Item 2. Educational Background and Business Experience

The founder and Managing Member of TIFFM since it began in 1978 is James S. Moore. Mr. Moore's entire business effort is focused on supervising the management company's activities.

Mr. Moore began his Wall Street career in 1968 and has held positions as senior officer, principal, branch manager, chief trading officer, sales manager and director of marketing and investment policy at numerous well-known brokerage firms.

A leading producer for such firms as EF Hutton & Co., Conti Commodities and Dean Witter & Co., Mr. Moore became Senior Vice President, Director of Sales & Marketing for Shearson Hayden Stone, Inc. in 1974. Mr. Moore then supervised a portion of the firm's proprietary investments, corporate planning and alternative investment product development.

Mr. Moore established DGM Commodities Inc. in 1978 to offer "The Futures Group" family of funds. Afterwards, Mr. Moore assisted in developing a futures fund for Mint Investment Management.

In 1984, Mr. Moore was a consultant to the Chairman of Merrill Lynch & Co. for the development of their derivatives and alternative investment funds. He guided the staffing, development and administration of several new products. In 1985, Mr. Moore financed Buttonwood Associates' growth into a leading index option "market maker" on the American Stock Exchange.

In 1987, he became the Managing Director of Thomson McKinnon's Futures Asset Management department, restructuring all of their public and private derivatives funds. Mr. Moore simultaneously held the positions of National Commodities Sales Manager, Branch Office Manager of three Thomson branches and Director of Sales and Marketing for Futures and Options.

In March 1986, Mr. Moore developed Cotton Trading Partners L.P.

Mr. Moore graduated with a B.S. from the School of Hotel Administration at Cornell University, 1961-1965.
