IV. Advisory Business

Item IV.(A). Centre at a Glance

Firm Profile

Centre Asset Management, LLC began operating in 2006 on the principle that a merging of fundamental stock selection and quantitative portfolio construction provides the best opportunity for investor success in scalable, consistent portfolio management. In 2008, the firm refocused its principal development away from hedge to differentiated long-only strategies. In 2010, the firm entered into a strategic partnership with Sanlam International Investments resulting in Sanlam making an equity investment into the firm.

Centre is designed to combine the benefits of a boutique, entrepreneurial investment culture with the associated economies of scale from the distribution and operational support from its large Group investor and other strategic partners around the world. The firm is a fundamentally-driven specialist active asset manager, focused on American and Global equities as well as Real Return products in fund advisory and sub-advisory mandates.

Our approach to fundamental stock selection is rooted in our differentiated Economic Value Added (EVA) based investment analysis which is the competitive edge that yields a more accurate picture of intrinsic value; what we call “Investment Research through a Different Prism”. Our experience within a disciplined framework focuses on the fundamentals of wealth creation/wealth destruction akin to the way a traditional, long-term focused corporate financier looking at all aspects of the business (operating condition, risk profile and valuation) would assess it. Many of the analytical foundations in our investment approach have been articulated in books and papers written or contributed to by Centre's founder, James Abate, some of which were adopted by the CFA Institute® candidate study programs.

In the shorter-term, market excursions from reality of corporate managements' ability to create or destroy wealth during a company's profit cycle provide investable opportunities. Our approach intends to capture excess returns once the stock mispricing converges with the company's true intrinsic value over time.

Management is a substantial shareholder in the business together with Sanlam International Investment Partners, a division of Sanlam Group, a leading listed South African based international financial services firm. The shareholding structure allows for a dynamic and entrepreneurial environment where Centre focuses on funds management according to the Centre philosophy while Sanlam contributes to strategic, distribution, operational and governance related aspects.

In connection with this fee deduction process, the custodian will send you a statement, at least quarterly, indicating: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • all amounts disbursed from the account, and • the amount of advisory fees paid directly to us. Direct billing. If so desired, you may choose to be billed directly by us for our service fees. Advanced billing and refunds:	Centre does not charge its advisory fees in advance. Specific fee arrangements will be set forth in the Fund's or SMA's Agreement with us.

IV.(C). Customization of Advisory Services

To the fullest extent possible, we will endeavor to tailor our advisory services to meet the specific needs of each and every client. In order to determine a suitable course of action for an individual client, we will perform a review of our clients' financial circumstances and other factors that may influence the investment recommendations we may make to you from time to time. Such review may include, but would not necessarily be limited to, investment objectives, consideration of a client's overall financial condition, income and tax status, personal and business assets, risk profile, and other factors unique to a client's particular circumstances.

Our clients are free to impose any restrictions or other conditions with regard to how we provide our advisory services. If we agree to such restrictions and/or conditions, please be advised that restrictions and guidelines that you impose on our investment management functions may affect the composition and performance of custom portfolios (as a result, performance of custom portfolios within the same investment objective may differ and you should not expect that the performance of a custom portfolio will be identical to any other individual's portfolio performance) as well as any recommendations provided to you.

IV.(D). Wrap Fee Program Participation

None of our investment advisory services involve the use of wrap programs.

IV. (E). Assets Under Management¹ ("AUM")

AUM (discretionary):	$ 797,700,000
AUM (non-discretionary):	$ 0
Total AUM ² :	$ 797,700,000
Date of AUM calculation:	December 31, 2013

V. Fees and Compensation

V.(A). Centre Advisory Fees

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(B). Fee Collection Process

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(C). Other Fee/Expenses.

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(D). Fees Charged in Advance

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

¹ The term, "assets under management" shall carry the same meaning as that term is defined by Form ADV.

² Rounded to the nearest $100,000

V.(E). Additional Compensation

Item V.(E) requires us to address situations in which we or any of our supervised persons accepts compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds. Neither we, nor any of our supervised persons are party to such arrangements.

