Advisory Business

Firm Description

The Retirement Corporation of America (“RCA”) is an Ohio corporation formed on October 14, 1988 by Daniel C. Kiley. RCA has been registered as an investment adviser with the Securities and Exchange Commission since that time.

RCA provides investment advice and retirement planning to individuals and their related entities, high net worth individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations or business entities. RCA works closely with clients to define their financial objectives and to develop strategies for reaching those objectives, some of which may include: investment management, employee benefit and 401(k) guidance, budget planning and withdrawal rate analysis, tax planning, insurance analysis, charitable goals, estate planning, family business succession issues, or other items specific to the client. RCA delivers these advisory services with staff that includes four Certified Financial Planners® and a Chartered Retirement Plans Specialist.

In addition, RCA provides advisory services to individuals and their related entities through a website program titled the Money Masters Portfolios. RCA maintains and delivers to the Money Masters ETF Portfolios Program clients a different brochure tailored specifically to the provision of investment advisory services to these clients. RCA also maintains and delivers to the Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program clients a different brochure tailored specifically to the provision of investment advisory services to these clients.

In addition, RCA provides financial education offerings to some of its individual clients and corporate clients, at no charge, utilizing programs we offer through our Retirement University®.

Potential clients are offered a complimentary consultation with one of RCA’s advisory representatives. This initial meeting may be by phone, by video, or in our office, and is considered an exploratory interview to determine the extent to which a potential client may benefit from the investment management and/or retirement planning services offered by our firm.

All assets under the management of RCA are held by independent broker-dealer custodians, such as TD Ameritrade, Fidelity Investments or others. Client assets held by these independent broker-dealer custodians are registered in the name of the client.

RCA does not provide legal, accounting or real estate services. If a client requests this type of assistance, RCA may recommend other professionals such as lawyers, accountants, real estate agents and mortgage lenders to deliver these services. Clients are under no obligation to follow RCA's recommendations or to engage the services of any of these professionals. If a client does engage any of these recommended professionals, and a dispute occurs, the client agrees to seek recourse exclusively from the professional they have directly engaged.

Principal Owners

Daniel Kiley and the Kiley Family Special Trust are the principal owners of RCA. On January 18, 2017 the owners of RCA entered into an agreement for the sale of RCA to Fifth Third Bank. It is anticipated that the transaction will close on or about April 7, 2017.

Types of Advisory Services

The primary types of advisory services offered by RCA are specialized retirement planning and investment supervisory services, also known as asset management. Following is a description of the four client programs through which these RCA advisory services may be offered:

Money Masters 401(k) Program

This RCA advisory program is designed to provide discretionary and nondiscretionary advisory services to participant directed retirement plans pursuant to the terms and conditions of a written agreement between the plan sponsor and RCA.

Discretionary Investment Advisory Services to Plans

As a discretionary investment advisor to a Plan (a "3(38) Fiduciary") RCA assumes the fiduciary responsibility for the selection, monitoring and replacement of the investment options of the Plan. As an initial action step, RCA and the Plan Sponsor/Trustees of the Plan prepare an Investment Policy Statement that details the methodologies and criteria utilized to define the style universe of investment options, the specific investment options to be utilized and the ongoing criteria for monitoring and replacing investment options.

In its role as a 3(38) Fiduciary, RCA is only responsible for those Plan investments selected by RCA and RCA has no responsibility for any other Plan investments maintained in the Plan by direction of the Plan Sponsors/Trustees or other person or entity. As an example, employer securities and investments held in a directed brokerage account are not subject to any fiduciary responsibility or duty on the part of RCA. Furthermore, Plan Sponsors/Trustees should be aware that when RCA assumes the investment responsibilities by serving as a 3(38) Fiduciary, the Plan Sponsor/Trustees retain all of their fiduciary duties, obligations and responsibilities pursuant to applicable law.

Non-Discretionary Investment Advisory Services

When serving in a non-discretionary investment advisory capacity for a Plan, RCA is in the status defined by section 3(21) of ERISA. In this capacity, RCA assumes no fiduciary responsibility for the completion of an investment policy statement or any aspect of the definition, selection, maintenance or replacement of any Plan investment options. In this non-discretionary role RCA provides information to the Plan Sponsor/Trustees regarding investment option style parameters and performance reporting. The Plan Sponsor/Trustees exercise full authority over the selection of Plan investment options and may, or may not, utilize the information provided by RCA as part of their decision making process.

Other Services to Plans and Plan Sponsors

As part of providing the discretionary or non-discretionary investment services to Plans, RCA may provide certain information and services to the Plan and the Plan Sponsor/Trustees. These other services are designed to assist the Plan Sponsor in meetings its management and fiduciary obligations to the Plan under ERISA. The other services may consist of the following:

- Platform Provider Search and Plan Set-Up
- Plan Review
- Plan Fee and Cost Review
- Acting as Third Party Service Provider Liaison
- Plan Participant Education and Communication
- Plan Benchmarking

In addition, as part of the services provided to a Plan RCA may make available certain model allocation portfolios to Plan participants. Specifically, participants may enter personal information, such as time horizon, risk tolerance and age, into various educational tools made available by RCA. Thereafter, these educational tools may delineate an allocation model for that participant's retirement assets. There are six asset allocation models, ranging from relatively conservative to relatively aggressive. In the order moving from most conservative to most aggressive, the models are known as Income, Income Plus, Balanced, Balanced Plus, Growth and Growth Plus. Participants are free to accept or reject the allocation model.

