Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

KCM provides professional management of stock and bond portfolios, for a fee based on the market values of the portfolios at the end of each quarter, payable quarterly, in arrears. Applicant's fees are negotiable. No particular ranges have been pre-established with respect to accounts that are the subject of negotiated fees. Applicant's basic annual fee structure is:

Cash Management	0.40%
Investment Grade Fixed Income	0.50%
Equities, ADRs, ETFs, ETNs	0.90%
Open and Closed End Mutual Funds,	0.90%
Preferred Stock and Hybrid Securities	0.90%

Investment advisory fees are billed quarterly generally in arrears based upon the market value of the account at the end of the current quarter. In some cases, a client is also billed for the balance of the quarter in which his account was opened in addition to the following full quarter. The term "quarter" refers to either a calendar quarter or the client's fiscal quarter. The initial quarterly fee for new clients is pro-rated based upon the date the account is opened. Clients of KCM are subject to a 30 day termination fee based upon assets under management at the date of termination. This fee may be charged, at the sole discretion of the Advisor.

Ordinarily, KCM has the ability to directly debit fees from client accounts. Currently, the investment management agreement stipulates the direct debit of fees from the client accounts. Clients have the option to have their fees billed separately, by making prior arrangements with KCM.

At KCM's discretion, and often in circumstances involving larger accounts, including Cash Management Accounts, KCM's fees are negotiable. No particular ranges have been pre-established with respect to accounts that are the subject of negotiated fees. There are no fees payable before service is provided. Clients and/or KCM may terminate the investment advisory contract upon 30 day written notice. KCM does not provide clients advice as to the tax deductibility of its advisors fees. Clients are directed to consult a tax professional to determine the potential tax deductibility of our fees.

Special circumstances may cause fees to vary from the above schedule. KCM may group multiple accounts of one client relationship together for purposes of calculating the fee. Or, KCM may not charge a fee to small accounts of a client because of the fee the client is paying on the total relationship. KCM reserves the right to negotiate fees with clients. KCM may charge higher or lower fees than those described above. KCM acts as portfolio manager for several wrap fee or special sub-advisor to an investment consultant type programs. KCM may add similar programs and relationships in the future. KCM's fees for portfolio management of wrap fee programs are based on assets managed and may be different from accounts managed by KCM directly. Some custody relationships require a minimum account size, or annual fee. Wrap-fee and overlay clients receive a brochure from the introducing sponsor detailing all aspects of the wrap-fee or overlay program before selecting KCM as the sub-advisor. Fees and features of each program offered by the various introducing sponsors will vary. Wrap-fee or overlay clients should consult the introducing sponsor's brochure for the specific fees and features applicable to their program. For wrap-fee or overlay accounts, introducing sponsors and KCM generally share in a combined service fee charged by the introducing sponsor. KCM is generally paid a portion of the fee by the introducing sponsor for advisory services, while the introducing sponsor retains the remainder for trade execution, custody and additional services.

KCM's fees are exclusive of brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses which shall be incurred by the client. Such costs are exclusive of and in addition to KCM's fee, and KCM does not receive any portion of these costs. Please refer to Item 12 of this brochure regarding KCM's brokerage practices and the factors that KCM considers in selecting or recommending broker-dealers for client transactions and determining the reasonableness of their compensation. Furthermore, clients whose assets are invested in ETFs (Exchange Traded Funds), ETNs, (Exchange Traded Notes), Mutual Funds, and Money Market Accounts where a management fee is assessed as an expense, are in effect, paying two advisory fees. First, clients pay a regular quarterly fee on the money value of total assets under KCM's management, which includes the assets that are invested in the aforementioned funds. In addition, clients pay another fee to the investment adviser or sponsor of the fund based upon the amount of their investment in that fund.