VI. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

To supplement our discussion of fees and compensation contained in Item IV.(B) above, for certain of our clients, we receive fees that are based on the investment performance of the account or assets that we have been engaged to manage. It is very likely that we may manage a set of assets for one client using a performance-based fee schedule and for a similar type of service for another client, we will receive another type of fee (asset-based, flat, hourly, etc.). Not all clients are eligible for performance-based fees and thus, we will only charge a performance-based fee in relation to accounts/assets for a client meeting the minimum criteria for being charged performance-based fees.

A primary concern with the use of performance-based fees is that they create an incentive for a firm to engage in riskier investment behavior due to the higher return potential. Additionally, assets covered by a performance-based fee may call for a more actively traded account, thus, increasing the overall transaction/trading costs associated with the account/assets. Finally, a firm may have the incentive to favor accounts/assets subject to a performance-based fee over accounts/assets not covered by a performance-based fee for the purpose of maximizing the potential fee revenue from the accounts/assets producing the performance fees.

In an effort to deal with the types of conflicts presented in the preceding paragraph, we regularly monitor client trading activity for the purpose of not only reviewing for the appropriateness of the transactions but also the appropriateness of the overall fees paid by the client. Our review process in this regard is carried out on no less than an annual basis and generally, we review at least a portion of our clients' accounts/assets for this purpose on a quarterly basis. It is our goal to keep a client's annual service fees related to our advisory services to no more than 2.99% on an annual basis, however, in certain circumstances, a client's overall advisory fee may warrant a fee in excess of 2.99%. In such cases, we will maintain rationale as to why the higher fee is warranted.

VII. Types of Clients

We will generally provide our services to the following types of clients.

- Pools or other collective investment vehicles
- Investment companies
- Institutional corporate or government pension plans

VIII. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

VIII.(A). Methods of Analysis

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ some or all of the following methods of analysis. For a description of the risks related to each particular method of analysis, see the information following each analysis method description. A description of each key risk appears later in this section.

Fundamental

Fundamental analysis is generally the considered the opposite approach to technical analysis. Fundamental analysis involves the attempt to identify the intrinsic value (i.e. the actual, true/real value) of an investment instrument by examining any related economic, financial, and other quantitative/qualitative factors relevant to that instrument. Fundamental analysis can take into account anything that may impact the underlying value of the instrument. Examples of such things may include large-scale economic issues such as the overall condition or current cycle of the economy, industry-specific or sector-specific conditions, etc. Other company/issuer-specific factors may also be taken into consideration such as the company's/issuer's current financial condition, management experience and capabilities, legal/regulatory matters, the overall type and volume of current and expected business, etc.

One of the goals of fundamental analysis is to attempt to derive a value that can be compared to the current market price for a particular financial instrument in hopes of determining whether the instrument is overpriced (time to sell) or underpriced (time to buy).

Key risk(s): Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, and Interest Rate Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

VIII.(A). (cont.) Investment Strategies

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ any of the following investment strategies. For a description of the risks related to each particular investment strategy, see the information following each strategy description. The codes used below relate to risks described further below in this section.

Long-Term Purchases

Long-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of at least one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Short-Term Purchases

Short-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of not more than one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Trading

Trading generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of at not more than thirty days.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Short Sales

Selling short involves the sale of an investment instrument that you do not own. In most cases, a short seller will have to go out and borrow or arrange for the borrowing of a particular investment instrument before selling short. When selling short, the seller is expecting the price of the underlying investment instrument to decline but if it does, the seller is able to sell the investment instrument(s) at the present day price (in effect at the time of entering into the short sale) and the profit potential is the difference between the sale price of the borrowed shares and the cost of purchasing the borrowed shares in order to make good on the delivery of the investment instrument(s) to the party on the other side of the initial short sale.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Option Writing (including covered/uncovered options or spreading strategies)

We will also employ the use of options trading in the event that such trading complements an investment strategy we may be carrying out for a particular client. An option is the right either to buy or sell a specified amount or value of a particular underlying investment instrument at a fixed price (i.e. the “exercise price”) by exercising the option before its specified expiration date. Options giving you the right to buy are called “call” options. Options giving you the right to sell are called “put” options. When trading options on behalf of a client, we may use covered or uncovered options or various strategies such as spreads and straddles. Covered options involve options trading when you own the underlying instrument on which the option is based. Uncovered options involve options trading when you do not own the underlying instrument on which the option is based. Spread options are options whose values are derived from the difference in price of two different underlying assets or components.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

VIII.(B). Risk Disclosures

Capital Risk

Capital risk is one of the most basic, fundamental risks of investing; it is the risk that you may lose 100 percent of your money. All investments carry some form of risk and the loss of capital is generally a risk for any investment instrument.

