ITEM 4 – SERVICES, FEES, AND COMPENSATION

Services

The Gemini Wrap Fee Program is a proprietary investment program, jointly sponsored by Ameritas Investment Corp. (AIC) and Ameritas Investment Partners, Inc. (AIP), offering investors the opportunity to obtain customized professional investment and brokerage services for one all-inclusive fee based upon the assets under management. AIP and AIC are affiliates and members of the Ameritas Companies, with a common ultimate parent of Ameritas Mutual Holding Company.

Under the Gemini program AIC, through its introducing Investment Adviser Representative (IAR), identifies suitable investors, determines their investment objectives, risk tolerance and other factors and recommends an asset allocation strategy for funds to be included in a Program account. The IAR recommends the asset allocation strategy based on information provided by the investor, but the ultimate decision on the strategy rests with the investor. Once the investor selects a strategy, opens an AIC brokerage account, and executes an Investment Advisory Agreement, AIP will, on a discretionary basis, develop and manage a customized portfolio using individual securities, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), mutual funds, and other pooled investments consistent with the strategy.

Fees

Clients of the Gemini program pay a fee quarterly at the beginning of each quarter for services to be provided in that quarter, based on the market value of account assets, including accrued investment income, as of the last business day of the previous quarter and generally are deducted from client assets. The standard fee schedule appears below. The minimum size for a Gemini account is generally $500,000.

Account Balance	Maximum Annual Fee
$500,000 – $5,000,000	2.00%
Over $5,000,000.....	negotiable

The maximum annual fee will be reduced to 1.5% for accounts consisting entirely of fixed income securities. AIP is paid up to 0.65% (0.45% for fixed income accounts) of the total fee for investment portfolio management. The remaining portion is paid to AIC and its IAR. In certain cases, that portion of the fee payable to AIC may be decreased and, as a result, a lower fee may be charged to the account holder than might otherwise be the case. In addition, an existing client in another advisory program sponsored by AIP may be allowed to become a Gemini client and maintain their current fee schedule. As a result, existing clients could have a lower minimum account size and pay lower fees than a new client. The program fee is charged at inception on a prorated basis to reflect the number of days remaining in the initial calendar quarter. In the event that a Gemini account is terminated during a quarter, fees will be prorated and a refund issued to the client; such accounts may be terminated by the account holder at any time on written notice. There are no sales loads, termination or surrender fees associated with the Gemini account.

Total costs associated with a Gemini account may be more or less than purchasing brokerage and advisory services separately. Factors that bear upon the relative costs of any program include the number of and timing of transactions, solicitor's fees, management and advisory fees, custody charges, regulatory compliance, administrative charges, research costs, and promotional costs. These and other factors may affect the cost of obtaining such services separately.

Other Fees and Expenses

No other fees are assessed in addition to the Program fee. However, transaction-based assessments or taxes imposed by governments, self-regulatory organizations, exchanges, etc. are not included in the Program fee and will be passed through to the account holder. Also, certain indirect costs may be associated with securities purchased or held in an account. Examples of such indirect costs include: advisory fees and operating expenses associated with investment holdings in mutual funds and exchange traded funds that pay these expenses from their assets and pass them along proportionately to all shareholders; and markups, markdowns, or spreads paid in connection with securities purchased on a net basis. AIC and its registered representatives also may receive compensation related to 12b-1 distribution fees collected from mutual funds or other revenue sharing arrangements associated with investments held in clients' portfolios managed by AIP. These or similar fees or costs could be associated with any products for which AIC acts as underwriter. While the client may be indirectly charged these fees, the client is not assessed a separate Program account fee for them and directly pays only the fee under the contract. A client may agree to invest in a municipal security for which AIC is a selling group member or a continuing financial adviser.

AIP has arranged for Chicago Clearing Corporation (CCC) to provide class action litigation monitoring and securities claim filing administration for client accounts that chose to participate in this service. CCC charges a contingency fee of 20% of the amount of each claim settlement award which is deducted from the client's award at the time of payment. There are no minimum fees or other fees deducted from an account related to this service, and AIP receives no portion of the fee or a rebate from the provider.

Compensation

A portion of the fee received by AIC and its IARs may be considered to be for solicitation and referral of the account to the Gemini Program. Accordingly, the person recommending the Program to you receives compensation because of your participation in the Program. The amount of this compensation may be more than would be received if you participated in other programs of the sponsor or paid separately for investment advice, brokerage, and other services. Therefore, the person that recommends the Program to you may have a financial incentive to recommend this investment Program over other programs or services.

