Item 2 - Material Changes

This brochure is prepared in the revised format required beginning in 2011. Registered Investment Advisers are required to use this format to inform clients of the nature of advisory services provided, types of clients served, fees charged, potential conflicts of interest and other information. The brochure requirements include providing a Summary of Material Changes (the “Summary”) reflecting any material changes to our policies, practices, or conflicts of interest made since our last “annual update” filing. In the event of any material changes, a Summary will be provided to all clients within 120 days of our fiscal year-end. Our last annual update was filed on March 26, 2014 and an amendment was filed on October 17, 2014.

Effective September 1, 2014, Ray Padron was named Managing Partner of Brightworth. Chris Dardaman, former CEO, will continue to play an active role on Brightworth’s Investment Committee and will remain a Wealth Advisor at the firm. No other business activities have changed materially since our last update.

Item 4 - Advisory Business

Brightworth is a fee-only financial firm that provides investment management services and wealth counsel to high net worth individuals, families, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, pension plans and profit sharing plans. We work with many of the largest and most respected investment managers and have access to economic and investment research from many different sources worldwide. We also have the freedom and flexibility to use the products and services we think are right for our clients.

Brightworth provides its clients with investment management services through which clients receive portfolios of carefully selected investments. We build our clients’ investment portfolios based on (among other things) their cash flow situation, tax considerations, tolerance for risk, and time horizon. Depending upon the size and goals of each client’s portfolio, we may invest client assets in separate stock and bond accounts, mutual funds, and private investment strategies (including hedge fund of funds and real estate). In limited circumstances clients may request that Brightworth use managers that place limited restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities (such as securities whose primary revenue comes from the manufacturing of alcohol or tobacco products).

Brightworth clients may also request wealth planning advice, which addresses some or many aspects of the client's financial situation. Brightworth works with clients to determine their financial goals and objectives and develops planning strategies for the client to most effectively utilize their financial resources to achieve short and long-term financial objectives. Brightworth gathers client information through several means including a data gathering form and personal interviews. Information we analyze includes items such as a client's current financial status, financial goals, tax bracket and attitudes towards risk. Brightworth then reviews related documents supplied by the client and prepares a written wealth plan (Brightworth Wealth Plan).

The Brightworth Wealth Plan documents the client's financial data, goals and objectives. The wealth plan may include, but is not limited to the following areas: identification of financial goals and objectives; current net worth statement; cash flow, net worth, and income tax projections; risk management analysis; education funding analysis; business planning; estate planning and federal estate tax analysis; charitable planning; and investment planning and asset allocation analysis.

Brightworth does not provide tax compliance advice for our clients. Clients should consult with their accountant or other tax adviser regarding tax filings and/or estimated payments. Additionally Brightworth does not provide legal advice or prepare legal documents. However, we work closely with our clients' estate planning attorneys and other advisors as necessary to assist in the implementation of their Wealth Plan. Brightworth may perform risk management analyses for our clients but does not provide specific analysis of existing property/casualty, medical, life, disability or long term care insurance policies. At the request of the client, we can introduce them to a specialist in these areas.

Brightworth, LLC was founded in 1997 as Polstra & Dardaman, LLC. Brightworth currently has 10 shareowners: Dave Polstra, Chris Dardaman, Ray Padron, Don Wilson, Annika Cushnie, Lisa Brown, Kristen Johnson, Justin Husson, Sherry Hodor and Charlie Jordan. As of December 31, 2014, Brightworth managed $1.2 billion on a discretionary basis on behalf of over 485 clients in approximately 30 states.

Item 5 -Fees and Compensation

Brightworth provides investment advisory services on a discretionary basis. Annual asset management fees are based on the scale below:

0.30%	per annum for amounts greater than $10,000,000
0.50%	per annum for amounts greater than $5,000,000 up to $10,000,000
0.75%	per annum for amounts greater than $2,500,000 up to $5,000,000
1.00%	per annum for the first $2,500,000

Brightworth may from time to time adjust the fee schedule for accounts, depending on the size and type of account and the services required. Brightworth charges some clients fees that are lower than the current fee schedule because they became clients when a previous fee schedule was in place. In other rare cases, Brightworth may charge different fees for similar services.

