Service:	Recommendation of Other Investment Advisers
Service description:	Under this service, we may select (on a discretionary basis) other investment advisers, including mutual funds and ETFs, to provide the specific management services related to your assets (not as part of a wrap program) and in turn, we will monitor such outside investment advisers' performance with respect to their management of your assets. We will allocate your assets amongst these other investment advisers and may re-balance the allocation quarterly. The selection of outside investment advisers depends on analysis of both qualitative factors (such as advisers strategy, experience, and capabilities) and quantitative metrics (such as past performance, volatility, correlation, and other related statistics). A description of the specific services and fees available from the outside investment adviser can be found in such other investment adviser's current disclosure document(s). We will retain the authority to hire and fire such other investment advisers. Any decision to hire or fire a particular investment adviser will be based upon continued suitability and performance of the other investment adviser in relation to its management of your assets. Alternatively, without specifically selecting (on a discretionary basis) other investment advisers to provide the specific management services related to your assets, we may simply recommend other investment advisers that would provide such services (not as part of a wrap program). The frequency and timing of the fee collection by the other investment advisers will be set forth in the written agreement with them. We receive our service fees by the following method(s): <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> automatic fee deduction via the custodian; <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> direct invoice to you; and/or <input type="checkbox"/> via the other investment adviser(s) managing your assets. Billing Via Custodian. Contemporaneously with opening a discretionary account, you will be asked to sign an authorization that will allow the custodian of any of your account(s) to debit the account(s) the amount of our service fees and remit the fee to us. The authorization will remain valid unless and until we receive a written revocation of such authorization from you. In connection with this fee deduction process, the custodian will send you a statement, at least quarterly, indicating: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • all amounts disbursed from the account, and • the amount of advisory fees paid directly to us. Direct billing. You may be billed directly by us for our service fees. You will be invoiced by the fifth business day of the month subsequent to the most recently ended billing period. Payments are due on or by the final business day of the month in which the invoice is generated. Use of other Investment Advisers: Other investment advisers recommended or selected by us generally charge their own advisory fees for managing client assets. Such fees are generally based on a percentage of the assets under management. Our fees are subject to negotiation and may be separate from the overall fees charged by such other investment advisers. Additional details related to fees charged by outside investment advisers will be explained in any such adviser's disclosure document. The fees charged by other investment advisers are assessed by such parties. Such fees may be charged in advance or in arrears; monthly, quarterly, or annually. Further, fees may be collected via the custodian or by way of direct billing by such investment adviser.
Advanced billing and refunds:	As described above, our advisory fees may be charged in advance. Fees paid in advance will be considered earned and non-refundable. Use of other Investment Advisers:

	If another investment adviser(s) is used to manage your assets, any available refund process for fees that may be collected in advance will be dictated by such other investment adviser's disclosure document(s) and/or service agreement(s) with you.

IV.(C). Customization of Advisory Services

To the fullest extent possible, we endeavor to tailor our advisory services to meet the specific needs of each and every client. In order to determine a suitable course of action for an individual client, we perform a review of our clients' financial circumstances. Such review may include, but would not necessarily be limited to, investment objectives, consideration of a client's overall financial condition, income and tax status, personal and business assets, risk profile, and other factors unique to a client's particular circumstances.

Our clients are free to impose any restrictions or other conditions with regard to how we provide our advisory services. If we agree to such restrictions and/or conditions, please be advised that restrictions and guidelines imposed by a client may affect the composition and performance of your portfolios (as a result, performance of custom portfolios within the same investment objective may differ and a client should not expect that the performance of a custom portfolio will be identical to any other individual's portfolio performance) as well as any recommendations provided to the client.

IV.(D). Wrap Fee Program Participation

FGL does not participate in wrap fee programs.

V. Fees and Compensation

V.(A). FGL Advisory Fees

V.(B). Fee Collection Process

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(C). Other Fee/Expenses.

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(D). Fees Charged in Advance

Refer above to Item IV.(B).

V.(E). Additional Compensation

In addition to maintaining an investment adviser registration, representatives of FGL are also actively engaged as insurance agents. As such, we are able to receive compensation (i.e. commissions) related to the sale of insurance products. Certain individuals who are associated with us, if properly licensed to do so, may also receive compensation (i.e. commissions) related to the sale of insurance products. Additional Compensation such as this is ¹ The term, "assets under management" shall carry the same meaning as that term is defined by Form ADV.

² Rounded to the nearest $100,000 separate and distinct from the other fees we may receive in connection with our investment advisory services as described above in Item IV.(B).