ITEM 5 – ACCOUNT REQUIREMENTS AND TYPES OF CLIENTS

Opening a Gemini Account

The minimum size for a Gemini account is generally $500,000. Participation in the program typically is initiated by receiving and reviewing this Program Brochure and submitting the following completed documents to an AIC IAR:

- Brokerage Account Application,
- Investment Advisory Agreement, indicating account options, internet access, proxy voting, participation in class action administration services, delivery of electronic confirmations and statements, various disclosures, acknowledgements, and authorizations; and
- Investment Questionnaire and Asset Allocation Worksheet (Worksheet).

These documents generally are submitted electronically using the Unified Account Opening (UAO) system. Based on these completed documents, the IAR makes the initial determination as to the client's suitability for the Gemini Program. AIP also makes an independent assessment of whether to establish an account for a client. The Worksheet will also assist AIC and AIP in determining an appropriate risk tolerance and asset allocation strategy for the client. The client agrees to provide updates to the Worksheet to AIC or AIP as their circumstances and investment objectives change. In addition, the IAR is expected to meet annually with each client, and AIP conducts an annual survey of accounts for changes.

The custodian for the account primarily will be National Financial Services, LLC (NFS or Custodian), 82 Devonshire Street, Boston, MA. NFS shall execute and clear all purchase and sale orders directed to it by AIC. On occasion, an alternate qualified custodian may be employed at the client's request and expense, and in these cases NFS will remain the clearing broker. The Custodian shall maintain custody of the account assets and provide other custodial functions, including crediting of interest and dividends on account assets and crediting of principal on called or matured securities and other customary custodial functions.

The Custodian also shall forward a confirmation of each purchase and sale directly to the client and AIC. Additionally, the Custodian will forward a monthly account statement directly to clients and AIC for each month in which account activity occurs and at least quarterly regardless of account activity. The Custodian will also act as general administrator of program accounts, which shall include charging and collecting account fees and processing, pursuant to AIC's instructions, of deposits to and withdrawals from program accounts.

Types of Wrap Fee Account Clients

AIP provides investment advisory services through a Gemini account to:

- Individuals,
- High net worth individuals,
- Retirement Accounts (including IRAs)
- Profit sharing plans,
- Trusts,
- Charitable organizations,
- State and local government entities, and
- Small businesses and others.

ITEM 6 – PORTFOLIO MANAGER SELECTION AND EVALUATION

Selection and Review of Portfolio Managers

The Gemini program is a proprietary investment program jointly sponsored by AIC and AIP. All new participants must enter into an investment advisory agreement with AIP. AIP's initial selection and on-going continuation as portfolio manager are based on its ability to manage accounts and deliver total return performance that meets clients' expectations. The benchmarks for account performance are based on each client's responses to the Worksheet which is completed and updated in consultation with your AIC Investment Adviser Representative. Using these responses, the portfolio manager designs an appropriate investment strategy and develops an appropriate diversified portfolio using this strategy. AIP, in its investment advisory role, maintains current client profiles and adjusts portfolios accordingly.

Clients receive customized written performance evaluation reports each quarter. These reports currently are prepared by AIP. Portfolio performance is calculated using a time-weighted methodology that is programmed into the independent portfolio administration system used by AIP (currently Envestnet's Tamarac Advisor View). Portfolio performance evaluation reports are reviewed for accuracy by the AIP portfolio manager prior to delivery to clients. The reports are intended to inform clients about their investment performance over the current period and over the longer term since the account's inception, both on an absolute basis and as compared to a customized benchmark (a calculated weighted average of the performance of leading investment indices that correspond with your portfolio's objectives) and its components.

Types of Advisory Services Offered

AIP provides investment supervisory services and manages investment portfolios tailored to achieve its clients' objectives and risk tolerance by managing various asset classes with in-house personnel that have education, training, and experience with these assets. The Gemini program utilizes individual securities, ETFs, mutual funds, and other pooled investments to efficiently invest in a broad range of asset classes.

AIP's Investment Securities departments primarily provide management in the following areas that may be utilized in a Gemini program account: actively managed equity securities, actively managed fixed income securities (including United States Government and Agency securities, municipal securities, investment grade and high yield public corporate securities) and asset allocation and fund selection of ETFs, mutual funds, and other pooled investments.

