQsSM"), iShares[®], and VIPERs[®]. The funds could purchase an ETF to gain exposure to a portion of the U.S. or foreign market. The funds, as a shareholder of another investment company, will bear their pro rata portion of the other investment company's advisory fee and other expenses, in addition to their own expenses.

Investing in ETFs involves risk. Specifically, ETFs, depending on the underlying portfolio and its size, can have wide price (bid and ask) spreads, thus diluting or negating any upward price movement of the ETF or enhancing any downward price movement. Also, ETFs require more frequent portfolio reporting by regulators and are thereby more susceptible to actions by hedge funds that could have a negative impact on the price of the ETF. Certain ETFs may employ leverage, which creates additional volatility and price risk depending on the amount of leverage utilized, the collateral, and the liquidity of the supporting collateral.

Further, the use of leverage (i.e., employing the use of margin) generally results in additional interest costs to the ETF. Certain ETFs are highly leveraged and therefore have additional volatility and liquidity risk. Volatility and liquidity can severely and negatively impact the price of the ETF's underlying portfolio securities, thereby causing significant price fluctuations of the ETF.

A.2.e. Corporate Debt, Commercial Paper, and Certificates of Deposit

Fixed income securities carry additional risks than those of equity securities described above. These risks include the company's ability to retire its debt at maturity, the current interest rate environment, the coupon interest rate promised to bondholders, legal constraints, jurisdictional risk (U.S or foreign), and currency risk. If bonds have maturities of 10 years or greater, they will likely have greater price swings when interest rates move up or down. The shorter the maturity the less volatile the price swings. Foreign bonds also have liquidity and currency risk.

Commercial paper and certificates of deposit are generally considered safe instruments, although they are subject to the level of general interest rates, the credit quality of the issuing bank, and the length of maturity. With respect to certificates of deposit, depending on the length of maturity there can be prepayment penalties if the client needs to convert the certificate of deposit to cash prior to maturity.

A.2.f. Municipal Securities

Municipal securities carry additional risks than those of corporate and bank-sponsored debt securities described above. These risks include the municipality's ability to raise additional tax revenue or other revenue (in the event the bonds are revenue bonds) to pay interest on its debt and to retire its debt at maturity. Municipal bonds are generally tax-free at the federal level, but may be taxable in individual states other than the state in which both the investor and municipal issuer is domiciled.

A.2.g. U.S. Government Securities

U.S. government securities include securities issued by the U.S. Treasury and by U.S. government agencies and instrumentalities. U.S. government securities may be supported by the full faith and credit of the United States.

A.2.h. Private Placements

Private placements carry significant risk in that companies using the private placement market conduct securities offerings that are exempt from registration under the federal securities laws, which means that investors do not have access to public information and such investors are not provided with the same amount of information that they would receive if the securities offering was a public offering. Moreover, many companies using private placements do so to raise equity capital in the start-up phase of their business or require additional capital to complete another phase in their growth objective. In addition, the securities issued in connection with private placements are restricted securities, which means that they are not traded on a secondary market, such as a stock exchange, and they are thus illiquid and cannot be readily converted to cash.

A.2.i. Pooled Investment Vehicles

A pooled investment vehicle, such as a commodity pool or investment company, is generally offered only to investors who meet specified suitability, net worth, and annual income criteria. Pooled investment vehicles sell securities through private placements and thus are illiquid and subject to a variety of risks that are disclosed in each pooled investment vehicle's confidential private placement memorandum or disclosure document. Investors should read these documents carefully and consult with their professional advisors prior to committing investment dollars. Because many of the securities involved in pooled investment vehicles do not have transparent trading markets from which accurate and current pricing information can be derived, or in the case of private equity investments where portfolio security companies are privately held with no publicly traded market, Blue Prairie Group will be unable to monitor or verify the accuracy of such performance information.

A.2.j. Closed-End Funds

Risk factors pertaining to closed-end funds vary from fund to fund. The following list of risk factors provides a review of those associated with generalized closed-end fund investing. Not every risk factor in this list will pertain to each closed-end fund. Based on these risk factors and others, not every fund may be suitable for all investors.

- Market Risk: Common shares may trade above (a premium) or below (a discount) the net asset value (NAV) of the trust/fund's portfolio. In other words they have similar trading characteristics as publicly trade equity securities. There is no assurance that discounted trust/funds will appreciate to their NAV.
- Interest Rate Risk: Generally, when market interest rates rise, bond prices fall, and vice versa. Interest rate risk is the risk that the bonds and/or other income-related instruments in a trust/fund's portfolio will decline in value because of increases in market interest rates. The prices of longer-maturity securities tend to fluctuate more than those of shorter-term securities.
- Credit Risk: One or more securities in a trust/fund's portfolio could decline or fail to pay interest or principal when due. Income-related securities of below investment grade quality are predominately speculative with respect to the issuer's capacity to pay interest and repay principal when due and, therefore, involve a greater risk of default.
- Concentration Risk: A trust/fund that invests a substantial portion of its assets in securities within a single industry or sector of the economy may be subject to greater price volatility or adversely affected by the performance of securities in that particular sector or industry.
- Reinvestment Risk: Income from a trust/fund's bond portfolio will decline if and when the trust/fund invests the proceeds from matured, traded, or called bonds at market interest rates that are below the portfolio's current earnings rate. A decline in income could affect the common shares' market price or their overall returns.
- Leverage Risk: The use of leverage may lead to increased volatility of a trust/fund's NAV and market price relative to its common shares. Leverage is likely to magnify any losses in the trust/fund's portfolio, which may lead to increased market price declines. Fluctuations in interest rates on borrowings or the dividend rates on preferred shares as a result of changes in short-term interest rates may reduce the return to common shareholders or result in fluctuations in the dividends paid on common shares. There is no assurance that a leveraging strategy will be successful.
- Foreign Investment Risk: Investment in foreign securities (both governmental and corporate) may involve a high degree of risk. Trusts/funds invested in foreign securities are subject to additional risks such as, but not limited to, currency risk and exchange-rate risk, political instability, and economic instability of the countries from where the securities originate. In regards to debt securities, such risks may impair the timely payment of principal and/or interest.

- Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT): A trust/fund's may invest in securities subject to the alternative minimum tax.

A.2.k. Structured Products

Structured products are designed to facilitate highly customized risk-return objectives. While structured products come in many different forms, they typically consist of a debt security that is structured to make interest and principal payments based upon various assets, rates, or formulas. Many structured products include an embedded derivative component. Structured products may be structured in the form of a security, in which case these products may receive benefits provided under federal securities law, or they may be cast as derivatives, in which case they are offered in the over-the-counter market and are subject to no regulation.

Investment in structured products includes significant risks, including valuation, liquidity, price, credit, and market risks. One common risk associated with structured products is a relative lack of liquidity due to the highly customized nature of the investment. Moreover, the full extent of returns from the complex performance features is often not realized until maturity. As such, structured products tend to be more of a buy-and-hold investment decision rather than a means of getting in and out of a position with speed and efficiency.

Another risk with structured products is the credit quality of the issuer. Although the cash flows are derived from other sources, the products themselves are legally considered to be the issuing financial institution's liabilities. The vast majority of structured products are from high-investment-grade issuers only. Also, there is a lack of pricing transparency. There is no uniform standard for pricing, making it harder to compare the net-of-pricing attractiveness of alternative structured product offerings than it is, for instance, to compare the net expense ratios of different mutual funds or commissions among broker-dealers.

A.2.l. Government and Agency Mortgage-Backed Securities

The principal issuers or guarantors of mortgage-backed securities are the Government National Mortgage Association ("GNMA"), Fannie Mae ("FNMA"), and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("FHLMC"). GNMA, a wholly owned U.S. government corporation within the Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD"), creates pass-through securities from pools of government-guaranteed (Farmers' Home Administration, Federal Housing Authority, or Veterans Administration) mortgages. The principal and interest on GNMA pass-through securities are backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government.

FNMA, which is a U.S. government-sponsored corporation owned entirely by private stockholders that is subject to regulation by the secretary of HUD, and FHLMC, a corporate instrumentality of the U.S. government, issue pass-through securities from pools of conventional and federally insured and/or guaranteed residential mortgages. FNMA guarantees full and timely payment of all interest and principal, and FHMLC guarantees timely payment of interest and ultimate collection of principal of its pass-through securities.

Mortgage-backed securities from FNMA and FHLMC are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government.

A.2.m. Corporate Debt Obligations

Corporate debt obligations include corporate bonds, debentures, notes, commercial paper, and other similar corporate debt instruments. Companies use these instruments to borrow money from investors. The issuer pays the investor a fixed or variable rate of interest and must repay the amount borrowed at maturity. Commercial paper (short-term unsecured promissory notes) is issued by companies to finance their current obligations and normally has a maturity of less than nine months. In addition, Blue Prairie Group may invest in corporate debt securities registered and sold in the United States by foreign issuers (Yankee bonds) and those sold outside the U.S. by foreign or U.S. issuers (Eurobonds).

A.2.n. Mortgage-Backed Securities

Mortgage-backed securities represent interests in a pool of mortgage loans originated by lenders such as commercial banks, savings associations, and mortgage bankers and brokers. Mortgage-backed securities may be issued by governmental or government-related entities, or by non-governmental entities such as special-purpose trusts created by commercial lenders.

Pools of mortgages consist of whole mortgage loans or participations in mortgage loans. The majority of these loans are made to purchasers of between one and four family homes. The terms and characteristics of the mortgage instruments are generally uniform within a pool but may vary among pools. For example, in addition to fixed-rate, fixed-term mortgages, Blue Prairie Group may purchase pools of adjustable-rate mortgages, growing equity mortgages, graduated payment mortgages, and other types. Mortgage poolers apply qualification standards to lending institutions, which originate mortgages for the pools as well as credit standards and underwriting criteria for individual mortgages included in the pools. In addition, many mortgages included in pools are insured through private mortgage insurance companies.

