Item 5 – Fees and Compensation

ALL CLIENT FEES ARE SUBJECT TO NEGOTIATION

The specific manner in which fees are charged by our firm is established in a client's written agreement between the client and Financial Planning Analysts, LLC.

Fees

For investment advisory services offered by Financial Planning Analysts, LLC, the company is able to collect fees based on a percentage of assets under management or hourly charges.

Our firm's fees may differ dependent on the facts, scope and complexity of the contracted service(s) that are to be provided.

When the scope of the service has been agreed upon, a determination will be made as to the type, and the amount of the applicable fee.

Our firm believes that its professional advisory service offerings are competitively priced. Those considering an advisory relationship with us should be aware that the probability does exist of being able to procure similar advisory services at a higher or lower price if acquired elsewhere.

The professional fees accessed by our firm are negotiable; consequently clients may pay more or less than others who may be receiving similar offerings.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC does not require clients to implement or act upon any general advisory matter that may be rendered. Clients may act upon our recommendations by placing assets with a custodian of their choice, or one selected by the firm.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

Compensation

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC (“Advisor”) provides individualized discretionary investment management services to various categories of institutional and individual clients.

The firm will provide investment consulting services that relate to matters such as allocation of assets among different classes, portfolio diversification, managing portfolio risk, and other general economic and financial topics.

Account supervision is guided by the stated objectives of the client (i.e. maximum capital appreciation, growth, etc.), and all managed accounts will be maintained with an independent custodian.

Discretionary Wealth Management Services

For discretionary money management services, the firm will be responsible for recommending investments and managing the client’s account on an on-going basis. At this time, clients cannot impose restrictions on what types of investments or securities are held in the account. These services are provided whereby:

- Client investment objectives are identified using a detailed risk profile assessing the client’s risk tolerance based upon their age, income, education, need for cash flows, investment goals, and emotional tolerance for volatility.

The information for the detailed risk profile will be collected during client meetings, and interviews.

- Strategies are developed and implemented through an optimal combination of investments, primarily using individual equities and mutual funds.
- Capital market conditions and client circumstances are monitored; and Portfolio adjustments are made as appropriate to reflect significant changes in any or all of the above variables.

The fees for the services are as follows and are negotiable:

Invested amount up to $2 million	1.50% annually
$2,000,001 - $4,000,000	1.30% annually
> $4,000,000	1.15% annually

The fee calculation is based upon the account value at the end of the calendar year and one fourth of the fee is collected each quarter in the following year. Fee calculated annually, billed quarterly in advance and subject to adjustment during the course of the year. Addition or withdrawal of the lesser of $200,000 or 15% of year-end value will result in the recalculation of fee with the subsequent quarter's bill. If fees have been calculated on the basis of the cumulative value of multiple accounts, recalculation will only occur based on the addition or withdrawal amount above relative to the total value of combined accounts. All intra-year adjustments are communicated to clients with the billing invoice mailed for the quarter first subject to the adjustment.

The fee schedule is negotiable and may be reduced for circumstances such as length of the relationship and design of the portfolio (e.g., accounts managed that predominantly utilize ETF's and/or closed-end funds are charged a reduced fee.)

For new client relationships, the advisory fee is determined based on the first month ending account value, pro-rated for the remainder of the year, and collected in each remaining quarter for the current year.

Fees will generally be deducted directly from the client's brokerage account pursuant to a written agreement.

Either the Advisor or the client may terminate the Agreement at any time. Notice of termination may be given to the other party either verbally or in writing.

However, verbal communication of such termination must be confirmed by delivery of written notice of such termination to the other party within five days.

Upon termination, prepaid fees charged for advisory services will be returned on a pro-rated basis for the remainder of the calendar quarter.

The client is responsible to pay for services rendered until the termination of the agreement. The client can cancel the Agreement without penalty within the first five days after the signing of the Agreement.

Clients should be aware of their responsibility to verify the accuracy of the fee calculation submitted to the custodian by the firm, as the custodian will not determine whether the fee has been properly calculated.

The firm will provide the client with a separate copy of each invoice setting forth the basis for the calculation. Advisory fees charged by the firm are separate and distinct from fees and expenses charged by mutual funds, which may be recommended to clients.

A description of these fees and expenses are available in each fund's prospectus.

The Advisor's fees are for advisory services only and do not include other costs that the client may incur including but not limited to transaction fees, commission or other management fees charged by non-affiliated third parties including investment managers (sub-advisors) that are recommended to clients, if any.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

The Advisor reserves the right to adjust the fee schedule for accounts depending on the size and type of account and the services required. In some cases negotiation of fees may result in different fees being charged for similar services and may be less than the stated fees.

