Item 4: Advisory Business

Firm Description

Continuum Wealth Advisors, LLC ("CWA") was founded in 2010. Timothy Michael Smith is 100% owner.

CWA provides personalized, confidential financial planning and investment management to individuals, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, pension plans, and corporations. Advice is provided through consultation with the client and may include: determination of financial objectives, identification of financial problems, cash flow management, insurance review, investment management, education funding, retirement planning, and estate planning.

CWA is a fee based financial planning and investment management firm. The firm does not sell annuities, insurance, or other commissioned products, however the firm's IARs are affiliated and licensed with entities that sell insurance products.

Investment advice is an integral part of financial planning. In addition, CWA may also advise clients regarding general non-securities advice on topics that may include budgetary planning, estate planning and business planning.

CWA does not act as a custodian of client assets. CWA places trades for clients under a limited power of attorney.

Other professionals (e.g., lawyers, accountants, insurance agents, etc.) are engaged directly by the client on an as-needed basis. Conflicts of interest will be disclosed to the client in the unlikely event they should occur.

Types of Advisory Services

CWA provides investment supervisory services, also known as asset management services and furnishes financial planning and investment advice through consultations.

ASSET MANAGEMENT

CWA provides investment advisory services to its clients on a discretionary and non-discretionary basis. The advisory services include, among other things, providing advice regarding asset allocation and the selection of investments. Account management or supervision is guided by the stated objectives of the client. In addition, CWA considers the client's risk profile and financial status prior to making any recommendations.

CWA provides investment supervisory services, also known as asset management services and furnishes financial planning and investment advice through consultations.

As part of the investment advisory services CWA may provide a comprehensive financial plan consistent with the client's financial and tax status, in addition to their risk profile and return objectives at no additional cost which will be specified in the client agreement. CWA may also provide general non-securities advice on topics that may include tax and budgetary planning, estate planning and business planning.

When both investment management or plan implementation and financial planning services are offered, there is a conflict of interest since there is an incentive for the IAR offering financial planning services to recommend products or services for which the IAR or related party may receive compensation. However, financial planning clients are under no obligation to act upon any recommendations of CWA or to affect any transactions through CWA.

401(k)/Profit Sharing Plan Platform

CWA will provide non-fiduciary services to plans. CWA will work with plan sponsors and third party advisors to ensure that the objectives for the plan participants are achieved. Non-discretionary investment advice regarding asset classes and investment alternatives available for the plan will be provided to the plan sponsor in accordance with the plan's investment policies and objectives. However, it is up to the plan sponsor to make the final decisions regarding the initial selection, retention, removal and/or addition of investment options.

On a participant level, CWA will assist in group enrollment meetings designed to increase retirement plan participation, as well as, conduct investment educational meetings to aid in the financial understanding by the employees. At least annually, individualized consulting will be provided to existing plan participants to discuss retirement goals and recommendations for ongoing investment allocations. CWA acts as the client relationship manager for plan participants, providing information and answering questions including, but not limited to, account balances, loans, beneficiary designations and rollovers. They act as the liaison, when needed, between participants, plan sponsor, custodian and/or the third party administrator.

Financial Planning

CWA may offer financial planning to all asset management clients. The plan includes a comprehensive inventory of a client's financial past and current financial status; a thorough review of client's short and long-term financial and life goals; the creation of a customized, realistic plan to help meet the client's goals; and continual monitoring of the plan's progress, with adjustments for economic shifts and changing priorities as necessary. The plan may also include insurance planning to help clients find the best insurance to meet their needs, estate planning to help preserve assets and eliminate uncertainties to keep tax burdens to a minimum and tax planning to take advantage of tax benefits and to help avoid unnecessary liabilities.

Client Tailored Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

The goals and objectives for each client are documented in CWA's client files. Investment strategies are created that reflect the stated goals and objective. Clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities.

Agreements may not be assigned without written client consent.

Wrap Fee Programs

CWA does not currently participate in any wrap fee programs.