V.(E).(1). Conflicts of Interest

The instructions in the Form ADV require us to tell you that the receipt or potential for the receipt of Additional Compensation gives our supervised persons an incentive to recommend investment products based on the Additional Compensation received, rather than on your specific needs. Although we are obligated to tell you this, our objective as a firm, which is shared by our supervised persons, is to place nothing before your best interests.

How we address these conflicts. First and foremost, we address the conflicts described above in relation to Additional Compensation by disclosing them to you in this Brochure as well as your representative's Brochure Supplement. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory process, detailed in our Written Supervisory Procedures ("WSPs") that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as Additional Compensation. In addition, we have designated a Chief Compliance Officer, as set forth on Schedule A of our Form ADV, to be the party responsible for the overall application and oversight of our supervisory process and our WSPs. Our Chief Compliance Officer has the authority to delegate certain supervisory responsibilities to other supervised persons within our firm in order to ensure that our overall system of supervision is being carried out adequately and in a timely manner.

The potential conflict of interest resulting from the Additional Compensation described above is commonplace in the investment industry and we believe that such arrangements are not only appropriate but that they are proper in light of the added examination and licensing that also takes place in the insurance area of the investment industry. Our supervised persons have satisfied various licensing requirements that allow not only for the offering of the types of products and services described in the information related to the Additional Compensation described above but also the receipt of the normal and customary compensation that any similarly licensed, and qualified person could receive in the form of sales compensation for those same products/services.

Bear in mind that even if our supervised persons were not licensed to sell the types of products/services addressed in the preceding section, the majority of your investments or transactions involving such products would still result in you paying some sort of commission for those products. In the case of our supervised persons, their active licensing may allow them to be able to receive such Additional Compensation as opposed to the insurance carrier keeping that compensation exclusively for itself.

Any Additional Compensation received by our supervised persons in connection with the products/services described in the preceding section is deemed routine and customary compensation for such activities and is not believed to be inappropriate.

Procedures for disclosing these conflicts: In an effort to inform you of these conflicts of interest, we have prepared this Brochure and have provided it to you, in part, for the purpose of disclosing these conflicts. You are always welcome to request a current copy of our Brochure. We are obligated to provide you a copy of this Brochure no later than the time you sign our Agreement and on an annual basis, we are required to provide you either (1) a copy of our current Brochure or (2) a set of instructions as to how you can request a copy of our current Brochure.

V.(E).(2).

You have the ability to purchase insurance products that we recommend through another insurance broker you choose.

V.(E).(3). Brokerage Compensation

We are not registered as a broker-dealer and thus, we do not receive transaction-based compensation for securities-related activities.

V.(E).(4). Advisory Fee Offset

In the event that we or our supervised persons receive compensation other than our advisory fees as described above in Item IV.(B), we will not adjust our advisory fees to offset those other fees.

VI. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Some of our pooled investment vehicles may charge performance based fees in accordance with their offering documents. The fee will typically be payable upon the attainment of a pre-designated goal and will be calculated as a percentage of the earnings in excess of the goal.

VII. Types of Clients

We will generally provide our services to the following types of clients.

- Individuals
- High net worth individuals
- Pension plans / profit sharing plans
- Foundations / charitable organizations
- Private funds/pools or other collective investment vehicles
- Trusts
- Estates
- Business or corporate entities

For information on any minimum fees, minimum initial/ongoing account balances, or other conditions we may impose, please refer to Item IV.(B).

VIII. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

VIII.(A). Methods of Analysis

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ some or all of the following methods of analysis. For a description of the risks related to each particular method of analysis, see the information following each analysis method description. A description of each key risk appears later in this section.

Asset Allocation

The majority of our analysis focuses on asset allocation and the diversification of a client's portfolio across the different types of asset classes and investment securities available. The basic steps to designing the allocation are (1) choose the asset classes to be included, (2) choose the percentage weighting of each class within the portfolio, and (3) choose the underlying securities to be included. The asset classes, weightings, and specific securities selected will vary by client and will depend on a variety of factors, including the client's age, income, risk tolerance, target return, time horizon, etc.

A client's asset allocation may be executed through discretionary accounts managed by FGL or may be recommended to outside money managers based on a specific asset strategy. The selection of outside money managers depends on analysis of both qualitative factors, such as the manager's strategy, experience, and capabilities, and quantitative metrics, such as past performance, volatility, correlation, and other related statistics.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Credit Risk, Currency Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Past Performance Risk, and Strategy Risk.