Methods of Analysis, Sources of Information and Investment Strategies

Personal financial planning is primarily an analytical process designed to help the client articulate and quantify goals, organize financial data, identify needs and opportunities and evaluate alternative courses of action. It may include an analysis of current net worth, income taxes, cash flow, investments, employee benefits, and insurance and estate planning needs.

Attention is directed toward structuring existing assets to achieve the planning objectives. While financial planning includes investment advice concerning securities, it also includes investment advice with respect to products that may not constitute securities, such as insurance products.

In a financial plan, the Advisor evaluates the appropriateness of any securities or other investment owned, proposed for ownership or which can assist the client in achieving personal goals. The prevailing goal of the financial plan will be geared towards the needs of the client. The plan's goal can range from long term to short term performance.

Option writing is limited to the use of covered call options and cash-secured equity puts. The potential investment objectives for the use of these options is capital preservation, income and as an investment hedge though each individual client's objectives may be any one or all of those. The use of these option strategies requires a margin feature be added to any such account and is subject to limitations for certain kinds of accounts. Margin transactions could be subject to maintenance margin requirements, and margin loans must be repaid regardless of the underlying value of the securities purchased. Additionally, an options holder may risk the entire amount paid for the option. An options writer may be assigned the option at any time during which the option is exercisable. Losses in options contracts may be significant depending on the initial investment in the option.

The investment strategies used to implement any investment advice given to the clients include:

- long term purchases (securities held at least a year);
- short term purchases (securities sold within a year);
- trading (securities sold within 30 days);
- margin transactions;
- option writing, including covered and uncovered options or
- spreading strategies.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

Performance is subject to substantial market fluctuations. Past performance is not indicative of future results, nor is there any assurance that the selected managers will achieve the investment objectives sought.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC does not have applicable information regarding this item.

Item 10 – Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Our firm will inform clients of other business activities that may differentiate from advisory matters so as to avoid the potentiality of any conflict of interest. Moreover, the firm has a Code of Ethics and policies and procedures in place to ensure that clients' interests are placed first as required by fiduciary duty. In certain instances, we may recommend or render other services for clients including broker-dealer and insurance company or agency.

Representatives of the Advisor are associated with a broker dealer, Planned Financial Programs, Inc. Those individuals may receive commissions for products sold, thus a conflict of interest may exist. The affiliation between the Advisor and Planned Financial Programs, Inc., a registered Broker-Dealer, is an indirect one in that certain employees and/or affiliates of the Advisor are licensed with Planned Financial Programs, Inc., as registered representatives.

The client is under no obligation to purchase products recommended or to purchase products through Planned Financial Programs, Inc. However, when using other broker dealers besides Planned Financial Programs, Inc. as the custodian and broker, representatives of the Advisor cannot earn commissions on products sold.

Individual representatives of the Advisor may be licensed agents for insurance companies (life/health). As a licensed agent, the representative may receive commissions on insurance products sold. As a result of commissions received, a potential conflict of interest may exist with advisory clients' interests. Client will be under no obligation, contractual or otherwise, to engage the Advisor's representatives as an Insurance agent.

Other Business Activities

Advisor does not offer or sell any type of product other than investment advice; however, its principal executive officers and other individuals may offer or sell security or insurance products through separate licenses as insurance agents or broker-dealer registered representatives.

Approximately 25% of their time is spent providing these services versus investment advisory services.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

Item 11 – Code of Ethics

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC has adopted a Code of Ethics for all supervised persons of the firm describing its high standard of business conduct, and fiduciary duty to its clients.

The Code of Ethics includes provisions relating to the confidentiality of client information, insider trading, rumor mongering, gifts and entertainment policy, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things including when an investment advisory representative:

- effects securities transactions for compensation for any client;
- recommends to clients that they buy or sell securities or investment products in which the applicant or a related person has some financial interest; and,
- buys or sells for itself securities that it also recommends to clients.

Participation or Interests in Client Transactions

As mentioned above, Advisor's representative may be licensed with Planned Financial Programs, Inc. as registered representatives, and will at the client's request, on a fully disclosed basis, implement the recommendations of the financial plan and/or investment proposal in the capacity as a registered agent of a broker-dealer for which they separately are compensated via commissions.

Also, representatives of Advisor may be licensed agents for insurance companies (life/health). As a licensed agent, the representative may receive commissions on insurance products sold.

It is the expressed policy of the Advisor that no person employed by the Advisor may purchase or sell any security prior to a transaction being implemented for an advisory account, and therefore preventing such employees from benefiting from transactions placed on behalf of advisory accounts.

The Advisor and its employees may buy and sell the same securities that may be recommended to clients. If the possibility of a conflict of interests occurs, the client's interest will prevail.