Mortgage-backed securities differ from other forms of fixed income securities, which normally provide for periodic payment of interest in fixed amounts with principal payments at maturity or on specified call dates. Most mortgage-backed securities, however, are pass-through securities, which means that investors receive payments consisting of a pro rata share of both principal and interest (less servicing and other fees), as well as unscheduled prepayments as loans in the underlying mortgage pool are paid off by the borrowers. Additional prepayments to holders of these securities are caused by prepayments resulting from the sale or foreclosure of the underlying property or refinancing of the underlying loans. As prepayment rates of individual pools of mortgage loans vary widely, it is not possible to accurately predict the average life of a particular mortgage-backed security. Although mortgage-backed securities are issued with stated maturities of up to 40 years, unscheduled or early payments of principal and interest on the mortgages may shorten considerably the securities' effective maturities.

A.2.o. Collateralized Obligations

Collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMOs") are collateralized by mortgage-backed securities issued by GNMA, FHLMC, or FNMA ("mortgage assets"). CMOs are multiple-class debt obligations. Payments of principal and interest on the mortgage assets are passed through to the holders of the CMOs as they are received, although certain classes (often referred to as "tranches") of CMOs have priority over other classes with respect to the receipt of mortgage prepayments. Each tranche is issued at a specific or floating coupon rate and has a stated maturity or final distribution date. Interest is paid or accrues in all tranches on a monthly, quarterly, or semi-annual basis. Payments of principal and interest on mortgage assets are commonly applied to the tranches in the order of their respective maturities or final distribution dates, so that generally no payment of principal will be made on any tranche until all other tranches with earlier stated maturity or distribution dates have been paid in full.

Collateralized debt obligations ("CDOs") include collateralized bond obligations ("CBOs"), collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs"), and other similarly structured securities. CBOs and CLOs are types of asset-backed securities. A CBO is a trust that is backed by a diversified pool of high-risk, below-investment-grade fixed income securities. A CLO is a trust typically collateralized by a pool of loans, which may include, among others, domestic and foreign senior secured loans, senior unsecured loans, and subordinate corporate loans, including loans that may be rated below investment grade or equivalent unrated loans.

A.2.p. Option Contracts on Securities

A call option is a contract under which the purchaser of the call option, in return for a premium paid, has the right to buy the security (or index) underlying the option at a specified price at any time during the term of the option. The writer of the call option, who receives the premium, has the obligation upon exercise of the option to deliver the underlying security against payment of the exercise price. A put option gives its purchaser, in return for a premium, the right to sell the underlying security at a specified price during the term of the option. The writer of the put, who receives the premium, has the obligation to buy, upon exercise of the option, the underlying security (or a cash amount equal to the value of the index) at the exercise price. The amount of a premium received or paid for an option is based upon certain factors, including the market price of the underlying security, the relationship of the exercise price to the market price, the historical price volatility of the underlying security, the option period, and interest rates.

B. Investment Strategy and Method of Analysis Material Risks

B.1. Leverage

Although Blue Prairie Group, as a general business practice, does not utilize leverage, there may be instances in which exchange-traded funds, other separate account managers and, in very limited circumstances, Blue Prairie Group will utilize leverage. In this regard, please review the following:

The use of leverage enhances the overall risk of investment gain and loss to the client's investment portfolio. For example, investors are able to control $2 of a security for $1. So if the price of a security rises by $1, the investor earns a 100% return on their investment. Conversely, if the security declines by $.50, then the investor loses 50% of their investment. The use of leverage entails borrowing, which results in additional interest costs to the investor.

Broker-dealers who carry customer accounts have a minimum equity requirement when clients utilize leverage. The minimum equity requirement is stated as a percentage of the value of the underlying collateral security with an absolute minimum dollar requirement. For example, if the price of a security declines in value to the point where the excess equity used to satisfy the minimum requirement dissipates, the broker-dealer will require the client to deposit additional collateral to the account in the form of cash or marketable securities. A deposit of securities to the account will require a larger deposit, as the security being deposited is included in the computation of the minimum equity requirement. In addition, when leverage is utilized and the client needs to withdraw cash or satisfy a margin deposit, the client must sell a disproportionate amount of collateral securities to release enough cash to satisfy the withdrawal or margin deposit amount based upon similar reasoning as cited above.

Regulations concerning the use of leverage are established by the Federal Reserve Board and vary if the client's account is held at a broker-dealer versus a bank custodian. Broker-dealers and bank custodians may apply more stringent rules as they deem necessary.

B.2. Short-Term Trading

Although Blue Prairie Group, as a general business practice, does not utilize short-term trading, there may be instances in which short-term trading may be necessary or an appropriate strategy. In this regard, please read the following:

There is an inherent risk for clients who trade frequently in that high-frequency trading creates substantial transaction costs that in the aggregate could negatively impact account performance.

B.3. Short Selling

Blue Prairie Group generally does not engage in short selling but reserves the right to do so in the exercise of its sole judgment. Short selling involves the sale of a security that is borrowed rather than owned. When a short sale is effected, the investor is expecting the price of the security to decline in value so that a purchase or closeout of the short sale can be effected at a significantly lower price. The primary risks of effecting short sales is the availability to borrow the stock, the unlimited potential for loss, and the requirement to fund any difference between the short credit balance and the market value of the security.

B.4. Option Strategies

Various option strategies give the holder the right to acquire or sell underlying securities at the contract strike price up until expiration of the option. Each contract is worth 100 shares of the underlying security. Options entail greater risk but allow an investor to have market exposure to a particular security or group of securities without the capital commitment required to purchase the underlying security or groups of securities. In addition, options allow investors to hedge security positions held in the portfolio. For detailed information on the use of options and option strategies, please contact the Options Clearing Corporation for the current Options Risk Disclosure Statement.