Brightworth charges fees quarterly in arrears based on the account value at the end of the prior quarter. Clients typically authorize Brightworth to deduct fees automatically from their investment accounts. Brightworth makes fee adjustments for material deposits and withdrawals (amounts exceeding $10,000) that a client makes within a calendar quarter, prorated based upon the number of days.

Brightworth's investment management fees are separate from the external or internal fees and expenses that separate account money managers, mutual funds, custodians, private partnerships, etc., charge to clients. Clients also may incur custodial fees and transaction costs to purchase and/or hold stocks, bonds, mutual funds, partnership interests or other securities. (Please review the information below under Brokerage Practices and visit the custodians' websites for current pricing.) A complete explanation of expenses charged by each separate account manager, mutual fund or partnership is contained in the appropriate marketing materials, form ADV, mutual fund prospectus, private placement memorandum and/or other documents.

Brightworth's minimum annual investment management fee is typically $10,000 (1% * $1,000,000). Brightworth may waive or reduce this minimum at the discretion of the firm's Managing Partner.

Fees for an initial Wealth Plan will vary based on the scope and complexity of the financial analyses to be completed. Brightworth does not require a prepayment of fees six or more months in advance.

When a financial planning service engagement is terminated (by either the client or Brightworth) prior to the end of the agreement, the client will pay Brightworth's fee for the time spent on the client's plan at Brightworth's current rates. Clients may terminate any agreement without penalty within five business days after entering into any agreement. Wealth Planning and Investment Management services may be terminated without penalty at any time by written notice of either party.

On an exception basis, clients may also request to receive services on an hourly basis, in cases in which Brightworth provides advice on a specific issue or issues requested by the client. The fee for this service is normally $250 - $500 per hour for the wealth advisor's time and $100 - $200 per hour for financial planner and assistant's time. This fee is negotiable when billing hourly.

Item 6 - Performance Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Brightworth does not have any performance-based fee arrangements. "Side-by-Side Management" refers to a situation in which the same firm manages accounts that are billed based on a percentage of assets under management and at the same time manages other accounts for which fees are assessed on a performance fee basis. Because Brightworth has no performance-based fee accounts, Side-by-Side Management is not applicable to Brightworth's investment and business practices.

Item 7 - Types of Clients

Brightworth primarily provides investment management services to high net worth individuals, families, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, pension plans and profit sharing plans. Brightworth's standard minimum account size is $1,000,000, but the average size of client relationships is typically much larger. Brightworth will sometimes work with clients who do not meet the current investment minimum, but who Brightworth expects will have more assets to invest over time.

Item 8 - Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

Brightworth's Investment Committee and investment analysts research and conduct due diligence on third party money managers that Brightworth recommends for client accounts. Brightworth uses independent money managers who specialize in the different components of our clients' portfolios. Brightworth evaluates, selects, and monitors these managers using a combination of quantitative and qualitative methods. Brightworth generally uses multiple managers in each client account to allow for focused expertise in each asset class or sector (such as small cap U.S. stocks or inflation-protected bonds).

Don Wilson, Brightworth's Chief Investment Officer, leads our Investment Committee, which also includes Chris Dardaman, Co-Founder, Partner and Wealth Advisor; Ray Padron, Managing Partner and Wealth Advisor; and Alan Gotthardt, Consultant. The Investment Committee is assisted by the firm's investment analysts, financial planners and Wealth Advisors. The Investment Committee generally meets monthly (or more often) to discuss existing and prospective investments. The Investment Committee evaluates investments independently, as well as in the context of our overall portfolio strategy.