It is the policy of the Advisor that priority will always be given to the client's orders over the orders of an employee of the Advisor. Also, the Advisor or any related person may have an interest or position in a certain security, which may also be recommended to a client.

All supervised persons at Financial Planning Analysts, LLC must acknowledge the terms of the Code of Ethics annually, or as amended.

Recommending Brokers

The Advisor recommends that its clients use Interactive Brokers as their broker.

The service provided by Interactive Brokers to the client is the primary factor in the firm's suggestion that clients use Interactive Brokers.

Electronic confirmations and statements along with E-notification of transactions and proxy notices result in lower transaction costs and are recommended to clients in order to improve overall account performance.

Brokerage practices will be performed by a FINRA (Financial Industry Regulatory Authority) Member firm and SIPC (Securities Investors Protection Corporation) Member firm.

As an investment advisor that also has an affiliated broker dealer, the company maintains the right to execute client trades through its own broker dealer.

As an investment advisory firm, we feel that there is a required fiduciary standard and fundamental duty to seek best execution for client transactions.

Item 13 – Review of Accounts

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC generally monitors its managed accounts on a systematic basis, and each account is reviewed quarterly by a principal or other person designated by the firm.

Additional reviews may be undertaken based on:

- changes in market conditions;
- changes of security positions;
- changes in client's investment objective.

Item 14 – Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC does not have any soft dollar arrangements. However, Financial Planning Analysts, LLC has arrangements, oral or in writing, in which additional compensation may be collected including commissions, equipment, or non-research services from a non-client in connection with giving advice to clients.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC may directly or indirectly compensate individuals for client referrals.

Additional Compensation

The firm has arrangements with service providers whereby its representatives may pay a referral fee to a third party for referring clients. In all cases, these arrangements shall be fully disclosed to the clients affected in accordance with applicable state and federal security laws.

Any conflict of interest that may exist will be fully disclosed to any client via the rules governing the solicitor relationship. At a minimum, the client will receive the Advisor's disclosure brochure and a separate solicitor's disclosure statement.

Our firm will use its best judgment when recommending any such contract on behalf of any client. We will use prudence and good faith when recommending issuers of these contracts. Additional compensation may differ based on the unique circumstances of each client as well as the nature and scope of the engagement.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

Item 15 – Custody

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC, does not maintain custody of funds pursuant to Rule 206(4)-2. When opening a client account, clients generally will authorize Financial Planning Analysts, LLC to deduct the advisory fee and all other charges from free cash balances in the account on or following the date they are payable.

Clients are responsible for ensuring that the amount of any debited advisory fee is correct. If there are no free credit balances, Financial Planning Analysts, LLC either will liquidate a portion of the account's assets to cover the advisory fee and other expenses, or will notify the client to deposit additional funds into the account.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC reserves the right to liquidate a portion of the account assets to cover the advisory fee and other expenses at anytime.

Liquidation may affect the relative balance of the account, and also may have tax consequences and/or may cause the account to be assessed transaction charges. Financial Planning Analysts, LLC may withhold any tax to the extent required by law, and may remit such taxes to the appropriate governmental authority.

In appropriate circumstances, clients may instruct Financial Planning Analysts, LLC to deduct the advisory fee and other expenses from another account that the client has at Financial Planning Analysts, LLC or to deduct the fees due with respect to another account that the client has at Financial Planning Analysts, LLC from the client's account.

Clients also may elect to be billed for advisory fees and expenses.

This part of FORM ADV gives information about the Investment Adviser and its business for the use of clients.

Item 16 – Investment Discretion

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC does maintain the right to determine, without obtaining specific client consent the:

- securities to be bought or sold;
- amount of the securities to be bought or sold;
- broker or dealer to be used; and
- commission rates paid.

Investment or Brokerage Discretion

Discretionary Trading

If a client agrees to discretionary management, the firm will be responsible for selecting the amount of securities to be bought and sold.

The only limitations on the investment authority will be those limitations imposed in writing by the client.

In addition, the firm prefers clients to utilize a broker with which the firm has an established relationship. Therefore, the firm will suggest brokers to clients.

If the client directs the firm to use a particular broker or dealer, it should be understood that the firm will not have authority to negotiate commissions or obtain volume discounts, and best execution may not be achieved.

In addition, a disparity in commission charges may exist between the commissions charged to other clients.

The firm also has discretion over the selection and amount of securities to be bought or sold without obtaining specific client consent.

Because the firm engages in an investment advisory business and manages more than one account, there may be conflicts of interest over the Advisor's time devoted to managing any one account and the allocation of investment opportunities among all accounts managed by the Advisor.