Item 6 – Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

KCM does not have any performance fee arrangements. If in the future KCM were to enter into such a fee arrangement with qualified clients, we will structure any performance or incentive fee arrangement subject to Section 205(a)(1) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

KCM provides portfolio management services to high net worth individuals, corporate pension and profit-sharing plans, charitable institutions, foundations, endowments, government entities, private investment funds, and trust program either through direct contract or through relationships with outside wealth managers and wrap sponsors. KCM generally has a minimum account size of $500,000 for opening a direct account, based on the product in which the client invests, subject to negotiations.

KCM presently acts and/or reserves the right in the future to act as a Sub-Advisor for other Investment Consultants, Investment Advisors, Registered Investment Advisors and to various broker and broker-dealers as a preferred provider or managed account provider. KCM has agreements with certain outside and independent firms whereby KCM agrees to manage accounts, which select KCM as an investment advisor. Under these agreements, the client typically will pay a single fee based on a percentage of assets under management. In some arrangements the client has a separate agreement with KCM and pays KCM separately. In others arrangements, the client will pay one fee to the referring broker or advisors which would include consulting, manager search, performance measurement, custodial services with a single fee based on a percentage of assets under management. In some programs, brokerage commissions may be included in the single fee.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Both fundamental and quantitative valuation factors are considered in establishing positions in securities and in monitoring their progress. KCM is keenly interested in the future prospects of the company and the industry in which it competes. KCM believes that superior investment results are driven by capitalizing on market mispricings. For both equity, fixed income and balanced portfolios, KCM employs what it considers are the strengths of fundamental, technical and cyclical macro analysis.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. KCM uses systems and analyses to achieve stable growth and income on a firm level, as well as portfolio specific risk controls, however, there is no guarantee that our strategies will prove effective in all market conditions.

KCM encourages all current and prospective clients to carefully consider; (i) committing to management only those funds that are not going to be needed for current purposes, and that can be invested on a long-term basis, usually a minimum of three to five years, (iii) that volatility from investing in securities can be expected to occur, and (iii) that current income and interest from dividends will most likely be minimal for equity only accounts, or from the equity portions of balanced portfolios.

KCM does not warrant or guarantee any type of return, nor assure or imply any kind of assurance or guarantee against loss of principal. All investments involve some type of risk, and KCM will work with each client to determine an optimal investment solution based upon your individual return requirements and objectives. Any disclosure of past returns achieved by KCM or the broader markets should not be considered as a reliable predictor of future results

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of KCM or the integrity of KCM's management. KCM has no information applicable to this Item.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Item 10 is not applicable.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

KCM has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to its clients. The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things. All supervised persons at KCM must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended.

KCM's employees and managers are required to follow the Company's Code of Ethics. Subject to satisfying this company policy and applicable laws, managers and employees of KCM may trade for their own accounts in securities, which are recommended to and/or purchased for their clients. KCM has adopted a written Code of Ethics designed to prevent any potential conflict of interest with client transactions. Thus, the Code designates certain classes of securities as exempt securities and certain classes of transactions as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interests of KCM's clients. Employee trading is regularly monitored under the Code of Ethics in order to ensure employees comply with the Code of Ethics, and to ensure the Code of Ethics reasonably addresses conflicts of interest between KCM and its clients.

Additionally, in appropriate circumstances and consistent with a client's investment objectives, KCM anticipates that it will cause accounts over which it has full management authority to effect, and will recommend to investment advisory clients, the purchase or sale of securities in which accounts of KCM's other clients are at the same time effecting a purchase or sale in the same securities. Prior to entering into a specific transaction, a determination will be made by the persons performing the advisory duties for such account that participation in such transaction will most likely be relatively beneficial to such account.

KCM's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting William Prince, CCO.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

KCM generally receives discretionary authority from the client at the outset of an advisory relationship to select the identity and amount of securities to be bought or sold. In all cases, however, such discretion is exercised in a manner consistent with the stated investment objectives for the particular client account.

