About Our Referral Services

MAM has alliances with Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. (Cambridge), BCJ Capital Management Corp. (BCJ), Independent Financial Partners (IFP), and LPL Financial LLC, (LPL), registered Investment Advisory Companies (RIA). MAM has exclusive referral agreements with each of these companies. MAM refers clients to these firms for financial services not offered through MAM and occasionally receives client referrals from these companies. This referral arrangement presents a conflict of interest.

MAM refers clients to registered investment advisory representatives of the Advisory Companies with whom MAM has referral agreements. You make the decision concerning what advisor or advisory firm is best qualified to meet your financial needs, you can impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Associated representatives of MAM have no discretionary authority or control over investment accounts that have been referred to other Investment Advisory companies.

The advisory companies that MAM has agreements with may have “Wrap Fee Programs*”. If so, a Form ADV Part 2A brochure and/or Wrap Fee brochure describing the details of that company’s program will be provided to you before or at the time you agree to participate.

MAM receives a percentage of the advisory fees paid by clients for referrals to Investment Advisory Companies. This amount in most, if not all instances will not affect the normal advisory fee clients would pay. The total fee paid by clients, including the portion to be paid to MAM, will not exceed 2% of the assets under management. The referral compensation MAM receives from the third party RIA could constitute a conflict of interest.

About our Asset Management Services

MAM offers financial advisory services and manages client assets on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis. Investment advice and management of discretionary client funds is based on the individual needs of the client. Funds are managed in accordance with local and federal statutes and regulations governing the investment of public funds. Roughly 90 percent of the assets MAM manages are on a discretionary basis.

MAM has an arrangement with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. and with US Bank N.A., through which Wells Fargo or US Bank provides MAM with their platform services. Clients may choose between these two institutions for services. These services include custody and safekeeping of Client assets, brokerage, trading, and administrative services. The fees and costs associated with using Wells Fargo or US Bank for these services are not passed through to the customer. Clients will not pay any additional fees to those outlined in Item 5.

MAM offers individually customized fixed income asset management services to corporate, municipal, and governmental institutions. Portfolio managers meet with prospective clients to determine investment objectives, risk tolerances, liquidity requirements, and overall investment needs. Investments may include any or all of the following:

- -Commercial paper and corporate demand note programs
- -Money market funds
- -Corporate debt securities
- -Municipal bonds
- -Certificates of Deposit
- -United States government securities,
- -Government Agency and mortgage-backed securities
- -Preferred stocks

Currently, the company has approximately $260 million in assets under management. MAM has a Wrap Fee Brochure which describes the details of the company. This will be provided to you by MAM at or before the time you agree to participate.

*Wrap Fee Programs or Wrap Accounts: Under a Wrap Fee program, the investor is charged one all-inclusive fee. The fee is based on assets under management, and is all-inclusive; i.e., no additional charges are incurred to the client for expenses associated with: security transactions, custody services, administrative or managerial expenses, etc. The one flat fee “wraps” all these expenses into one fee, charged monthly, quarterly, or annually.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

Our Referral Business (MAM)

MAM receives a percentage of the advisory fee paid by you to the Investment Advisory Company for their services. This amount, in most instances will not affect the advisory fee you would normally pay. The referral compensation MAM receives from the third party RIA constitutes a conflict of interest.

The percentage of the referral fee paid to MAM will depend upon the referral agreement contracted with each RIA. The percentage of the fee received could vary between RIAs. The fee could be ongoing or for the first year of service, depending upon the agreement. This percentage received by MAM is not negotiable.

Information concerning advisory fee schedules, when and how fees are collected, and/or refunded, will be described in the ADV Part 2A Brochure of the RIA you determine can meet your financial needs. Investment advisory and financial planning fees charged by each RIA may vary. However, the total AUM fee paid by clients, including any portion to be paid to MAM, will not exceed two percent. The fees charged by these RIAs will likely be between .75% and 1.75% of AUM. The fees charged to clients by these advisors could depend on a number of variables (size of the account, if the advisor is doing a simple individual one time consultation, a buy/sell agreement, wealth planning, 401K consulting for small vs. large companies etc.).