Blue Prairie Group as part of its investment strategy may employ the following option strategies:

- Covered call writing
- Long call options purchases
- Long put options purchases
- Option spreading
- Short call option strategy
- Short put option strategy
- Equity collars
- Long straddles

B.4.a. Covered Call Writing

Covered call writing is the sale of in-, at-, or out-of-the money call option against a long security position held in the client's portfolio. This type of transaction is used to generate income. It also serves to create downside protection in the event the security position declines in value. Income is received from the proceeds of the option sale. Such income may be reduced to the extent it is necessary to buy back the option position prior to its expiration. This strategy may involve a degree of trading velocity, transaction costs, and significant losses if the underlying security has volatile price movement. Covered call strategies are generally suited for companies with little price volatility.

B.4.b. Long Call Option Purchases

Long call option purchases allow the option holder to be exposed to the general market characteristics of a security without the outlay of capital necessary to own the security. Options are wasting assets and expire (usually within nine months of issuance), and as a result can expose the investor to significant loss.

B.4.c. Long Put Option Purchases

Long put option purchases allow the option holder to sell or "put" the underlying security at the contract strike price at a future date. If the price of the underlying security declines in value, the value of the long put option increases. In this way long puts are often used to hedge a long stock position. Options are wasting assets and expire (usually within nine months of issuance), and as a result can expose the investor to significant loss.

B.4.d. Option Spreading

Option spreading usually involves the purchase of a call option and the sale of a call option at a higher contract strike price, both having the same expiration month. The purpose of this type of transaction is to allow the holder to be exposed to the general market characteristics of a security without the outlay of capital to own the security, and to offset the cost by selling the call option with a higher contract strike price. In this type of transaction, the spread holder “locks in” a maximum profit, defined as the difference in contract prices reduced by the net cost of implementing the spread. There are many variations of option spreading strategies; please contact the Options Clearing Corporation for a current Options Risk Disclosure Statement that discusses each of these strategies.

B.4.e. Short Call Option Strategy

Short call option strategy is highly speculative and has theoretical potential for unlimited loss. The seller (writer) of the call option receives proceeds (premium) from the sale of the option. The expectation is that the value of the underlying security will remain below the contract strike price and the option will expire worthless, allowing the option writer to keep the entire amount of the sale proceeds (premium). Should the value of the underlying security increase above the contract strike price, then the option writer can either purchase the call option at a loss, or through a process of exercise and assignment be forced to sell the stock at the contract strike price. If this happens, the option writer will have to go in the open market and buy an equivalent amount of stock to cover the sale at prices that can be materially higher than the amount received from the sale.

B.4.f. Short Put Option Strategy

Short put option strategy is highly speculative and has theoretical potential for significant loss. The seller (writer) of the put option receives proceeds (premium) from the sale of the option. The expectation is that the value of the underlying security will remain above the contract strike price and the option will expire worthless, allowing the option writer to keep the entire amount of the sale proceeds (premium). Should the value of the underlying security decrease below the contract strike price, the option writer can either purchase the put option at a loss, or through a process of exercise and assignment be forced to buy the stock at the contract strike price. If this happens, the option writer will be purchasing the underlying security at a price potentially well above its then-current market value, exposing the investor to potential loss.

B.4.g. Equity Collar

A collar combines both a cap and a floor. A cap gives the purchaser of the cap the right (for a premium payment), but not the obligation, to receive the difference in the cost on some amount when a specified index rises above the specified “cap rate.” A floor is the opposite of a cap—it gives the purchaser of the floor the right (for a premium payment), but not the obligation, to receive the difference in interest payable on an amount when a specified index falls below the specified “floor rate.” A collar involving stock is called an “equity collar.” In a collar transaction, the buyer of the collar purchases a cap while selling a floor indexed to the same rate or asset. A zero-cost collar results when the premium earned by selling a floor exactly offsets the cap premium.

B.4.h. Long Straddle

A long straddle is the purchase of a long call and a long put with the same underlying security, expiration date, and strike price. This is a speculative trade that may be profitable when volatility is high and will result in a loss when prices of the underlying security are relatively stable.

C. Concentration Risk

Although Blue Prairie Group employs a broad diversification strategy, there may be times when one industry, sector, or company is more heavily weighted than others. In such an instance, there is the possibility that negative performance of the heavily weighted security will have a greater impact on the overall performance of the portfolio. Clients who have diversified portfolios, as a general rule, incur less volatility and therefore less fluctuation in portfolio value than those who have concentrated holdings. Concentrated holdings may offer the potential for higher gain, but also offer the potential for significant loss.

D. Recommendation or Selection of Other Investment Advisors and Conflicts of Interest

Blue Prairie Group does not recommend separate account managers or other securities investment products in which it receives any form of compensation from the separate account manager or investment product sponsor.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics Description

In accordance with the Advisers Act, Blue Prairie Group has adopted policies and procedures designed to detect and prevent insider trading. In addition, Blue Prairie Group has adopted a Code of Ethics (the "Code"). Among other things, the Code includes written procedures governing the conduct of Blue Prairie Group's advisory and access persons. The Code also imposes certain reporting obligations on persons subject to the Code. The Code and applicable securities transactions are monitored by the chief compliance officer of Blue Prairie Group. Blue Prairie Group will send clients a copy of its Code of Ethics upon written request.