Reports summarizing the participant's current asset allocation, transactions and current holdings can be accessed at any time through the Plan custodian website. Participants are encouraged to visit the Plan custodian website on a regular basis to review their account details.

Please note: It is always the participant's responsibility to promptly notify RCA if there is any change in their financial situation or investment objective. This notification of change allows RCA an opportunity to review, evaluate, or revise our previous recommendations or services. The participant is responsible for any tax liabilities resulting from transactions (including any liabilities arising from the addition or withdrawal of assets from the participant's account).

Money Masters Portfolios Online Advisory Programs

These RCA client programs are designed for individuals who desire to use the Internet as the primary channel of interaction with our firm. Clients in this program will enter their profile information online, including details such as amount of account funding, investment objectives, risk tolerance, investment time horizon, age, employment status, likelihood of significant withdrawals from the account. Prior to delivering investment advisory services, RCA will review each client's specific investment objective. Then RCA will recommend an allocation model for the client's investment assets consistent with the designated investment objective and profile information submitted by the client online to our firm. RCA generally recommends one of five Money Masters ETF or Money Masters Mutual Fund asset allocation models, ranging from relatively conservative to relatively aggressive. In the order moving from most conservative to most aggressive, the models recommended to clients are known as Income, Income Plus, Balanced, Balanced Plus, and Growth. Clients are free to accept or reject the investment strategy recommendation made by RCA. Also, investment strategy recommendations in the Money Masters ETF and Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program are made by RCA without considering potential tax consequences to the client. The client is responsible for any tax liabilities resulting from transactions (including any liabilities arising from the addition or withdrawal of assets from the client's account).

Clients in the Money Masters ETF and Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program must authorize RCA to exercise discretionary trading authority over the assets dedicated to the client's recommended Money Masters ETF and Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program, which includes the initial allocation and ongoing rebalancing. The discretionary authority allows RCA to buy, sell or otherwise trade the assets in the client's account without prior approval of each transaction.

Reports summarizing the client's current asset allocation, transactions and current holdings can be accessed at any time through the client portal. Clients are encouraged to visit their client portal on a regular basis to review their account details.

Please note: It is always the client's responsibility to promptly notify RCA if there is any change in their financial situation or investment objective. This notification of change allows RCA an opportunity to review, evaluate, or revise our previous recommendations or services.

Retire In Comfort® Program

This RCA client program is designed for individuals who are planning to retire during the next 24-36 months, or individuals who have already retired. In most cases, clients in this program are taking regular income distributions from their accounts in order to replace the cash flow that they received from their paycheck while they were still working. Potential clients in this program are offered a complimentary consultation with one of RCA's advisory representatives. This initial meeting may be in our office, or by phone and is considered an exploratory interview to determine the extent to which a potential client may benefit from the investment management and/or retirement income planning services offered by RCA.

Investment advisory services offered through this program are specifically tailored to meet the needs of each client. Prior to delivering investment advisory services, an advisory representative from RCA will ascertain each client's specific investment objective. Then RCA portfolio managers will allocate, or recommend that the client allocate, their investment assets consistent with the designated investment objective.

For clients in the Retire In Comfort® Program, RCA may furnish advice on matters not involving securities, such as:

Retirement Income Planning	Personal Financial Planning
Withdrawal Rate Analysis	Education Planning
Cash Flow & Budgeting	Employee Benefits & 401(k) Guidance
Insurance Review & Planning	Corporate Retirement Plan Guidance
Estate & Charitable Gift Planning	Tax Planning

Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on any of RCA's investment advisory services at any time, but restrictions must be delivered to RCA in writing, and must be signed by the client.

Please note: It is always the client's responsibility to promptly notify RCA if there is any change in their financial situation or investment objective. This notification of change allows RCA an opportunity to review, evaluate, or revise our previous recommendations or services. The client is responsible for any tax liabilities resulting from transactions (including any liabilities arising from the addition or withdrawal of assets from the client's account).

Accumulate With Confidence Program

This RCA client program is designed for individuals who are primarily accumulating assets and do not need to take a series of regular income distributions from their account. In most cases, clients in this program are earning a regular stream of income and have additional assets to periodically invest into their accounts. Potential clients in this program are offered a complimentary consultation with one of RCA's advisory representatives. This initial meeting may be in our office, or by phone and is considered an exploratory interview to determine the extent to which a potential client may benefit from the investment management or planning services offered by RCA.

Investment advisory services offered through this program are specifically tailored to meet the needs of each client. Prior to delivering investment advisory services, an advisory representative from RCA will ascertain each client's specific investment objective. Then RCA portfolio managers will allocate, or recommend that the client allocate, their investment assets consistent with the designated investment objective.

For clients in the Accumulate with Confidence Program, RCA may furnish advice on matters not involving securities, such as:

Cash Flow & Budgeting	Tax Planning
Insurance Review & Planning	Education Planning
Estate Review & Planning	Employee Benefits & 401(k) Guidance

Clients may impose reasonable restrictions on any of RCA's investment advisory services at any time, but restrictions must be delivered to RCA in writing, and must be signed by the client.

Please note: It is always the client's responsibility to promptly notify RCA if there is any change in their financial situation or investment objective. This notification of change allows RCA an opportunity to review, evaluate, or revise our previous recommendations or services. The client is responsible for any tax liabilities resulting from transactions (including any liabilities arising from the addition or withdrawal of assets from the client's account).