Some factors Brightworth may consider when reviewing a third party money manager include:

- The experience, education, and background of the key people involved in the investment process
- The investment style and process of the manager
- Length of time the investment strategy has been in existence, the tenure of the current manager(s)
- Past performance, relative to other investments having similar investment objectives and relative to appropriate benchmarks (if available and applicable)
- Costs relative to other investment strategies with similar objectives and investment styles
- Total assets of the proposed investment strategy

Investment Strategies

Brightworth uses asset allocation strategies to create the investment portfolios for clients. The following broad asset classes are the major components of our client portfolios: stocks, bonds, and alternative & real assets. The stock portion invests globally in both U.S. and internationally based companies. The bond portion is broadly diversified across the global fixed income markets and will normally maintain an intermediate maturity. The alternative & real assets portion of the portfolio may include a variety of non-traditional asset classes and strategies such as real estate, hedge funds, asset allocation, trading strategies, and private equity.

Depending on each client's situation, Brightworth may use different types of investment vehicles to implement a client's portfolio including but not limited to mutual funds, separate stock and bond accounts, limited partnerships, as well as hedge fund of funds. Brightworth manages portfolios on an enterprise level to provide our current thinking across our clients and to create consistency in returns for clients with similar objectives. In general, Brightworth invests each client's portfolio in a Brightworth model portfolio and may further customize the client's investments based on the specific goals and objectives for each account (based on factors including the size of the account, the net worth of the client, risk tolerance of the client, the specific goals and objectives of the client, as well as any restrictions the client may place on the account).

Brightworth clients sign an Investment Policy Statement (IPS) for each account (or group of accounts with the same objective) that Brightworth manages. This IPS normally lays out the client's goals and objectives for the account including risk tolerance, asset allocation targets and ranges, and restrictions placed on the account, if applicable.

Risk of Loss

Brightworth primarily invests for time horizons of more than one year. However, market developments could cause Brightworth to sell investments more quickly. Investing involves a wide variety of risks that all clients should be able and prepared to bear including: loss of principal risk, interest-rate risk, market risk, inflation risk, currency risk, business risk, liquidity risk, financial risk and other types of risk.

Item 9 - Disciplinary Information

Neither Brightworth nor its Partners and Staff have been involved in any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to a client's evaluation of the company or its personnel.

Item 10 - Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither Brightworth nor its Partners and Staff have any relationships or arrangements with other financial services companies that pose material conflicts of interest. Alan Gotthardt (a former Partner at Brightworth who worked with the firm for 13 years) serves as a consultant to Brightworth and is a member of Brightworth's Investment Committee. He runs a private investment company that is not affiliated with Brightworth, and to eliminate any potential conflicts of interests, Brightworth does not solicit investments of client assets in the private partnerships managed by Mr. Gotthardt.

Item 11 - Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading Brightworth has adopted a written code of ethics that is applicable to all Partners and Staff. Among other things, the code requires Brightworth and its Partners and Staff to act in clients' best interests, abide by all applicable regulations, and avoid even the appearance of insider trading.

Brightworth has policies and procedures designed to address our duty as a fiduciary to our clients. This means that we abide by the duty to place client interests ahead of our own individual interests. We take this duty seriously and provide full and fair disclosure of relevant facts and conflicts of interest when applicable. We also have a duty of loyalty and good faith to our clients. Partners and Staff are also expected to act in accordance with the firm's values of: Integrity, Excellence, Service and Teamwork.

Brightworth reviews personal securities trading which applies to Partners and Staff, as well as Partners and Staff's family members living in the same household. As part of our Code of Ethics, all Partners and Staff must also abide by rules relating to their Personal Securities investments. These rules include: (1) annually providing the firm with a list of all personal accounts and reportable securities in which they have a beneficial ownership, (2) quarterly reporting all reportable securities transactions, and (3) pre-clearing certain personal securities transactions.

The Chief Compliance Officer monitors Partners and Staff trading, relative to client trading, to ensure that Partners and Staff do not engage in improper transactions or gain any benefit over the firm's clients.

A copy of Brightworth's Code of Ethics is available upon request.

