Spur Capital may, from time to time, organize other investment vehicles that have different investment objectives and different fee structures.

Item 7 – Types of Clients

Spur Capital provides portfolio management services to its clients which are fund-of-funds investment vehicles that invest in venture capital partnerships. Currently Spur Capital has five clients, Spur I, Spur II, Spur III, Spur IV and Spur V. Investors in Spur I, II, III, IV and V include non-US financial institutions, U.S foundations and other institutional or accredited investors.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Spur Capital will invest its clients' funds in venture capital partnerships that propose to invest a substantial portion of their assets in early-stage companies. The majority of these venture capital (VC) firms will be U.S.-based but Spur Capital may commit to partnerships of non-U.S. domiciled venture firms, with a particular focus on Israel, China, and India. The Directors of Spur Capital evaluate these potential venture capital partnership investment opportunities using their judgment and experience and use the following primary criteria:

1. Investment thesis and strategy of the VC firm;
2. Relevant operating experience of the individual partners in the VC firms;
3. Individual partner capacity for new investments;
4. Prior performance and success of the firm and partners across differing economic cycles;
5. Public market success of investee companies; and
6. Ownership and decision process.

In order to improve the diversification of each portfolio, Spur Capital anticipates making commitments to venture capital partnerships over a three to four year period. With this vintage diversification, Spur Capital seeks exposure across cycles of technological innovation at the same time mitigating the potential effects of a change in business environment and change in the strength of the broad economy.

At times, the venture capital partnerships in which our clients invest may distribute public stock as a means of liquidating an investment. Spur Capital has engaged T Rowe Price as an outside investment management firm for the management of these stock distributions in order to maximize returns from these distributions and return cash to the investors in a Spur Ventures Fund.

The Managers provide specific methods, strategies, and risks for each Spur Fund in the fund's private placement memorandum provided to each investor. There is no assurance that any Spur Fund will be able to invest its capital on attractive terms or generate returns for its investors. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that investors should be prepared to bear.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisers are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of Spur Capital or the integrity of Spur Capital's management. Spur Capital has no information applicable to this Item.