Fundamental

Fundamental analysis is generally considered the opposite approach to technical analysis. Fundamental analysis involves the attempt to identify the intrinsic value (i.e. the actual, true/real value) of an investment instrument by examining any related economic, financial, and other quantitative/qualitative factors relevant to that instrument. Fundamental analysis can take into account anything that may impact the underlying value of the instrument. Examples of such things may include large-scale economic issues such as the overall condition or current cycle of the economy, industry-specific or sector-specific conditions, etc. Other company/issuer-specific factors may also be taken into consideration such as the company's/issuer's current financial condition, management experience and capabilities, legal/regulatory matters, the overall type and volume of current and expected business, etc.

One of the goals of fundamental analysis is to attempt to derive a value that can be compared to the current market price for a particular financial instrument in hopes of determining whether the instrument is overpriced (time to sell) or underpriced (time to buy).

Key risk(s): Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, and Interest Rate Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

In the course of our management process and as appropriate on a case by case basis, we will employ any of the following investment strategies. For a description of the risks related to each particular investment strategy, see the information following each strategy description. The codes used below relate to risks described further below in this section.

Long-Term Purchases

Long-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of at least one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Inflation Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Short-Term Purchases

Short-term purchases generally involve the acquisition of an investment instrument and holding it for a period of not more than one year.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Short Sales

Selling short involves the sale of an investment instrument that you do not own. In most cases, a short seller will have to go out and borrow or arrange for the borrowing of a particular investment instrument before selling short. When selling short, the seller is expecting the price of the underlying investment instrument to decline but if it does, the seller is able to sell the investment instrument(s) at the present day price (in effect at the time of entering into the short sale) and the profit potential is the difference between the sale price of the borrowed shares and the cost of purchasing the borrowed shares in order to make good on the delivery of the investment instrument(s) to the party on the other side of the initial short sale.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Margin Trading

Margin trading, or “trading on margin,” as it is generally stated, involves the ability to purchase a dollar value of securities that is greater than the dollar value of funds you have available for the purchase. Essentially, trading on margin means that you can borrow additional funds, generally from the firm that holds your brokerage account, to purchase investment instruments that exceed the amount with which you have funded your account.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Options (including covered/uncovered options or spreading strategies)

We will also employ the use of options trading in the event that such trading complements an investment strategy we may be carrying out for a particular client. An option is the right either to buy or sell a specified amount or value of a particular underlying investment instrument at a fixed price (i.e. the “exercise price”) by exercising the option before its specified expiration date. Options giving you the right to buy are called “call” options. Options giving you the right to sell are called “put” options. When trading options on behalf of a client, we may use covered or uncovered options or various strategies such as spreads and straddles. Covered options involve options trading when you own the underlying instrument on which the option is based. Uncovered options involve options trading when you do not own the underlying instrument on which the option is based. Spread options are options whose values are derived from the difference in price of two different underlying assets or components.

Key risk(s): Capital Risk, Economic Risk, Financial Risk, Higher Trading Costs, Interest Rate Risk, Legal/Regulatory Risk, Liquidity Risk, Market Risk, Operational Risk, Strategy Risk.

Investing in securities or other investment products involves the risk of loss and you should be prepared to bear such losses.

VIII.(B). Risk Disclosures

Capital Risk

Capital risk is one of the most basic, fundamental risks of investing; it is the risk that you may lose 100 percent of your money. All investments carry some form of risk and the loss of capital is generally a risk for any investment instrument.

Credit Risk

Credit risk can be a factor in situations where an investment’s performance relies on a borrower’s repayment of borrowed funds. With credit risk, an investor can experience a loss or unfavorable performance if a borrower does not repay the borrowed funds as expected or required. Investment holdings that involve forms of indebtedness (i.e. borrowed funds) are subject to credit risk.

Currency Risk

Fluctuations in the value of the currency in which your investment is denominated may affect the value of your investment and thus, your investment may be worth more or less in the future. All currency is subject to swings in valuation and thus, regardless of the currency denomination of any particular investment you own, currency risk is a realistic risk measure. That said, currency risk is generally a much larger factor for investment instruments denominated in currencies other than the most widely used currencies (U.S. dollar, British pound, German mark, Euro, Japanese yen, French franc, etc.).

Economic Risk

The prevailing economic environment is important to the health of all businesses. Some companies, however, are more sensitive to changes in the domestic or global economy than others. These types of companies are often referred to as cyclical businesses. Countries in which a large portion of businesses are in cyclical industries are thus also very economically sensitive and carry a higher amount of economic risk. If an investment is issued by a party located in a country that experiences wide swings from an economic standpoint or in situations where certain elements of an investment instrument are hinged on dealings in such countries, the investment instrument will generally be subject to a higher level of economic risk.