Item 12 - Brokerage Practices

Brightworth believes that, as an industry best practice of separation of duties, the custody of client assets should be separated from the management of client assets. Brightworth generally recommends that clients hold their investment accounts with one or more of the following unaffiliated custodians: Charles Schwab, Fidelity Investments or TD Ameritrade. Brightworth will recommend which custodian(s) to use based on the potential for discounted custodian transaction costs, as well as the best mix of quality, timeliness of execution and administrative service support. Clients normally will pay transaction fees to the custodian. However, the Wealth Advisors at Brightworth are not registered representatives of these custodial/brokerage firms. Neither Brightworth nor its Wealth Advisors receive any commissions or fees for using or recommending these custodians.

Soft Dollar Benefits

Brightworth does not have soft dollar arrangements with any brokerage firms based on volumes of transactions.

Other Benefits

Brightworth does receive certain products and services from Charles Schwab, Fidelity Investments and TD Ameritrade (Recommended Custodians) free of charge or at discounted rates including:

- Duplicate client confirmations, statements, and other account information;
- Direct advisory fee debiting capabilities;
- Access to on-line investment research;
- Discount pricing on Educational Conferences.

Brightworth has an incentive to use Recommended Custodians because their services enable us to more efficiently serve clients. Brightworth does not believe that clients whose accounts are held by Recommended Custodians incur any additional costs in connection with Brightworth's receipt of the products and services described above. There is no affiliation or fee sharing arrangement between Brightworth and the Recommended Custodians. However, Brightworth would not receive the operational and economic benefits described above if Brightworth did not have an established relationship with these companies. These benefits do not depend on the amount of transactions directed by Brightworth to the Recommended Custodians.

Trading & Best Execution Reviews

Brightworth generally trades stocks, mutual funds, and ETFs through the client's account custodian. Although Brightworth does not typically trade bonds directly for its client accounts, when we do, we normally solicit bids from more than one dealer and trade bonds with the dealer that offers sufficient liquidity, favorable pricing and operational efficiency.

In general on an annual basis, Brightworth's Investment Operations Department reviews and evaluates the pricing and services offered by Charles Schwab, Fidelity Investments and TD Ameritrade. They also compare pricing and services offered by other reputable brokerage firms periodically to ensure our clients are receiving good service at competitive prices.

Brightworth does not normally aggregate trades for client accounts as trade aggregation is not possible with respect to mutual fund shares. Brightworth's trading process generally involves systematically placing trades in each client account individually. This allows us to review the accounts for things like restrictions, tax impact, upcoming withdrawals or future additions to the account. It also enables Brightworth to try to minimize taxes and reduce or eliminate short-term redemption fees and wash sales in client accounts.

Item 13 - Review of Accounts

On an ongoing basis, members of Brightworth's Investment Operations Team monitor the investment accounts that Brightworth manages. Brightworth's Investment Operations Team also regularly reviews a number of other reports that are designed to identify accounts that are outside the expected ranges for asset classes, subclasses, or returns.

The Investment Operations Team reviews client accounts at least quarterly and normally monthly. Other factors triggering a review of client accounts would include changes in the client's financial needs or circumstances based on the client's particular objectives as well as deposits and withdrawals into the account.

Clients receive account statements directly from their chosen custodian normally on a monthly basis, or at least on a quarterly basis. These statements may be received as paper copies in the mail or can be set up to be viewed electronically.

Brightworth also typically provides clients with performance reports during client meetings or as requested.

Item 14 - Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Brightworth has a policy that allows its employees to be eligible to receive additional compensation for referring new clients to the firm. The compensation is a cash payment calculated as a percentage of the fees generated by the assets under management referred to Brightworth. This policy could potentially create a conflict of interest in that an employee may be motivated to refer potential clients to the firm to earn compensation. Brightworth addresses this potential conflict by having the Brightworth Managing Partner review the prospective client's situation and make an independent determination that the potential client is a good fit for Brightworth's services. Brightworth is not obligated to accept as a client any prospective client referred by an Employee.