Credit Risk

Credit risk can be a factor in situations where an investment’s performance relies on a borrower’s repayment of borrowed funds. With credit risk, an investor can experience a loss or unfavorable performance if a borrower does not repay the borrowed funds as expected or required. Investment holdings that involve forms of indebtedness (i.e. borrowed funds) are subject to credit risk.

Currency Risk

Fluctuations in the value of the currency in which your investment is denominated may affect the value of your investment and thus, your investment may be worth more or less in the future. All currency is subject to swings in valuation and thus, regardless of the currency denomination of any particular investment you own, currency risk is a realistic risk measure. That said, currency risk is generally a much larger factor for investment instruments denominated in currencies other than the most widely used currencies (U.S. dollar, British pound, German mark, Euro, Japanese yen, French franc, etc.).

Economic Risk

The prevailing economic environment is important to the health of all businesses. Some companies, however, are more sensitive to changes in the domestic or global economy than others. These types of companies are often referred to as cyclical businesses. Countries in which a large portion of businesses are in cyclical industries are thus also very economically sensitive and carry a higher amount of economic risk. If an investment is issued by a party located in a country that experiences wide swings from an economic standpoint or in situations where certain elements of an investment instrument are hinged on dealings in such countries, the investment instrument will generally be subject to a higher level of economic risk.

Financial Risk

Financial risk is represented by internal disruptions within an investment or the issuer of an investment that can lead to unfavorable performance of the investment. Examples of financial risk can be found in cases like Enron or many of the dot com companies that were caught up in a period of extraordinary market valuations that were not based on solid financial footings of the companies.

Higher Trading Costs

For any investment instrument or strategy that involves active or frequent trading, you may experience larger than usual transaction-related costs. Higher transaction-related costs can negatively affect overall investment performance.

Inflation Risk

Inflation risk involves the concern that in the future, your investment or proceeds from your investment will not be worth what they are today. Throughout time, the prices of resources and end-user products generally increase and thus, the same general goods and products today will likely be more expensive in the future. The longer an investment is held, the greater the chance that the proceeds from that investment will be worth less in the future than what they are today. Said another way, a dollar tomorrow will likely get you less than what it can today.

Interest Rate Risk

Certain investments involve the payment of a fixed or variable rate of interest to the investment holder. Once an investor has acquired or has acquired the rights to an investment that pays a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest, changes in overall interest rates in the market will affect the value of the interest-paying investment(s) they hold. In general, changes in prevailing interest rates in the market will have an inverse relationship to the value of existing, interest paying investments. In other words, as interest rates move up, the value of an instrument paying a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest will go down. The reverse is generally true as well.

Legal/Regulatory Risk

Certain investments or the issuers of investments may be affected by changes in state or federal laws or in the prevailing regulatory framework under which the investment instrument or its issuer is regulated. Changes in the regulatory environment or tax laws can affect the performance of certain investments or issuers of those investments and thus, can have a negative impact on the overall performance of such investments.

Liquidity Risk

Certain assets may not be readily converted into cash or may have a very limited market in which they trade. Thus, you may experience the risk that your investment or assets within your investment may not be able to be liquidated quickly, thus, extending the period of time by which you may receive the proceeds from your investment. Liquidity risk can also result in unfavorable pricing when exiting (i.e. not being able to quickly get out of an investment before the price drops significantly) a particular investment and therefore, can have a negative impact on investment returns.

Market Risk

The market value of an investment will fluctuate as a result of the occurrence of the natural economic forces of supply and demand on that investment, its particular industry or sector, or the market as a whole. Market risk may affect a single issuer, industry or sector of the economy or may affect the market as a whole. Market risk can affect any investment instrument or the underlying assets or other instruments held by or traded within that investment instrument.