AIP is committed to maintaining diversified client portfolios. Account managers are inclined to emphasize conservation of principal and, at the same time, seek optimum returns within the framework of each client's investment objectives and specific level of risk tolerance.

AIP professional managers strive to adhere to the following strategies:

- Utilize a proprietary asset allocation process designed to align client needs, expectations, and constraints with investment market opportunities to deliver client-specific custom diversified investment portfolios.
- Develop recommendations based on each client's financial situation, including issues of cash flow expectations, capacity for loss, income tax exposure, concentrated holdings, complimentary investment exposure and other factors.
- Select investments in asset allocation that have both attractive expected returns and complimentary characteristics when held within a diversified investment portfolio.
- Utilize AIP's investment professionals to manage individual core common stocks and fixed income security positions.
- Utilize ETFs, mutual funds and other pooled investments when allocating exposure to additional complimentary asset classes and for liquidity.

How Advisory Services are Tailored to Individual Client Needs

AIP manages portfolios in a manner that is consistent with each advisory contract and Worksheet. These documents will indicate the ranges of each asset class or classes to be included in the portfolio. Portfolios also may include restrictions or limitations on certain securities or types of securities. These restrictions often are based on the client's investment objectives, goals, and risk profile. These parameters often are driven by the nature of the operations of institutional clients (pension plans, charitable organizations, etc.) and by the investment goals and risk profile of individual clients (retirement, college, or general savings, etc.). Once these conditions are known, the portfolio manager can design an appropriate investment strategy to manage the account.

Differences Between Management of Wrap Fee Accounts and Other Accounts

AIP acts as a portfolio investment advisor, and AIC provides brokerage and certain advisory services, to clients other than wrap fee program clients. Due to differences in the investment objectives and financial situations of the various clients AIP and AIC serve, investment advice and related services provided to various clients may differ. In addition, actions taken on behalf of various clients may differ with respect to the nature of the advice or the timing of transactions. AIP and AIC have no obligation to purchase or sell, or to recommend the purchase or sale, of any security that AIP, AIC, or any affiliate of either, purchases or sells for itself or themselves or for any other client.

Investment opportunities for Gemini accounts may differ from those for AIP's institutional accounts (many of which are affiliates of AIP), due to (1) different brokerage arrangements for institutional accounts and (2) time constraints of processing offerings. Institutional accounts' investments in initial public offerings of stock generally are not available for program accounts because initial public offerings are not available through AIC's clearing firms. Initial bond offerings may not be available for program accounts for the same reason or because an account or accounts may not meet required minimum allotments for opportunities that also fit with accounts' investment strategies. AIP may consider certain other investments not available for program accounts that are suitable for institutional accounts (i.e. real estate).

AIP normally manages Wrap Fee investment accounts on a fully discretionary basis, including a review of each investment prior to executing a transaction. In a limited number of circumstances, clients have directed AIP not to exercise discretion with regard to certain investment positions in their portfolios. When this occurs, AIP does not manage the position(s) and generally does not charge an advisory fee for such investments.

Orders for Gemini and other program accounts may be aggregated with other wrap fee program accounts and orders for institutional accounts may be aggregated with other institutional accounts. Because institutional and wrap fee account trades use separate electronic trading systems and networks of brokers, it is not possible to aggregate trades between various classes of customers. As such, trades in the same security may be executed on the same day in an institutional account and wrap fee accounts at different prices. For sales of investments, an allocation process includes program accounts and institutional accounts separately, taking into consideration any tax and other matters relative to specific program accounts. Allowing for differences in client profiles and the types of brokerage arrangements, as well as time constraints for certain investments, AIP investment allocation procedures are established in an effort to ensure fair allocation of investment opportunities for all accounts.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

AIP does not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

AIP employs various methods of investment analysis. Our primary approach is to prepare fundamental and technical analysis of data, but we also may consider charts and cyclical data or other trend and statistical analysis. The main sources of information include: research materials prepared by brokers or others, rating agency reports, inspection of corporate activities, securities filings (such as, annual and quarterly reports, prospectuses, and other filings), press releases and financial newspaper and other periodical articles. In addition to such traditional research sources, AIP may use a variety of electronic databases (e.g. Value Line, Dorsey Wright, and Bloomberg, etc.), telephone and personal communications with management of companies of securities under consideration.

