Item 4. Advisory Business

- A. Corsair is a Delaware limited liability company and an investment adviser located in New York, New York. The Adviser provides investment advisory services through certain of its subsidiaries and/or affiliates (the “Advisory Affiliates”) to pooled investment vehicles (the “Clients” or the “Funds”).

The Funds make or made investments primarily in private equity, equity-related, debt and other securities in accordance with the investment guidelines for (1) business focusing in the global financial services industry (the “Buyout Funds”) and (2) businesses focusing in the infrastructure sector (the “Infrastructure Funds”). All of the Funds are exempt from registration under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “Investment Company Act”), pursuant to Sections 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of the Investment Company Act or by virtue of accepting only foreign investors. Interests in the Funds are privately offered only to qualified investors.

Certain Advisory Affiliates are responsible for carrying out the day-to-day investment activities of the Funds (the “Investment Managers”) and certain other Advisory Affiliates are responsible for serving as general partners (or similar managing fiduciaries) of the Funds (the “General Partners”).

The Adviser was established in 2006. The Adviser’s principal owner is Maximillian Management LLC, which in turn is owned by Nicholas B. Paumgarten and D.T. Ignacio Jayanti.

- B. The Funds invest or have invested primarily in private equity, equity-related, debt and other securities and obligations (including preferred equity, subordinated debt or similar securities) in the global financial services industry or infrastructure sector. The Funds may also generally invest in derivative financial instruments and may utilize leverage in connection with their investment strategies, subject to certain limitations. Investment in portfolio companies may generally be made indirectly by investing through partnerships or other entities (or by causing certain investors to invest through affiliated partnerships (or other entities)). The investment guidelines of each Fund are memorialized in the applicable Fund governing documents.
- C. The Adviser generally utilizes similar strategies for all of the Buyout Funds and all of the Infrastructure Funds, respectively. However, the Adviser may tailor its advisory services to the specific needs of a Fund when deemed necessary. The Buyout Funds target investments in financial services companies globally, in North America, Europe, Asia, Latin America, Africa and the Middle East. Sub-sectors of the financial services industry in which the Buyout Funds invest include banking, insurance, asset management, specialty finance and financial technology.
- D. The Adviser does not participate in wrap fee programs.
- E. As of December 31, 2014, the Adviser manages $2,749,834,663 in assets on a discretionary basis, and $113,314,201 in assets on a non-discretionary basis. As of March 13, 2015, the Adviser manages an additional $2,360,142,052 in assets on a discretionary basis attributable to the Infrastructure Funds, for a total of $5,223,290,916 managed by the Adviser as of March 13, 2015.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

- A. As compensation for its services, the Investment Managers typically receive a management fee from the Funds (“Management Fee”). Management Fees are typically payable quarterly in advance, on a pro rata basis for any period that is less than a full quarter period, except that CIM receives Management Fees semi-annually in advance. Generally, during a Fund’s commitment period, the Management Fee payable to any Investment Manager is based upon the aggregate capital commitments of the Fund's limited partners. Following that commitment period, the Management Fee is generally based on invested capital. The terms of the Management Fee payable to the Investment Managers may vary among the Funds and typically ranges from 0.90% to 1.75% per annum during and after the commitment periods of the Funds.

While it is the Adviser's policy that its fees are not negotiable, the Management Fee may be waived, rebated or calculated differently at the sole discretion of the Adviser. In particular, certain affiliates or employees of the Adviser that are investors in the Fund do not pay Management Fees.

In lieu of annual Management Fees, the Investment Managers may be entitled to receive a one-time funding fee as consideration for identifying investment opportunities and managing the investments of the Buyout Funds. Generally, the one-time funding fee up to 3.0% of any amount drawn down by the Buyout Funds for the making of investments.

- B. The Adviser bills Clients on a quarterly or semi-annually basis in advance for fees incurred.
- C. Each of the Adviser's Funds will typically bear offering and organizational expenses up to an amount specified in each of the Funds' private placement memoranda. Organizational expenses in excess of such amounts will be borne by the respective Fund, but will be subject to a 100% offset against the Management Fee.

The Adviser's Funds will bear certain expenses in connection with the purchase, monitoring or disposition of investments, or in connection with unconsummated transactions ("Transaction Fees"). Such Transaction Fees are subject to an 80% offset against the Management Fee with respect to the Buyout Funds and 100% offset against the Management Fee with respect to the Infrastructure Funds.

Additionally, each of the Adviser's Funds typically will bear expenses including, without limitation, (i) all out-of-pocket fees, costs and expenses (including broken deal expenses), if any, incurred in developing, negotiating, structuring, trading, settling, monitoring, holding and disposing of investments, including without limitation any financing, legal, accounting, advisory and consulting expenses in connection therewith, (ii) travel expenses (including private charter, first class and/or business class airfare, lodging, ground transportation, and travel means); (iii) all out of pocket fees, costs and expenses, if any, incurred in connection with legal and regulatory compliance with U.S. federal, state, local, non-U.S. or other law or regulation (including for example, preparation and filing of FATCA and other regulatory filings of each Investment Manager and its affiliates relating to the applicable Fund's activities), and any taxes, fees, or other governmental charges; (iv) expenses related to investor reporting; (v) expenses associated with any meeting of certain of the Adviser Funds and any conference of the limited partners of certain of the Adviser's Funds and (vi) costs and expenses of complying with provisions in side letter agreements entered into with limited partners (including the process of distributing and implementing applicable elections pursuant to any "most-favored-nations" clauses in side letters). The list of fees and/or expenses that the Funds may incur or pay directly to third parties is not intended to be exhaustive; existing investors in the Funds are advised to review the applicable Fund's offering materials for a more extensive description of the fees and expenses associated with an investment in such Fund.