Other Services

Managed Non-Discretionary Assets

In addition to providing investment management of client assets on a discretionary basis, RCA, for a separate and additional fee, provides certain limited services to clients with respect to "Managed Non-Discretionary Assets". These services consist solely of the following:

RCA is available to consult with the client on a semi-annual basis (or more often if requested by the client) regarding the Managed Non-Discretionary Assets. However, the client is solely responsible for all decisions and consequences on the client's Managed Non-Discretionary Assets, including decisions on whether to retain or sell all or a portion of the Managed Non-Discretionary Assets. This responsibility remains solely with the client regardless of whether any security is reflected on account reports prepared by RCA.

RCA is available to service Managed Non-Discretionary Assets, such as assisting the client in setting up with the custodian and monitoring regular distributions and special one-time distribution requests.

RCA can process any trades on the Managed Non-Discretionary Assets, but only when requested to do so by the client in writing. Upon receipt of any client's written request, RCA will endeavor, but cannot guarantee, that any such transaction will be effected on the day received or at any specific time or price.

Limitations for Non-Discretionary Assets

Clients that engage RCA on a non-discretionary investment advisory basis must be willing to accept that RCA cannot effect any account transactions without obtaining prior written consent to any such transaction(s) from the client. Thus, in the event of a market correction during which the client is unavailable, RCA will be unable to effect any account transactions (as it would for its discretionary accounts) without first obtaining the client's written consent.

Consulting and Implementation Services

RCA does not hold itself out as providing financial planning, estate planning or accounting services. If a client requests a specific service, RCA may provide limited consultation services to its investment management clients on investment and non-investment related matters, such as retirement and pre-retirement income planning, income and budget planning, tax planning, insurance planning, estate planning and other services. RCA does not receive a separate or additional fee for any of these consultation services. RCA representatives may be an attorney or an accountant, but these persons do not offer any of these services to RCA's clients in these capacities. If a client requests assistance, RCA may recommend the services of other professionals for certain non-investment implementation purposes (such as attorneys, accountants, insurance agents etc.). The client is under no obligation to engage the services of any professional recommended or suggested by RCA. The client has the absolute right to choose any professional and to ignore any recommendation made by RCA.

Tailored Relationships

At RCA, advisory services are tailored to the specific needs of each client. Prior to providing advisory services, RCA will ascertain each client's investment goals and objectives. RCA then allocates and/or recommends that the client allocate investment assets consistent with the designated investment objective. The client may, at any time, impose reasonable restrictions on RCA's services, but restrictions must be delivered to RCA in writing, and must be signed by the client. In performing services for the client, RCA is not required to verify any information it received from the client or from the client's other professionals and RCA is expressly authorized by the client to rely on this information.

Each client is advised that it remains the client's responsibility to promptly notify RCA if there is ever any change in the client's financial situation or investment objectives for the purpose of reviewing, evaluating or revising RCA's previous recommendations or services to the client.

Managed Assets

As of December 31, 2016, RCA manages approximately $519,642,368 million in total assets included within 1956 portfolio accounts. Approximately $503,191,856 million of this total is managed on a discretionary basis, and $16,450,512 million is managed on a non-discretionary basis. As of December 31, 2016 the Money Masters ETF Portfolios Program has $59,444 in assets under management and the Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program has $23,758,124 in assets under management which are included in the total assets listed above.

Fees and Compensation

Managed Discretionary Asset Fees

RCA bases its annual investment management fee for managed discretionary assets upon a percentage (%) of the market value of the assets and the specific types of investment management services provided in the applicable program, including the Money Masters 401k Retirement Plan Advisory Program. RCA's annual investment management fees for discretionary assets under management in most of RCA's advisory programs (excluding Money Masters ETF & Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Program) are as follows:

Portfolio Assets Under Management (AUM)	Percent of Assets Fee
AUM up to $2,500,000	1.00% annually
AUM of $2,500,000 to $5,000,000	0.80% annually
AUM of $5,000,000 to $25,000,000	0.60% annually
AUM over $25,000,000	0.40% annually

RCA's minimum account size and minimum quarterly investment management fees for discretionary assets under management are listed below by specific advisory program:

Account Minimum	Advisory Program	Quarterly Fee
AUM less than $1,000,000	Money Masters 401k	$2,500
AUM less than $1,000,000	Retire in Comfort	$2,500
AUM less than $300,000	Accumulate with Confidence	$750
$10,000	Money Masters ETF & MF	$25

Managed Non-Discretionary Asset Fees

The annual investment management fee charged on Managed Non-Discretionary Assets may be reduced to 0.20%. This fee shall be prorated and paid quarterly, in arrears, based upon the market value of the managed non-discretionary assets on the last business day of the previous quarter.

Negotiated Fees

RCA, in its sole discretion, may reduce its investment management fee based upon certain factors, like anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, and dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, negotiations with client and other considerations.

Billing of Fees

RCA's investment management fees are billed quarterly, in arrears (meaning that we invoice clients after the three-month billing period has ended) based upon the market value of the assets on the last business day of the previous quarter. RCA requires clients to provide their consent in advance for RCA to directly debit its investment management fees from their custodial account(s). RCA's Investment Advisory Agreement and the custodial/clearing agreement authorize the custodian to debit the client account for the amount of RCA's investment management fee, and to directly remit that investment management fee to RCA in compliance with regulatory procedures. RCA is not authorized to withdraw cash or securities from any client's account except for the payment of RCA's advisory fees and technology fees described in this "Fees and Compensation" section of the Brochure. In the limited event that RCA bills the client directly, payment in full is expected upon presentation of the invoice.