Financial Risk

Financial risk is represented by internal disruptions within an investment or the issuer of an investment that can lead to unfavorable performance of the investment. Examples of financial risk can be found in cases like Enron or many of the dot com companies that were caught up in a period of extraordinary market valuations that were not based on solid financial footings of the companies.

Higher Trading Costs

For any investment instrument or strategy that involves active or frequent trading, you may experience larger than usual transaction-related costs. Higher transaction-related costs can negatively affect overall investment performance.

Inflation Risk

Inflation risk involves the concern that in the future, your investment or proceeds from your investment will not be worth what they are today. Throughout time, the prices of resources and end-user products generally increase and thus, the same general goods and products today will likely be more expensive in the future. The longer an investment is held, the greater the chance that the proceeds from that investment will be worth less in the future than what they are today. Said another way, a dollar tomorrow will likely get you less than what it can today.

Interest Rate Risk

Certain investments involve the payment of a fixed or variable rate of interest to the investment holder. Once an investor has acquired or has acquired the rights to an investment that pays a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest, changes in overall interest rates in the market will affect the value of the interest-paying investment(s) they hold. In general, changes in prevailing interest rates in the market will have an inverse relationship to the value of existing, interest paying investments. In other words, as interest rates move up, the value of an instrument paying a particular rate (fixed or variable) of interest will go down. The reverse is generally true as well.

Legal/Regulatory Risk

Certain investments or the issuers of investments may be affected by changes in state or federal laws or in the prevailing regulatory framework under which the investment instrument or its issuer is regulated. Changes in the regulatory environment or tax laws can affect the performance of certain investments or issuers of those investments and thus, can have a negative impact on the overall performance of such investments.

Liquidity Risk

Certain assets may not be readily converted into cash or may have a very limited market in which they trade. Thus, you may experience the risk that your investment or assets within your investment may not be able to be liquidated quickly, thus, extending the period of time by which you may receive the proceeds from your investment. Liquidity risk can also result in unfavorable pricing when exiting (i.e. not being able to quickly get out of an investment before the price drops significantly) a particular investment and therefore, can have a negative impact on investment returns.

Market Risk

The market value of an investment will fluctuate as a result of the occurrence of the natural economic forces of supply and demand on that investment, its particular industry or sector, or the market as a whole. Market risk may affect a single issuer, industry or sector of the economy or may affect the market as a whole. Market risk can affect any investment instrument or the underlying assets or other instruments held by or traded within that investment instrument.

Operational Risk

Operational risk can be experienced when an issuer of an investment product is unable to carry out the business it has planned to execute. Operational risk can be experienced as a result of human failure, operational inefficiencies, system failures, or the failure of other processes critical to the business operations of the issuer or counter party to the investment.

Past Performance

Analysis often times involves an evaluation of historical pricing and volume of a particular security for the purpose of forecasting where future price and volume. Any investment analysis method runs the risk of not knowing the future and thus, investors should realize that even the most diligent and thorough analysis cannot predict or guarantee the future performance of any particular investment instrument or issuer thereof. Past performance is not an indicator of future returns.

Strategy Risk

There is no guarantee that the investment strategies discussed herein will work under all market conditions and each investor should evaluate his/her ability to maintain any investment he/she is considering in light of his/her own investment time horizon. Investments are subject to risk, including possible loss of principal.

VIII.(C). Investment-Specific Risks

There is no single type of investment instrument that we predominantly recommend, however, please be mindful that all investments carry some form and degree of risk. Certain types of investments carry greater types and levels of risk than others and you should make sure that you fully understand not only the investment product itself but also the attendant risk factors associated with such products.

Conflict: FGL serves as the general partner, administrator, managing member and/or investment advisor of various private investment companies that may also receive investment advisory services from FGL, for which FGL may receive normal and customary investment advisory compensation and management and administration fees. Further, Mr. Friedler and other FGL related persons may also possess ownership interests in these same private investment companies. On occasion, Mr. Friedler or FGL may recommend that you invest in one or more of these private investment companies. Both Mr. Friedler’s and FGL’s roles with respect to these private investment companies create a conflict that you should be aware of before participating in any such private investment company(s).

How we Address the Conflict(s): First and foremost, we address the conflicts described above by disclosing them to you in this Brochure. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory process, detailed in our Compliance & Supervisory Manual (“CSM”) that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as this. In addition, we have designated a Chief Compliance Officer, as set forth on Schedule A of our Form ADV, to be the party responsible for the overall application and oversight of our supervisory process and our CSM. Our Chief Compliance Officer has the authority to delegate certain supervisory responsibilities to other supervised persons within our firm in order to ensure that our overall system of supervision is being adequately carried out and in a timely manner.