From time to time, Corsair may engage and retain strategic advisors, consultants, and other similar professionals who are not employees or affiliates of Corsair and who may receive payments from, or allocations with respect to, portfolio companies (as well as from Corsair or the Funds). The nature of the relationship with each of the senior advisors, consultants and/or other professionals and the amount of time devoted or required to be devoted by them varies considerably. In certain cases, they provide the General Partners and/or the Investment

Managers with industry-specific insights and feedback on investment themes, assist in transaction due diligence, make introductions to and provide reference checks on management teams. In other cases, they may take on more extensive roles and serve as executives or directors on the boards of portfolio companies or contribute to the origination of new investment opportunities. In certain instances, Corsair may have formal arrangements with these senior advisors, consultants and/or other professionals (which may or may not be terminable upon notice by any party), and in other cases the relationships may be more informal. They may be compensated (including pursuant to retainers and expense reimbursement) from Corsair, the Funds and/or portfolio companies or otherwise uncompensated unless and until an engagement with a portfolio company develops. In such circumstances, such payments from, or allocations with respect to, portfolio companies and/or the Funds will not, even if they have the effect of reducing any retainers or minimum amounts otherwise payable by Corsair, be deemed paid to or received by Corsair and such amounts will not be subject to the offset provisions as described above. These senior advisors, consultants and/or other professionals may have the right or may be offered the ability to co-invest alongside the Funds, including in those investments in which they are involved, or otherwise participate in equity plans for management of any such portfolio company. There can be no assurance that any of the senior advisors, consultants and/or other professionals will continue to serve in such roles and/or continue their arrangements with Corsair and/or any portfolio companies throughout the terms of Funds.

Investors in a Fund are allocated their pro rata share of such additional fees and expenses for the time period they are invested in the Fund, or on such other allocation methodology as the Adviser may determine is fair and reasonable.

The General Partners and the Investment Managers will be responsible for the expenses of providing their services to the Funds, including overhead expenses, facilities expenses and compensation of employees. In the event the Adviser needs to engage the services of a broker or dealer, the Funds will bear any brokerage expenses, as discussed in Item 12 of this brochure.

- D. Where Management Fees are paid in advance, they are typically required to be returned on a pro rata basis in the event an Investment Manager does not provide services for the full period in respect of which the fees are paid, calculated based on the number of days remaining in the applicable time period.
- E. Neither Corsair nor any of its supervised persons typically receive compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

In most cases, the Adviser is compensated for the investment advisory services it provides to the Funds through Management Fees, advisory fees and other transaction-related fees. The General Partners of the Buyout Funds are generally entitled to receive a performance allocation ("Carried Interest") with respect to each investor of generally up to twenty percent (20%) of such investors profits from each Fund investment, subject to (i) the satisfaction of a preferred internal rate of return, compounded annually and, in the case of certain Buyout Funds, (ii) recoupment of prior net losses, expenses and fees by such investors.

CIM is entitled to certain incentive fees from the general partner of the Infrastructure Funds it manages to the extent certain investment appreciation thresholds are achieved with respect to each portfolio investment held by the Infrastructure Funds. Such incentive fees are not borne by the investors in the Infrastructure Funds.

The Adviser will seek to ensure that any clients or investors in an investment vehicle that are directly or indirectly assessed a Carried Interest satisfy the qualifications of SEC Rule 205-3 and have been advised of such fees and their risks.

The Carried Interest may give rise to potential conflicts of interest, including but not limited to the incentive to make investments that are riskier or more speculative than would be the case in the absence of such performance based compensation.

Item 7. Types of Clients

The Adviser provides investment advisory services to pooled investment vehicles through certain of its Advisory Affiliates. In general, the minimum initial investment commitment in a Buyout Fund is $10 million, which may be reduced or waived at the discretion of a General Partner.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

The following is a summary of the methods of analysis and investment strategies generally employed by Corsair as well as the material risks associated with investing in such strategies. Prospective and existing investors are advised to review the offering materials and other constituent documents for full details on each applicable Fund's investment, operational and other actual and potential risks.

A. Method of Analysis.

Investment ideas are generated internally through research and analysis. In connection with identifying, evaluating, analyzing and investigating investment opportunities for the Funds, investment professionals also generally draw upon their professional experience in relevant industries and contact with industry executives, established business relationships and independent consultants. In addition, the investment professionals may also draw upon their business relationships that may arise as a result of serving as a board member, officer or observer of a portfolio company in which a Fund may invest.

Corsair has separate investment committees for its Buyout Funds and Infrastructure Funds, respectively (collectively, the "Investment Committees"). The members of the Investment Committees typically meet bi-weekly, or more frequently, as necessary, with Corsair's investment professionals responsible for formulating and implementing the investment strategies of each Fund to review and stay informed about current activities in each portfolio, the status of all Fund investments and administrative matters. Corsair's current view on industry trends, market conditions and other relevant items are also discussed at such time. The members of each Investment Committee then meet amongst themselves to discuss certain transactions in more detail and further deliberate the relative merits and risks of proposed investments with the investment professionals involved in order to encourage candid dialog and, ultimately, to vote on each investment decision.