MAM receives a percentage of life insurance commissions that are paid by the insurance carrier for insurance products sold. The percentage of insurance commissions paid to MAM by the insurance carrier could constitute a conflict of interest.

Neither MAM nor its associates receive compensation (commissions) generated from security related transactions. MAM is an SEC Registered Investment Advisory Company and is not securities registered with FINRA. (See item 10)

MAM and MAM associates do not offer or recommend Investment Products to clients who have been referred to other associated RIAs.

There is no obligation for a client to use the Investment Advisory Companies MAM has referral fee sharing agreements with. For information in regards to the termination of the Advisory relationship, refer to the selected RIA's ADV Part 2A brochure.

Our Asset Management Services

The annualized fee for managed accounts is calculated as a percentage of assets under management, according to the following fee schedule:

Assets Under Management	Annual Fee
$0 to $10 Million	0.25%
$10 to $20 Million	0.20%
$20 to $40 Million	0.175%
$40 to $100 Million	0.15%
Over $100 Million	Negotiated

MAM associates do not receive compensation (commissions) generated from security related transactions.

Fees for accounts are negotiable based on factors such as referring source, the type of client (corporation, municipality, individual, etc.), the complexity of the client's situation, the composition of the client's account, pre-existing relationships, related accounts, competitive environment, market conditions, the potential for additional account deposits, custody location, the total amount of client assets under management, and other reasons MAM deems appropriate. The minimum opening account size is $2 million.

Fees for MAM accounts are calculated and charged monthly in arrears. Fees are charged directly from the client account assets, as described in the advisory contract. Clients must give permission to their Custodian to allow such an arrangement. Fees are based on the average daily balance of the assets under management.

Termination of the Advisory Relationship: A client agreement may be cancelled at any time, by either party, for any reason upon receipt of 30 days written notice. Upon termination of any account, any unpaid, earned fees will be due and payable. Uncharged fees will be calculated pro-rata according to the number of days open/managed.

Neither MAM nor any supervised persons therein accept compensation for the sale of securities (commissions) or other investment products, including asset based sales charges or service fees. MAM will not require or solicit payment of fees to exceed $500 per client more than six months in advance of services provided.

MAM Wrap Fee Program: Refer to Moreton Asset Management, LLC Wrap Fee Brochure for information regarding MAM's Wrap fee program.

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

MAM does not receive compensation from any Performance-Based Fees for its referral business and does not participate in side-by side management.

Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Our Referral Services

The third party advisors that MAM has referral fee agreements with are or have been associates of MAM or its affiliates and/or introduced by other business partners.

Each of the third party advisors MAM has agreements with, along with the Investment Advisor Representatives that our clients are introduced to have their own specialties or expertise in the financial services industry. The backgrounds and reputations of both the RIA and the Advisory Representative are reviewed by management prior to MAM beginning discussions and/or agreement arrangements or making any client introductions. As stated in section 4, there is no obligation for a client to go with a third party RIA that we may suggest. MAM does not recommend third party RIAs that we do not have referral agreements with. This referral arrangement with a third-party RIA represents a conflict of interest.

You will receive an ADV Part 2A Brochure from your RIA at or before the time you decide to take advantage of their services explaining their methods of analysis and strategies. *

MAM is an SEC registered investment advisory firm, who refers investment management clients to RIAs with whom they have a fee sharing agreement*. The referral agreements that MAM has with a third-party RIA presents a conflict of interest.

Our Asset Management Services

Methods of Analysis

MAM may use any or all of the following methods of analysis in managing clients' assets:

Technical Analysis: Analyzing historical data in order to recognize and understand patterns that may predict future price movement. However, technical analysis does not consider the underlying financial condition of a company. Therefore, any technical analysis performed would be done in tandem with other forms of analysis.