Except in those instances where a client wishes to retain discretion over broker selection and commission rates, KCM accepts discretionary authority to determine the brokers used and the commissions paid. In the absence of any client direction to utilize a particular broker or dealer for the execution of transactions in any client accounts, KCM's overriding objective in effecting portfolio transactions is to obtain the best combination of price and execution. KCM seeks to effect each transaction at a price and commission that provides the perceived most favorable total cost or proceeds reasonably attainable under the circumstances. KCM may consider various factors when selecting a broker or dealer, including, but not limited to: the nature of the portfolio transaction; the size of the transaction; the execution, clearing and settlement capabilities of the broker or dealer; the desired timing of the transaction; confidentiality; and, under appropriate circumstances, the availability of research and research-related services provided through such broker or dealer. Research services may be provided in the form of written reports, telephonic communications, economic and market data, credit analyses, news services, electronic information, analytic software, analyst earnings revisions, etc., and may contain information concerning securities markets, the economy, individual companies, pricing information and services, performance studies and other information providing assistance in the performance of KCM's investment decision-making responsibilities.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

In placing orders for the purchase and sale of securities for its clients, KCM seeks quality execution at favorable prices through responsible broker-dealers. In selecting broker-dealers to execute transactions, KCM considers such factors as the broker's reliability, the quality of its execution services, its financial condition, its commission rates on agency transactions, and the general brokerage and research services that it may provide. As authorized in Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, KCM may cause its clients to pay a broker-dealer that provides brokerage and research and portfolio analysis services to KCM an amount of commissions in excess of the commissions that another broker-dealer would have charged for effecting a transaction.

KCM does not have any contractual arrangements in place and does not currently use brokerage commissions to obtain products or services which do not qualify for the safe harbor rules in Section 28(e) of the Act as above.

Research services furnished by brokers and dealers with whom KCM and its affiliates effect transactions may be beneficial to certain of the accounts advised by KCM. It is recognized that a particular account may be charged a commission paid to a firm who supplied research services not utilized by such account. However, KCM expects that each account will be benefited overall by such practice because each is receiving the benefit of research services and the execution of such transactions not otherwise available to it without the allocation of transactions based upon the recognition of the value to such research services. KCM assesses its commission policies, rates and allocations. This review considers the contributions and value of research services received from broker-dealers.

If a client decides to direct where its brokerage is placed by KCM, the client should consider: (i) KCM has existing integrated trading and reporting systems with some brokers which reduce the cost of transacting business with those brokers; (ii) a client who directs KCM to use a specific broker may pay higher commissions on some transactions than might be attainable by KCM, or may receive less favorable execution of some transactions, or both; (iii) a client who directs KCM may forego any benefit from savings on execution costs that KCM could obtain for its clients through negotiating volume discounts on batched transactions; (iv) a client who directs KCM may restrict KCM from receiving research-related products and services available from other brokers; (v) KCM may not begin to execute client securities transactions with broker-dealers which have been directed by clients until all non-directed brokerage orders are completed; and (vi) clients directing commissions may not generate returns equal to clients which do not direct commissions.

In the event that trade allocation is relevant, KCM's trade allocation policy is designed to ensure fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities among accounts over time and to ensure compliance with applicable regulatory requirements. Accounts are treated in a non-preferential manner, such that allocations are not based upon account performance, fee structure or Portfolio Manager. This policy is not intended to provide mathematical precision in all instances. Likewise, the timing of an account's funding and/or the timing of contributions or withdrawals will impact the timing and nature of actions taken. As a result, variations in the positions and weights will naturally exist between client accounts.

When blocking orders together, portfolio managers must designate allocations by account prior to placing an order with trading. Fully executed orders will be allocated on a pro-rata, average price basis. Partial fills of orders will also be allocated pro-rata, on an average price basis, subject to certain limited exceptions. In the case of partially filled and partial completes limit orders, KCM's trading desk employs a random account generator to ensure impartial fairness for allocation decisions.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Accounts are reviewed on a regular basis by a senior member of the portfolio management team assigned to the account. Accounts are reviewed: (1) when a decision has been made regarding a security held in the account, such as the addition, liquidation or the switching of a position, (2) when prompted by client communication, (3) when notified of a contribution or withdrawal of assets, (4) when a decision has been made to alter the asset allocation, (5) at the discretion of the portfolio manager.