While Corsair's research is thorough, both its Clients and investors should be prepared for the risk of loss. There can be no assurance that the Funds' target rate of return will be achieved or that there will be any return of capital. Investors should have the financial ability and willingness to accept the risks and lack of liquidity which are characteristic of each of the Funds' investments.

B. Investment Strategy

Corsair's overall strategy is to identify emerging trends in the global financial services and infrastructure industries and engage in transactions with market participants to capitalize on those trends.

Buyout Funds

Corsair seeks to earn strong risk-adjusted returns by leveraging the investment team's knowledge and contacts to identify and execute attractive investments in companies in the financial services industry around the world. The Buyout Funds take control and minority positions, either individually or as a lead member of an investor consortium. Target investments include both privately-held and public companies, generally via private transactions when the target company loses access to, or has difficulty accessing, the public capital markets. A core part of the Buyout Funds' investment process involves developing a relationship and influence with investee company senior executives and key shareholders. In many instances, the Buyout Fund will obtain board representation, observer seats, or other types of management rights.

Infrastructure Funds

CIM is currently focused on managing and seeking exit opportunities for existing investments. CIM believes that it will be able to pursue a variety of exit options to maximize value through its flexibility with respect to both the timing and type of investment realizations and create liquidity for investors. Potential exit options include: sale to a strategic, initial public offering, sale to another fund, debt recapitalization, listed yield (Income) vehicle, sale to direct financial investor (pension fund/insurance company), yield generated by investment, and sale of individual assets in a portfolio.

C. Risks

Prospective investors in any Fund, including the Buyout Funds and the Infrastructure Funds, or any investment vehicle sponsored by Corsair should be aware that an investment in any such Fund or investment vehicle involves a high degree of risk, which include, but are not limited to, the following risks described below. Each investor should carefully consider the following risks, along with the risk factors and potential conflicts of interest described in the applicable Confidential Private Placement Memorandum or subscription documents, as applicable, of such Fund or vehicle. As a result of these risks, and other risks inherent in any investment, there can be no assurance that any Fund or investment vehicle will meet its investment objectives or otherwise be able to carry out its investment program successfully or that an investor will receive a return of its capital.

No assurance of investment return. There can be no assurance that any Fund will be able to generate returns for its investors or that the returns will be commensurate with the risks of investing in the type of investments in which such Fund participates. Accordingly, an investment in a Fund should only be considered by persons who can afford a loss of their entire investment. Past activities of investment entities associated with Corsair provide no assurance of future success. There can be no assurance that projected or targeted returns for any Fund will be achieved.

Availability of investment opportunities: The business of identifying and structuring private equity investments is highly competitive and involves a high degree of uncertainty. It is possible that the Funds will never be fully invested. In addition, if the Funds make only a limited number of investments, the aggregate returns realized by the Funds' investors could be adversely affected in a material manner by the unfavorable performance of even one such investment. In addition, other than as set forth in the governing documents of each Fund, investors have no assurance as to the degree of diversification of a Fund's investments, either by geographic region or transaction type. To the extent a Fund concentrates investments in a particular issuer, security or geographic region, its investments will be more susceptible to fluctuations in value resulting from adverse economic and business conditions with respect thereto.

Financial and business risk: Fund investments will generally involve a significant degree of financial and/or business risk. The Funds' portfolio companies may be highly leveraged and therefore may be more sensitive to adverse business or financial developments or economic factors. These companies may face intense competition, changing business or economic conditions or other developments that may adversely affect their performance. Business risks may be more significant in smaller companies or those that are embarking on a build-up or operating turnaround strategy. If for any of these reasons a portfolio company is unable to generate sufficient cash flow to meet principal or interest payments on its indebtedness or make regular dividend payments, the value of the Funds' investment in such portfolio company could be significantly reduced or even eliminated.

Illiquid and long term investment: Fund investments will typically not be liquidated for a number of years after the initial investment. Factors such as overall economic conditions, the competitive environment and the availability of potential acquirors may shorten or lengthen the Funds' intended holding period for any investment or group of investments. It is unlikely that the Funds' will realize substantial capital gains during its early years and it is unlikely there will be significant near-term cash flow available to the limited partners. It is unlikely that there will be a public market for the securities held by the Funds at the time of their acquisition. The Funds will generally not be able to sell the securities of portfolio companies publicly unless their sale is registered under applicable securities laws, or unless an exemption from such registration requirements is available. In addition, in some cases the Funds may be prohibited by contract or regulatory reasons from selling certain securities for a period of time. There can be no assurances that private purchasers of the Funds' investments will be found.

Concentration risk: The Buyout Funds intend to invest in equity and equity-related securities of financial services and financial services-related companies, and the Infrastructure Funds intend to invest in equity and equity-related securities of companies in the infrastructure sector. This exclusive focus on financial services and infrastructure sectors, respectively, may constrain the liquidity and the number of investment opportunities available for investment by the Funds. In addition, the Funds' investments will be disproportionately exposed to risks associated with the financial services and infrastructure sectors, such as changes in (i) the fiscal policy of U.S. states, the U.S. federal government or non-U.S. governments, (ii) the regulatory environment, including changes in the policies or personnel of the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, the Department of Justice and/or any other applicable regulatory body, (iii) the political climate and (iv) GAAP accounting policies.

