Item 4 – Advisory Business

Chesapeake Investment Management LLC, (CIM) which was formed in 2002, is an independent, privately owned registered investment advisory and consulting firm based in McLean, Virginia. Our offices are located at 1501 Farm Credit Dr., Suite 2450, McLean, VA 22102. The principal owners are Scott E. Beck, President and E. Antonio Sarrge, Vice President.

Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC provides fee based asset management. Our firm uses individualized investment strategies designed to meet specific objectives and risk tolerances of our individual and institutional clients. Client portfolios are diversified and consist mainly of individual equity and fixed income securities. In some cases mutual funds may be used.

Each account is managed and tailored to individual client needs. A Client Profile and customized Investment Policy Statement are used as a framework to manage client assets. Each client may impose restrictions on certain securities and types of securities if they so desire. These restrictions, if any, are listed on each client's, Client Profile.

Chesapeake interviews each client (usually in person but occasionally by telephone) to determine individual needs based on criteria such as age, investment experience, current financial position, personal goals and objectives, and risk tolerance, and provides clients with specific recommendations to achieve suitable investment allocation, and manages client portfolios, based on the individual needs of the client.

For District of Columbia residents: Sec. 1811.1(j) of DC rules require Chesapeake to disclose that lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources and (k) requires Chesapeake to indicate that all material conflicts of interest have been disclosed to the client in writing (via the disclosure provided in this Brochure), which relate to the advisor or any of its employees which could cause Chesapeake to not render unbiased and objective advice

Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC manages $92,000,000 in discretionary assets and $4,000,000 in non-discretionary assets, as of December 31, 2015 for 140 clients.

Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

Fees for investment advisory services provided by Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC are as follows:

Annual fees for portfolio management services are based on a percentage of a client's assets under management.

MANAGEMENT FEE SCHEDULE:

First $2,000,000 1.0%

Next $2,000,000 .80%

Above $4,000,000 .60%

CIM also acts as consultant to a number of its clients. Consulting includes, but is not limited to, recommendations on constructing asset allocation models, portfolio valuation, reconciliations and client meetings. Fees charged by CIM for consulting services are on a case by case basis.

There is a minimum annual fee for investment management services and/or consulting services of $1,000. Fees are usually billed quarterly in arrears, and in some cases in advance, based on the preceding quarter end values in a client's account. Lower fees may be suggested when a client's portfolio is expected to consist primarily of mutual funds or fixed income securities. In certain other circumstances fees or account minimums may be negotiable. Higher fees may be charged if additional services are provided in excess of investment management services.

Fees are usually deducted from a designated client account to facilitate billing. The client must consent in advance to direct debiting of their investment account before such debiting can occur. In some circumstances, clients may choose to be billed for investment management services, and pay the invoice from an account managed by Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC. Clients may select either method of payment for services. Payment in full is expected upon presentation of the invoice.

Fees paid in advance are refundable, on a pro rata basis each quarter, upon receipt from the client of a written notice terminating the services. Fees are not based on a share of capital gains on, or capital appreciation of, the funds, or any portion of the funds, of an advisory client. All fees paid to CIM for investment advisory services are separate from the fees and expenses charged to shareholders of mutual fund companies. A complete explanation of these mutual fund charges are contained in the prospectus.

Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC, in its sole discretion, may waive its minimum fee and/or charge a lesser investment advisory fee based upon certain criteria (e.g., historical relationship, type of assets, anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amounts of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with clients, etc.).

Fees charged for brokerage services are charged by the custodian of assets on a transactional basis. See Item 12 in regards to "Brokerage Practices" for additional information.

Investment Strategies

Equity portfolios managed by Chesapeake consist of individual stocks, mutual funds and exchange traded funds. Diversification is achieved through investments across major economic sectors as recognized by Standard & Poor. The majority of positions consist of large and medium capitalized companies traded on major stock exchanges. Portfolios typically have low turnover. To achieve greater diversification, in some cases mutual funds or exchange traded funds are used. As is the case in all equity related investments, investing in securities involve risk and possible loss of principal.

Fixed income positions managed by Chesapeake are typically used to reduce volatility of investment portfolios and to provide income and preservation of capital. Fixed income securities involve risk. Investing in fixed income securities could result in loss of principal.