Client Assets under Management

As of July 13, 2015, CWA has approximately $66,252,550 of client assets under management on a discretionary basis and approximately $58,422,550 on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Method of Compensation and Fee Schedule

ASSET MANAGEMENT

CWA bases asset management fees on a percentage of assets under management. The fees for these services are as follows: Advisor charges fees on a tiered schedule based on the household value of the assets under management. The fees are allocated proportionately to each billable account within the family. The fees are applied for the periods when managed and are charged on a quarterly basis for the ensuing quarter, based on the market value of the account on the last day of the preceding quarter. Fees are automatically renewable each year. See the chart below:

Annualized Fees
Asset Value	Annual Fee	Quarterly Fee
$0 to $1,000,000	1.00%	0.25%
$1,000,001 to $1,500,000	0.90%	0.23%
$1,500,001 to $2,000,000	0.70%	0.18%
Over $2,000,000	0.50%	0.13%

Fees are paid quarterly in advance and are non-negotiable. Flat fee for financial consulting services is available. Fees are due on the first day of the calendar quarter and are based on the account's asset value as of the last business day of the prior calendar quarter. Fees are prorated for accounts opened during the quarter.

Clients may cancel services within five (5) business days from the date of signing the investment advisory agreement to unconditionally rescind the agreement and receive a full refund of all fees. Thereafter, either party may terminate the investment advisory agreement within thirty (30) days written notice. Any prepaid unearned fees will be refunded to the client.

401(k)/Profit Sharing Plan Compensation

Fees for employer-sponsored plans are based on assets under management as negotiated with the plan sponsor. The stated fees are charged quarterly, based on the market value of the total plan assets. No indirect compensation is received by CWA.

All internal fees charged by ETF's, mutual funds and closed end funds are separate and distinct from the fees charged by CWA. CWA does not at any time act as the Custodian or Third Party Administrator on any employer sponsored plan it renders advice on.

FINANCIAL PLANNING and CONSULTING

CWA may offer financial planning to its asset management clients; this service would be at no additional charge.

Client Payment of Fees

Investment management fees are billed quarterly, in advance, meaning clients' accounts are charged within the first two weeks of the quarter for which it's being billed. Fees are usually deducted from a designated client account to facilitate billing. The client must consent in advance to direct debiting of their investment account or can choose to be billed directly.

Additional Client Fees Charged

Custodians may charge transaction fees on purchases or sales of certain mutual funds, stocks and exchange-traded funds. These charges may include mutual fund transactions fees, postage and handling and miscellaneous fees (fee levied to recover costs associated with fees assessed by self-regulatory organizations). These transaction charges are usually small and incidental to the purchase or sale of a security. CWA does not share in these additional fees.

For more details on this brokerage practices, see Item 12 of this brochure.

Prepayment of Client Fees

For accounts managed by CWA, Client may cancel within five (5) business days of signing the Investment Advisory Agreement for a full refund. If cancellation occurs after five (5) business days, client will be entitled to a pro-rata refund for any unearned fees.

External Compensation for the Sale of Securities to Clients

IAR's of CWA are not registered representatives of a broker-dealer. Clients have the option to purchase products through a broker/dealer of their choosing.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees

Sharing of Capital Gains

Fees are not based on a share of the capital gains or capital appreciation of managed securities.

CWA does not use a performance-based fee structure because of the conflict of interest. Performance-based compensation may create an incentive for the adviser to recommend an investment that may carry a higher degree of risk to the client.

Item 7: Types of Clients

Description

CWA generally provides investment advice to individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, or charitable organizations, corporations or business entities.

Client relationships vary in scope and length of service.

Account Minimums

CWA requires a household minimum of $100,000 to establish a new advisory account; however, the minimum may be waived at the sole discretion of CWA. In addition, CWA may continue to service existing accounts that have values that are below the minimum.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

Security analysis methods may include charting analysis, fundamental analysis, and technical analysis. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.

Fundamental analysis involves evaluating a stock using real data such as company revenues, earnings, return on equity, and profits margins to determine underlying value and potential growth. Technical analysis involves evaluating securities based on past prices and volume.

The main sources of information include Morningstar software, financial newspapers and magazines, research materials prepared by others, corporate rating services and the internet.