Brightworth also has a relationship with a few Consultants who may refer prospective clients to the firm. These Consultants may be clients of Brightworth. The Consultant's compensation may consist of a flat monthly fee for consulting services provided to Brightworth. They may also be eligible to receive a bonus on net assets added during the first 3 years for each client referred to Brightworth. These arrangements do not increase or in any way affect the fees clients pay to Brightworth. Brightworth is not obligated to accept as a client any prospective client referred by a Consultant. The Consultants disclose this arrangement to prospective clients prior to the start of their relationship with Brightworth. The Consultants do not have access from Brightworth to client or prospective client's financial and/or personal data, unless the client chooses to disclose personal information to them.

The majority of Brightworth clients are referred to us by existing clients or through the marketing efforts of the firm's Wealth Advisors.

Item 15 - Custody

All clients' accounts are held in custody by unaffiliated broker/dealers (typically Charles Schwab, Fidelity and TD Ameritrade). Brightworth can access clients' accounts through its ability to debit advisory fees and is considered to have custody solely for that reason. Clients will receive account statements directly from the custodian normally on a monthly basis and at least on a quarterly basis. Clients can review these statements in addition to any account information provided by Brightworth. Clients may access their accounts on-line at any time through the custodian's website.

Item 16 - Investment Discretion

Brightworth has investment discretion over all clients' discretionary accounts. Clients grant Brightworth trading discretion through the execution of a limited power of attorney included as part of Brightworth's investment management contract. Brightworth does not have investment discretion over non-discretionary accounts, which Brightworth does not manage.

Brightworth clients sign an Investment Policy Statement (IPS) for each account (or group of accounts with the same objective) managed by Brightworth. This IPS lays out the client's goals and objectives for the account including risk tolerance, asset allocation targets and ranges, and restrictions placed on the account, if applicable.

Item 17 - Voting Client Securities

Brightworth does not vote proxies for securities held in Client investment accounts. Clients will receive proxies directly from their custodian, the fund company transfer agent (in the case of a mutual fund) or by a third party vendor hired by the fund company or custodian.

Item 18 - Financial Information

Brightworth does not require prepayment of fees more than six months in advance. Brightworth has never filed for bankruptcy and is not aware of any financial condition that is expected to affect its ability to manage client accounts.

Summary of Professional Designations

This section provides additional details on the certifications and credentials held by our Wealth Advisors and staff as indicated in their bios on the previous pages. The descriptions of the credentials listed below were derived from the organizations' websites.

CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, CFP® and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the "CFP® marks") are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. ("CFP Board").

The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP® certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients.

To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board's studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor's Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board's financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination. The examination, administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances;
- Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP® professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks:

- Continuing Education – Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field; and
- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification. (www.cfp.net)

Certified Public Accountant (CPA)

CPAs are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy. While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as a CPA generally include minimum college education (typically currently 150 credit hours with at least a baccalaureate degree and a concentration in accounting), minimum experience levels (most states require at least one year of experience providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA), and successful passage of the Uniform CPA Examination. In order to maintain a CPA license, states generally require the completion of 40 hours of continuing professional education (CPE) each year (or 80 hours over a two year period or 120 hours over a three year period). Additionally, all American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) members¹ are required to follow a rigorous Code of Professional Conduct which requires that they act with integrity, objectivity, due care, competence, fully disclose any conflicts of interest (and obtain client consent if a conflict exists), maintain client confidentiality, disclose to the client any commission or referral fees, and serve the public interest when providing financial services. The vast majority of state boards of accountancy have adopted the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct within their state accountancy laws or have created their own. (www.aicpa.org)

Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA)

To enroll in the CFA program, an individual must have four years of qualified investment work experience. A CFA designation requires an individual to complete a graduate-level self study program. The curriculum includes ethics and professional standards as well as economics. It also covers a variety of technical financial topics including: quantitative methods, financial reporting and analysis, corporate finance, equity investments, fixed income, derivatives, alternative investments, and portfolio management and wealth planning. Candidates must then pass three six hour exams that test the individual's knowledge in these areas of investments and finance. Completing the Program takes most candidates between two and five years. The CFA candidate is also required to adhere to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct on an annual basis. Holders of this designation must also become a member of CFA Institute. (www.cfainstitute.org)