Fundamental Analysis: Measuring the value of a security by looking at macroeconomic factors and company-specific financial factors. Macroeconomic analysis will include trends and conditions of the overall economy, industry, and the company itself, to determine if the company is undervalued or overvalued. However, fundamental analysis does not endeavor to anticipate market movements, which could result in the price of a security moving up or down along with the overall market regardless of the specific factors considered in evaluating the security or its issuing entity.

Asset Allocation: In addition the selection of specific industries, and companies within those industries, we endeavor to identify an appropriate ratio of security types suitable to each client's investment policy statement. Asset allocation helps with overall portfolio diversification, but may result in a smaller potential return if one particular industry, sector, or security experiences a dramatic increase in yield.

There are many risks involved with each of the aforementioned types of analysis, some of which have already been listed. All our analysis is based on the assumption that our data used to analyze is accurate. A risk always exists that the effectiveness of our analysis may be reduced due to inaccurate or biased data.

Investment Strategies

MAM portfolio managers may use any or all of the following investment strategies in managing clients' assets. Any strategies used are appropriate to the needs of the client and consistent with the client's investment objectives:

Buy and Hold to Maturity: The majority of our discretionary accounts will employ this type of strategy at least to some degree. Under this strategy, we intend to take advantage of higher coupon rates on longer-term bonds relative to shorter-term bonds. The intent is to invest in securities and capture the coupon payments and any other income until they mature. A benefit of such a strategy is that the return on the portfolio is more predictable. A risk of this strategy is that by holding a security to maturity, potential gains could have been made had the security been sold prior to maturity.

Roll-out Trades: This strategy involves the purchase of a bond with the intention of selling it at a gain before it has matured, and replacing it with another bond, usually from the same issuer, to a later maturity date, thus capturing a capital gain, and replacing a short-duration bond with a longer-duration bond. Because MAM is not paid on a performance basis nor are commissions or extra fees charged on a transactional basis, there is no incentive to 'churn' the account. Risks with this strategy involve incurring a loss when the security is sold, or holding a security longer than originally intended because it cannot be sold without incurring a loss. This strategy also results in more frequent trading than with a buy and hold-to-maturity strategy, and because of the potential capital gains, a less favorable tax treatment.

Laddered Portfolios: Under this strategy, a portfolio will hold several securities that mature at regular intervals, for example, monthly. As one security matures, the proceeds from the maturity are used to purchase another security at "the end of the ladder", so in this example, one month longer than the longest existing security in the portfolio. The benefit of such a strategy is that the portfolio has regular natural maturities that can be used for the liquidity requirements of the client. This strategy is also a sub-strategy of the "Buy and Hold-to-Maturity" strategy. Risks of this strategy are that the liquidity requirements of the portfolio may not line up with the 'regularly planned' intervals of the ladder.

Customized 'Target Liquidity Date' Portfolios: Under this strategy, portfolio managers review the client's target liquidity dates. These dates may include a target date for when a tax payment will come due, tuition, building construction projects, loan payments, etc. By communicating with the client and obtaining the correct information, the portfolio managers can structure a portfolio in a way that yield can be maximized because funds are being invested up until the point they are needed, and no un-needed liquidity will cause the yield of the portfolio to be less. The obvious risk of such a structure is that not enough "buffer" of liquidity is built into the portfolio and unforeseen liquidity needs will arise at some point, requiring one or more securities to be sold. Losses could be realized under such a scenario.

The main sources of information that MAM uses to analyze these investment strategies are:

- Financial newspapers and magazines
- Research materials prepared by others
- Corporate rating services
- Annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the SEC
- Company press releases

Risk of Loss

*Investing in any securities transactions involves the risk of loss of your assets. You should consider this factor before making any investment decisions.

Item 9 Disciplinary Information

There are no legal or disciplinary events to report on behalf of MAM, or its associated persons.

Item 10 Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

William R. Moreton is the President/Managing Member of Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC, a related broker dealer under common ownership and control, as well as the President of Moreton & Co. an insurance broker, Town & Country Holding Co., a life insurance holding company and Hampton Soules, an insurance company. These activities combined are estimated to utilize approximately ninety (90%) percent of Mr. Moreton's time.