Blue Prairie Group has policies and procedures in place to ensure that the interests of its clients are given preference over those of Blue Prairie Group, its affiliates, and its employees. For example, there are policies in place to prevent the misappropriation of material non-public information, and such other policies and procedures reasonably designed to comply with federal and state securities laws.

B. Investment Recommendations Involving a Material Financial Interest and Conflicts of Interest

Blue Prairie Group does not engage in principal trading (i.e., the practice of selling stock to advisory clients from a firm's inventory or buying stocks from advisory clients into a firm's inventory). In addition, Blue Prairie Group does not recommend any securities to advisory clients in which it has some proprietary or ownership interest.

C. Advisory Firm Purchase of Same Securities Recommended to Clients and Conflicts of Interest

Blue Prairie Group, its affiliates, employees and their families, trusts, estates, charitable organizations and retirement plans established by it may purchase the same securities as are purchased for clients in accordance with its Code of Ethics policies and procedures. The personal securities transactions by advisory representatives and employees may raise potential conflicts of interest when they trade in a security that is:

- owned by the client, or
- considered for purchase or sale for the client.

Such conflict generally refers to the practice of front-running (trading ahead of the client), which Blue Prairie Group specifically prohibits. Blue Prairie Group has adopted policies and procedures that are intended to address these conflicts of interest. These policies and procedures:

- require our advisory representatives and employees to act in the client's best interest,
- prohibit front-running, and

- provide for the review of transactions to discover and correct any trades that result in an advisory representative or employee benefitting at the expense of a client.

Advisory representatives and employees must follow Blue Prairie Group's procedures when purchasing or selling the same securities purchased or sold for the client.

D. Client Securities Recommendations or Trades and Concurrent Advisory Firm Securities Transactions and Conflicts of Interest

Blue Prairie Group, its affiliates, employees and their families, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, and retirement plans established by it may effect securities transactions for their own accounts that differ from those recommended or effected for other Blue Prairie Group clients. Blue Prairie Group will make a reasonable attempt to trade securities in client accounts at or prior to trading the securities in its affiliate, corporate, employee, or employee-related accounts. Trades executed the same day will likely be subject to an average pricing calculation. It is the policy of Blue Prairie Group to place the clients' interests above those of Blue Prairie Group and its employees.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Broker-Dealers for Client Transactions

A.1. Custodian Recommendations

Blue Prairie Group considers the financial strength, reputation, operational efficiency, cost, execution capability, level of customer service, and related factors in recommending broker-dealers or custodians to advisory clients.

Blue Prairie Group may recommend that clients establish brokerage accounts with the Schwab Advisor Services division of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab"), a FINRA-registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, to maintain custody of clients' assets and to effect trades for their accounts. Although Blue Prairie Group may recommend that clients establish accounts at Schwab, it is the client's decision to custody assets with Schwab. Blue Prairie Group is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab. Clients are advised that there is a potential conflict of interest as Blue Prairie Group may have an incentive to recommend Schwab based on its own interests rather than the clients'. Clients are also advised that Blue Prairie Group places the clients' interests above those of Blue Prairie Group.

For Blue Prairie Group client accounts maintained in its custody, Schwab generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions and other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Schwab or that settle into Schwab accounts.

A.1.a. How We Select Brokers/Custodians to Recommend

Blue Prairie Group seeks to recommend a custodian/broker who will hold client assets and execute transactions on terms that are overall most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. We consider a wide range of factors, including, among others, the following:

- combination of transaction execution services along with asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- capability to execute, clear, and settle trades (buy and sell securities for client accounts)
- capabilities to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- breadth of investment products made available (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), etc.)
- availability of investment research and tools that assist us in making investment decisions
- quality of services
- competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate them
- reputation, financial strength, and stability of the provider

- their prior service to us and our other clients
- availability of other products and services that benefit us, as discussed below

A.1.b. Soft Dollar Arrangements

Blue Prairie Group does not utilize soft dollar arrangements. Blue Prairie Group does not direct brokerage transactions to executing brokers for research and brokerage services.

A.1.c. Institutional Trading and Custody Services

Schwab provides Blue Prairie Group with access to its institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Schwab retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisers on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as a certain minimum amount of the adviser's clients' assets are maintained in accounts at Schwab. Schwab's brokerage services include the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. Recon has entered into an agreement with Schwab whereby Schwab will reimburse client transfer exit fees provided clients transfer their accounts to Schwab within a specified timeframe. This creates an economic incentive for Recon to recommend Schwab over other custodians. Clients are advised that there is a potential conflict of interest as Blue Prairie Group may have an incentive to recommend Schwab based on its own interests rather than the clients'. Clients are also advised that Blue Prairie Group places the clients' interests above those of Blue Prairie Group.