The firm will attempt to resolve all such conflicts in a manner that is generally fair to all of the Advisor's clients.

The firm may give advice and take action with respect to any of its clients that may differ from advice given or the timing or nature of action taken with respect to any particular client so long as it is the Advisor's policy, to the extent practicable, to allocate investment opportunities over a period of time on a fair and equitable basis relative to other clients.

The firm is not obligated to acquire for any account any security that the Advisor or its officers, partners, members or employees may acquire for its or their own accounts or for the account of any other client, if in the absolute discretion of the Advisor, it is not practical or desirable to acquire a position in such security.

Aggregate Trading

When possible, orders for the same security are combined or “batched” to facilitate best execution.

Advisor effects batched transactions in a manner designed to ensure that no participating client, including any proprietary account, is favored over any other client.

Specifically, each client that participates in a batched transaction will participate at the average share price for all of the Advisor’s transactions in that security on that business day, with respect to that batched order.

Regarding transaction fees, Interactive Brokers generally charges the same commission rate/minimum transaction charge for transactions placed in a client’s account regardless of whether the client’s transaction was part of a batched transaction or not.

Securities purchased or sold in a batched transaction are allocated pro-rata, when possible, to the participating client accounts in proportion to the size of the order placed for each account.

The firm may, however, increase or decrease the amount of securities allocated to each account if necessary to avoid holding odd-lot or small numbers of shares for particular clients.

Additionally, if Advisor is unable to fully execute a batched transaction and Advisor determines that it would be impractical to allocate a small number of securities among the accounts participating in the transaction on a pro-rata basis, Advisor may allocate such securities in a manner determined in good faith to be a fair allocation.

Item 17 – Voting Client Securities

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC does not vote proxies on behalf of clients.

Item 18 – Financial Information

Registered Investment Advisory firms are required in this Item number to provide you with certain financial information regarding the financial condition of the firm.

A "conflict" generally refers to any activity or relationship in which the interests of the firm compete with the interests of its clients. While we do not receive special monetary incentives or rebates that could potentially come about as a result of directing an existing or prospective client to a particular company, vendor or service provider, certain activities should be clarified so as not to give way to the presumption of a conflict, whether inherent or potential.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC may manage other accounts and provide investment advice to other parties.

Should the firm so desire or see fit, it may form an entity that it controls as an affiliate and may decide to invest funds of one or more other accounts, or recommend funds by other parties, that may differ from the recommendations provided to an alternate client under their particular advisory agreement.

The firm and its respective affiliate may decide to invest the funds of one or more other accounts or recommend the investment of funds by other parties that may have different strategies or security positions than that of another client's account.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC may give advice or take such other action with respect to the these "affiliated accounts" which may differ from the advice given or the timing or nature of actions taken with respect to the account of an alternate client under their advisory agreement, provided that the firm acts in good faith.

All clients acknowledge this as such within their particular advisory agreement so as to avoid any possible conflict that may be inferred from such activity.

Disclosures to Plan Sponsors under 408(b) (2) and Form 5500

Incentive type compensation has often been structured as reimbursements to some financial intermediaries and service providers for referring business to an affiliate of the intermediary that is an investment advisor. Such activity may pose a conflict of interest, based on the fact that the intermediary receiving such remuneration failed to place the interests of the plan beneficiaries with respect to the investment of the fiduciary assets.

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") prohibits self-dealing between a plan fiduciary or other parties in interest.

A common exemption relied upon is ERISA Section 408(b)(2), which permits certain service contracts or arrangements (including investment management agreements) between plans and parties in interest, if the contract or arrangement is reasonable, the services are necessary for the establishment or operation of the plan and no more than reasonable compensation is paid for the services.

All service providers are required to disclose annually the amount of compensation received directly or indirectly for services provided to the plan on Form 5500.

In addition to the extensive fees disclosures, regulations also require service providers to disclose information relating to possible conflicts that may be relevant to a plan fiduciary's assessment of the objectivity of a service provider's decisions.

Financial Planning Analysts, LLC will identify any material conflicts that exist between the interests of any Plan Sponsor client by reviewing the relationship the firm has with the potential service provider that is being considered for use in connection with the plan.

Given the fact that ERISA generally prohibits fee arrangements between a fiduciary and third parties with limited exceptions and that the firm has no affiliate that is a third party administrator or any other entity that could be construed as a party in interest, the firm sees no potential conflict with respect to assets governed by ERISA.

The service providers utilized by our firm have no affiliation. The firm neither receives nor provides any incentive based compensation as a result of working with any ERISA plan service provider. In addition, the firm clearly discloses within its' advisory agreement, the firm's Fiduciary responsibility and duty to Plan Sponsors who have oversight of ERISA assets.