William R. Moreton is a broker/dealer agent with Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC. Jason Williams, Andrew Robbins, and Jordan Hansen are registered representatives of Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC, each working in administrative capacities. Each of the four aforementioned individuals utilize less than 3 hours per week in their capacities with Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC.

Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC, (MBS) is an affiliated broker/dealer and member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and SIPC, as well as various state jurisdictions. MBS is a limited purpose broker/dealer that shares commissions with other broker/dealers on accounts referred to them by MBS or its affiliates.*

MAM does not refer clients to MBS, but MBS has commission sharing agreements with broker/dealers that can also be a RIA that MAM has referral agreements with. In the event securities accounts are opened or securities transactions are placed by a clients' Investment Advisor Representative and MBS has a commission sharing agreement with that broker/dealer, MBS would receive a portion of the commission received by the broker/dealer, this commission sharing arrangement would not increase the amount of commission normally charged by the broker/dealer. This commission sharing arrangement would present a conflict of interest.

MBS and MAM could have the same client referrals depending upon the type of services the client requires. MAM could receive advisory referral fees for advisory services and MBS could share in security commissions for securities, mutual funds and variable contracts. This would also present a conflict of interest.

William R. Moreton is the president of Moreton & Company, an insurance broker, through which commercial insurance products and employee benefit plans are offered. This activity utilizes the bulk of Mr. Moreton's time (over 30 hours per week).

Town & Country Life Insurance Co. is a related insurance carrier whose primary products are deferred annuities and group dental insurance, in business since 1955. William R. Moreton is the chairman and President of Town & Country Life. Town & Country is owned 100% by Town & Country Holding Co. This activity utilizes (2%) of Mr. Moreton's time.

Jason Williams, Andy Robbins and Jordan Hansen are owners/members of Strata Holdings, LLC

Strata Holdings, LLC is a holding company, owned by Jason Williams, Andy Robbins, Jordan Hansen, and Cache Asset Management. Strata Holdings, LLC is a majority stakeholder of MAM.

Jason Williams has an outside business activity as a consultant/advisor for Mark. H. Smith & Associates, which is an asset/liability management consulting firm, specializing in helping credit unions manage their interest rate risk and liquidity risk. Mark H. Smith & Associates and Moreton Asset Management may refer clients to one another from time to time, but no commissions or fee revenue sharing relationships occur.

Jason M. Williams is an adjunct professor at Webster University, teaching a course in economics to MBA students. This activity utilizes approximately 6 hours per week of Mr. Williams' time.

Our Referral Services

MAM has alliances with Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. (Cambridge), BCJ Capital Management (BCJ), Independent Financial Partners (IFP) and LPL Financial LLC, (LPL), registered Investment Advisory Companies (RIA). MAM has exclusive referral agreements with each of these companies. MAM receives referral clients from these firms and refers clients to these firms for financial services not offered through us.

MAM refers clients to registered investment advisory representatives of the Advisory Companies with whom MAM has referral agreements. You make the decision concerning what advisor or advisory firm is best qualified to meet your financial needs, you can impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Our Asset Management Services

Where appropriate, MAM and MAM affiliates may refer clients among each other. These affiliates include: Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. (Cambridge), BCJ Capital Management (BCJ), Independent Financial Partners (IFP) and LPL Financial LLC, (LPL), registered Investment Advisory Companies (RIA), as well as Moreton & Company. The services provided by the affiliates are distinct from and complementary to our advisory services. MAM has a referral program for their affiliates whereby MAM will pay up to 50% of its annual fee revenue for the life of the account to an affiliate for the referral of a client. In many instances, referrals will be made between affiliates and no commission or fee sharing will occur. The affiliates may choose to pass a portion of this referral fee to the referring officer.