Risk of Loss

Any investor should always be aware that investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor. Our investment approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. Investors face the following investment risks:

Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.

Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.

Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.

Currency Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.

Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.

Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.

Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.

Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

CIM's Code of Ethics sets forth the ethical and fiduciary principles and related compliance requirements under which CIM must operate its business and the procedures for implementing those principles. CIM is a fiduciary of its Clients and owes each Client an affirmative duty of good faith and full and fair disclosure of all material facts. The SEC has stated that this duty is particularly pertinent whenever the adviser is in a situation involving a conflict or potential conflict of interest. We must affirmatively exercise authority and responsibility for the benefit of Clients and may not participate in any activities that may conflict with the interests of Clients. In addition, we must avoid activities, interests and relationships that might interfere or appear to interfere with making decisions in the best interests of our Clients. Accordingly, at all times, we must conduct our business as set forth in our Code of Ethics. CIM will provide a copy of our Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

It is the expressed policy of CIM, that no employee may purchase or sell any security (other than mutual fund shares) prior to a transaction(s) being implemented for an advisory account thus preventing such person from benefitting from transactions placed on behalf of advisory accounts. CIM employees may buy or sell securities identical to those recommended to clients for their personal accounts. Additionally, employees may have an interest or position in a certain security which may also be recommended to a client. As these situations represent a conflict of interest, CIM has established the following restrictions in order to ensure its fiduciary responsibilities:

- 1.) An employee of CIM shall not buy or sell securities for his or her personal portfolio where his/her decision is substantially derived, in whole or in part, by reason of his or her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public on reasonable inquiry. No employee shall prefer his or her interest to that of an advisory client.
- 2.) CIM maintains a list of all securities holdings for itself, and anyone associated with the advisory practice with access to advisory recommendations. These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by CIM.
- 3.) CIM emphasizes the unrestricted right of the client to decline to implement any advice rendered, except in situations where CIM is granted discretionary authority for the client's account.
- 4.) CIM requires that all employees act in accordance with all available federal and state securities regulation and rules governing investment advisors.
- 5.) Any person not in observance of the above is subject to termination.

The Chief Compliance Officer of Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC is Scott E. Beck. All trades are preapproved by Scott E. Beck or E. Antonio Sarrge before being entered. Scott E. Beck reviews all employee trades each quarter. His trades are reviewed by E. Antonio Sarrge. The personal trading reviews ensure that the personal trading of employees does not affect the markets, and that clients of the firm receive preferential treatment. Since most employee trades are small such trades do not affect the securities markets.

Item 12 – Brokerage Practices

CIM requires all clients to designate a custodian to be used for all transactions. Specific custodian recommendations are made to clients based on their need for such services. Many clients, when undertaking an advisory relationship, already have an existing custodian relationship. Clients should understand that because CIM request clients to designate a custodian, CIM may not have authority to negotiate commissions, and a disparity in commission charges may exist between clients. Directing brokerage may cost clients more money.

CIM clients may be offered commission rates that may be lower than the client could obtain independently. However, no client is required to select custodians suggested by CIM.

CIM does not direct clients or trades to any custodian in exchange for research or other services. However, certain custodians with whom CIM maintains or directs client accounts or securities trades may provide research used in evaluation purposes for equity trades. Such research may benefit all clients who maintain accounts with the custodian providing the research or other services.

CIM participates in institutional service programs with several custodians. While there is no direct link between the investment advice given and participation in the institutional program, economic benefits are received which would not be received if CIM did not give investment advice to clients.

These benefits include: receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements; access to trading desk servicing institutional advisers exclusively; ability to have investment advisory fees deducted directly from a client's account (with the authorization of the client); provision of an electronic communications software and network order entry, account information, quotes, general business and securities information; receipt of compliance and investment publications; and access to mutual funds which may waive stated minimum initial investments or which may only be available to customers of institutional clients.

Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC. reviews the execution of trades at each custodian each quarter. Trading fees charged by the custodians is also reviewed on a quarterly basis. Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC. does not receive any portion of the trading fees.

Chesapeake Investment Management, LLC receives no soft dollars compensation

All accounts are reviewed and reconciled at the time that quarterly reports are issued. Additional reviews may be triggered by securities market or economic changes or by changes in a client's individual situation.