Risk of realization of investments: Fund investments will generally be in private illiquid securities, which are typically subject to restrictions on resale. In some cases, the Funds may be prohibited from selling such securities for a period of time or may otherwise be restricted from disposing of such securities. Furthermore, the types of investments made may require a substantial length of time to liquidate. As a result, there is a significant risk that the Funds may be unable to realize its investment objectives by sale or other disposition at attractive prices or will otherwise be unable to complete any exit strategy.

In connection with a disposition, the Funds may be required to make representations about the business and financial affairs of the investment typical of those made in connection with the sale of a business and may be responsible for the content of disclosure documents under applicable securities laws. It may also be required to indemnify the purchasers of such investment to the extent that any such representations or disclosure documents turn out to be inaccurate. These arrangements may result in contingent liabilities, which might ultimately have to be funded by the Funds (or investors in the Funds to the extent that investors in the Funds have received prior distributions from the Funds).

Non-Controlling Interests; Co-Investment Risks. Although in some situations the Funds may be the lead or sole investor in an investment, the Funds, may also acquire non-controlling interests in an investment and, therefore, may have a limited ability to protect its interests in such Investment, including with respect to the timing and manner of exiting its investments.

In addition, co-investing alongside unaffiliated private equity or affiliated funds (the “Sponsor Funds”) involves risks that may not be present in investments made by lead or sponsoring private equity funds. The Fund may not have the opportunity to participate in structuring investments or to determine the terms under which such investments will be made. The Funds may have interests or objectives that are inconsistent with those of such Sponsor Funds, which generally will have a greater degree of control over investments. A Sponsor Fund may be in a position to take (or block) action in a manner contrary to the Funds’ investment objectives (including, for example, by requiring the Fund to dispose of an investment at the same time as such Sponsor Fund consummates its disposition).

Risks relating to due diligence of and conduct at portfolio companies. Before making investments, the Investment Managers will typically conduct due diligence that they deem reasonable and appropriate based on the facts and circumstances applicable to each investment. Outside consultants, legal advisors, accountants, investment banks and other third parties may be involved in the due diligence process to varying degrees depending on the type of investment. Such involvement of third-party advisors, consultants and other third parties may present a number of risks primarily relating to Corsair’s reduced control of the functions that are outsourced. The due diligence investigation that an Investment Manager carries out with respect to any investment opportunity may not reveal or highlight all relevant facts that may be necessary or helpful in evaluating such investment opportunity. Moreover, such an investigation may not necessarily result in the investment being successful.

Control persons liability: The Funds are expected to have controlling interests in some of its portfolio companies. The exercise of control over a company may impose additional risks of liability for environmental damage, product defects, failure to supervise management, violation of governmental regulations (including securities laws) or other types of liability in which the limited liability generally characteristic of business ownership may be ignored. If these liabilities were to arise, the Funds might suffer a significant loss.

Foreign investments: The Funds expect to make foreign investments, which may include investments in emerging market countries. Such investments involve a number of additional risks, including: (i) the risk of adverse political developments such as nationalization, confiscation without fair compensation or war; (ii) the risk of fluctuations in currency exchange rates; (iii) the risk of restrictions on capital movements, which would make it difficult or impossible to exchange or repatriate foreign currency; and (iv) the risk of regulations which might prevent the implementation of cost cutting or other operational improvements. In addition, laws and regulations of foreign countries may impose restrictions or approvals that would not exist in the United States and may require financing and structuring alternatives that differ significantly from those customarily used in the United States. Foreign countries may also impose taxes on the Funds or their investors.

Financial Services Industry Risk Factors:

Financial services companies have asset and liability structures that are essentially monetary in nature and are directly affected by many factors, including domestic and international economic and political conditions, broad trends in business and finance, legislation and regulation affecting the national and international business and financial communities, monetary and fiscal policies, interest rates, inflation, currency values, market conditions, the availability and cost of short-term or long-term funding and capital, the credit capacity or perceived creditworthiness of customers and counterparties, and the level and volatility of trading markets. Such factors can impact customers and counterparties of financial services companies and may impact the value of financial instruments held by financial services companies. Fluctuations in interest rates, which affect the value of assets and the cost of funding liabilities, are not predictable or controllable, may vary from country to country and may impact economic activity in various regions.

The profitability of the financial services industry may be adversely affected by a worsening of general economic conditions in domestic and international markets and by monetary, fiscal or other policies that are adopted by various governmental authorities and international bodies. Monetary policies have had, and will continue to have, significant effects on the operations and results of financial services companies. There can be no assurance that a particular financial services company will not experience a material adverse effect on its net interest income in a changing interest rate environment. Factors such as the liquidity of the global financial markets, the level and volatility of prices of financial instruments, investor sentiment and the availability and cost of credit may significantly affect the activity levels of customers with respect to size, number and timing of transactions. A change in all or any of these factors could lead to a decline in the volume of transactions that financial services companies execute for their customers and thus lead to a decline in revenues from fees, commissions and spreads.

The financial services industry is extremely competitive, and it is expected that competitive conditions in the industry will continue to intensify. Technological advances and the growth of e-commerce have made it possible for non-financial institutions to offer products and services that have been traditionally offered by financial services institutions. It is expected that cross-industry competition will continue to intensify.