Generally, reports are furnished to each client on a quarterly basis. Reports generally include a written Market Commentary, Portfolio Summary, Assets in Portfolio, and Transaction Schedule. Additional reports may be provided upon request

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

KCM has entered into an agreement with Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. an independent and unaffiliated broker-dealer ("Schwab") to participate in the Schwab Advisor Network ("the Service"), an advisor referral service designed to help investors find an independent professional Investment Manager/Advisor in their area. KCM has agreed to pay Schwab a fee for participating in the Service. This fee may be increased, decreased or waived by Schwab from time to time. KCM may charge advisor clients introduced by the Service, fees or costs greater than the fees or costs KCM charges its advisory clients who were not introduced by the Service, and who have similar portfolios under management with KCM.

KCM may recommend to a client a broker/dealer that has referred clients to KCM only when KCM believes that said broker/dealer is capable of providing the high level of services to the client and when fees and expenses associated with said broker/dealer are deemed to be fair and reasonable for the level of service provided. In some cases KCM will direct brokerage to certain brokers or dealers who have also referred clients to KCM. Under such circumstances, the client is not, in all instances, assured of the lowest commissions and/or broker/dealer compensation. In addition to the Service as mentioned in paragraph above, KCM participates and/or may at a future date participate in a number of referral programs that provide qualified leads to KCM. Participation in these programs may pose potential conflicts of interest. KCM does not directly compensate the program sponsor for these leads. The leads are not required to custody their assets with the program sponsor. If the lead decides to engage the services of the program sponsor, it should be assumed that the program sponsor will be the primary broker for the account and, as a result, will receive compensation in the form of brokerage commissions and related fees by the sponsor for the account.

Item 15 – Custody

KCM does not take custody or possession of any assets or securities of any client, except as is required in conjunction with the pre-approved collection of client fees.

Clients generally receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains custody of client assets. Clients are encouraged to carefully review such statements and to compare such official custodial records to the account statements that KCM may provide to clients or their advisers. KCM statements may vary occasionally from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, accrued interest for fixed income securities, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

Generally, KCM clients grant it full discretionary authority over securities purchases and sales, subject to investment objectives and guidelines that are established by agreement between KCM and the client at the time the account is opened. Absent instructions to the contrary from the client, KCM has the authority to determine, without obtaining specific client consent, the securities to be bought or sold, amount of securities to be bought or sold, broker/dealer to be used and commission rates to be paid.

The investment advice given to each client is based on the client's investment objectives and individual needs. KCM will rely upon you, the client, to update us about any changes in your life or in the status of the account that may affect issues such as risk tolerance, income requirements, taxes, investment time horizon, downside risk, or return requirement. KCM does not believe in a one-size-fits-all approach, and our business is structured to provide individualized and customized accounts advice, structure and management.

In certain situations client accounts may come to KCM with stock, bond or mutual fund holdings identified by the client to be retained or client desires to control the size and value of this holding in the portfolio account. At the beginning of our client/advisor relationship, KCM will code these securities as "Un-Managed" (previously "Unsupervised"). We shall not vote proxies, have dispositive power, nor vote on issues relating to tender offers or recapitalizations. Accordingly, it is incumbent upon you, the de-facto owner of these Un-Managed securities to obtain the necessary forms from your broker or custodian to vote proxies and other corporate governance issues that arise from time to time. KCM will identify these holdings clearly and distinctly as "Un-Managed" on each regularly prepared statement of account. Through this disclosure, KCM relinquishes all responsibility for these securities, their merits or suitability for the portfolio or the account holder, and will not be included as a billable asset or part of the billable account in accordance with our fee schedule as defined in this document.