Other Fees

Unless clients direct otherwise or an individual client's circumstances require, RCA generally recommends that TD Ameritrade Institutional ("TD Ameritrade") or Fidelity Investments Institutional Services Company, Inc. ("Fidelity") serve as the broker-dealer/custodian for client investment accounts. TD Ameritrade is a division of TD Ameritrade Inc., member FINRA/SIPC/NFA, an unaffiliated SEC-registered broker-dealer and FINRA member. Broker-dealers such as TD Ameritrade or Fidelity may charge brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees for effecting certain securities transactions. For example, these custodians may charge commissions for individual equity and fixed income securities transactions or fees may be charged for certain no-load mutual fund transactions. In addition to RCA's fees, custodial brokerage commissions and/or transaction fees, clients will also incur, relative to all mutual fund and exchange traded fund purchases, charges imposed at the fund level (e.g. management fees and other fund expenses). Please also refer to the Brokerage Practices Section of this Brochure.

Commission Transactions

RCA primarily recommends the purchase of no-load mutual fund securities for implementing investment recommendations. RCA does not actively direct clients to traditional, full service /commission brokers. Most of RCA's clients do not use traditional brokers. As described earlier, RCA generally recommends using the services of a centralized custodian/discount broker such as TD Ameritrade or Fidelity.

Performance-Based Fees

Sharing of Capital Gains

RCA and its supervised persons do not accept performance-based fees.

Types of Clients

Description

RCA generally provides investment advice to individuals, high net worth individuals, pension and profit sharing plans, trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations or business entities.

Client Programs and Account Minimums

Money Masters 401k Program:

RCA generally requires a Plan size minimum of $1,000,000 for advisory services provided in its Money Masters 401k Retirement Plan Advisory Services Program.

When the consolidated Plan value in this program falls below $1,000,000 in value, the minimum quarterly fee of $2,500 may be charged.

Retirement Plan clients in this program with assets at or below the minimum account size may pay a higher percentage rate for their annual advisory fees than retirement plan clients in this program with significantly greater assets under management.

Money Masters ETF and Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Programs:

RCA requires an account minimum of $10,000 for investment management services provided in its online Money Masters ETF and Money Masters Mutual Fund Portfolios Programs.

Retire In Comfort[®] Program:

RCA generally requires an account minimum of $1,000,000 for investment management services provided in the Retire in Comfort Program.

When a consolidated client account value in this program falls below $1,000,000 in value, the minimum quarterly fee of $2,500 may be charged.

Clients in this program with assets at or below the minimum account size may pay a higher percentage rate for their annual advisory fees than clients in this program with significantly greater assets under management.

Accumulate With Confidence Program:

RCA generally requires an account minimum of $300,000 for investment management services provided in its Accumulate with Confidence Program.

When a consolidated client account value in this program falls below $300,000 in value, the minimum quarterly fee of $750 may be charged.

Clients in this program with assets at or below the minimum account size may pay a higher percentage rate for their annual advisory fees than clients in this program with significantly greater assets under management.

RCA may reduce fees or waive minimum asset requirements:

RCA, in its sole discretion, may reduce its investment management fee, reduce its minimum asset requirement or reduce its annual technology communication fee for these programs based upon certain factors, like anticipated future earning Capacity, anticipated future additional assets, total dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition and other considerations.

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

Security analysis methods may include fundamental analysis, technical analysis, charting and cyclical analysis.

The main sources of information for analysis include financial newspapers and magazines, inspections of corporate activities, research materials prepared by others, corporate rating services, annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and company press releases.

Additional research tools and sources of information that RCA may use include Hidden Levers Scenario Analysis, Morningstar Principia mutual fund and stock analytics, Riskalyze, and many other reports located on the internet using the World Wide Web.

Investment Strategies

RCA may utilize the following investment strategies when implementing investment advice given to clients:

- Long Term Purchases: (securities held at least a year)
- Short Term Purchases: (securities sold within a year)

- Trading: (securities sold within thirty (30) days)
- Options: (contract for the purchase or sale of a security at a predetermined price during a specific period of time)

Strategic and Tactical Asset Allocation may be utilized with domestic mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, or stocks and bonds as the core investments. Global mutual funds, sector funds and specialty exchange-traded funds may be added as satellite positions. Portfolios may be further diversified among large, medium and small sized investments in an effort to control the risk associated with traditional markets.

Investment strategies designed for each client are based upon specific objectives stated by the client during consultations. Clients may change their specific objectives at any time. Each client executes an Investment Policy Statement that documents their specific objectives and their desired investment strategy.

The Retirement Corporation of America uses a proprietary screening process to select third party managers for its investment management programs. Third party managers selected by our firm to be included within managed portfolios are referred to by RCA as our “Money Masters”. Our investment professionals analyze the performance history of over 8,000 mutual fund managers to identify those select managers who, pursuant to our screening criteria, most consistently outperform their peer group and their listed benchmark over several different time periods. Additional screens include adherence to investment style, asset allocation and stated risk parameters. In addition, the selected fund managers must have an acceptable compliance record and be available for interviews and other communication with our team.

Please Note: Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, and it should not be assumed that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy recommended or undertaken by RCA will be profitable or equal any specific performance level. Past performance may not be indicative of future results.

Risks of Loss

Currently, RCA primarily allocates investment management assets of its client accounts among individual various no-load or fee-waived mutual funds and/or independent investment programs (enabling RCA’s clients to obtain mutual fund asset allocation strategies), on a discretionary basis in accordance with the client’s designated investment objective(s).