The potential conflict of interest resulting from the relationship described above is commonplace in the investment industry and we believe that such arrangements are not only appropriate but that they bring added value and opportunities to our clients. Our supervised persons have completed various education requirements that allow not only for the offering of the types of products and services described in the information related to the relationship described above but also the receipt of the normal and customary compensation that any similarly qualified person could receive in the form of compensation for those same products/services.

Any Additional Compensation received by us or our supervised persons in connection with the products/services described in the preceding section is deemed routine and customary compensation for such activities and is not believed to be inappropriate.

Insurance company or agency

Related Person: Friedler Group, LLC

Conflict: FGL is affiliated with Friedler Group, LLC through common ownership. Friedler Group is a licensed insurance agency. Representatives of FGL may also be licensed insurance agents of Friedler Group and, as such, may receive insurance-related compensation from Friedler Group in connection with certain advisory services provided through FGL. Friedler Group also serves as the manager of a private fund.

How we Address the Conflict(s): First and foremost, we address the conflicts described above by disclosing them to you in this Brochure as well as your representative's Brochure Supplement. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory process, detailed in our Compliance & Supervisory Manual ("CSM") that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as this. In addition, we have designated a Chief Compliance Officer, as set forth on Schedule A of our Form ADV, to be the party responsible for the overall application and oversight of our supervisory process and our CSM. Our Chief Compliance Officer has the authority to delegate certain supervisory responsibilities to other supervised persons within our firm in order to ensure that our overall system of supervision is being adequately carried out and in a timely manner.

The potential conflict of interest resulting from the relationship described above is commonplace in the investment industry and we believe that such arrangements are not only appropriate but that they bring added value and opportunities to our clients. The arrangement is also appropriate in light of the added examination, licensing, registration, and other regulatory oversight that also takes place in the insurance area of the investment industry. Our supervised persons have satisfied various regulatory examination, registration, licensing, and continuing education requirements that allow not only for the offering of the types of products and services described in the information related to the relationship described above but also the receipt of the normal and customary compensation that any similarly registered, licensed, and qualified person could receive in the form of sales compensation for those same products/services.

Even if our supervised persons were not registered/licensed to sell the types of products/services addressed in the preceding section, the majority of your transactions involving such products would still result in you paying a commission for those products. In the case of our supervised persons, their active registration/licensing may allow them to be able to receive such Additional Compensation as opposed to the executing financial institution or other licensed agent receiving that compensation.

Any Additional Compensation received by our supervised persons in connection with the products/services described in the preceding section is deemed routine and customary compensation for such activities and is not believed to be inappropriate.

Sponsor or syndicator of limited partnerships

Related Person: Frank Friedler, III and Michael Kirschman

Conflict: Either individually or as partners of FGL, Mr. Friedler and Mr. Kirschman serve as the general partners and/or managing members of various private investment companies that may also receive investment advisory services from FGL, for which FGL, Mr. Friedler and Mr. Kirschman may receive normal and customary investment advisory compensation. Further, Mr. Friedler and Mr. Kirschman may also possess ownership interests in these same private investment companies. On occasion, Mr. Friedler, Mr. Kirschman or FGL may recommend that you invest in one or more of these private investment companies. Mr. Friedler's, Mr. Kirschman's and FGL's roles with respect to these private investment companies create a conflict that you should be aware of before participating in any such private investment company(s).

How we Address the Conflict(s): First and foremost, we address the conflicts described above by disclosing them to you in this Brochure. As a matter of general policy, we aggressively discourage activities that put your interests anywhere but first. Additionally, we have instituted a comprehensive supervisory process, detailed in our Compliance & Supervisory Manual ("CSM") that was designed to address, among other things, conflicts of interest such as this. In addition, we have designated a Chief Compliance Officer, as set forth on Schedule A of our Form ADV, to be the party responsible for the overall application and oversight of our supervisory process and our CSM. Our Chief Compliance Officer has the authority to delegate certain supervisory responsibilities to other supervised persons within our firm in order to ensure that our overall system of supervision is being adequately carried out and in a timely manner.

The potential conflict of interest resulting from the relationship described above is commonplace in the investment industry and we believe that such arrangements are not only appropriate but that they bring added value and opportunities to our clients. Our supervised persons have satisfied various education requirements that allow not only for the offering of the types of products and services described in the information related to the relationship described above but also the receipt of the normal and customary compensation that any similarly qualified person could receive.

Any Additional Compensation received by us or our supervised persons in connection with the products/services described in the preceding section is deemed routine and customary compensation for such activities and is not believed to be inappropriate.