AIP seeks to identify investments that will achieve clients' investment objectives within the parameters of established investment policies, restrictions, and limitations.

For actively managed equity portfolios, AIP seeks a diversified portfolio of securities that generate targeted sales, earnings, and cash flow growth potential, selling at a discount relative to their potential for growth. This investment strategy is based upon AIP's belief that over the long term, stock price appreciation is generally tied to its company's earnings and cash flow potential. Understanding this potential and paying a favorable price, is the beginning mechanism of stock performance. AIP completes the investment process and manages risk levels with a sell discipline also focused on growth potential and valuation. AIP also manages risk through stock selection across sectors and a broad industry base.

For actively managed fixed income portfolios, (including U.S. Government and Agency securities, investment grade and high yield corporate securities, municipal securities, and short-term securities) AIP's strategy begins by determining the benchmark based on the client Worksheet. AIP begins its credit process with a periodic evaluation of the economy, the absolute level and direction of interest rates, and the shape of the yield and credit curves and how we believe they will change. This macro view on the economy impacts the allocation of assets relative to the benchmark. Views on individual sectors are based on proprietary fundamental research to overweight those sectors that we believe will outperform the market and underweight those sectors that we believe will underperform the market. The individual security selection process takes into account the client's objective, our sector weightings, our proprietary credit analysis, our preferred placement on the yield curve and laddering maturities. AIP's credit analysis is designed to identify bonds that offer "relative value," or those that offer the best risk/reward characteristics in a given sector. The process is dynamic and continuous. Buy decisions are based on identifying securities with attractive credit fundamentals, that offer compelling relative value, and are included in targeted market sectors or themes. Sell criteria include identifying securities whose credit fundamentals have deteriorated and our evolving outlook of a sector or the overall economy.

For asset allocation and fund selection accounts investing in ETFs, mutual funds and other pooled investment securities, AIP utilizes a proprietary asset allocation process designed to align client needs, expectations, and constraints with investment market opportunities to deliver client-specific custom diversified investment portfolios. Portfolio managers develop recommendations based on each client's investment policies, financial situation, cash flow expectations, risk tolerance, income tax exposure, complimentary investment exposure and other factors. Investments are selected that have both attractive expected returns and complimentary characteristics when held within a diversified investment portfolio. Periodically and when appropriate, asset allocation models are evaluated and updated, and such accounts will reallocate investment values or update recommendations accordingly.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear. Principal risks in securities portfolios include:

- Management Risk. Individual securities may not perform as expected, and the portfolio management practices may not achieve the desired results.
- Market Risk. Securities markets may fall in value, causing prices of stocks, bonds, and other securities in investment portfolios to fall.
- Valuation Risk. A security judged to be undervalued by the Adviser may actually be appropriately priced, and it may not appreciate as anticipated.
- Index Tracking Risk. An index fund has operating expenses; a market index does not. The index portfolio while expected to track its target index as closely as possible, will not be able to match performance of the index exactly.
- Sector Risk. Some sectors may be more volatile than others. Small to medium capitalization stocks can be more volatile than larger, more established companies. Sectors that focus on narrower sections of the overall market (e.g. technology, natural resources, etc.) can be more volatile than broad based sectors.
- Asset Allocation Risk. The selection of underlying securities, mutual funds and exchange-traded funds and the allocation of portfolio assets to those investments may cause the portfolio to underperform. The portfolio's possible over-allocation to equity or other higher-risk securities may make it more susceptible to risks associated with such investments than fixed income investments.
- Investments in Other Investment Companies. The risk of investing in other investment companies (mutual funds, ETFs, UITs, etc.) typically reflect the risks of the types of securities in which those investment companies invest and other attending management risks. When a portfolio invests in another investment company, clients bear their proportionate share of the investment company's fees and expenses as well as their account's fees and expenses.
- Derivatives Risk. Using derivative securities (such as, options, swaps, and futures) to hedge portfolio and other risks may increase volatility and may expose a portfolio to a greater level of market risk than the amount of cash utilized. If the changes in a derivative's value do not correspond to changes in the value of hedge target as intended, the account may not fully benefit from or could lose money on the derivative position. Derivatives that are not exchange traded can involve risk of loss if the counterparty to the contract defaults on its obligation. Derivatives may also be less liquid and more difficult to value.
- Credit Risk. There is a chance that an issuer of a fixed income security may fail to pay interest and/or principal in a timely manner, or that negative perceptions of the issuer's ability to make such payments will cause the price of the security to decline. These risks are greater for securities that are rated below investment grade (junk bonds) which may be considered speculative and are more volatile than investment grade securities.
- Interest Rate Risk. A change in market interest rates may adversely affect the value of fixed income securities. When interest rates increase, the value of fixed income securities generally will fall, and longer-term securities will be affected to a greater degree.
- Mortgage-Backed and Asset-Backed Risk. The value of investments in mortgage-backed (MBS) and asset-backed (ABS) securities is subject to interest rate and credit risk. In addition, these securities also are subject to the risk that the borrowers of the underlying loans may repay the principal on their loans more quickly than expected (prepayment risk), more slowly than expected (extension risk) or may default on their obligation (default risk). Additionally, the value of the collateral supporting the underlying loans could drop in value and may be worth less than the principal balance of the related loan. These events will affect the yield and price of the securities. Some MBS are issued by U.S. Government-Sponsored Enterprises (GSE) and depending on the issuer, may include some level of support or guarantee as to the timely payment of principal and interest on underlying mortgage loans. This support may be solely provided by the GSE (e.g., Federal National Mortgage Association "FNMA", Federal Home Loan Mortgage Association "FHLMC" among others) or may be backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government (e.g., Government National Mortgage Association "GNMA"). Privately-issued MBS and ABS include no governmental support or guarantee.