Every method of analysis has its own inherent risks. To perform an accurate market analysis RCA must have access to current/new market information. RCA has no control over the dissemination rate of market information; therefore, unbeknownst to RCA, certain analyses may be compiled with outdated market information, severely limiting the value of RCA’s analysis. Furthermore, an accurate market analysis can only produce a forecast of the direction of market values. There can be no assurances that a forecasted change in market value will materialize into actionable and/or profitable investment opportunities.

RCA's primary investment strategies - Long Term Purchases, Short Term Purchases, and Trading - are fundamental investment strategies. However, every investment strategy has its own inherent risks and limitations. For example, longer term investment strategies require a longer investment time period to allow for the strategy to potentially develop. Shorter term investment strategies require a shorter investment time period to potentially develop but, as a result of more frequent trading, may incur higher transactional costs when compared to a longer term investment strategy. Trading, an investment strategy that completes the purchase and sale of securities within a thirty (30) day investment time period, involves a very short investment time period and may incur higher transaction costs when compared to a short term investment strategy and substantially higher transaction costs when compared to a longer term investment strategy. In addition, a trading investment strategy, as well as a short-term strategy, may result in increased tax liability for clients.

Investment strategies recommended by RCA may also be subject to some or all of the following types of risk:

- Interest-rate Risk: Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk: The price of a security, bond, or mutual fund may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk: When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Foreign, Emerging Markets Risk: Investments in foreign and emerging markets have considerable risks. Risks associated with investing in foreign and emerging markets include fluctuations in the exchange rates of foreign currencies that may affect the U.S. dollar value of the investment, the possibility of substantial price volatility as a result of political and economic instability in the foreign country, less public information about issuers of securities, different securities regulation, different accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards and less liquidity than in the U.S. markets.

- Reinvestment Risk: This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income securities.
- Business Risk: These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They may carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.
- Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many investors are interested in buying or selling a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.
- Financial Risk: Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of loss, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.
- Political Risk: Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in value from political unrest or governmental instability of the investment's originating country.

Please Note: Investing in securities involves the risk of loss that clients of RCA should be prepared to bear. In light of these risks of loss and potentially enhanced volatility, clients may direct RCA, in writing at any time, not to employ any or all of the investment strategies recommended by RCA for their account.

Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

RCA maintains an investment policy for personal securities transactions at its business and it is part of RCA's general Code of Ethics. RCA establishes the standard of business conduct for all employees that are based on the fundamental principles of openness, integrity, honesty and trust.

RCA also maintains and enforces written policies reasonably designed to prevent RCA or any person associated with RCA from misusing material non-public information to comply with Section 204A of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940.

Neither RCA, nor any related person of RCA, will recommend, buy, or sell securities within client accounts which RCA or a related person of RCA may have a material financial interest.

A copy of RCA's Code of Ethics is available to any client or future client upon request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

RCA and/or representatives of RCA may buy or sell securities, including mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETF's) that are also recommended to clients. However, trading is monitored so that RCA and/or representatives of the firm are not in a position to materially benefit from the sale or purchase of those securities. Practices such as "scalping" (i.e., a practice whereby the owner of shares of a security recommends that security for investment and then immediately sells it at a profit upon the rise in the market price which follows the recommendation) could take place if RCA did not have adequate policies in place to detect such activities and other potentially abusive practices.

Personal Trading

As noted above, RCA maintains a personal securities transaction policy to monitor the personal securities transactions and securities holdings of each of the firm's "Access Persons". RCA's securities transaction policy requires that each Access Person must provide the Chief Compliance Officer or his designee with a written report of their current securities holdings within ten (10) days after becoming an Access Person. Additionally, each Access Person must provide the Chief Compliance Officer or his designee with a written report of their current securities holdings at least once each twelve (12) month period thereafter on a date that RCA selects. Furthermore, all Access Persons are required to report each calendar quarter to the Chief Compliance Officer or his designee all reportable securities transactions.

RCA's Personal Securities Transaction Policy attempts to ensure that the personal trading of RCA Access Persons does not affect the markets, and that clients of the firm always receive preferential treatment.

Brokerage Practices

Selecting Brokerage Firms

RCA participates in the institutional advisor program (the "Program") offered by TD Ameritrade Institutional. TD Ameritrade Institutional is a division of TD Ameritrade Inc., member FINRA/SIPC/NFA ("TD Ameritrade"), an unaffiliated SEC-registered broker-dealer and FINRA member. TD Ameritrade offers to independent investment advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. RCA receives some benefits from TD Ameritrade through its participation in the Program. (Please see disclosure under Client Referrals and Other Compensation.)

RCA also receives from TD Ameritrade certain additional economic benefits ("Additional Services") that may or may not be offered to any other independent investment advisors participating in the Program. Specifically, the Additional Services include among others: Aquumulate, Arcon's Technology, Broadridge Proxy, Computer Xpress, DocuSign, Hidden Levers, Junxure, Orion, MoneyGuidePro, Riskalyze and Morningstar.

TD Ameritrade provides the Additional Services to RCA in its sole discretion and at its own expense, and RCA does not pay any fees to TD Ameritrade for the Additional Services. RCA and TD Ameritrade have entered into a separate agreement ("Additional Services Addendum") to govern the terms of the provision of the Additional Services.