Operational Risk

Operational risk can be experienced when an issuer of an investment product is unable to carry out the business it has planned to execute. Operational risk can be experienced as a result of human failure, operational inefficiencies, system failures, or the failure of other processes critical to the business operations of the issuer or counter party to the investment.

Past Performance

Charting and technical analysis are often used interchangeably. Technical analysis generally attempts to forecast an investment's future potential by analyzing its past performance and other related statistics. In particular, technical analysis often times involves an evaluation of historical pricing and volume of a particular security for the purpose of forecasting where future price and volume figures may go. As with any investment analysis method, technical analysis runs the risk of not knowing the future and thus, investors should realize that even the most diligent and thorough technical analysis cannot predict or guarantee the future performance of any particular investment instrument or issuer thereof.

Strategy Risk

There is no guarantee that the investment strategies discussed herein will work under all market conditions and each investor should evaluate his/her ability to maintain any investment he/she is considering in light of his/her own investment time horizon. Investments are subject to risk, including possible loss of principal.

VIII.(C). Investment-Specific Risks

There is no single type of investment instrument that we predominantly recommend, however, please be mindful that all investments carry some form and degree of risk. Certain types of investments carry greater types and levels of risk than others and you should make sure that you fully understand not only the investment product itself but also the attendant risk factors associated with such products.

X.(D) Use of Other Investment Advisers

We do not use other investment advisers in the course of the services described above in Item IV.(B).

XI. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

XI.A Code of Ethics

We take great pride in our commitment to serving our clients' needs and the integrity with which we conduct our business. In our recent history, the financial services industry has come under significant scrutiny, especially in the area of the inherent responsibility of financial professionals to behave in the best interests of their clients.

We have developed a Code of Ethics (“Code”) as a means of memorializing our vision of appropriate and professional conduct in carrying out the business of providing investment advisory services. Our Code addresses issues such as the following:

- Standards of conduct and compliance with applicable laws, rules, and regulations
- Protection of material non-public information
- The addressing of conflicts of interest
- Employee disclosure and reporting of personal securities holdings and transactions
- The firm’s IPO and private placement policy
- The reporting of violations of the Code
- Educating employees about the Code
- Enforcement of the Code

Each of our employees has been furnished with a copy of our Code and has signed their names to a written acknowledgement attesting to their understanding of the Code and acceptance of its terms. A copy of our Code is available to all current and/or prospective clients upon request.

XI.(B) Participation in Client Trading

The information in this item is intended to address situations in which we or one of our related persons may have a material financial interest in the investment instruments we may recommend to you.

No such arrangements exist.

XI.(C) Trading Alongside Our Clients

On occasion, we may have a financial interest in the same securities or other investments that we acquire for the accounts of our clients. Further, we may also engage in transactions that are the same as or different than transactions recommended to or made for our client’s accounts. Such transactions are permitted if effected, pre-cleared and reported in compliance with our policy on personal securities transactions. Generally, personal securities transactions will not be pre-cleared when an order for the same or a related security is pending for the account of a client. Our Designated Supervisor reviews reports of personal transactions in securities by all of our associated persons quarterly or more frequently if required.

Investment Policy

None of our associated persons may effect for himself/herself or for accounts in which he/she holds a beneficial interest, any transactions in a security which is being actively recommended to any of our clients, unless in accordance with the following procedures.

Firm Procedures

In order to implement our Investment Policy, the following procedures have been put into place.

- 1) If we are recommending that any of our clients buy any security, no associated person may purchase that security prior to a client’s purchase of that security; and
- 2) If we are recommending that any of our clients sell any security, no associated person may sell that security prior to a client’s sale of that security.

As an alternative to the procedures described in the preceding points, we may include our own order(s) in a batch order with other client orders that would involve average pricing for the entire batch such that we would receive the same pricing as all other clients participating in the batch.

It is the primary intent of these procedures to ensure that the best interests of our clients are always served over that of our own. Trading on our own behalf that results in our own interests being served over that of our clients could be considered a breach of our fiduciary duty and thus, is aggressively discouraged.