Voting Client Securities

AIP has engaged Broadridge Investor Communication Solutions, Inc. to vote and administer actively-managed equity accounts' proxies based on our duty to act on behalf of our client's best interests and to comply with SEC rules. Clients may decide to vote proxies themselves and should contact AIP to communicate their intentions to opt out of this service. Clients also may request a report on how their securities were voted by contacting AIP. AIP has adopted the Glass Lewis & Co. U.S. Proxy Voting Guidelines as its proxy voting policy – clients may obtain a copy of such guidelines upon request or download a copy from our website at www.ameritas.com. Generally, AIP votes proxies for affiliated and unaffiliated institutional accounts and Wrap Fee Account clients applying the aforementioned proxy voting policy. Any material conflicts between the interests of AIP and those of clients will be resolved to protect the clients' interest. AIP personnel have been instructed to report potential material conflicts are to be reported to the CCO or other AIP officers as AIP personnel become aware of them. If the Portfolio Manager does not agree with a particular position Glass Lewis & Co. has taken on a proposal, they will over-ride that position and document their reasoning accordingly.

Seven AIP associates are Registered Securities Representatives of AIC and eight are Investment Advisor Representatives.

AIP's primary business activity is providing investment advisory services. As noted above, seven of AIP's professional staff also are registered representatives, and in some instances, are securities principals, associated with AIC. Certain officers and directors of AIC and AIP are also officers and directors of affiliates. Also, certain officers and directors of affiliates are clients of AIP and AIC.

AIP provides investment supervisory services and manages investment portfolios for affiliated and unaffiliated separate accounts, three wrap fee programs that it jointly sponsors with AIC (including Gemini), an AIC sponsored wrap fee program, and eight sub-advised Calvert Research and Management mutual funds. Each client's services are tailored to achieve stated objectives and risk tolerances by managing various asset classes with in-house personnel that have education, training, and experience with these investments.

AIP's Investment Securities departments primarily provide management in the following areas:

- actively managed fixed income securities, including United States Government and Agency securities, municipal securities, investment grade and high yield public and privately-placed corporate securities,
- mortgage and asset-backed securities,
- passively managed equity and fixed income securities,

AIP also acts as a non-discretionary investment advisor on behalf of ALIC and an unaffiliated third party client as it relates to the investment and asset management of alternative real estate investments, including:

- real estate joint venture investments; and
- revolving credit lines to facilitate the acquisition of real estate assets.

Code of Ethics

AIP's Code of Ethics (Code) outlines the standards of business conduct that shall govern Supervised Persons, including placing the interest of Clients first at all times, requiring that all personal securities transactions be conducted consistent with the Code, prohibiting Supervised Persons from taking inappropriate advantage of their positions and requiring compliance with applicable federal securities laws. The Code further defines prohibited Business Conduct for Access Persons (any director, officer or associate of AIP or a Supervised Person that has access to non-public information or is involved in making securities recommendations to clients), including engaging in any business transaction or arrangement for personal profit based on confidential information, communicating non-public information about Clients' securities transactions, accepting a gift, favor or service of significant value from a Client or Vendor, buying or selling securities or any other property from or to a Client. Prohibited purchases and sales, short-term trading restrictions, exempted transactions, pre-clearance requirements and initial, quarterly, and annual reporting requirements are also detailed in the Code. All supervised persons at AIP must acknowledge the terms of the Code annually, or as amended. AIP will provide a copy of the Code to any client or prospective client upon request, or you can download a copy at our website, www.ameritas.com.