Conflicts of Interest: Because of MAM associations and revenue sharing agreements, and because the managers and/or employees therein may share compensation, clients should be aware that this creates a conflict of interest. Objectivity may be impaired by these individuals when making recommendations. MAM will always endeavor to put the client's interests first, and to adhere to its fiduciary duty as an RIA. In order to achieve this objective, MAM does the following:

- Employees must obtain prior approval of any outside business activity to assure any conflicts of interests can be addressed.
- MAM maintains and documents investment policy statements from clients for every account MAM manages. All investment policy statements describe client's financial goals, investment objectives, and risk tolerances.
- Regular reviews of all client accounts are performed to verify that the investment policy statement is up to date, discuss upcoming liquidity needs or cash flows, changes in investment objectives, etc. to ensure that the account is being managed according to the client's overall objectives.

 MBS does not: hold securities or cash, place securities transactions for its self or others, or carry customer accounts.*

Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

General

MAM has adopted a Code of Ethics (Code) for all of its Associated Persons describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. The Code sets forth responsibilities that each of the firms associates must comply with. Included in the Code is:

- to provide fair and full disclosure of all material facts and to act solely in the best interest of each of its clients at all times
- to adhere to MAM Insider Trading and Personal Securities Transaction Policies and ethical standards
- to comply with all federal and state securities laws at all times
- understand the fiduciary duty to the client
- to adhere to the provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information

All Associated persons of MAM must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended. A copy of the Code will be made available to all prospective clients and clients upon request.

To prevent conflicts of interest, all employees of MAM must comply with the firm's Written Supervisory Procedures.

The Code of Ethics requires monthly reports on all personal securities transactions of all company associates, with the exception of transactions in investment company securities and/or other exempt transactions: Information regarding investor orders must not be used in any way to influence trades in personal accounts or in the accounts of other clients, including those of other Employees. Trading ahead of a client's order is known as "front running" and is prohibited. Following a client's order with Employee trading activity is known as "piggybacking" or "shadowing" and is likewise prohibited. Six-month short-swing transactions (e.g., a sale and a purchase, or a purchase and a sale, occurring within a six-month period) are also prohibited.

MAM has strict reporting requirements for trade transactions placed by the associates of the company. Trade blotters of all customer trades are created and then checked against the monthly brokerage statements received by the company from the associate's broker/dealer to insure that there are no conflicts of interest where customer transactions are concerned. Associated persons of the firm are not allowed to actively trade in securities that may be recommended to clients.

Further, such Code of Ethics imposes certain policies and procedures concerning the misuse of material non-public information that is designed to prevent insider trading by any officer, partner, or associated person of MAM.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

Our Referral Services

MAM is not securities licensed or registered with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA).

MAM, when referring clients, does not recommend broker/dealers to clients, the ultimate decision to recommend or require a certain broker/dealer is typically made by the Advisor Representative of the RIA, however, it is the clients decision as to what broker/dealer trade transactions will be placed through.

William Moreton shares commissions with other broker-dealers on accounts that were referred to those other broker-dealers or registered investment advisers by Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC. As a licensed broker-dealer agent, William Moreton also receives commissions through the sale of insurance products (sold through MBS or Moreton & Company). Jason Williams, Andy Robbins, or Jordan Hansen do not receive compensation (commissions) from securities transactions.

MAM is affiliated with Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC, (MBS) a FINRA Member broker/dealer. MBS shares commissions with other FINRA member broker/dealers for clients referred to them by MBS. MBS does not hold customer accounts, does not trade for customer accounts nor does it have trading accounts, and does not receive securities or cash from customers.

Conflicts of interest could exist if the Investment Advisory Firm that MAM refers you to, is a FINRA member broker/dealer. If there are securities transactions in an account with a broker/dealer that MBS has a commission sharing agreement with, MBS could share a percentage of the commissions charged by that broker/dealer. This would be considered a conflict of interest

Our Asset Management Services

MAM is not securities licensed or registered with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA). MAM is a Registered Investment Advisory firm with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

MAM recommends broker/dealers to their asset management clients. The ultimate decision regarding which broker/dealer to use for individual trades is made by MAM. Portfolio Managers always try to select the brokers or dealers, which will provide the best services at the best rates, all else equal. If dictated by a client's investment policy statement (IPS) or by a regulatory body's requirements, MAM will use only those broker dealers that are allowed on the IPS or the regulatory body's list of Certified Dealers.