RCA's receipt of Additional Services raises potential conflicts of interest. In providing the Additional Services to RCA, TD Ameritrade most likely considers the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, RCA's client accounts maintained with TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade has the right to terminate the Additional Services Addendum with RCA, in its sole discretion, provided certain conditions are met. Consequently, in order to continue to obtain the Additional Services from TD Ameritrade, RCA may have an incentive to recommend to its clients that the assets under management by RCA be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. RCA's receipt of Additional Services does not diminish its duty to act in the best interests of its clients, including the obligation to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

In the event that clients request that RCA recommend a broker-dealer/custodian for execution and custodial services, RCA generally recommends that investment management accounts be maintained at TD Ameritrade or Fidelity. Prior to engaging RCA to provide investment management services, clients will be required to enter into a formal Investment Advisory Agreement setting forth the terms and conditions under which RCA shall manage the client's assets, and a separate custodial/clearing agreement with each designated broker-dealer custodian.

Best Execution

Factors that RCA considers in recommending TD Ameritrade or Fidelity (or any other broker-dealer custodian) to our clients may include their historical relationship with our firm, financial strength, reputation, execution capabilities, pricing, research, and service.

Although the commissions and/or transaction fees paid by RCA's clients shall comply with our duty to obtain best execution, a client may pay a commission that is higher than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction where RCA determines, in good faith, that the commission/transaction fee is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of broker-dealer services. These services include the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness.

Accordingly, although RCA will seek competitive rates, we may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client account transactions. The brokerage commissions or transaction fees charged by the designated broker-dealer custodian are exclusive of, and in addition to, RCA's investment management fee. RCA's best execution responsibility is qualified when securities that we purchase for client accounts are mutual funds that trade at net asset value, which is determined at the daily market close.

Directed Brokerage Arrangements

RCA does not generally accept directed brokerage arrangements (when a client requires that account transactions be effected through a specific broker-dealer). In such client directed arrangements, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for their account with that broker-dealer, and RCA will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to "batch" the client's transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts managed by RCA. As a result, the client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for their directed brokerage account than would otherwise be the case.

Please Note: In the event that the client directs RCA to effect securities transactions for the client's accounts through a specific broker-dealer, the client correspondingly acknowledges that such direction may cause the accounts to incur higher commissions or transaction costs than the accounts would otherwise incur had the client determined to effect account transactions through alternative clearing arrangements that may be available through RCA.

Order Aggregation

To the extent that the RCA provides investment management services to its clients, the transactions for each client account generally will be effected independently, unless RCA decides to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. RCA may (but is not obligated to) combine or "bunch" such orders to obtain best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates or to allocate equitably among RCA's clients differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. Under this procedure, transactions will be averaged as to price and will be allocated among clients in proportion to the purchase and sale orders placed for each client account on any given day. RCA shall not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of such aggregation.

Trading Error Policy

RCA generally reimburses client accounts for losses resulting from RCA's trade errors, but does not credit client accounts for trade errors resulting in market gains. The gains and losses are reconciled within RCA's custodian firm accounts and RCA retains the net gains in such accounts to offset any trade error reimbursements that it must provide to a client.

Research and Additional Benefits

Although not a material consideration when determining whether to recommend that a client utilize the services of a particular broker-dealer/custodian, RCA may receive from TD Ameritrade or Fidelity (or another broker-dealer/custodian) without cost or at a discount some support services and/or products, certain of which assist RCA to better monitor and service client accounts maintained at such institutions. Included within the support services that may be obtained by RCA may be investment-related research, pricing information and market data, software and other technology that provide access to client account data, compliance and/or practice management-related publications, discounted or gratis consulting services, discounted and/or gratis attendance at conferences, meetings, and other educational and/or social events, marketing support, computer hardware and/or software and/or other products used by RCA while it is performing its investment advisory business operations.

Registrant serves on the TD Ameritrade Institutional President's Council ("Council"). The Panel consists of independent investment advisors that advise TD Ameritrade Institutional ("TDA Institutional") on issues relevant to the independent advisor community. The Council meets in person on average 1-2 times per year and conducts periodic conference calls on an as needed basis. At times, Council members are provided confidential information about TDA Institutional initiatives. Council members are required to sign confidentiality agreements. TD Ameritrade, Inc. ("TD Ameritrade") does not compensate Council members. However, TD Ameritrade pays or reimburses Registrant for the travel, lodging and meal expenses Registrant incurs in attending Council meetings. The benefits received by Registrant or its personnel by serving on the Council do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by Registrant or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence Registrant's recommendation of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services.

As indicated above, certain of the support services and/or products that may be received may assist RCA in managing and administering client accounts. Others do not directly provide such assistance, but rather assist RCA to manage and further develop its business enterprise.

RCA's clients do not pay more for investment transactions effected and/or assets maintained at TD Ameritrade or Fidelity as a result of these arrangements. There is no corresponding commitment made by RCA to TD Ameritrade or Fidelity or any other any entity to invest any specific amount or percentage of client assets in any specific mutual funds, securities or other investment products as result of the above arrangements. Daniel C. Kiley, RCA's Chief Executive Officer, and Kevin Woodard, as the Chief Compliance Officer, are available to answer any questions that a client or future client may have on this arrangement or any perceived conflict of interest these arrangements may create.

Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

RCA Principals and advisory representatives conduct account reviews on an ongoing basis for clients that receive investment advisory services. RCA advises all investment advisory clients that it is the client's responsibility to notify RCA of any changes in their investment objectives or financial situation. All clients are encouraged to review their financial planning issues (to the extent applicable), investment objectives and account performance with advisory representatives at RCA on an annual basis, either in person or by phone.