AIP anticipates that, in appropriate circumstances, consistent with clients' investment objectives, it will cause accounts over which AIP has management authority to effect, and will recommend to investment advisory clients or prospective clients, the purchase or sale of securities in which AIP, its affiliates and/or clients, directly or indirectly, have a position of material financial interest. AIP's employees and persons associated with AIP are required to follow AIP's Code. Subject to satisfying this policy and applicable laws, officers, directors and employees of AIP and its affiliates may trade for their own accounts in securities which are recommended to and/or purchased for AIP's clients. The Code is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities, and interests of the employees of AIP will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code, certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interest of AIP's clients. In addition, the Code requires pre-clearance of most securities transactions, and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code, and to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between AIP and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with AIP's obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and client accounts will share commission costs equally and receive securities at a total average price. AIP will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be explained on the Order.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Other Conflicts of Interest

AIC or AIP personnel may act in multiple capacities with respect to clients who establish Gemini accounts, and these may create conflicts between the interests of our clients and the interests of AIC, AIP, our affiliated companies and associates, including those listed below. We endeavor to always place the interests of our clients ahead of all other interests.

Principal Transactions

AIP will not execute any principal transactions for client accounts unless the client is informed of such transaction in writing before the completion of the transaction, consents to such transaction and the transaction is in accordance with all applicable securities laws and regulations. Principal transactions generally are defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer (i.e. AIC), buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated account and a client account. AIC has adopted procedures that permit it to act as principal in other securities transactions with its advisory clients, provided that the consent of the client is obtained in advance of the transaction.

Affiliated Variable Annuity Contracts in Client Accounts

AIP clients may be advised by AIP's affiliates to purchase variable insurance products issued by ALIC or Ameritas Life of NY and underwritten by AIC. Such variable insurance products may not be acquired or held in a Private Clients, Gemini, or Mercury wrap fee program account, but they may be acquired separately by a common client in an AIC account under the advice of one of AIC's registered representatives. Such purchases would, if approved by the client, be cleared through the broker-dealer, which would be compensated in connection with that transaction.

These affiliated variable annuities may contain a Guaranteed Lifetime Withdrawal Benefit "GLWB" rider which, if acquired before May 1, 2013, requires participation in either (i) any one of three static Asset Allocation models which may include Calvert Funds, including a Fund where AIP is the sub-advisor, or (ii) one of the three Calvert volatility managed funds where AIP is the sub-advisor for managing exchange-traded funds in the Portfolios. For these affiliated variable annuities with GLWB riders dated on or after May 1, 2013, contract holders are required to choose one of the Calvert volatility managed funds as the sole investment.

Additionally, other investment options available in affiliated variable insurance products may be invested in Calvert Funds, including those where AIP continues to earn sub-advisory fees. As such, a conflict exists.

Investors should always read the variable annuity prospectus carefully before sending money.

Asset Allocation and Fund Selection Recommendations

AIP selects specific mutual funds for model portfolios using provided asset class allocations. These model portfolios are used in AIC's Advantage Advisory Program that is marketed in coordination with Ameritas Retirement Plans. This Program provides fiduciaries of participant directed retirement plans with investment advisory services to prudently select and monitor their plan's designated investment alternatives. Calvert Funds are not available in this Program.

AIP has been engaged by affiliated sponsors of certain pension plans and employee benefit associations to: 1) support and assist in establishing and maintaining investment policies; 2) analyze and recommend mutual fund selections; and 3) monitor and report on performance. Funds recommended for these accounts may include Calvert Funds, including funds sub-advised by AIP. As such, a conflict of interest exists.

Other Conflicts of Interest

AIP's associates may, from time to time, make recommendations to its advisory clients relating to securities in which such associates have a personal investment. Although such recommendations are not specifically reported, AIP associates are required to obtain pre-transaction approval for personal securities transactions, initial public offerings, and private placement securities.