MAM has an arrangement with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. and an arrangement with US Bank through which Wells Fargo and US Bank provides MAM with their platform services. These services include custody and safekeeping of Client assets, brokerage, trading, and administrative services. The fees and costs associated with using Wells Fargo or US Bank for these services are not passed through to the customer. Clients will not pay any additional fees to those outlined in Item 5.

There is no referral agreement between MBS and Wells Fargo Bank N.A., or between MBS and US Bank and there are no commissions sharing agreements between MBS and any other broker/dealer that MAM uses for their asset management services.

MAM will endeavor to ensure that no client or account will be favored over another.

Neither MAM nor its associates receive compensation (commissions) from securities transactions.

MAM is affiliated with Moreton Brokerage Services, LLC, (MBS) a FINRA Member broker/dealer. MBS only shares commissions with other FINRA member broker/dealers for clients that have been referred to them by MBS. MBS does not hold customer accounts, does not trade for customer accounts nor does it have trading accounts, and does not receive securities or cash from customers. MBS does not have referral agreements with broker-dealers used by MAM for their asset management services.

Conflicts of interest could exist if the Investment Advisory Firm that MAM refers you to is a FINRA member broker/dealer. If there are securities transactions in a brokerage account with a broker/dealer that MBS has a commission sharing agreement with, MBS could share a percentage of the commissions charged by that broker/dealer.

MAM uses several different broker-dealers for securities transactions. Some of these broker-dealers provide soft-dollar benefits to MAM in the form of research. No client brokerage commissions (markups or markdowns) are generated as a result of trades directed to such broker-dealers. The research benefits MAM receives from broker-dealers is a benefit MAM derives simply by being a customer of such broker-dealers. There are no quotas or targets MAM is required to meet in order to qualify to receive any research or other soft dollar benefits. The pricing of transactions is not affected as a result of this arrangement.

MAM is authorized in its discretion (but is not obligated) to aggregate, batch or combine purchases and sales and other transactions made for the Account with purchases and sales and other transactions in the same or similar securities or instruments for other clients of MAM. MAM will endeavor to process all Account transactions in a timely manner, but MAM neither represents nor warrants that any such transaction will be processed or effected by the qualified custodian or broker-dealer on the same day as requested.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Our Referral Services

Reviews may be triggered by material changes in variables such as your individual circumstances or the market economic or political environment.

Typically accounts are reviewed at least annually, some RIA require quarterly reviews of client accounts for continued suitability, change of objectives or do the risk factors for the client remain the same.

You should refer to your RIA's Form ADV Part 2A brochure for their policies and practices.

Our Asset Management Services

Reviews may be triggered by material changes in variables such as your individual circumstances or the market economic or political environment.

Accounts are reviewed by one of the MAM managing partners Jason Williams, Andy Robbins, and Jordan Hansen at least annually, but are monitored continually for suitability. The annual reviews compare your portfolio holdings and the portfolio as a whole to your investment policy statement and to your stated liquidity requirements, risk tolerance, and other circumstances. Accounts will also be monitored, and reviewed in the context of the market and economy.

Monthly statements will be provided to clients via an online system with a login ID and password. Additionally, statements will be provided to clients by the qualified Custodian at least quarterly. Please refer to Item 15 for more information.

Trade errors

While we will attempt to correct trading errors as soon as they are discovered, MAM and its employees may not be responsible for poor executions or trading errors caused by the brokers with whom MAM transacts, unless such errors resulted from our negligence, fraud or willful misconduct.

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Our Referral Services

MAM shares a percentage of investment advisory fees for the referral of clients to other investment advisory companies.