Review Triggers

In addition to periodic reviews, RCA may conduct account reviews when a triggering event, like a change in client investment objectives, financial situation, market correction or client request occurs.

Regular Reports and Electronic Delivery

Clients are provided, at least quarterly, with written transaction confirmation notices and summary account holding statements directly from the broker-dealer/custodian for those client accounts. RCA also provides clients with a written quarterly report summarizing account activity and performance.

All client correspondence, as well as all books and records of RCA, will be delivered and stored as electronic images and the originals of the electronically stored documents shall be destroyed. Thereafter, all electronic documents shall be deemed to serve as an original copy.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Other Compensation

As referenced earlier under “Research and Additional Benefits”, RCA may receive an indirect economic benefit from TD Ameritrade or Fidelity. RCA may also receive without cost, or at a discount, support services and/or products from TD Ameritrade or Fidelity.

RCA’s clients do not pay more for investment transactions effected and/or assets maintained at TD Ameritrade or Fidelity as a result of this arrangement. There is no corresponding commitment made by RCA to TD Ameritrade or Fidelity or any other any entity to invest any specific amount or percentage of client assets in any specific mutual funds, securities or other investment products as result of the above arrangement. Any client or future client may ask Daniel C. Kiley, RCA’s Chief Executive Officer, or Kevin Woodard, as the Chief Compliance Officer, to answer any questions they may have on these arrangements or any actual or perceived conflict of interest.

Client Referrals

RCA has created an Ambassador Program in order to compensate certain qualified solicitors for client referrals under guidelines provided by the SEC. RCA will document any solicitor arrangements using our Ambassador Program with appropriate agreements and disclose any fees to a person who may become a future client of RCA, including providing a copy of the Firm Brochure.

As disclosed above under Brokerage Practices, RCA participates in TD Ameritrade's institutional advisor program and RCA may recommend TD Ameritrade to clients or future clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between RCA's participation in the Program and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although RCA receives economic benefits through its participation in the Program that are typically not available to TD Ameritrade retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving RCA; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transactions fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to RCA by third party vendors. TD Ameritrade may also have paid for business consulting and professional services received by RCA's related persons. Some of the products and services made available by TD Ameritrade through the Program may benefit RCA but may not benefit its client accounts. These products or services may assist RCA in managing and administering client accounts, including accounts not maintained at TD Ameritrade. Other services made available by TD Ameritrade are intended to help RCA manage and further develop its business enterprise. The benefits received by RCA or its personnel through participation in the Program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to TD Ameritrade. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, RCA endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients and future clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by RCA or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence RCA's choice of TD Ameritrade for custody and brokerage services.

RCA may receive client referrals from the TD Ameritrade through its participation in the TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect. In addition to meeting the minimum eligibility criteria for participation in AdvisorDirect, RCA may have been selected to participate in AdvisorDirect based on the amount and profitability to TD Ameritrade of the assets in, and trades placed for, client accounts maintained within TD Ameritrade. TD Ameritrade is a discount broker-dealer independent of and unaffiliated with RCA and there is no employee or agency relationship between them. TD Ameritrade has established AdvisorDirect as a means of referring its brokerage customers and other investors seeking fee-based personal investment management services or financial planning services to independent investment advisors. TD Ameritrade does not supervise Advisor and has no responsibility for Advisor's management of client portfolios or Advisor's other advice and services. RCA pays TD Ameritrade an on-going fee for each successful client referral. This fee is usually a percentage (not to exceed 25%) of the advisory fee that the client pays to Advisor (“Solicitation Fee”). RCA will also pay TD Ameritrade the Solicitation Fee on any advisory fees received by RCA from any of a referred client’s family members, including a spouse, child or any other immediate family member who resides with the referred client and hired RCA on the recommendation of such referred client. RCA will not charge clients referred through AdvisorDirect any fees or costs higher than its standard fee schedule offered to its clients or otherwise pass Solicitation Fees paid to TD Ameritrade to its clients. For information regarding additional or other fees paid directly or indirectly to TD Ameritrade, please refer to the TD Ameritrade AdvisorDirect Disclosure and Acknowledgement Form available from RCA.

RCA’s participation in AdvisorDirect raises potential conflicts of interest. TD Ameritrade will most likely refer clients through AdvisorDirect to investment advisors that encourage their clients to custody their assets at TD Ameritrade and whose client accounts are profitable to TD Ameritrade. Consequently, in order to obtain client referrals from TD Ameritrade, RCA may have an incentive to recommend to clients that the assets under management by RCA be held in custody with TD Ameritrade and to place transactions for client accounts with TD Ameritrade. In addition, RCA has agreed not to solicit clients referred to it through AdvisorDirect to transfer their accounts from TD Ameritrade or to establish brokerage or custody accounts at other custodians, except when its fiduciary duties require doing so. RCA’s participation in AdvisorDirect does not diminish its duty to seek best execution of trades for client accounts.

Please Note: Future clients of RCA will not pay any more than our applicable investment advisory fees (as outlined earlier in “Fees and Compensation”) as a result of being referred through a solicitor arrangement under our Ambassador Program.

Custody

Account Statements

Clients are provided, at least quarterly, with transaction confirmation notices and regular written account statements directly from the broker-dealer/custodian for the client accounts. RCA has an agreement with its broker-dealer/custodians to have its advisory fees for each client debited by the client’s custodian on a monthly or quarterly basis. RCA may also provide a written periodic report summarizing account activity and performance.

