Item 4                      Advisory Business

Founded in 2007, IND-X Advisors Limited (“IND-X”, “we”, “our”, or “us”) provides investment research advisory services to institutional investors. We do not provide services to individual investors.

The principal owners of IND-X are Richard Wallace and Mark Waters, both full-time employees.

We aim to provide fund managers with access to the best independent investment research, covering predominantly the markets and securities of the Asia Pacific region, but also global macro-economic strategy. We meet with clients on a regular basis to assess their research requirements. Based on this understanding we recommend to our clients’ independent research products that are most relevant to their investment strategies and mandates.

We do not hold or manage client assets.

Our research products range consists of:

- Four separately branded subscription research products that are produced by distinct teams of analysts at IND-X and published by IND-X;
- Products and services of select third party independent research providers that we have partner relationships with.

The subscription products published by IND-X are listed below:

- A Stotz Investment Research

Paul Krake is the lead analyst

The methods of analysis used in our research products are outlined in Item 5 of this document.

Third Party Independent Research Providers

IND-X has partner relationships with over 30 independent research providers (“IRP”). The IRPs mainly focus on the markets and securities of the Asia Pacific region or provide global analysis of interest to investors in Asian markets.

The IRPs employ a broad variety of research approaches including: fundamental company analysis, sector and industry analysis, economic forecasting, technical analysis, impacts of government policies and geopolitical events, forensic accounting, corporate governance studies and a number of other specialist fields.

Prior to partnering with an IRP, we perform due diligence on the firm, key staff and research processes. We monitor the ongoing quality of written research and solicit client feedback on the overall service provided by the IRP to the client.

The current list of IRPs that we work with may be found on our website at the following address:

<http://www.indxadvisors.com/go/research/independent-research-providers>

Firm History

IND-X Securities (Asia) Limited was founded in 2007 to capitalize on regulatory changes in the investment banking sector and structural changes introduced by MiFID.

Enzard Limited, was founded in 2003 by Richard Wallace. The firm provided independent investment research management for institutional investors world-wide and built a reputation as a unique source of unbiased information on the independent research space in Asia.

To leverage synergies between the businesses, IND-X merged with Enzard Limited in 2012.

In October 2014 the firm was renamed to IND-X Advisors Limited.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

For research products that we publish, we typically charge a fixed fee. The fee may vary depending on the amount of assets under management, the level of service provided to the client and the number of client staff using the service. Fees are payable quarterly in advance.

We may be paid a variable fee by some clients based on the results of the fund manager's internal research voting process.

We are paid referral fees by an IRP upon successful introduction of the IRP to the client. The referral fees are based on a percentage of the fees paid by the client to the IRP, and are usually ongoing for the lifetime of the client / IRP relationship.

We are paid a fee proportional to the assets under management by two Thailand-based funds.

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not receive performance-based fees and do not engage in discretionary investment management. Therefore this item is not applicable.

Item 7 Types of Clients

Our clients are institutional investment managers, including managers of hedge funds and publicly offered investment funds, with at least USD 50mn of assets under management. The majority of our clients have over USD 500mn of assets under management.

We do not provide any services to private individuals.

Item 8                      Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We employ a number of methods of analysis to formulate recommendations on market timing, asset allocation and stock selection. These include:

- Fundamental company analysis;
- Back tested quantitative stock selection models
- Economic forecasting
- Analysis of government policy, fiscal policy, and central bank policy.
- Effects of changing demographics
- Analysis of global banks, liquidity and corporate credit.
- Impact of geopolitical events.
- Impact of technology on wider industries.

The analysis is based on publically available information, sourced from newspapers and other generally available media, generally available financial databases and official company disclosures. We have strict research compliance policies and procedures to avoid obtaining non-public material information and providing any such information inadvertently obtained to our clients.

Investment Risks

All investments in securities carry a risk of loss, including substantial or even complete loss. Our recommendations are backed by models whose assumptions we can defend, but fundamental research is prone to errors deriving from misunderstandings and misestimates concerning an issuer, its markets and competitive environment, general market conditions and general economic conditions. When we are aware of specific risks relating to a particular issuer or other more general factors, we warn our clients of those risks.

We provide investment advice covering predominantly the markets and securities of the Asia Pacific region. We only work with experienced institutional investment managers who we believe are aware of the risks factors associated with investing in Asia and other emerging markets. We note the following specific risks relating to these markets:

- Non-U.S. securities markets may be less liquid and at times more volatile than comparable U.S. markets.
- Securities issued by non-U.S. issuers and principally traded outside the United States involve certain special risks due to economic, political and legal developments, including favorable or unfavorable changes in currency exchange rates, exchange control regulations (including currency blockage), expropriation of assets or nationalization, imposition of withholding taxes on dividend or interest payments and possible difficulty in obtaining and enforcing judgments against non-U.S. entities.

- Issuers of non-U.S. securities are subject to different, often less comprehensive accounting reporting and disclosure requirements than domestic issuers, and the regulation of non-U.S. securities markets, particularly in emerging market countries, is frequently less comprehensive and less effectively administered than regulation in the United States and other developed country markets.
- Geopolitical events such as tensions between China and its neighboring countries and between China and the United States, the ongoing turmoil in countries in the Euro zone, the volatility of the price of oil, developments in the Middle East, Iran and elsewhere, and other geopolitical and domestic developments; the continued threat of terrorism; ongoing military and other actions and heightened security measures in response to these threats; and other unanticipated global events may cause disruptions to commerce, reduced economic activity and continued volatility in markets throughout the world. We cannot predict the extent and timing of any decreased commercial and economic activity resulting from the above factors, or how any such decrease might affect the value of securities.

Item 9                      Disciplinary Action

We have no legal or disciplinary events to report in response to this item.

Item 10                      Other Financial Industries Activities and Affiliations

Item 11                      Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

All advisory personnel are required to adhere to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics & Standards of Professional Conduct (“The Code”). Copies of the codes can be found at www.cfainstitute.org/ethics. The six guiding principles of the Code are:

We have in place written policies and internal procedures to facilitate compliance with the Code and other regulatory obligations including, for example, on personal account dealing, conflicts of interest, insider dealing, client confidentiality, gifts and inducements and whistleblowing. Copies of the firm’s “Code of Ethics and Regulatory Compliance” manual will be made available to clients on request.