Because of potential conflicts of interest, all referral fees are paid in accordance with the requirements of Rule 206(4)-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, and any applicable state securities law requirements. Additionally, all referral fees will be paid entirely from the investment management fee MAM collects from clients. No additional charges from those described in Item 5 will be made to clients.

MAM receives economic benefit in the form of commissions for insurance products from the carrier. Clients are not obligated to use any recommended insurance company, agency or broker, this creates a conflict of interest.

Item 15 Custody

About our Referral Services

MAM does not maintain custody of assets. Your broker/dealer, investment advisor, bank or other qualified custodian holds your assets.

You will receive quarterly reports from the custodian of your account detailing your individual assets and all activity in the account, unless you request a more frequent statement.

Additionally, you will receive an annual performance report for each calendar year, summarizing all portfolio activity for that year.

You should carefully review each of the statements you receive to insure that all the activity in the account is accurate.

About Our Asset Management Services

MAM does not maintain custody of assets. MAM will choose a custodian for the assets in your account. MAM has an agreement with Wells Fargo Bank, NA, and an agreement with US Bank.

Clients will receive quarterly reports from the custodian of your account detailing your individual assets and all activity in the account, unless client requests a more frequent statement.

In addition to the statements provided by the custodian, monthly reports will be provided to you from us via an online system. The statements will typically be available to download by the third business day of the month. Clients will also have the ability, via a login and password, to view activity in their account at any time during the month.

You should carefully review each of the statements you receive to ensure that all the activity in the account is accurate.

If there is ever a discrepancy between the online statement MAM provides, and the statement the custodian provides, the custodial statement will serve as the official statement.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

Our Referral Services

Discretionary and Non-discretionary accounts may be offered through the RIA you decide to use. Information concerning their policy for discretionary accounts will be provided to you before any such investment activity takes place.

Our Asset Management Services

Discretionary and Non-discretionary accounts are offered through MAM. In discretionary accounts, MAM makes investment decisions in client accounts without contacting you prior to trading activity. Even with the discretionary authority granted to MAM, MAM is still responsible to ensure that all trades are within the parameters spelled out in your Investment Policy Statement.

Discretionary authority is given to MAM by you through the parameters detailed in the Account Agreement and the Investment Policy Statement.

In all cases, however, such discretion is to be exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular account. Thus, when selecting securities and determining amounts, we observe the investment policies, limitations and restrictions of the clients for which we advise. Additionally, in many cases, the discretion is subject to mutually agreed upon investment guidelines relative to the client's portfolio.

Documentation of Discretion

Discretionary authority is provided in our contract with each client. Additionally, we maintain a Limited Power of Attorney for all our discretionary accounts for the purpose of directing and or effecting investments, for the direct payment of fees, custodial fees and/or other charges incurred by the managed account.

In non-discretionary accounts, you are consulted prior to any trading activity, and your authorization must be granted before any of the following activities can occur:

- the actual security to buy or sell
- the dollar amount or shares to be purchased or sold

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

Our Referral Services

To find out what the “Voting Client Securities” policy is with your RIA refer to their ADV Part 2A Brochure.

You should receive proxies or solicitations directly from the custodian of your securities, such as your broker/dealer, or from the transfer agent for the securities you hold. The documents should include information about whom you can contact with any questions about a particular solicitation.

Our Asset Management Services

As a rule, MAM votes proxies for all client accounts. Voting is done in the best interest of MAM’s asset management clients as well as in accordance with MAM policies and procedures. Clients that prefer to vote their own proxies, may do so with a written request to MAM.

MAM will always vote proxies in the best interest of its clients. We will retain all proxy voting books and records. This includes a record of all votes cast, proxy statements received, any material that was used in the making of the decision of how to vote proxies, and copies of client written requests advising us on how to vote proxies. If a conflict of interest in voting an action arises, MAM will contact the client and notify them of the conflict. In such instances, the services of an independent third party will be enlisted to vote.

Clients may contact our office via telephone, email, fax, or a written letter, to obtain a copy of our proxy voting policies and procedures.