The financial services industry is highly dependent on communications and information systems and is exposed to many types of operational risks, including the risk of fraud by employees or other parties, record keeping error, errors resulting from faulty computer or telecommunication systems, computer failures, and damage to computer and telecommunication systems caused by internal or external events.

Financial services companies operate in a highly regulated environment and are subject to extensive legal and regulatory restrictions and limitations and to supervision, examination and enforcement by regulatory authorities. Failure to comply with any of these laws, rules or regulations, some of which are subject to interpretation and may be subject to change, could result in a variety of adverse consequences, including civil penalties, fines, suspension or expulsion, and termination of deposit insurance, which may have material adverse effects. In order to comply with banking laws, rules and regulations, the Buyout Funds may be required to invest in a manner that may not be as advantageous as the manner of making investments that are not subject to such laws, rules and regulations.

In the United States, comprehensive financial regulatory reform legislation was enacted on July 21, 2010. Known as the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (the “Dodd-Frank Act”), the new law significantly changes the regulation of financial companies and the financial services industry. The Dodd-Frank Act includes provisions affecting large and small financial institutions alike, including provisions that will affect the lending, deposit, investment, trading and operating activities of banks and their holding companies. It also requires various federal bank and financial regulatory authorities to adopt a broad range of implementing rules and regulations. Such authorities have significant discretion in drafting the implementing rules and regulations and, consequently, the full impact of the Dodd-Frank Act may not be known for many months or years.

Among other things, the Dodd-Frank Act authorizes the abolishment of the Office of Thrift Supervision (the “OTS”) and the transfer of its functions to the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (the “OCC”) and the Federal Reserve Board; imposes new minimum leverage and risk-based capital requirements on insured depository institutions, bank and thrift holding companies and nonbank financial companies that are determined to be systemically important and subject to supervision by the Federal Reserve Board; limits interchange fees on debit card transactions; and establishes the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection, as an independent entity within the Federal Reserve System, that will have broad rulemaking authority to issue consumer protection regulations applicable to certain entities offering consumer financial products or services, including banks. The Dodd-Frank Act also includes a number of new corporate governance requirements that will apply to U.S. listed and, in some cases, other publicly traded companies; removes federal prohibitions on banks paying interest on demand deposit accounts; changes the assessment base for Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the “FDIC”) insurance assessments to a bank’s average consolidated total assets minus average tangible equity, rather than upon its deposit base; permanently raises the level of federal deposit insurance coverage to $250,000 per depositor, retroactive to January 1, 2009; and increases the minimum reserve ratio for the Deposit Insurance Fund from 1.15% to 1.35% of estimated insured deposits. Also, the Dodd-Frank Act generally prohibits insured depository institutions, insured depository institution holding companies and affiliates or subsidiaries of such entities from engaging in proprietary trading or from investing in or sponsoring private equity or hedge funds.

The Dodd-Frank Act may impact the profitability of the companies in which the Buyout Funds invest and affect such companies’ activities and business practices, including their ability to offer new products, obtain financing, attract deposits, make loans and achieve satisfactory interest spreads. Such companies may also be exposed to additional costs, including increased compliance costs. Consequently, these changes may be materially adverse to the business, financial condition and results of operations of the financial companies in which the Buyout Funds invest.

In order to comply with banking laws, rules and regulations, the Buyout Funds may be required to invest in a manner that may not be as advantageous as the manner of making investments that are not subject to such laws, rules and regulations.

Infrastructure Industry Risk Factors

Infrastructure Assets Generally. Investment in infrastructure assets or businesses involves many significant relatively unique and potentially acute risks. Project revenues can be affected by a number of factors including economic conditions, political events, competition, regulation and the financial position and business strategy of customers. Unanticipated changes in the availability or price of inputs necessary for the operation of an infrastructure asset may adversely affect the overall profitability of the investment. Events outside the control of a portfolio company, such as political action and governmental regulation, demographic changes, economic growth, increasing fuel prices, government macroeconomic policies, social stability, natural disasters, changes in weather, changes in demand for products or services, bankruptcy or financial difficulty of a major customer and/or acts of war or terrorism, could significantly reduce the revenues generated or significantly increase the expense of constructing, operating, maintaining or restoring infrastructure facilities. In turn, this may impair a portfolio company’s ability to repay its debt, make distributions to an Infrastructure Fund or even result in termination of an applicable concession or other agreement. As a general matter, the operation and maintenance of infrastructure assets or businesses involve various risks, many of which may not be under the control of the owner/operator, including labor issues, failure of equipment to perform as anticipated, structural failures and accidents and the need to comply with the directives of government authorities. It is expected that portfolio companies will typically maintain insurance to protect against certain risks, where available on reasonable commercial terms, such as business interruption insurance, that is intended to offset loss of revenues during an operational interruption. Such insurance is subject to customary deductibles and coverage limits and may not be sufficient to recoup all of a portfolio company's losses. In addition, investments in infrastructure assets or businesses may also be affected by the prevailing prices of related commodities such as oil, gas and coal, which are generally subject to significant fluctuation.