A.1.d. Other Products and Services

Schwab also makes available to Blue Prairie Group other products and services that benefit Blue Prairie Group but may not directly benefit its clients' accounts. Many of these products and services may be used to service all or some substantial number of Blue Prairie Group's accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. Schwab also makes available to Blue Prairie Group its managing and administering software and other technology that

- provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements)
- facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts
- provide research, pricing, and other market data
- facilitate payment of Blue Prairie Group's fees from its clients' accounts
- assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting

Schwab also offers other services intended to help Blue Prairie Group manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include

- compliance, legal, and business consulting
- publications and conferences on practice management and business succession

- access to employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, and insurance providers

Schwab may also provide other benefits, such as educational events or occasional business entertainment of Blue Prairie Group personnel. In evaluating whether to recommend that clients custody their assets at Schwab, Blue Prairie Group may take into account the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and other arrangements as part of the total mix of factors it considers, and not solely the nature, cost, or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which may create a potential conflict of interest.

A.1.e. Independent Third Parties

Schwab may make available, arrange, and/or pay third-party vendors for the types of services rendered to Blue Prairie Group. Schwab may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to Blue Prairie Group.

A.1.f. Additional Compensation Received from Custodians

Blue Prairie Group may participate in institutional customer programs sponsored by broker-dealers or custodians. Blue Prairie Group may recommend these broker-dealers or custodians to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between Blue Prairie Group's participation in such programs and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although Blue Prairie Group receives economic benefits through its participation in the programs that are typically not available to retail investors. These benefits may include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount):

- Receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations
- Research-related products and tools
- Consulting services
- Access to a trading desk serving Blue Prairie Group participants
- Access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts)
- The ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts
- Access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information
- Access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers
- Discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to Blue Prairie Group by third-party vendors

The custodian may also pay for business consulting and professional services received by Blue Prairie Group's related persons, and may pay or reimburse expenses (including travel, lodging, meals and entertainment expenses for Blue Prairie Group's personnel to attend conferences). Some of the products and services made available by such custodian through its institutional customer programs may benefit Blue Prairie Group but may not benefit its client accounts.

These products or services may assist Blue Prairie Group in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at the custodian as applicable. Other services made available through the programs are intended to help Blue Prairie Group manage and further develop its business enterprise. The benefits received by Blue Prairie Group or its personnel through participation in these programs do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to the broker-dealer.

Blue Prairie Group also participates in similar institutional advisor programs offered by other independent broker-dealers or trust companies, and its continued participation may require Blue Prairie Group to maintain a predetermined level of assets at such firms. In connection with its participation in such programs, Blue Prairie Group will typically receive benefits similar to those listed above, including research, payments for business consulting and professional services received by Blue Prairie Group's related persons, and reimbursement of expenses (including travel, lodging, meals and entertainment expenses for Blue Prairie Group's personnel to attend conferences sponsored by the broker-dealer or trust company).

As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, Blue Prairie Group endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by Blue Prairie Group or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence Blue Prairie Group's recommendation of broker-dealers such as Schwab for custody and brokerage services.

A.2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

Blue Prairie Group does not engage in the practice of directing brokerage commissions in exchange for the referral of advisory clients.

A.3. Directed Brokerage

A.3.a. Blue Prairie Group Recommendations

Blue Prairie Group typically recommends Schwab as custodian for clients' funds and securities and to execute securities transactions on its clients' behalf.

A.3.b. Client-Directed Brokerage

Occasionally, clients may direct Blue Prairie Group to use a particular broker-dealer to execute portfolio transactions for their accounts or request that certain types of securities not be purchased for their accounts. Clients who designate the use of a particular broker-dealer should be aware that they will lose any possible advantage Blue Prairie Group derives from aggregating transactions. Such client trades are typically effected after the trades of clients who have not directed the use of a particular broker-dealer. Blue Prairie Group loses the ability to aggregate trades with other Blue Prairie Group advisory clients, potentially subjecting the client to inferior trade execution prices as well as higher commissions.

B. Aggregating Securities Transactions for Client Accounts

B.1. Best Execution

Blue Prairie Group, pursuant to the terms of its investment advisory agreement with clients, has discretionary authority to determine which securities are to be bought and sold and the amount of such securities. Blue Prairie Group recognizes that the analysis of execution quality involves a number of factors, both qualitative and quantitative. Blue Prairie Group will follow a process in an attempt to ensure that it is seeking to obtain the most favorable execution under the prevailing circumstances when placing client orders. These factors include but are not limited to the following:

- The financial strength, reputation, and stability of the broker
- The efficiency with which the transaction is effected
- The ability to effect prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices (including the applicable dealer spread or commission, if any)
- The availability of the broker to stand ready to effect transactions of varying degrees of difficulty in the future
- The efficiency of error resolution, clearance, and settlement
- Block trading and positioning capabilities
- Performance measurement
- Online access to computerized data regarding customer accounts
- Availability, comprehensiveness, and frequency of brokerage and research services
- Commission rates
- The economic benefit to the client
- Related matters involved in the receipt of brokerage services

Consistent with its fiduciary responsibilities, Blue Prairie Group seeks to ensure that clients receive best execution with respect to the clients' transactions by blocking client trades to reduce commissions and transaction costs. To the best of Blue Prairie Group's knowledge, these custodians provide high-quality execution, and Blue Prairie Group's clients do not pay higher transaction costs in return for such execution.