Certain directors and officers of AIP are also directors or officers of AHC, AIC, ALIC, Ameritas Life of New York, Griffin Realty, LLC, Milford Realty LLC, Custom Insurance Solutions, LLC, and Calvert Investments, Inc. (and Calvert subsidiaries). Also, certain associates (including officers and directors of affiliates) are clients of affiliated Wrap Fee Programs.

AIP's IARs and associates or AIC associates may purchase or own variable insurance products issued by ALIC or Ameritas Life of NY. Securities underwritten by AIC may also be recommended to AIP clients.

As co-sponsor of the Private Clients, Gemini and Mercury Programs, AIC provides all brokerage services for these accounts and AIP provides all investment portfolio advisory services. In choosing to open one of these Wrap Fee Program accounts, the client also has chosen AIC as their broker and AIP as their investment adviser. AIP offers other asset management services for larger accounts who are not interested in a Wrap Fee Program. These arrangements would be structured more like those described in the Institutional Account sections where AIC generally is not used as a broker. In recommending participation in a Wrap Fee Program, AIC, through its IARs, is recommending itself as broker. If a client chooses to implement securities transactions through one of these Programs, a conflict of interest exists since AIC and its associates might receive commissions or other compensation. A client is under no obligation to open a Wrap Fee Program account and use AIC as their broker. If a client chooses another arrangement, they may pay more or less for implementation and on-going operations of the account.

As a full-service broker-dealer and registered investment adviser, AIC may handle accounts for, and may render investment advice and other investment management and broker-dealer services (including investment banking services) to other investors and institutions with respect to, and it may for its own account hold, purchase, sell or otherwise trade in and deal with, securities which are the same or similar to those recommended to other clients. Similarly, AIP may handle accounts, render investment advice and other management investment services for other investors and institutions with respect to services which are the same or similar to those recommended to other clients. AIP and AIC reserve the ability to offer investment advisory services in other programs on other terms and either may offer other programs whereby clients acquire investment advisory, brokerage, and administrative services for an all-inclusive wrap fee. Therefore, AIC and/or AIP may from time to time have a conflict regarding clients of its other services as well as its clients to whom it provides investment advisory services.

AIC may execute transactions as broker or agent for both Gemini accounts and other clients. AIC and its registered representatives may receive compensation related to 12b-1 distribution fees collected from mutual funds held in clients' portfolios managed by AIP. AIC representatives may also recommend to its clients and sell shares of Calvert Funds for a commission.

AIC and/or its affiliated companies may, from time to time, participate as an investor in partnerships that invest in various securities. AIC clients may be advised to purchase interests in such partnerships.

In addition, and as noted above, AIP is part of a family of companies engaged in the financial services and insurance industries. These companies, some of which may be regarded as "related persons" of AIP, may have direct or indirect interests in securities about which AIP and/or AIP advisory representatives may provide investment advice.

AIP also may purchase Calvert Funds, including Funds where AIP is the sub-adviser, in certain affiliated accounts to hedge exposures in deferred compensation plans where a participant has selected a Calvert Fund as an investment option. AIP has excluded Calvert Funds from unaffiliated Wrap accounts.

AIP will disclose all material conflicts of interest so that existing and prospective clients may evaluate their impact on any relationship.

Review of Accounts

Transactions placed through AIC accounts are reviewed daily by associates processing such trades, and AIP reviews each account on an ongoing basis to ensure that the account is managed in accordance with stated objectives. AIP uses the Envestnet | Tamarac system's Advisor View Portfolio Management and Advisor Rebalancing modules that continuously monitor compliance with and alert the manager to possible violations of or drift from clients' investment strategies that have been programmed into the system. Annually AIC's IAR is expected to meet with each of their clients and AIP will survey accounts for any changes in the Investment Questionnaire and Asset Allocation Worksheet. AIP reviews these updates to determine whether changes may have an effect on the on-going suitability of investments in clients' portfolios or would cause a revision to investment strategies.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A portion of the Gemini account wrap fee is paid to AIC's IAR for solicitation and referral of the client to a Gemini account. AIP currently does not pay any other referral fees or compensation. However in the future it may enter into other arrangements whereby it makes other payments for client referrals.

Financial Information

Registered investment advisers are required in this Item to provide clients with certain financial information or disclosures about AIP's financial condition. AIP has no financial commitment that impairs its ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and has not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