Regulatory Risk; Government, Agency and Rate Risk. The infrastructure industry is subject to comprehensive U.S. and non-U.S. federal, state and local laws and regulations. Present, as well as future, statutes and regulations could cause additional expenditures, decreased revenues, restrictions and delays that could materially and adversely affect the portfolio companies and the prospects of the Infrastructure Funds. Such investments may also involve an ongoing commitment to or from a government agency and may derive a significant portion of their revenues from regulated tariffs or other usage or throughput-related fees. The nature of these obligations exposes the owners of portfolio companies and energy and natural resources related investments to a higher level of regulatory control and political risk than typically imposed on other businesses.

In addition, investments in businesses and/or assets relating to renewable energy currently enjoy support from national, state and local governments and regulatory agencies designed to finance or support the financing development thereof. There can be no assurance that government support for renewable energy will continue or that favorable legislation will pass. To the extent any tax credits, other favorable tax treatment or other forms of support for renewable energy are changed, the Infrastructure Funds' investments relating to renewable energy may be negatively impacted.

Sovereign Risk. The rights of certain portfolio companies to operate, deliver or sell infrastructure or related services may be granted by or derive from approval by governmental entities and are subject to special risks, including the risk that the relevant governmental entity will exercise sovereign rights and take actions contrary to the rights of an Infrastructure Fund or the relevant portfolio company or project under the relevant agreement.

Terrorist Activities. The continued threat of terrorism and the impact of military or other action have led to and will likely lead to increased volatility in prices for electricity and could affect the financial results of the Infrastructure Funds. Further, the United States government has issued public warnings indicating that infrastructure assets might be a specific target of terrorist organizations. The investments of the Infrastructure Funds may involve significant strategic assets having a national or regional profile. The nature of these assets could expose them to a greater risk of being the subject of a terrorist attack than other assets or businesses. Any terrorist attacks that occur at or near such assets would likely cause significant harm to employees, property and, potentially, the surrounding community, and may result in losses far in excess of available insurance coverage. As a result of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, insurers significantly reduced the amount of insurance coverage available for liability to persons other than employees for claims resulting from acts of terrorism, war or similar events. A terrorist attack on an infrastructure-related asset that is not owned by a portfolio company may also have adverse consequences for all infrastructure-related assets of that type or in the same vicinity, including those owned by a portfolio company, and may result in a portfolio company being forced to increase preventative security measures or expand its insurance coverage, adversely affecting the profitability of the investment therein.

For additional information regarding the foregoing or the risks and conflicts with respect to any Fund or investment vehicle sponsored or managed by Corsair, please see the Confidential Private Placement Memorandum, if applicable, or subscription documents of the applicable Fund or investment vehicle.

No Market for Interests; Restrictions on Transfers: The interests will not be readily marketable and are generally neither redeemable nor transferable, other than in certain limited circumstances, without the prior written consent of the General Partners of the Funds, which may be given or withheld in the General Partners' sole and absolute discretion. Investments in the Funds are a long-term commitment. It may take a significant period of time (up to five or more years from the final closing date) for a Fund to complete its investments in portfolio companies. Interests have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), the securities laws of any U.S. state or the securities laws of any other jurisdiction and, therefore, cannot be resold unless they are subsequently registered under the Securities Act and other applicable securities laws, or unless an exemption from registration is available. It is not contemplated that registration of the interests under the Securities Act or other securities laws will ever be effected. There is no public market for the interests and one is not expected to develop. A limited partner will not be permitted to directly or indirectly assign, sell, pledge, exchange or transfer any of its interests or any of its rights or obligations with respect to its interests without the prior written consent of the General Partner, which consent may be given or withheld in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner. Except in extremely limited circumstances, withdrawals from the Funds will not be permitted. Limited partners must be prepared to bear the risks of owning interests for an extended period of time.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

In the past ten years, there have been no legal or disciplinary events involving the Adviser, the Investment Managers, or any of its management persons that are material to the Adviser's investment advisory business.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

- A. Neither the Adviser nor any of its Investment Managers are registered nor have an application pending to register as a broker-dealer.
- B. Neither the Adviser nor any of its Investment Managers are registered, nor have an application pending to register, as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, a commodity trading advisor, or an associated person of the foregoing entities.
- C. Corsair Capital LLP, a subsidiary of the Adviser, was established for the purpose of rendering investment sub-advisory services to the Adviser with respect to investment opportunities in Europe. Corsair Capital LLP is registered with the UK Financial Conduct Authority under the United Kingdom's Financial Services Act of 1986.

Corsair Advisors LLC, a subsidiary of the Adviser, is registered as a broker dealer with FINRA. Certain management persons of the Adviser are also registered as registered representatives of a broker-dealer.

In addition, Corsair maintains a strategic relationship with Three Corner Global Investors LP ("TCG"), an SEC registered investment adviser in which certain affiliates of Corsair have a minority ownership interest in TCG and certain affiliates of TCG. Corsair does not expect the investment activities of TCG to typically compete or conflict with Corsair's investment objectives. Corsair is not responsible for the day to day management of TCG nor is Corsair involved in any investment decisions made by TCG. Nevertheless, to identify and address potential conflicts of interest, as well as comply with applicable legal, regulatory and contractual requirements, Corsair and TCG have each implemented certain policies and procedures (including information barriers and separate restricted securities trading lists) which are designed to permit meaningful interaction between the two firms while managing the risk of either firm being limited, or precluded from, pursuing certain investment opportunities.