Commission rates and securities transaction fees charged to effect such transactions are established by the client's independent custodian and/or broker-dealer. Based upon its own knowledge of the securities industry, Blue Prairie Group believes that such commission rates are competitive within the securities industry. Lower commissions or better execution may be able to be achieved elsewhere.

B.2. Security Allocation

Since Blue Prairie Group may be managing accounts with similar investment objectives, the firm may aggregate orders for securities for such accounts. In such event, allocation of the securities so purchased or sold, as well as expenses incurred in the transaction, is made by Blue Prairie Group in the manner it considers to be the most equitable and consistent with its fiduciary obligations to such accounts.

Blue Prairie Group's allocation procedures seek to allocate investment opportunities among clients in the fairest possible way, taking into account the clients' best interests. Blue Prairie Group will follow procedures to ensure that allocations do not involve a practice of favoring or discriminating against any client or group of clients. Account performance is never a factor in trade allocations.

Blue Prairie Group's advice to certain clients and entities and the action of Blue Prairie Group for those and other clients are frequently premised not only on the merits of a particular investment but also on the suitability of that investment for the particular client in light of his or her applicable investment objective, guidelines, and circumstances. Thus, any action of Blue Prairie Group with respect to a particular investment may, for a particular client, differ or be opposed to the recommendation, advice, or actions of Blue Prairie Group to or on behalf of other clients.

B.3. Order Aggregation

Orders for the same security entered on behalf of more than one client will generally be aggregated (i.e., blocked or bunched) subject to the aggregation being in the best interests of all participating clients. Subsequent orders for the same security entered during the same trading day may be aggregated with any previously unfilled orders. Subsequent orders may also be aggregated with filled orders if the market price for the security has not materially changed and the aggregation does not cause any unintended duration exposure. All clients participating in each aggregated order will receive the average price and, subject to minimum ticket charges and possible step outs, pay a pro rata portion of commissions.

To minimize performance dispersion, "strategy" trades should be aggregated and average priced. However, when a trade is to be executed for an individual account and the trade is not in the best interests of other accounts, then the trade will only be performed for that account. This is true even if Blue Prairie Group believes that a larger size block trade would lead to best overall price for the security being transacted.

B.4. Allocation of Trades

All allocations will be made prior to the close of business on the trade date. In the event an order is "partially filled," the allocation will be made in the best interests of all the clients in the order, taking into account all relevant factors including, but not limited to, the size of each client's allocation, clients' liquidity needs, and previous allocations. In most cases, accounts will get a pro forma allocation based on the initial allocation. This policy also applies if an order is "over-filled."

Blue Prairie Group acts in accordance with its duty to seek best price and execution and will not continue any arrangements if the firm determines that such arrangements are no longer in the best interests of its clients.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

A. Schedule for Periodic Review of Client Accounts or Financial Plans and Advisory Persons Involved

Client accounts receiving private asset management and allocation services are reviewed by Blue Prairie Group's Manager as well as the account's investment advisor representative at least annually, or more often as agreed. The investment advisor representatives are instructed to review each account's trading activity, performance, allocations, fee calculations, and additions and withdrawals. Investment advisor representative will review only their own accounts and thus have no assigned limit to the number of accounts.

For institutional clients, the investment advisor representative will typically review the account's expenses, style consistency, and performance relative to market benchmarks. The investment advisor representative will also review the asset manager's adherence to the client's stated investment objectives and performance relative to the manager's peer group. The investment advisor representative will meet with retirement plan clients as often as agreed, typically twice each year. The reviews typically consist of the outside manager's adherence to the client's stated investment objectives, the manager's performance relative to market benchmarks, and the manager's peer group, expense ratios, and style consistency.

Principals of Blue Prairie Group are responsible for reviewing the strategic investment plan, the client's overall financial situation, and the performance of the client's portfolio. The number of clients assigned to each principal varies according to the complexities of each individual client account.

The frequency of the financial review varies from client to client as required by each client's unique circumstances, including the client's overall financial situation and investment portfolio. Accounts are reviewed on a quarterly basis, which includes the delivery of written performance reports to clients. Generally, each account is reviewed with the client at least semi-annually. Accounts are reviewed in a sequence determined at the discretion of the principals of the firm.

B. Review of Client Accounts on Non-Periodic Basis

Blue Prairie Group may perform ad hoc reviews on an as-needed basis if there have been material changes in the client's investment objectives or risk tolerance, or a material change in how Blue Prairie Group formulates investment advice.

C. Content of Client-Provided Reports and Frequency

Blue Prairie Group typically provides written reports to clients on a quarterly basis. These reports include changes in market values, current and historical time-weighted performance statistics, and comparison to an appropriate benchmark index.

Blue Prairie Group will provide reports showing the investment performance of a client account and a comparison of such account performance against relevant benchmarks. The client's independent custodian also provides regular account statements directly to the client. The custodian's statement is the official record of the client's securities account and supersedes any statements or reports created on behalf of the client by Blue Prairie Group.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Provided to the Advisory Firm from External Sources and Conflicts of Interest

In addition to the information described in Items 10 and 12 of this Brochure, Blue Prairie Group may receive from qualified custodians referrals of prospective advisory clients.