Investment Strategy

The investment strategy for a specific client is based upon the objectives stated by the client during consultations. The client may change these objectives at any time. Each client executes an Investment Suitability Form or similar form that documents their objectives and their desired investment strategy.

Other strategies may include long-term purchases, short-term purchases, and trading (securities sold within 30 days).

Security Specific Material Risks

Fundamental analysis may involve interest rate risk, market risk, business risk, and financial risk. Risks involved in technical analysis are inflation risk, reinvestment risk, and market risk.

All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Our investment approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. Investors face the following investment risks and should discuss these risks with CWA:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will buy more than a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.
- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.

- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

Criminal or Civil Actions

The firm and its management have not been involved in any criminal or civil action.

Administrative Enforcement Proceedings

The firm and its management have not been involved in administrative enforcement proceedings.

Self Regulatory Organization Enforcement Proceedings

The firm and its management have not been involved in legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of CWA or the integrity of its management.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Broker-Dealer or Representative Registration

IAR's of CWA are not registered representatives of a broker-dealer. Clients have the option to purchase products through a broker/dealer of their choosing.

Futures or Commodity Registration

Neither CWA nor its employees are registered or has an application pending to register as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or a commodity trading advisor.

Material Relationships Maintained by this Advisory Business and Conflicts of Interest

Managing Member, Timothy M. Smith is a licensed insurance agent. Approximately 5% of his time is spent as an insurance agent. From time to time, he will offer clients advice or products from this activity.

These practices represent conflicts of interest because it gives an incentive to recommend products based on the commission amount received. This conflict is mitigated by the fact that Mr. Smith has a fiduciary responsibility to place the best interest of the client and clients are not required to purchase any products. Clients have the option to purchase these products through another insurance agent of their choosing.

Also, a related person of CWA is a CPA. Additional services offered include reviewing tax returns and assisting with tax planning services. This individual does not have signatory authority over their accounting clients' checking accounts therefore no material conflicts of interest are present.

Recommendations or Selections of Other Investment Advisors and Conflicts of Interest

CWA does not recommend or select other investment advisors.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics Description

The employees of CWA have committed to a Code of Ethics ("Code"). The purpose of this Code is to set forth standards of conduct expected of CWA employees and addresses conflicts that may arise. The Code defines acceptable behavior for employees of CWA. The Code reflects CWA and its supervised persons' responsibility to act in the best interest of their client.

One action the Code addresses is when employees buy or sell securities for their personal accounts and how to mitigate any conflict of interest with CWA's clients. Employees are not permitted to use non-public material information for their personal profit or to use internal research for their personal benefit in conflict with the benefit to CWA's clients.

CWA's policy prohibits any person from acting upon or otherwise misusing non-public or inside information. No advisory representative or other employee, officer or director of CWA may recommend any transaction in a security or its derivative to advisory clients or engage in personal securities transactions for a security or its derivatives if the advisory representative possesses material, non-public information regarding the security.

CWA's Code is based on the guiding principle that the interests of the client are CWA's top priority. CWA's officers, directors, advisors, and other employees have a fiduciary duty to their clients and must diligently perform that duty to maintain the complete trust and confidence of the clients. When a conflict arises, it is CWA's obligation to put the client's interests over the interests of either employees or the company.

The Code applies to "access" persons. "Access" persons are employees who have access to non-public information regarding any clients' purchase or sale of securities, or non-public information regarding the portfolio holdings of any reportable fund, who are involved in making securities recommendations to clients, or who have access to such recommendations that are non-public.

The firm will provide a copy of the Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

Investment Recommendations Involving a Material Financial Interest and Conflict of Interest

CWA and its employees do not recommend to clients securities in which CWA has a material financial interest.

Advisory Firm Purchase of Same Securities Recommended to Clients and Conflicts of Interest

CWA and its employees may buy or sell securities that are also held by clients. In order to mitigate conflicts of interest such as front running, employees are required to disclose all reportable securities transactions as well as provide CWA with copies of their brokerage statements.

The Chief Compliance Officer of CWA is Timothy M. Smith. He reviews all employee trades each quarter. The personal trading reviews ensure that the personal trading of employees does not affect the markets and that clients of the firm receive preferential treatment over employee transactions.