Where KCM has discretion to select the executing broker, KCM will endeavor to select those brokers or dealers which will provide the best services at the lowest commission rates possible. The reasonableness of commissions is based on the broker's ability to provide professional services, competitive commission rates, research and other services, which will help KCM in providing investment management services to clients. KCM may, therefore, recommend the use of (or use) a broker who provides useful research and securities and portfolio management services even though a lower commission may be charged by a broker who offers no research services and minimal securities transaction assistance.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

Proxy voting policies and procedures are required by Rule 206(4)-6 of the Advisers Act. KCM's Proxy Voting Policy and Procedures, which are currently effective, are reviewed at least annually to ensure that they are adequate and effective.

KCM has adopted Proxy Voting Policy Procedures that are reasonably designed to ensure that KCM is voting in the best interest of its clients. The Proxy Procedures reflect KCM's general voting positions on specific corporate governance issues and corporate actions. Some issues may require a case-by-case analysis prior to voting and may result in a vote being cast that will deviate from the Proxy Procedures Upon receipt of a client's written request, KCM may also vote proxies for that client's account in a particular manner that may differ from the Proxy Procedures.

Proxy voting decisions will be made according to guidelines designed and geared to protect the long-term economic interests of the client. In general, KCM will vote in accordance with management's recommendations as to matter dealing with;

- (i) Appointment of auditors
- (ii) Routine election of directors
- (iii) Improvements in employee stock option plan (dilution not to exceed 3%)
- (iv) Stock splits
- (v) Amendment of Articles of Incorporation or By-laws to coincide with changes in Federal or State regulations.

In general KCM will vote against management as to matters dealing with;

- (i) Poison pill initiatives
- (ii) Classifying the Board of Directors
- (iii) Outside Non-employee stock option or stock compensation scheme
- (iv) Anti-takeover measures

Each account's custodian will be relied upon to forward all relevant proxy materials to KCM, either electronically or in physical form to the address of record. Receipt of proxies will be recorded and will be voted upon on a timely basis.

Item 18 – Financial Information

Registered investment advisers are required in this Item to provide certain financial information or disclosures about their financial condition. KCM has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding

Item 19 – Client Directed Trades and Un-Managed Holdings

KCM manages many accounts held at brokerage firms and custodian banks. These custodial agents (Charles Schwab, Smith Barney, Fidelity Investments, Union Bank, etc) will accept orders from you, the registered account holder. These orders are generally coded "unsolicited." Should you, the registered account holder place orders to buy or sell securities in your account, either at a branch office, over the telephone or through some kind of on-line electronic mechanism, KCM will not be responsible for this security transaction, nor will be assumed to have knowledge of the value nor merits of the investment. KCM will not, in most instances be qualified to offer more than a cursory opinion about this security holding. We will code any such purchase in your account as "Un-Managed" formerly "Unsupervised". In doing so, KCM will forego any trading and/or voting authority relating to this holding(s), and shall not vote proxies or make judgments regarding tender offers, mergers, reorganizations or other corporate governance issues that may arise in the future. Accordingly, all assets marked "Un-Managed" are not included as billable assets. When KCM sends you a monthly and/or quarterly statement of account, "Un-Managed Assets" formerly "Unsupervised" are segregated away from the securities managed by KCM on your periodic statement of account, and clearly labeled as "Un-Managed" securities.

In a similar fashion, client accounts may come to KCM with stock, bond or mutual fund holdings identified by the client that he/she wishes to retain or desires to control the size and value of this holding in the portfolio account. At the beginning of our client/advisor relationship, KCM will code these securities as "Un-Managed." We shall not vote proxies, have dispositive power, nor vote on issues relating to tender offers or recapitalizations. Accordingly, it is incumbent upon you, the de-facto share or bondholder to obtain the necessary forms from your broker or custodian to vote proxies and other corporate governance issues that arise from time to time. As with the paragraph above, KCM will identify these holdings clearly and distinctly as "Un-Managed" on each regularly prepared statement of account. Through this disclosure, KCM relinquishes all responsibility for these securities, their merits or suitability for the portfolio or the account holder, and will not be included as a billable asset or part of the billable account in accordance with our fee schedule as defined in this document.