X.D Use of Other Investment Advisers

As described previously in Item IV.(B), from time to time, we may recommend or select other investment advisers for you. The selection of outside money managers depends on analysis of both qualitative factors (such as manager's strategy, experience, and capabilities) and quantitative metrics (such as past performance, volatility, correlation, and other related statistics). We do not receive compensation (i.e. solicitor/referral fees) from those other investment advisers.

XI. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

XI.A Code of Ethics

We take great pride in our commitment to serving our clients' needs and the integrity with which we conduct our business. In our recent history, the financial services industry has come under significant scrutiny, especially in the area of the inherent responsibility of financial professionals to behave in the best interests of their clients.

We have developed a Code of Ethics ("Code") as a means of memorializing our vision of appropriate and professional conduct in carrying out the business of providing investment advisory services. Our Code addresses issues such as the following:

- Standards of conduct and compliance with applicable laws, rules, and regulations

- Protection of material non-public information
- The addressing of conflicts of interest
- Employee disclosure and reporting of personal securities holdings and transactions
- The firm's IPO and private placement policy
- The reporting of violations of the Code
- Educating employees about the Code
- Enforcement of the Code

Each of our representatives has been furnished with a copy of our Code and has signed their names to a written acknowledgement attesting to their understanding of the Code and acceptance of its terms. A copy of our Code is available to all current and/or prospective clients upon request.

XI.(B) Participation in Client Trading

The information in this item is intended to address situations in which we or one of our related persons may have a material financial interest in the investment instruments we may recommend to you. As selected below, we will address the following, applicable situations. If a check box is unchecked, that means that neither we nor any of our related persons participate in the activity being described.

☐ Principal trading activity for or on behalf of our clients

Description of Activity:

Conflict:

How we Address the Conflict(s):

☒ Acting as the general partner in a partnership in which we solicit clients to invest

Refer above to Item X.(C).

☒ Acting as an investment adviser to an investment company that we recommend to our clients

Refer above to Item X.(C).

XI.(C) Trading Alongside Our Clients

On occasion, we may invest for our own accounts or have a financial interest in the same securities or other investments that we recommend or acquire for the accounts of our clients. Further, we may also engage in transactions that are the same as or different than transactions recommended to or made for our client's accounts. Such transactions are permitted if reported in compliance with our Code of Ethics policy on personal securities transactions. All associated persons must report their personal securities holdings and transactions no less than quarterly to FGL's Designated Supervisor. The purpose of these reports is to allow FGL the ability to monitor for any trading improprieties such as trading activity that may suggest an employee engaged in activity which subordinated a client's best interests to that of the employee. Additionally, associated persons must obtain approval from the Compliance official prior to directly or indirectly acquiring beneficial ownership in any security in an initial public offering.

It is the primary intent of these procedures to ensure that the best interests of our clients are always served over that of our own. Trading on our own behalf that result in our own interests being served over that of our clients could be considered a breach of our fiduciary duty and thus, is aggressively discouraged.

XI.(D) Trading Around the Same Time as our Clients

Transactions for the client's account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or "batch" such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. To the extent that we elect to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which our associated persons may invest, we will generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. We will not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of a batched order.

XII. Brokerage Practices

The purpose of this Item is to present to you the factors that we take into consideration when (1) selecting or recommending broker-dealers to you for the purpose of effecting transactions on your behalf and (2) for determining the reasonableness of such broker-dealers' compensation related to such transactions.

From time to time, FGL may refer the client to broker-dealers for the purposes of effecting securities transactions. For details as to what factors FreeGulliver may consider in selecting such broker-dealers, see below.

FGL is not a broker-dealer. Unless the client directs otherwise, FGL shall generally recommend that all the client's accounts be maintained at, by, or through certain other firms that are unaffiliated with FGL. Such firms shall generally be broker-dealers that may also maintain registrations that allow such firms to engage in other types of businesses outside of their broker-dealer activities. In no case shall FGL act or attempt to act in the capacity of "broker of record" or "custodian" of the client's account, funds, or other assets.

Although not all-inclusive, FGL may recommend the following brokers of record and their corresponding custodian:

Broker of Record	Custodian
TD AMERITRADE, Inc.	TD AMERITRADE Clearing, Inc.
JEFFERIES, LLC	JEFFERIES, LLC

Factors that FGL considers in recommending certain broker-dealers or custodians to clients may include such entity's financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, and service. Although FGL will seek competitive rates, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for the client's account transactions.