Certified Investment Management Analyst (CIMA)

The CIMA certification signifies that an individual has met initial and on-going experience, ethical, education, and examination requirements for investment management consulting, including advanced investment management theory and application. Prerequisites for the CIMA certification are three years of financial services experience and an acceptable regulatory history. To obtain the CIMA certification, candidates must pass an online Qualification Examination, successfully complete a one-week classroom education program currently provided by The University of Chicago Booth School of Business and The Wharton School at The University of Pennsylvania, and pass an online Certification Examination. CIMA designees are required to adhere to IMCA's Code of Professional Responsibility, Standards of Practice, and Rules and Guidelines for Use of the Marks. CIMA designees must report 40 hours of continuing education credits, including two ethics hours, every two years to maintain the certification. The designation is administered through Investment Management Consultants Association (IMCA). (www.imca.org)

Chartered Alternative Investment AnalystSM (CAIA)

The CAIA designation, recognized globally, is administered by the Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst Association® and requires a comprehensive understanding of core and advanced concepts regarding alternative investments, structures, and ethical obligations. To qualify for the CAIA designation, finance professionals must pass a self-directed, comprehensive course of study on risk-return attributes of institutional quality alternative assets and complete both the Level I and Level II CAIA examinations. The CAIA examinations are administered in a computerized format at proctored test centers around the world. To qualify for membership, individuals are required to have met prerequisites of at least one year of professional experience and a U.S. bachelor's degree or its equivalent, or four years of professional experience. Professional experience includes full-time employment in a professional capacity within the regulatory, banking, financial, or related fields. Once a qualified candidate completes the CAIA program, he or she may apply for CAIA membership and the right to use the CAIA designation, providing an opportunity to access ongoing educational opportunities. Accredited Estate Planner® (AEP®)

The Accredited Estate Planner® (AEP®) designation is a graduate level specialization in estate planning. It is awarded by the National Association of Estate Planners and Councils (NAEPC) to recognize estate planning professionals who meet specific requirements of experience, knowledge, education, professional reputation, and character.

An Accredited Estate Planner® applicant must meet all of the following requirements:

1. The applicant must currently hold one of the following degrees or designations: Attorney (JD), Certified Public Accountant (CPA), Chartered Life Underwriter® (CLU®), Chartered Financial Consultant® (ChFC®), Certified Financial Planner (CFP®), or Certified Trust & Financial Advisor (CTFA).
2. The applicant must be presently and significantly engaged in "estate planning activities."
3. The applicant must have a minimum of five (5) years of experience engaged in estate planning.

An AEP professional must satisfy a minimum of thirty (30) hours of continuing education during the previous two calendar years, of which at least fifteen (15) hours MUST have been in estate planning. (www.theamericancollege.edu)

(Chartered Life Underwriter®) CLU®

For over 80 years the CLU® has been the respected risk management credential for advisors. Designees have completed eight or more college-level courses. Topics for required courses include insurance and financial planning, life insurance law, estate planning, and planning for business owners and professionals. Elective courses include such advanced topics as income taxes, group benefits, retirement planning, and health insurance. CLU® designees must meet experience and continuing education requirements and must adhere to a high ethical standard. The mark is awarded by The American College. (www.theamericancollege.edu)

(Chartered Financial Consultant®) ChFC®

The ChFC® designation has been a mark of excellence for almost thirty years and currently requires eight or more college-level courses, the most of any financial planning credential. Required courses cover extensive education and application training in financial planning, income taxation, investments, and estate and retirement planning. Additional electives are chosen from such topics as macroeconomics, financial decisions for retirement, and executive compensation. ChFC® designees must meet experience requirements and adhere to continuing education and ethical standards. The credential is awarded by The American College. (www.theamericancollege.edu)