The Adviser and its affiliates will devote such time as shall be necessary to conduct the business affairs of the Funds in an appropriate manner. However, the Adviser personnel may work on other projects, Funds, and therefore, conflicts may arise in the allocation of the personnel. Any such conflict would be made in accordance with the governing documents of the Funds.

- D. The Adviser and its Investment Managers do not recommend or select other investment advisers for the Funds.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interests in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

- A. The Adviser has adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code”) to ensure that the Adviser fulfills its role as a fiduciary to the Funds. The Code requires that employees of the Adviser act in the best interests of the Funds to the exclusion of contrary interests, act in good faith and in an ethical manner, avoid conflicts of interest with the Funds to the extent reasonably possible, and identify and manage conflicts of interest to the extent that they arise. Employees of the Adviser are also required to comply with applicable provisions of the federal securities laws and make prompt reports to the Adviser or appropriate party of any actual or suspected violations of such laws by Adviser, its employees or affiliates. In addition, the Code sets forth formal policies and procedures with respect to the personal securities trading activities of the Adviser’s employees. The Code requires that employees pre-clear all private personal securities transactions and, subject to specific provisions outlined in the Code, personal securities transactions of certain public securities as well. In addition to the pre-clearance requirement, the Code generally prohibits personnel from investing in publicly traded equity securities or other financial instruments of companies within certain classification codes. The Code requires employees to report all securities transactions on at least a quarterly basis and provide the Adviser with a summary of securities holdings on at least an annual basis. The Code also addresses outside activities of employees, conflicts of interest, policies and procedures concerning the prevention of insider trading, includes restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and the pre-clearance and reporting of political contributions. Employees are required to provide a written certification to the Adviser as to their compliance with the Code on an annual basis. Upon written request to the Adviser’s Chief Compliance Officer, the Adviser will provide a copy of the Code to any Client or investor, or prospective Client or investor.
- B. The Adviser, or its related persons, may recommend to Funds, or buy or sell for Fund accounts, securities in which the Adviser or a related person has a material financial interest. Such transactions introduce a potential conflict of interest between the interests of the Funds and the interests of the Adviser or its related persons. For example, a potential conflict of interest could arise in that the interested related person could benefit from such a purchase or sale of the applicable securities by the Funds. The Adviser’s Code outlines certain trading policies and procedures in order to mitigate any potential conflicts of interest.

Certain advisors and other service providers, or their affiliates (including accountants, administrators, lenders, bankers, brokers, attorneys, consultants, and investment or commercial banking firms) to the Funds and/or their portfolio companies, the General Partners, the Investment Managers or their affiliates may also provide goods or services to or have business, personal, financial or other relationships with Corsair. In certain circumstances, advisors and service providers, portfolio companies, or their affiliates, may charge different rates or have different arrangements for services provided to Corsair, the General Partners, the Investment Managers or their affiliates as compared to services provided to the Funds or their portfolio companies, which in certain circumstances may result in more favorable rates or arrangements than those payable by the Funds or such portfolio companies.

- C. From time to time, certain related persons of the Adviser, including its personnel, may invest in securities of a company in which a Fund has a pre-existing investment. Such transactions introduce a potential conflict of interest between the interests of the applicable Fund and the interests of the Adviser or its related persons. A potential conflict of interest could arise in that the interested related person could benefit from the Fund's ownership of, or subsequent sale of, the applicable security. Any such investment would be made in accordance with the Adviser's personal securities trading policy, as provided in the Adviser's Code, to ensure any potential conflicts of interest are managed accordingly.
- D. It is important to note that the Funds are private equity funds, and as such typically do not engage in short term trading of public securities. However, employees of the Adviser are generally not permitted to buy or sell the same securities for their personal account at or about the same time as those securities recommended to Clients, or bought or sold for a Client.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

- A. As noted above, the Adviser primarily invests in private securities, and does not frequently engage in the high volume trading of public securities. Therefore, Corsair is generally not in a position to select a broker-dealer for Client transactions.
 - 1. Neither the Adviser nor any Advisory Affiliate utilizes soft dollar arrangements in connection with brokerage transactions; however, the Adviser and the Advisory Affiliates may, from time to time, have access to research provided by the broker-dealers used for transactions.
 - 2. Corsair does not consider, in selecting or recommending brokers or dealers, whether the Adviser, its Clients or related persons receive client referrals from such broker-dealer or other third party.
 - 3. The Adviser does not routinely recommend, request, or require that a Client direct Corsair to execute transactions through a specified broker dealer.
- B. To the extent, Corsair is presented with investment opportunities that fall within the investment objective of the Funds, except as otherwise provided in the applicable Fund governing documents, Corsair will allocate such opportunities (including related co-investment opportunities) among the Funds on a basis that Corsair reasonably determines in good faith to be fair and reasonable taking into account all factors the General Partners deem relevant, including the requirements of the Funds, the sourcing of the transaction, the nature of the investment objective, mandate or policies, target return profile or projected hold period of each Fund, the relative amounts of capital available for investment, the nature and extent of involvement in the transaction on the part of the respective teams of investment advisory professionals for the Funds and other considerations deemed relevant by Corsair in good faith.