Client Securities Recommendations or Trades and Concurrent Advisory Firm Securities Transactions and Conflicts of Interest

CWA does not maintain a firm proprietary trading account and does not have a material financial interest in any securities being recommended and therefore no conflicts of interest exist. However, employees may buy or sell securities at the same time they buy or sell securities for clients. In order to mitigate conflicts of interest such as front running, employees are required to disclose all reportable securities transactions as well as provide CWA with copies of their brokerage statements.

The Chief Compliance Officer of CWA is Timothy Smith. He reviews all employee trades each quarter. The personal trading reviews ensure that the personal trading of employees does not affect the markets and that clients of the firm receive preferential treatment over employee transactions.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

Factors Used to Select Broker-Dealers for Client Transactions

CWA does not maintain custody of its clients' assets that it manages, although it may be deemed to have custody of a client's assets if withdrawal authority has been granted. Assets must be maintained in an account at a "qualified custodian," generally a broker/dealer or bank. CWA recommends that its clients use Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. (Schwab), a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, as the qualified custodian. CWA is independently owned and operated and is not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab will hold assets in a brokerage account and buy and sell securities when instructed by a representative of Continuum Wealth. While CWA recommends that its clients use Schwab as the custodian/broker, the client will decide whether or not to do so and will open an account with Schwab by entering into an account agreement directly with Schwab. CWA may assist in the act of establishing the account(s).

CWA seeks to use a custodian/broker who will hold its clients' assets and execute transactions on terms that are, overall, most advantageous when compared to other available providers and their services. A wide range of factors were considered, including, among others:

- Reputation, financial strength, and stability

- Combination of transaction execution services and asset custody services (generally without a separate fee for custody)
- Capability to facilitate transfers and payments to and from accounts (wire transfers, check requests, bill payment, etc.)
- Breadth of available investment products (stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds [ETFs], etc.)
- Availability of investment research and tools that assist in making investment decisions
- Quality of services
- Competitiveness of the price of those services (commission rates, margin interest rates, other fees, etc.) and willingness to negotiate the prices.

Directed Brokerage

In circumstances where a client directs CWA to use a certain broker-dealer, CWA still has a fiduciary duty to its clients. The following may apply with Directed Brokerage: CWA's inability to negotiate commissions, to obtain volume discounts, there may be a disparity in commission charges among clients, and conflicts of interests arising from brokerage firm referrals.

Best Execution

Investment advisors who manage or supervise client portfolios on a discretionary basis have a fiduciary obligation of best execution. CWA reviews the execution of trades at each custodian each quarter.

Soft Dollar Arrangements

Schwab provides CWA and its clients with access to its institutional brokerage— trading, custody, reporting, and related services—many of which are not typically available to Schwab retail customers. Schwab also makes available various support services. Some of those services help manage or administer CWA's clients' accounts, while others help to manage and grow its business. Schwab's support services generally are available on an unsolicited basis and at no charge.

Services That Benefit Clients

Schwab's institutional brokerage services include access to a broad range of investment products, execution of securities transactions, and custody of client assets. The investment products available through Schwab include some to which CWA's clients might not otherwise have access or that would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment by its clients.

Services That May Not Directly Benefit Clients

Schwab also makes available to CWA other products and services that benefit the firm but may not directly benefit their clients or clients' account(s). These products and services assist the firm in managing and administering its clients' accounts. They include investment research, both Schwab's own and that of third parties. CWA may use this research to service all or a substantial number of its clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. In addition to investment research, Schwab also makes available software and other technology that:

- Provide access to client account data (such as duplicate trade confirmations and account statements)
- Facilitate trade execution and allocate aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts
- Provide pricing and other market data
- Facilitate payment of fees from its clients' accounts
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting
- Educational conferences and events
- Consulting on technology, compliance, legal, and business needs

CWA's Interest in Schwab's Services

The availability of these services from Schwab benefits CWA because it does not have to produce or purchase them. CWA does not have to pay for Schwab's services so long as its clients collectively maintain a total of at least $10 million of their assets in accounts at Schwab. The $10 million minimum may provide incentive to recommend that clients maintain their account(s) with Schwab, based on CWA's interest in receiving Schwab's services that benefit its business rather than based on a client's interest in receiving the best value in custody services and the most favorable execution of his/her transactions. This is a conflict of interest. CWA believes, however, that its selection of Schwab as custodian and broker is in the best interests of its clients.