Please Note: To the extent that the RCA provides clients with periodic account statements or reports, the client is urged to compare any statement or report provided by RCA with the account statements received from the custodian selected for their account.

Please Also Note: RCA has an agreement with its broker-dealer/custodians to have its advisory fees for each account debited by the client's custodian on a quarterly basis. The account custodian does not verify the accuracy of RCA's advisory fee calculation.

Investment Discretion

Discretionary Authority for Trading

Clients can determine to engage RCA to provide investment advisory services on a discretionary basis. Prior to RCA assuming discretionary authority over a client's account, the client is required to execute an Investment Advisory Agreement, naming RCA as client's attorney and agent in fact, granting RCA full authority to buy, sell, or otherwise effect investment transactions involving the assets in the client's name found in the discretionary account.

Clients who engage RCA on a discretionary basis may, at any time, impose restrictions, in writing, on RCA's discretionary authority (i.e. limit the types/amounts of particular securities purchased for their account, exclude the ability to purchase securities with an inverse relationship to the market, limit RCA's use of margin, etc.).

Voting Client Proxies

Proxy Votes

RCA is responsible for voting client proxies, but the client can direct RCA to not vote proxies in writing. The client maintains exclusive sole responsibility for all legal proceedings, class action suits or other events pertaining to the account assets. RCA votes proxies according to its Proxy Voting Policy. RCA monitors corporate actions of individual issuers and investment companies consistent with RCA's fiduciary duty to vote proxies in the best interests of its clients. RCA has engaged the services of Broadridge Investor Communication Solutions ("Broadridge") to assist with proxy voting. Although the factors RCA considers in a proxy vote may differ on a case by case basis, they may include a review of recommendations from issuer's management, shareholder proposals, cost effects of such proposals, effect on employees and executive and director compensation. It is RCA's general policy, however, to vote in accordance with management. Individual issuers may solicit RCA to vote on matters including corporate governance, adoption or amendments to compensation plans (including stock options), and matters involving social issues and corporate responsibility. Investment companies, like mutual funds, may solicit RCA to vote on matters including the approval of advisory contracts, distribution plans, and mergers. RCA maintains records on its proxy voting as required by Rule 204-2

(c)(2) of the Advisers Act. Clients may request a copy of RCA's Proxy Voting Policy and further information as to how RCA voted on any specific proxy issues by contacting Daniel Kiley, RCA's Chief Executive Officer, or Kevin Woodard, Chief Compliance Officer.

Financial Information

Financial Condition

Registered investment advisers are required to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about their financial condition.

RCA is not aware of any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet its contractual commitments relating to its discretionary authority over certain client accounts.

RCA does not require pre-payment of its advisory fees six months or more in advance.

RCA has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Education and Business Standards

RCA requires that any employee of the firm whose responsibilities involve determining or giving investment advice to clients must:

1. Have a bachelor's degree and further coursework demonstrating knowledge of investments, financial planning, accounting, or tax planning.
2. Have a minimum of five years work experience that demonstrates their aptitude for financial planning and investment management.
3. Be a Certified Financial Planner™ (“CFP®”); Certified Public Accountant (“CPA”), Certified Financial Analyst (“CFA”) c
4. harterholder, Chartered Retirement Plans Specialist (“CRPS”), Masters of Business Administration (“MBA”), be an Attorney, or be actively pursuing one of these professional designations.
5. Subscribe to the Code of Ethics and Professional Responsibility provided by the Certified Financial Planner™ (CFP®) Board of Standards.
6. Be properly licensed for all advisory activities in which they are engaged.

Professional Certifications

RCA employees have earned certifications and credentials that are explained below in further detail:

CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™

Certified Financial Planners™, CFP® and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the CFP® marks”) are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. (“CFP Board”). The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners or advisors to hold CFP® certification. To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirement:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that the CFP Board has determined is necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor’s Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board’s financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefit planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;

- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP[®] Certification Exam. This examination is administered in 10 hours over a two-day period, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one's ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one's knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances;
- Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning- related experience (or equivalent measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP Board's Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP[®] professionals.

Individuals who become certified must also complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP[®] marks;

- Continuing Education – Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with the developments in the financial planning field; and
- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require the CFP[®] professionals to provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP[®] professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP[®] professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board's enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP[®] certification.

CHARTERED FINANCIAL ANALYST

To earn a CFA charter, you must have four years of qualified investment work experience, become a member of CFA Institute, pledge to adhere to the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct on an annual basis, apply for membership to a local CFA member society, and complete the CFA Program.

The CFA Program is organized into three levels, each culminating in a six-hour exam. The Program reflects a broad Candidate Body of Knowledge™ (CBOK) developed and continuously updated by active practitioners to ensure that charterholders possess knowledge grounded in the real world of today's global investment industry.

CHARTERED RETIREMENT PLANS SPECIALIST OR CRPS®

Individuals who hold the CRPS® designation have completed a course of study encompassing design, installation, maintenance and administration of retirement plans. Additionally, individuals must pass an end-of-course examination that tests their ability to synthesize complex concepts and apply theoretical concepts to real-life situations.

All designees have agreed to adhere to Standards of Professional Conduct and are subject to a disciplinary process. Designees renew their designation every two-years by completing 16 hours of continuing education, reaffirming adherence to the Standards of Professional Conduct and complying with self-disclosure requirements.