The client may direct FGL to use a particular broker-dealer (subject to FGL's right to decline and/or terminate the engagement) to execute some or all transactions for the client's account. In such an event, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with that broker-dealer, and FGL will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to "batch" the client's transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts managed by FGL. As a result, the client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case.

XII.(A).(1). Research and Soft Dollar Benefits

The SEC has defined soft dollar practices as arrangements under which products or services other than execution of securities transactions are obtained by an adviser from or through a broker-dealer in exchange for the adviser directing client brokerage transactions to the broker-dealer. Although soft dollar arrangements are perfectly acceptable if structured properly and as long as clients receive proper disclosure of them, soft dollar practices create an inherent conflict of interest because it is possible for an investment adviser to receive soft dollar benefits that it may not use specifically for the benefit of all clients whose commission dollars contributed toward the payment of such soft dollar benefits. In other words, a client may share in the cost of a soft dollar benefit but may not share in the benefit itself.

Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act ("Section 28(e)") provides the framework under which an investment adviser who has and exercises investment discretion (as defined in Section 3(a)(35) of the Exchange Act) over client assets can use client commissions to obtain certain soft dollar benefits (such as research).

<http://www.cfapubs.org/doi/pdf/10.2469/ccb.v2004.n1.4005>

We do participate in soft dollar arrangements. Consistent with obtaining best execution, transactions for your account(s) may be effected through a broker-dealer in return for products and/or services ("Soft Dollar Benefits"), which assist us in our investment decision-making process. The primary Soft Dollar Benefit received by FGL is research and analysis. Such Soft Dollar Benefits generally will be used to service all of our clients, but brokerage commissions paid by you may also be used to pay for Soft Dollar Benefits that are not used in managing your specific assets. As a result of our soft dollar arrangements and if we determine in good faith that the commissions paid by our clients under a soft dollar arrangement are reasonable in relation to the value of the Soft Dollar Benefits received, you may experience brokerage commissions/costs greater than another qualified broker-dealer might charge to effect the same transaction(s). All soft dollar arrangements will be structured in accordance with Section 28(e).

Refer to Item XII.(A).(1).(e) below for a description of the types of soft dollar benefits we may be eligible to receive.

XII.(A).(1).(a).

When we use client brokerage commissions/fees to obtain research or other products or services, we receive a benefit because we do not have to produce or pay for the research or other products or services we may receive.

XII.(A).(1).(b).

We may have an incentive to select or recommend a broker-dealer based on our interest in receiving the research or other products or services, rather than on our clients' best interest in receiving most favorable execution.

XII.(A).(1).(c).

As a result of these soft dollar arrangements, the commission rates or other brokerage execution fees you pay may be higher than those charged by other broker-dealers.

XII.(A).(1).(d).

The soft dollar benefits that we may receive from time to time will not be used to service all of our clients' accounts. We do not seek to allocate soft dollar benefits to client accounts proportionately based on the soft dollar credits that each individual account generates.

XII.(A).(1).(e).

The following table will identify several types of soft dollar benefits that we might receive from a broker-dealer in relation to effecting client securities transactions through a particular broker-dealer(s). The selected check boxes will identify the specific benefits that we or any of our related persons have received during our last fiscal year in connection with our soft dollar arrangements. If a box is not selected, neither we nor any of our related persons received that type of item.

XII.(A).(1).(f).

During our last fiscal year the only soft dollar benefits received by FGL from broker-dealers were online quotes and research. These benefits are routine and customary. FGL reviews and selects broker-dealers based on financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing and service.

No additional review regarding soft dollar benefits is required.

XII.(A).(2). Brokerage for Client Referrals

In certain circumstances, firms like ours may receive client referrals as a result of recommending particular broker-dealers or other service providers. We, however, do not participate in any formal arrangements wherein we receive client referrals from any particular broker-dealer in return for selecting or recommending such broker-dealer.

XII.(A).(3). Directed Brokerage

This item is intended to address situations where we may recommend, request, or require you to provide us instructions as to how to direct brokerage activity on your behalf.

XII.(A).(3)(a). Directed Brokerage – Recommended, Requested, or Required

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer. We do not routinely recommend, request, or require that you direct us as to how to execute brokerage transactions on your behalf (i.e. using a particular broker-dealer for execution purposes).

XII.(A).(3)(b). Directed Brokerage – Permitted

Not all investment advisers require their clients to direct brokerage activity through any particular broker-dealer, however, you may direct us to use a particular broker-dealer (subject to our right to decline such a request) to execute some or all transactions for your account or otherwise on your behalf. In such an event, we will not negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with the other broker-dealer, and we will not seek better execution services or prices from other broker-dealers or be able to “batch” the transactions for execution through other broker-dealers with orders for other accounts we manage. As a result, you may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case.