XI.(D) Trading Around the Same Time as Clients

The information in this item is intended to address situations in which we or any of our related persons may invest in the investment instruments we may recommend to you. Since we do not make recommendations as to specific securities instruments, no such arrangements exist.

Transactions for the client's account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or "batch" such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. To the extent that we elect to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which our associated persons may invest, we will generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. We will not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of a batched order.

XII. Brokerage Practices

The purpose of this Item is to present to you the factors that we take into consideration when (1) selecting or recommending broker-dealers to you for the purpose of effecting transactions on your behalf and (2) for determining the reasonableness of such broker-dealers' compensation related to such transactions.

Unless the client directs otherwise, Centre will generally recommend that all the client's accounts be maintained at, by, or through certain other firms that are unaffiliated with Centre.

Although not all-inclusive, Centre may utilize or recommend the following brokers of record in executing its discretionary asset management services and their corresponding custodian:

- Deutsche Bank Securities, Inc.
- J.P. Morgan Securities Inc.

Factors that we consider in utilizing or recommending certain broker-dealers or custodians to our clients may include such entity's financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, and service. In return for effecting securities transactions through certain broker-dealers/custodians, we or certain of our supervised persons may receive certain support services that may assist us in our investment decision-making process for all of our clients.

In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not always the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of brokerage services, including factors such as execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Accordingly, although we will seek competitive rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for the client's account transactions.

XII.(A).(1). Research and Soft Dollar Benefits

Soft dollar benefits are items such as research or other products or services (other than the typical execution and other brokerage services available to all other investment advisers) that an investment adviser may receive from a broker-dealer(s) or other party in connection with the client securities transactions are directed to that particular broker-dealer(s).

We do participate in soft dollar arrangements. Consistent with obtaining best execution, transactions for your account(s) may be effected through a broker-dealer in return for research products and/or services, which assist us in our investment decision-making process. Such research generally will be used to service all of our clients, but brokerage commissions paid by you may also be used to pay for research that is not used in managing your specific assets. As a result of our soft dollar arrangements and if we determine in good faith that the commissions paid by our clients under a soft dollar arrangement are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received, you may experience brokerage commissions/costs greater than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction(s). All soft dollar arrangements will be structured in accordance with Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Refer to Item XII.(A).(1).(e) below for a description of the types of soft dollar benefits we may be eligible to receive.

XII.(A).(1).(a).

When we use client brokerage commissions/fees to obtain research or other products or services, we receive a benefit because we do not have to produce or pay for the research or other products or services we may receive.

XII.(A).(1).(b).

We may have an incentive to select or recommend a broker-dealer based on our interest in receiving the research or other products or services, rather than on our clients' best interest in receiving most favorable execution.

XII.(A).(1).(c).

As a result of these soft dollar arrangements, the commission rates or other brokerage execution fees you pay may be higher than those charged by other broker-dealers.

XII.(A).(1).(d).

The soft dollar benefits that we may receive from time to time will not be used to service all of our clients' accounts. We do not seek to allocate soft dollar benefits to client accounts proportionately based on the soft dollar credits that each individual account generates.

XII.(A).(1).(e).

The following non-exclusive list will identify several types of soft dollar benefits that we might receive from a broker-dealer in relation to effecting client securities transactions through that particular broker-dealer(s).

- 1) Third-party research
- 2) Electronic databases and/or nonproprietary research.
 - a. S&P Compustat (Capital IQ)
 - b. Bloomberg
 - c. Intrinsic Research System
 - d. Thomson Reuters (Starmine)
 - e. MSCI BARRA Portfolio Optimization & Modeler
 - f. S&P Industry Surveys
 - g. Strategic Economic Decisions
 - h. Neovest
 - i. Advent Axys
 - j. Lexis Nexis
 - k. Sanlam Equity Analytics
 - l. Strategas Research Services
- 3) Online quotation/news.
 - a. Interactive Data
 - b. NYSE Real-time data
 - c. The WM Company

XII.(A).(1).(f).

During our last fiscal year, we used the following procedures in connection with directing client transactions to a particular broker-dealer in return for soft dollar benefits. These procedures are subject to change at any time as we deem appropriate.