Although Blue Prairie Group does not receive any compensation or benefit of any kind from any broker as a result of such suggestions or recommendation, Blue Prairie Group may have an incentive to recommend brokers who refer clients to it in the future or provide research products or services.

In addition, clients may from time to time need services that are outside the scope of services provided by Blue Prairie Group (e.g., legal counsel, accounting advice, and broker-dealer services). Blue Prairie Group may refer clients to such third parties. These same firms may make referrals to Blue Prairie Group when clients need services such as those Blue Prairie Group provides.

B. Advisory Firm Payments for Client Referrals

Blue Prairie Group does not make payment for client referrals.

Item 15: Custody

Clients will receive at least quarterly account statements directly from their custodian containing a description of all activity, cash balances, and portfolio holdings in the client's account. Blue Prairie Group urges its clients to compare the account balance(s) shown on their Blue Prairie Group performance review to the quarter-end balance(s) on their custodian's monthly statement. Any discrepancies should be brought to the firm's attention. The custodian's statement is the official record of the account.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Clients may grant a limited power of attorney to Blue Prairie Group with respect to trading activity in their accounts by signing the appropriate custodian limited power of attorney form. In such cases, Blue Prairie Group will exercise full discretion as to the nature and type of securities to be purchased and sold and the amount of securities for such transactions. Investment limitations may be designated by the client as outlined in the investment advisory agreement.

In addition, Blue Prairie Group, subject to the terms of its investment advisory agreement, may be granted discretionary authority for the retention of independent third-party investment management firms.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

Blue Prairie Group does not take discretion with respect to voting proxies on behalf of its clients. Blue Prairie Group will endeavor to make recommendations to clients on voting proxies regarding shareholder vote, consent, election or similar actions solicited by, or with respect to, issuers of securities beneficially held as part of Blue Prairie Group supervised and/or managed assets. In no event will Blue Prairie Group take discretion with respect to voting proxies on behalf of its clients.

Except as required by applicable law, Blue Prairie Group will not be obligated to render advice or take any action on behalf of clients with respect to assets presently or formerly held in their accounts that become the subject of any legal proceedings, including bankruptcies.

From time to time, securities held in the accounts of clients will be the subject of class action lawsuits. Blue Prairie Group has no obligation to determine if securities held by the client are subject to a pending or resolved class action lawsuit. Blue Prairie Group also has no duty to evaluate a client's eligibility or to submit a claim to participate in the proceeds of a securities class action settlement or verdict. Furthermore, Blue Prairie Group has no obligation or responsibility to initiate litigation to recover damages on behalf of clients who may have been injured as a result of actions, misconduct, or negligence by corporate management of issuers whose securities are held by clients.

Where Blue Prairie Group receives written or electronic notice of a class action lawsuit, settlement, or verdict affecting securities owned by a client, it will forward all notices, proof of claim forms, and other materials to the client. Electronic mail is acceptable where appropriate and where the client has authorized contact in this manner.

Item 18: Financial Information

A. Balance Sheet

Blue Prairie Group does not require the prepayment of fees of $1,200 or more, six months or more in advance, and as such is not required to file a balance sheet.

B. Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Advisory Firm's Ability to Meet Commitments to Clients

Blue Prairie Group does not have any financial issues that would impair its ability to provide services to clients.

C. Bankruptcy Petitions During the Past Ten Years

There are no bankruptcy petitions to report.

D Professional Designations - Qualifications and Related Criteria

D.1. CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ (CFP®)

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ (CFP®) certification process, administered by CFP Board, identifies that those individuals who have been authorized to use the CFP certification marks in the U.S. have met rigorous professional standards and have agreed to adhere to the principles of integrity, objectivity, competence, fairness, confidentiality, professionalism, and diligence when dealing with clients.

CFP certificants must pass the comprehensive CFP Certification Examination; pass CFP Board's Candidate Fitness Standards; agree to abide by CFP Board's Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility, which puts clients' interests first; and comply with the Financial Planning Practice Standards, which spell out what clients should be able to reasonably expect from the financial planning engagement. These are just some of the reasons why the CFP certification is becoming increasingly recognized. To become certified, candidates are required to meet the following initial certification requirements:

Education Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board's financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning.

Examination Pass the comprehensive CFP Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances.

Experience Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year).

Ethics Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP marks:

Continuing Education Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field.

Ethics Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

D. Professional Designations - Qualifications and Related Criteria

D.1. CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ (CFP®) Professional

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™ (CFP®) certification process, administered by CFP Board, identifies that those individuals who have been authorized to use the CFP certification marks in the U.S. have met rigorous professional standards and have agreed to adhere to the principles of integrity, objectivity, competence, fairness, confidentiality, professionalism, and diligence when dealing with clients.

CFP certificants must pass the comprehensive CFP Certification Examination; pass CFP Board's Candidate Fitness Standards; agree to abide by CFP Board's Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility, which puts clients' interests first; and comply with the Financial Planning Practice Standards, which spell out what clients should be able to reasonably expect from the financial planning engagement. These are just some of the reasons why the CFP certification is becoming increasingly recognized.

To become certified, candidates are required to meet the following initial certification requirements:

Education Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board's financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning.

Examination Pass the comprehensive CFP Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances.

Experience Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year).

Ethics Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP marks:

Continuing Education Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field.

Ethics Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.