There may be circumstances where an amount that would have otherwise been invested by a Fund is instead allocated to co-investors, and there is no guarantee for any limited partner that it will be offered co-investment opportunities. Corsair is not expected to offer co-investment with respect to all Fund investments and may allocate any such opportunities in its sole discretion. As a general matter, the General Partners, in determining the allocation of discretionary co-investment opportunities, generally expect to take into account various facts and circumstances deemed relevant by the General Partners, including among others, whether a potential co-investor has expressed interest in evaluating co-investment opportunities, whether a potential co-investor has a history of participating in co-investment opportunities with Corsair, the size of the potential co-investor's interest to be held in the underlying portfolio company as a result of the applicable Fund's investment (which is likely to be based on the size of the potential investor's capital commitment and/or investment in the applicable Fund), whether the potential co-investor has demonstrated a long-term or continuing commitment to the potential success of Corsair, the applicable Fund, or other co-investment and/or other Corsair funds, and such other factors that Corsair deemed relevant under the circumstances. The allocation of co-investment opportunities may involve a benefit to Corsair including, without limitation, fees or Carried Interest from the co-investment opportunity, and capital commitments to the applicable Fund. Corsair may or may not charge Management Fees, one-time funding fees and/or Carried Interest in respect of co-investments, as it determines in its sole discretion. Co-investors generally will not share in broken deal expenses (such as reverse termination fees, extraordinary expenses such as litigation costs and judgments and other expenses) for unconsummated transactions in which such co-investment vehicle would have participated if the relevant transaction had been consummated.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

- A. The private equity or debt transactions will be negotiated on terms that are in the best interest of the Funds and that are consistent with the investment guidelines, restrictions and procedures set forth in the governing documents. The Adviser will consider, among other things, the following qualitative factors: (i) an experienced and capable management team with realistic plans to increase enterprise value over a reasonable time period and (ii) an expected return on the investment that is commensurate with its risk.

Currently, the Adviser utilizes a process of sharing investment ideas, implementing investment decisions and reviewing current investments through a series of ongoing meetings held among members of the Adviser's investment personnel (the "Investment Committee"). The Investment Committee is comprised of senior professionals of the Adviser and has primary responsibility for reviewing all investments and making decisions on whether to acquire or dispose of Fund investments. Meetings of the Investment Committee are held as needed to discuss current as well as prospective investments of the Funds.

- B. The Adviser reviews client accounts regularly, as described above.
- C. Investors are provided with regular reports which generally include quarterly statements and annual audited financial statements, as discussed in Item 15 of this brochure.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

- A. No one, other than the Adviser's clients, provide an economic benefit to the Adviser for providing investment advice or other advisory services to the clients.
- B. From time to time, the Adviser, the Advisory Affiliates and/or the Funds compensates one or more placement agents for referrals of Fund investors. Such placement agents may also seek to do business with, and earn fees or commissions from, affiliates of the Adviser, the Advisory Affiliates and/or the Funds' portfolio companies.

Item 15. Custody

All Fund cash and securities of which the Adviser is deemed to have custody are generally maintained with a qualified custodian, as defined in Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act (which includes U.S. registered broker-dealers) ("Qualified Custodian"). A Fund's privately-issued securities are generally held by the Qualified Custodian by maintaining a copy of the originally executed agreement(s) or, in the case of certificated securities, the stock certificates. A Fund's privately-issued securities that are recorded only on the books and records of the issuer (or its transfer agent) in the name of the Fund and that are only transferable with the prior consent of the issuer or other security holders are not required to be maintained by a Qualified Custodian. In accordance with Rule 206(4)-2 of the Advisers Act, each applicable Fund will distribute independently audited financial statements of the Fund to its respective investors not later than 120 days after the end of the Funds' fiscal year.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

The Adviser accepts discretionary authority to manage investments on behalf of its Clients through the investment advisory agreements with such Clients. Generally for the Buyout Funds, this discretionary authority has no limitations. For the Infrastructure Funds, the Adviser has agreed to certain limitations with respect to discretionary authority in limited circumstances. In addition, the Adviser also manages investments on behalf of certain Clients on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

The Adviser has discretion to cast votes with respect to proxies of public companies and as such has adopted proxy voting policies and procedures in accordance with Rule 206(4)-6 of the Advisers Act. The policies address a broad range of issues and are generally consistent with the objective of maximizing long-term investment returns for the Funds. Each vote will be cast in the best interests of the relevant Fund and in accordance with the specific policies and procedures. The Adviser may also abstain from voting if, based on factors such as expense or difficulty of exercise, it determines that a Funds' interests are better served.

If the Adviser believes that a particular proposal presents a material conflict of interest, the Adviser will determine how to vote that proposal taking into consideration various factors including the investment objectives and strategies of the relevant Fund and any procedures set forth in the governing documents of the relevant Fund. In casting votes, the Adviser believes that a material conflict of interest between the Fund and the Adviser does not arise solely as a result of the Adviser's involvement with the particular portfolio company (i.e., an Adviser representative serving as an officer or director of a particular portfolio company). The Adviser will document the factors considered in determining how to vote a proposal that presents a material conflict of interest.

Investors of the Funds may request a copy of these policies or information regarding the historical voting record of any Fund in which such investor has made an investment by contacting the Adviser's Chief Compliance Officer.

Item 18. Financial Information

- A. The Adviser does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance and therefore has not included a balance sheet.
- B. The Adviser does not believe that there are any conditions that are reasonably likely to impair the Adviser's ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.
- C. The Adviser has never been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Item 19. Requirements for State-Registered Advisers

The Adviser is not registered with any state securities authority.