No less frequently than on an annual basis, the Designated Supervisor will perform an analysis of the commission/transaction costs experienced by Centre's clients under any soft-dollar arrangements. The purpose of this analysis is to identify the portion of the client commission costs that is attributable to any items (research, non-research, mixed-use, etc.) that may be received by Centre in connection with the soft-dollar arrangements. Once this cost is determined, the Designated Supervisor must then make a determination as to whether the overall cost to the client is still justifiable in light of the additional charge related to the non-brokerage related products/services Centre receives as a result of the soft-dollar arrangement.

In the event the Designated Supervisor determines that the overall cost to Centre's clients is no longer favorable under the soft-dollar arrangement, the Designated Supervisor will seek to eliminate the soft-dollar arrangements or will seek an entirely new executing broker-dealer.

The Designated Supervisor will maintain a record of each such analysis and any subsequent documentation related thereto.

XII.(A).(2). Brokerage for Client Referrals

In certain circumstances, firms like ours may receive client referrals as a result of recommending particular broker-dealers or other service providers. We, however, do not participate in any formal arrangements wherein we receive client referrals from any particular broker-dealer in return for selecting or recommending such broker-dealer.

XII.(A).(3). Directed Brokerage

This item is intended to address situations where we may recommend, request, or require you to provide us instructions as to how to direct brokerage activity on your behalf.

XII.(A).(3)(a). Directed Brokerage – Recommended, Requested, or Required

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer. We do not routinely recommend, request, or require that you direct us as to how to execute brokerage transactions on your behalf (i.e. using a particular broker-dealer for execution purposes).

XII.(A).(3)(b). Directed Brokerage – Permitted

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer, however, you may direct us to use a particular broker-dealer (subject to our right to decline such a request) to execute some or all transactions for your account or otherwise on your behalf. In such an event, we will not negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with the other broker-dealer, and we will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to "batch" the transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts we manage. As a result, you may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case.

XII.(B). Order Batching

Transactions for the client's account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or "batch" such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. Reasoning for attempting to effect a batch order is that we may need to trade in the same security for multiple accounts at or around the same time and batching may allow us to achieve a more favorable price on average for all clients. Batching, however, doesn't guarantee the lowest possible price for execution, however, it is intended to reduce the overall volatility in execution price for a large # of orders that if not batched together, may experience significantly different execution prices. Conversely, in the event that we do not batch a group of orders that otherwise may be a prime candidate for a batched order, the resulting cost for some clients may be higher or lower than what we might be able to achieve by processing a batched order for the benefit of those same clients.

To the extent that we elect to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which our associated persons may invest, we will generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. We will not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of a batched order.

XIII. Review of Accounts

XIII.(A). Review of Accounts or Financial Plans

Review of client accounts.

We will review your accounts on an ongoing basis, but no less frequently than a quarterly basis. The designated reviewer(s) will review your accounts for best execution, suitability, and service. Not all transactions will be reviewed, rather, the designated reviewer(s) will perform a sampling-based review. The designated reviewer(s) will review the performance and cost basis for your transactions. Your investment objectives are used to review for suitability. Quarterly, transactions are reviewed referencing your investment objectives for any transaction that may not fit your stated objectives, or our understanding of your investment objectives will be flagged and reviewed with the investment adviser representative placing the trade.

The periodic review process described above will be performed by James A. Abate, Managing Director/Chief Investment Officer/CCO.

Review of Financial Plans.

Since we do not offer financial planning, this section is not applicable to us.

XIII.(B). Non-Periodic Account Reviews

Events that may trigger further client account reviews in addition to the standard quarterly review process may include, but would not be limited to, a notable increase in the volume of requests by the client to effect transactions in his/her accounts, where such transactions may appear to be inconsistent with the client's previously stated investment objectives. Other factors may include requests by the client to liquidate certain securities positions/contracts where such transactions may appear to be inconsistent with the client's previously stated investment objectives. Additional triggering factors could be the performance on an individual account being an outlier to the performance of accounts with similar investment objectives, and a very important trigger would be customer complaints. This last trigger would be a prime example of a trigger for an intermittent review of a client account.