XII.(B). Order Batching

Transactions for the client’s account generally will be effected independently, unless we decide to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at the same or approximately the same time. We may (but are not obligated to) combine or “batch” such orders in order to obtain best execution or to negotiate more favorable transaction rates. Reasoning for attempting to effect a batch order is that we may need to trade in the same security for multiple accounts at or around the same time and batching may allow us to achieve a more favorable price on average for all clients. Batching, however, doesn’t guarantee the lowest possible price for execution, however, it is intended to reduce the overall volatility in execution price for a large number of orders that if not batched together, may experience significantly different execution prices. Conversely, in the event that we do not batch a group of orders that otherwise may be a prime candidate for a batched order, the resulting cost for some clients may be higher or lower than what we might be able to achieve by processing a batched order for the benefit of those same clients.

To the extent that we elect to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which our associated persons may invest, we will generally do so in accordance with the parameters set forth in SEC No-Action Letter, SMC Capital, Inc. We will not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of a batched order.

XIII. Review of Accounts

XIII.(A). Review of Accounts or Financial Plans

Review of client accounts.

We will review your accounts no less than quarterly. A Designated Supervisor will review your accounts for best execution, suitability, and service. The Designated Supervisor will review the performance and cost basis for your transactions. Your investment objectives are used to review for suitability. .

Name and title of Designated Supervisor: Frank Friedler III, Managing Member/CCO and Michael Kirschman, Advisor. The Designated Supervisor will employ the procedures noted above for the clients’ accounts subject to FGL’s investment advisory services.

Review of Financial Plans.

Unless specifically engaged to do so, we do not periodically review financial plans that we have prepared for clients.

XIII.(B). Non-Periodic Account Reviews

Events that may trigger further client account reviews in addition to the standard quarterly review process may include, but would not be limited to, the advent of an opportunity that a client may be interested in or suited for, a request from the client to review a particular investment or opportunity, a notable request from a client to effect transactions in his/her accounts, where such transactions may appear to be inconsistent with the client's previously stated investment objectives. Additional triggering factors could be the performance on an individual account being an outlier to the performance of accounts with similar investment objectives, and a very important trigger would be customer complaints.

XIII.(C). Reports to Clients

Account statements will be provided no less frequently than quarterly by the custodian, not by us.
Account statements will identify account positions, balances, and transaction details.

FGL provides quarterly Performance Summary reports to the clients of our Ongoing Asset Management services. The report presents market values, performance, asset allocation, and other relevant information for your investments. In most cases, we meet with the client in person quarterly to review the report. In the event we also send account statements to you in addition to those provided by the qualified custodian, you are urged to compare any account statements provided by us to those provided by the custodian.

The general partner of GulliverOne, LP and Gulliver Structured Credit, LP will ensure that all investors are provided a copy of the annual audit report within 180 days of the fiscal year-end of the pooled investment vehicle.

XIV. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

XIV.(A). Compensation we Receive

Certain of our associated persons, through such associated person's association as a licensed insurance agent, may also receive selling compensation resulting from the sale of insurance products to you or other clients of ours.

Arrangements involving someone's receipt of both advisory and other compensation in connection with the advisory services we provide to you can be considered "double-dipping." That term carries negative connotations but in the financial services industry, it is not only acceptable but is completely appropriate and within the permissible activities of those individuals and entities who are properly registered and licensed to engage in such activities. You should be aware that some investment advisers do not receive other compensation for transactions they may effect on your behalf.

The general industry standard for a client's overall annual fee for investment advisory services is a cap of 3.0%. This means that most investment advisers will keep their service fees for investment advisory work below 3.0% (of the assets they have been engaged to manage) on an annual basis. That said, a client could easily pay in excess of 3.0% of the assets that their investment adviser has been engaged to manage in light of other fees such as brokerage fees/commissions, execution costs, custodial fees, etc. We routinely monitor our fees to ensure that they are consistent with those found in the industry for similar services.

XIV.(B). Compensation we Pay

Under certain circumstances, firms like ours may compensate other parties for having referred clients or potential investment advisory clients them. These sorts of arrangements are generally referred to as "solicitor" arrangements. We do not participate in any solicitor arrangements.

XV. Custody

We engage in certain activities that result in us being deemed to have custody of certain of our client's funds and/or securities.

- ☒ Automatic fee deduction from your brokerage or other trading accounts
- ☒ Physical possession or control (even temporary) of client funds or securities
- ☒ The ability to gain access to any client funds and/or securities
- ☒ One of our related persons has custody of funds and/or securities subject to our investment advisory services
