Supervision is achieved through a multi-tiered approach: the creation and implementation of policies and procedures; reporting, due diligence and oversight provided at a firm level and through regular meetings with our clients and general review of our work product. We employ compliance consultants in the UK and North America to assist with our monitoring process to ensure compliance with applicable laws and regulations in the jurisdictions in which we do business.

The advice we provide is monitored. We have internal controls when making stock and sector recommendations in that as a matter of policy, an advisor is only permitted to recommend investments that have been thoroughly vetted, approved, and that have ongoing due diligence conducted as part of our extensive research process. Since our two employees generally provide services to our clients separately, each employee will be supervised by the other employee. We regularly review with our clients our research product in terms of idea generation and quality.

The reports, excel models, presentations and meeting materials provided to our clients, as part of their engagement with InsightIR, are constantly reviewed by ourselves and tested to ensure accuracy and due diligence.