XIII.(C). Reports to Clients

Account statements will be provided no less frequently than quarterly by the custodian or administrator, not by Centre. Account statements will identify account positions, balances, and transaction details. Upon your request, a quarterly account appraisal (written or electronic) may be created for you as well as an annual year-end statement.

In the event we also send account statements to you in addition to those provided by the qualified custodian, you are urged to compare any account statements provided by us to those provided by the custodian.

Reports to '40 Act Funds Shareholders

Account statements will be provided to the underlying shareholders no less frequently than quarterly by the administrator, not by Centre. Account statements will identify investor account positions, balances, and transaction details. Upon your request, a quarterly account appraisal (written or electronic) may be created for you as well as an annual year-end statement.

Reports to Investors in Unregistered Funds

For any pooled investment vehicles to which we may provide investment advisory services, the general partner or managing member of any such pooled investment vehicles will ensure that all investors are provided a copy of the annual audit report within 120 days of the fiscal year-end of the pooled investment vehicle. For a fund of funds, the report must be provided within 180 days of the fund's fiscal year end. Please refer to the offering materials for the pooled investment vehicle for further details.

XIV. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

XIV.(A). Compensation we Receive

Under certain circumstances, firms like ours may receive compensation from other parties for having referred clients or potential investment advisory clients to them. These sorts of arrangements are generally referred to as “solicitor” arrangements. In cases where Centre serves as the Principal-Adviser to Funds and prospective clients, who have been solicited to invest in such Funds, deem it more beneficial due to account size or other considerations to engage the third-party Sub-Adviser directly as the Adviser to an SMA, Centre will receive a portion of the asset management fees it receives, typically 20%, from the third party for referral and ongoing client service activities.

XVII. Voting Client Securities

XVII.(A). Proxy Voting

Proxy Voting Policy, Procedures, and Guidelines

General Policy

Centre Asset Management believes that the review and voting of proxies is an important part of portfolio management as it represents an opportunity for shareholders to make their voices heard and to influence the direction of a company. Centre Asset Management is committed to voting corporate proxies solely in a manner that serves the economic best interests of its clients.

Centre Asset Management evaluates the competence, experience, reputation, and capital allocation skills of a company's management as part of its qualitative assessment within the investment decision making process. Therefore, Centre generally follows the so-called "Wall Street Rule"; i.e., it votes as management recommends or sells the stock prior to the annual meeting if there is a significant management sponsored voting issue that is not consistent with the economic best interests of the funds shareholders. This does not mean that we take corporate governance lightly, but rather, it is confirmation that our process of investing with shareholder aligned management is working. However, if we determine that managements' position on a particular issue deemed not material enough to trigger a sale of the stocks is not in the best interest of our clients, we will vote contrary to management's recommendation, or abstain from voting. Also, there may be instances where we determine that not voting is in the best economic interests of our clients. The practicalities and costs involved with international investing may make it impossible at times, and at other times disadvantageous to vote proxies in every instance. For example, we might refrain from voting if we or our agents are required to appear in person at a shareholder meeting or if the exercise of voting rights results in the imposition of trading or other ownership restrictions.

Conflicts of Interest

Proxy solicitations that involve a conflict of interest or might appear to involve a conflict of interest, between Centre Asset Management and its clients will be handled in one of the following ways:

- Engage an independent party to determine how to vote the proxy;

- Prepare a report that (i) describes the conflict of interest; (ii) discusses procedures used to address such conflict of interest; (iii) discloses any contacts from outside parties (other than routine communications from proxy solicitors) regarding the proposal; and (iv) confirms the recommendation was made solely on the investment merits and without regard to any other consideration;
- Refer the proxy to the client or to a representative of the client for voting purposes;
- Disclose the conflict to the affected clients and seek their consent to vote the proxy prior to casting the vote;
- Vote in accordance with the pre-determined voting policy, The Wall Street Rule, outlined and disclosed to clients in our General Policy; or
- Seek guidance from the Board of Trustees.

Record Keeping

Centre Asset Management will maintain the following records with respect to proxy voting:

- A copy of this proxy voting policy;
- A copy of all proxy statements received (Centre may rely on a third party for this service such as ProxyEdge);
- A record of each vote cast on behalf of a Fund (Centre may rely on a third party for this service such as ProxyEdge);