Aggregating Securities Transactions for Client Accounts

CWA is authorized in the investment advisory agreement in its discretion to aggregate purchases and sales and other transactions made for the account with purchases and sales and transactions in the same securities for other clients of CWA. All clients participating in the aggregated order shall receive an average share price with all other transaction costs shared on a pro-rated basis.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

Schedule for Periodic Review of Client Accounts or Financial Plans and Advisory Persons Involved

Account reviews are performed at least quarterly by Managing Member, Timothy M. Smith. Account reviews are performed more frequently when market conditions dictate. Financial Plans are considered complete when recommendations are delivered to the client and an additional review is done only upon request of client.

Review of Client Accounts on Non-Periodic Basis

Other conditions that may trigger a review of clients accounts are changes in the tax laws, new investment information, and changes in a client's own situation.

Content of Client Provided Reports and Frequency

Clients receive performance reports and account statements no less than quarterly for managed accounts. Account statements are issued by the Advisor's custodian. Client receives confirmations of each transaction in account from Custodian and an additional statement during any month in which a transaction occurs.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Economic benefits Provided to the Advisory Firm from External Sources and Conflicts of Interest

CWA receives no economic benefit from outside sources other than from Schwab in the form of the support products and services made available to CWA and other independent investment advisors whose clients maintain their accounts at Schwab.

Advisory Firm Payments for Client Referrals

CWA does not compensate for client referrals.

Item 15: Custody

Account Statements

All assets are held at qualified custodians, which means the custodians provide account statements directly to clients at their address of record or electronically at least quarterly. Clients are urged to compare the account statements received directly from their custodians to the performance report statements prepared by CWA.

CWA is deemed to have indirect custody solely because advisory fees are directly deducted from client's accounts by the custodian on behalf of CWA.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority for Trading

CWA accepts discretionary authority to manage securities accounts on behalf of clients. CWA has the authority to determine, without obtaining specific client consent, the securities to be bought or sold, and the amount of the securities to be bought or sold and the custodian used. However, CWA consults with the client prior to each trade to obtain concurrence if a blanket trading authorization has not been given.

CWA does not receive any portion of the transaction fees or commissions paid by the client to the custodian on certain trades.

Discretionary trading authority facilitates placing trades in client accounts on a client's behalf so that CWA may promptly implement the investment policy that the client has approved in writing.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

Proxy Votes

CWA does not vote proxies on securities. Clients are expected to vote their own proxies. The client will receive their proxies directly from the custodian of their account or from a transfer agent.

When assistance on voting proxies is requested, CWA will provide recommendations to the client. If a conflict of interest exists, it will be disclosed to the client.

Item 18: Financial Information

Balance Sheet

A balance sheet is not required to be provided because CWA does not serve as a custodian for client funds or securities and CWA does not require prepayment of fees of more than $1200 per client and six months or more in advance.

Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Advisory Firm's Ability to Meet Commitments to Clients

CWA has no condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to its clients.

Bankruptcy Petitions during the Past Ten Years

Neither CWA nor its management has had any bankruptcy petitions in the last ten years.

Timothy Smith has a financial industry affiliated business as an insurance agent. From time to time, he will offer clients advice or products from this activity.

These practices represent conflicts of interest because it gives an incentive to recommend products based on the commission amount received. This conflict is mitigated by the fact that Mr. Smith has a fiduciary responsibility to place the best interest of the client and clients are not required to purchase any products. Clients have the option to purchase these products through another insurance agent of their choosing.

Performance Based Fee Description

Mr. Smith receives commissions on the insurance he sells, but he does not receive any performance based fees.

Supervision

Since Mr. Smith is the sole owner of Continuum Wealth Advisors, LLC. He is solely responsible for all supervision and formulation and monitoring of investment advice offered to clients. He will adhere to the policies and procedures as described in the firm's Compliance Manual.
